S. U. Takes Second in Penn Relays

Junata Takes First and Drexel Third.
S. U. Team Composed of Meyers,
Knouse, Carolan and Swarm

Susquehanna's mile relay team took second place in its division at the Penn Relay Carnival on Saturday afternoon when Junata's anchor man came from behind to down the Orange and Maroon for the third successive year. Every lap was a battle for the lead between Drexel and Susquehanna, with the Crusaders moving ahead on the last leg, only to have Feltner of Junata come from third place on the home stretch to break the tape.

"Prof." Grossman's charges won the pole, and Johnny Meyers held the lead until the stretch, giving Knouse the baton a few feet behind Sonnelm of Drexel. The latter gave the Selingsrove a merry chase, but Reno cut down a considerable lead and gave the stick to Bill Carolan ahead of the field. Knouse was the only Susquehanna man to shed his leg in first place. Carolan jumped out to an early lead and for a time it seemed as if he were walking away with his lap, but Conway, another Drexel man, finished strongly and gave his anchor man about a yard lead over Bill Swarm. However, Bill lost no time in taking the lead, and held it until the last turn, when Feltner sprinted down the stretch to give Junata the prize.

Although Susquehanna has been placed in different divisions for the past four years, each time she has finished next to Junata. The Indians have finished just ahead of the Crusaders for the last three meetings, but with the three Sophomores and Neiswenter, who was spare man this year, the Orange and Maroon will seek revenge next year. Reno Knouse, the only Senior on the squad, made his third and final appearance in the Relays, and may indeed, be proud of his performance Saturday.

The summary of the race:
Won by Junata (O. Fletcher, Jamison, W. Fletcher, and Feltner); second, Susquehanna (Meyers, Knouse, Carolan, and Swarm); third, Drexel, Albright and Urstins also were in the event. Time—3:36.5.

Lettermen Meet to Organize "S" Club

Officers Elected for Club; Speer President; Committee Was Named to Draw Up Constitution

On Monday evening, April 20, a meeting was called of all lettermen for the purpose of reorganizing the Varsity "S" Club. Plans were discussed for making this a permanent and active organization on the campus.

Professor Grossman gave the history of the Club and its achievements. It was suggested that the Club elect officers and draw up a constitution before any objective be undertaken for the coming year. Upon this suggestion the following officers were elected: President, Reed Speer; Vice-president, Charles Stroup; Secretary, Herbert Spigelmyer; Treasurer, Maurice Sheaffer.

A committee was appointed by the President for the purpose of drawing up a constitution for the organization to be submitted at an early date. This committee is composed of the five captains for the sports of 1930 and '31.

It is expected that this group will become one of the most outstanding organizations on the campus.

MISS DOROTHY REEDER
ADVISED TO Y. W. C. A.

Miss Dorothy Reeder, woman's physical director, has been appointed to serve as an advisor to the Y. W. C. A. for the coming year. Miss Reeder has been closely connected with the Y. W. here through her interest in May Day. Her willingness to cooperate in the arranging of out-door activities has been the reason for her success in the past. By making Miss Reeder an advisor, the organization of the Y. W. C. A. has been greatly strengthened.

"How do you like your new cook?"
"She's been very nice to us—she let us come into the kitchen the other evening."

Women Elect Ruling Board for Next Year

Thursday, the women students elected the ten girls that they thought would be capable of handling the affairs of student council for this next year. The girls who were elected to the council were Elizabeth Vorlage, Edith Franklinfield, Esther Geisel, Ruth Nelson, Beatrice Gentzler, Francis Siambagh, Martha Gessner, Margaret Fink, Marieanne Walborn, and Thelma Crebs.

At noon Friday, the girls met again to elect the officers for the organization. Elizabeth Vorlage was elected to the Presidency. Miss Vorlage was vice-president this last year and will be a very efficient leader. She has had a year of experience which will be very useful in her executive position.

Beatrice Gentzler was elected to the position of Vice-president. This is her first year on the council but she has been very active in other organizations on the campus.

Margaret Fink was elected to fill the position of Sec.-Treas. She has not had any experience on the council but she has shown her ability in other things on the campus.

Lewis Fox Elected Pres. State Y.M.C.A.

President Smith Installs Council Officers; Many Inspiring Speakers at the Conference

A Susquehanna boy has again been elected to guide the destinies of the Christian Associations of the colleges in Central Pennsylvania. Charlie Fisher of Susquehanna served as Council President during 1927-1928. This will be the second year that Lewis has represented Susquehanna on the State Student Council and during this past year he served as Chairman of the Williamsport District. He has indeed been faithful in the performance of his duties and one who does that is sure to go forward. Lewis is one of the highest type Christian men that it is possible to secure and the state council fully realized this in electing him to this most responsible position. Susquehanna may be very proud of her son knowing that he will ever carry her name forward in every possible measure. Besides being Susquehanna's representative in the Council, he is also Treasurer and Freshman Advisor on the local Cabinet and a sincere Christian gentleman.

In addition to Lewis, Susquehanna had four other delegates at the conference. Dr. G. Morris Smith served as chairman of the Faculty Committee, served as member of the program committee and as presiding officer of the faculty training group, and also installed the new officers and members of the State Student Council. Herbert G. Hohmann, Paul W. Hartline, and H. Wilson Sieber were the other representatives. Wilson Sieber served as assistant leader at the conference in being advisor to other cabinets.

The program opened on Thursday evening with a meditation on "Personal Christian Leadership." During Friday morning and afternoon the discussion was along technical lines. One of the high-lights came on Friday evening when Dr. Henry H. Crane delivered a powerful address on the "Price of Christian Leadership." One was prepared for the address by listening to the tower chimes and an organ recital for thirty minutes previous to the address. At the conclusion of Dr. Crane's address no words were uttered, none were necessary, but students could be seen standing about—just thinking. Such was the quality of his remarks.

The Susquehanna delegation eagerly looked forward to the devotional meeting on Saturday morning for the leader was none other than Jack Hart, who so endeared him self to the students of Susquehanna during his recent visit here. Much technical training was again given during Saturday. On Saturday evening the banquet was held at which time Dr. Hart spoke on the subject "How Can My Life Witness for Christ," and Philo C. Dix spoke on the subject "The Message and the Word of the Y. M. C. A."

The service was brought to a close on Sunday morning at which time Dr. Smith installed the new Council officers. It was very impressive to see Susquehanna's President install one of her students as Council President. Dr. Hart brought the conference to a close with (Concluded on Page 4)

Pageant 'Comus' Will be Feature May Day

Cast of 150 Used in Large Festival; Pageant to Have Many Popular Girls of the University

Just twenty-six days until May Day! What of it? Well this year Susquehanna is going to stage a May Day bigger than any this section of the country has ever witnessed.

Already the court has been chosen. From the senior class the girls have attempted to select the eight most beautiful. Their final choice was Signe Alford, Lena Baird, Lois Brungart, Leone Holtzapfel, Dorothy Lesher, Ethel Miller, Helen Swope, and Alma Bowersox.

Monday the girls met to cast another ballot to elect a queen and a lady-in-waiting from these eight girls. The result of this election is a secret entrusted to three girls, who will reveal it at a special May Day breakfast Friday morning.

If the weather permits, the breakfast will be held on the campus. Already plans are progressing for this, which is a variation of the system of announcing the queen and her lady which was used in '29. Then, however, it was not announced until the morning of May Day while this year it will take place the First of May. It is hoped that this will become an annual breakfast.

Just at twilight when the sky in the west is most beautiful, the procession will begin, the queen leading her court and a host of attendants following. It will be the most impressive crowning that any queen has ever had. Dignified, stately with her long dress and train, she will come across the campus followed by her court dressed in pastel shades.

The Pageant, Comus, will take place after dark. The portion of the campus that will be used will be artificially lighted. It will be a lovely setting for this play of Milton's. The lady representing all that is pure and good, is lost in the forest at night, and tempted by Comus, the son of old Bacchus, who stalks out carrying the golden goblet. One drink from this goblet will turn her into a beast. The lady so dainty, so appealing, is seated at the banquet table; then the sea nymph, a graceful, swaying, little thing of green, sets her free and she is returned to her family.

Among the principals of the pageant there are many who are well known because of their dramatic ability. Adeleine Wingard was starred in the Choral Club Operetta; Eleanor Sheriff, Janet Leitzell, and Etta Muhaw appeared in "The Swan." Mary Weavering will never be forgotten for her role in "Lady Windermere's Fan." Margaret Ide took part in the Choral Club program and assisted in the directing of "The Intruder."

This is the largest pageant that has been attempted here. Last year about 100 people took part in the festival and this year about 150 people will participate. There will be dances, singing, and grotesque bits of action by Comus' savage herd.

The costume committee is at work planning color combinations and selecting styles. The property committee is busy solving the lighting problem. The principals are acquainting themselves with their roles while the choruses are beginning to rehearse their dances. Several of the girls are training the children from town who will take part.

School Paper Joins National Press

At the spring convention of the M. A. S. I. N. A., held at Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute, the different member papers of this Association became members of the National Collegiate Press Association. This action was taken by the convention, thereby giving the papers membership for three dollars a year. It was decided that the I. N. A. would be able to pay the dues to this organization for the member papers from the ten dollars paid to it.

The purpose of the National Association is to bring together the work of the district associations. It will also investigate national advertising, compile valuable papers, and send such data to members. It is hoped that in the future, the association will be able to make allotments of national advertising.

Susquehanna Nine Defeats Moravian

Brininger Pitches First College Baseball for No-Hit, No-Run Game; Herman and Soutup Double

Pitching his first game of college baseball, Brininger got off on a wonderful start Saturday afternoon as he beat Moravian 6-0, twirling a no-hit, no-run game in a dizzying rain.

Although issuing several passes during the game, this Sophomore hurler was master of the situation throughout. With his teammates behind him, when runners did get on base, he cut off any further advancement.

During the early stage of the game, Brininger pitched a perfect control together with a fine assortment of curves, which completely fooled the opposing batters, and struck out a total of eight men. In the first four innings there were but thirteen batters to face him.

Brininger also collected one of the eleven hits registered by the Crusaders in the third inning with a clean single over second base but was later caught off the canvas as he stole second.

The wet field made it hard for the fielders on both sides to hold the ball and a number of errors were committed by both teams. Patty Rubis pulled the most spectacular play in the game in the eighth inning, when Waldron, first man up, hit a terrific drive to the right of Rubis making a perfect peg to first to throw the man out.

Malasky took the hitting honors with three singles; he also scored on a run. Stroup, hard hitting center fielder for the Crusaders, collected two doubles off his bat and scored one run. Ted Foltz was put into the lineup Saturday afternoon when Coach Ullery decided to give Swede Palmer a rest at first base. Ted was playing an entirely new position and did well in handling the wet ball at the initial sack without a slip-up. He also connected for a single in the sixth inning and scored one of the six runs.

Susquehanna started the scoring in the first inning with Herman, first man up, smacking a double over third base. Stroup then came to bat bringing the timber against the home side for his first double. Herman, however, failed to tally on the play, but crossed the plate as Rubis was tossed out at first by Waldron.

In the third inning the Crusaders collected three hits and scored two runs. Herman reached first on Waldron's error. Stroup connected for his second double and both base-runners scored as Malasky singled to left field. Susquehanna's last three runs came in the sixth inning, which was opened as Malasky singled; Foltz singled as Malasky advanced to third and Foltz stole second. Spigelmyer then singled to right field but Horne lost the ball after he had picked it up, and it got away from him again as Herb dashed around the bases with Malasky and Foltz setting the pace, scoring three runs. ALUMNI MEETING

May 11 has been set as the date for the meeting of the New York Metropolitan Alumni Club. Dr. Smith is making arrangements to attend this meeting.

The Spring Convention of the Inter-Collegiate Newspaper Association of the Middle Atlantic States was held Friday and Saturday, April 24 and 25, at the Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn, New York. Sixteen of the twenty-four member papers were represented by one or more delegates. The delegates from "The Susquehanna" were Editor-in-Chief Andrew Kozak, Business Manager Lee M. Fairchild, and Sports Editor Bruce Worthington.

The climax of the convention came on Saturday evening at the formal banquet, held at the Pierpont Hotel. At this time Mr. Edward B. Wilson, City Editor of "The Brooklyn Daily Eagle," presented the News Competition Cup to "The Haverford News," of Haverford College. The Editorial Cup was presented to "The Statesman," of Stevens Institute, by Mr. Joseph P. Early, Associate Editor of "The Brooklyn Standard Union." The main address was delivered by Dr. Wilson, graduate of Cambridge, and popular writer for "The New York Times." The subject of his address was "Journalism as a Profession." Mr. Wilson is a capable and very interesting speaker. His advice to men who are thinking of entering the journalistic field was "Do not enter the field unless you really feel that you have to and your love of the work is so great that it will not permit you to enter another profession." Numerous incidents of personal experience were the foundation whereby he could substantiate such a statement. "The peace of the world depends upon the newspapers. I will never write on anything that may be the incentive for war among men. In order to have the accurate account of present times for the distant future papers with different standards must be preserved to have an unbiased history."

The initial meeting was held on Friday afternoon at which time the reports for various committees were given, followed by a discussion of them. The evening was spent by one group viewing the city in a sight-seeing tour. (Concluded on Page 4)

Clarence to be Shown Here Friday Night

Have you ever seen a Booth Tarkington production? If you have you shall not miss this one, and if you haven't you can't afford to let the opportunity slip.

The characters need no introduction. Russell Yoas plays the lead as Clarence and is in a class by himself when compared to the other actors. His performance and undoubtedly his best. This characterization is worth the price of admission itself, the rest of the show shall be the added attraction.

The more serious parts are played by Signe Alford, Herbert Rummel, Mary Weavering, Alvin Barber and Harriet Leese. Everyone is in love with Violet, Signe Alford, who wouldn't be? For those who know her nothing more need be said, she is the part. Rummel as a troubled man perfects this role as he did in "It Pays to Advertise." Mary Weavering, whose past performance is still fresh in your minds, is the jealous wife and can not be surprised in her interpretation. Alvin Barber, the suspicious wooer of Violet, plays a loquacious part. Those who know Barber as a salesman and actor can imagine how immense he is in this role.

Harriet Leese is the secretary to the father and is very confidential too. The added comedians are Ivy Sassaman and Harriet Miller as employees in the household. This pair as you would suspect, are in love and very jealous. Don't miss them.

Last, but not least, come Cora and Bobby, the "Just sixteen" children that Tarkington always features. The play is woven around these people. The laughs that they give you shall make your sides ache. They bring back childhood's love affairs and the quarrels of brother and sister that every one can't help enjoying. This "laugh" team is none other than Edna Williamson and Danny Graham.

This is the last warning. If you miss it, we can only feel sorry for you.

N. T. A. CONVENTION

Conventions to some people are sometimes just a few days spent in good fellowship with persons you never saw before and perhaps never expect to see again. This false theory was far from evident at the N. T. A. Convention at Brooklyn. The purpose of this meeting, which occurs twice each year, is to further the scope of college journalism by bringing into close touch members of college weekly newspapers.

The representatives from the staff who attended realize the large benefit which they have obtained through this medium. At the convention many problems were discussed. Fraternity and sorority politics—one of the problems that affect our campus as well as others can be eliminated entirely from staff elections. Several weeklies have such splendid systems that politics play no part. The step that our organization is making in revising the constitution is an advance toward eliminating this difficulty.

Great stress was laid upon the standardization of various publications. The width of the column of all of the member papers should be the same; the size of types and the quality of paper ought to be uniform. Not only will this better the appearance of the paper but it will also facilitate the securing of national advertisements. National organizations would often place their advertisements with college papers but the width of columns in these publications vary; therefore it is difficult to fix a scale price for college papers. Various phases of the editorial processes in the making up of a newspaper were discussed, and finer publications will, we trust, be the result of these suggestions.

The Convention in a large measure was a success and will result in the promotion of cooperative relations, and in a greater endeavor for the development of a high standard for college journalism.

ABOUT TENNIS COURTS

Several of the University employees have been spending the last few days leveling ground in the vicinity of the trolley station. The female members of the student body are anxiously watching for the planting of net-posts and the erection of back-stops indicative of some new tennis courts. Of course the trolley station is quite a distance from Seibert Hall, but after all who wouldn't walk several blocks at a respectable time of day for the privilege of playing tennis rather than arise at 5:00 A. M. for that same privilege? And what's more, if things kept going from bad to worse at the same rate they have been the last few mornings, the dawns of St. Seibert will be vying with each other and with the male tennis enthusiasts at daybreak for a place on one of the courts.

You see, we have but four tennis courts on the campus. These cannot comfortably accommodate more than sixteen players at a time. What is to become of the other 150 or so? They stand back and wait their turn; they wait maybe ten minutes, maybe an hour, but anyway they wait. They know that tennis ethics will sooner or later mitigate in their favor. (According to the tennis code a court should not be held for more than two sets by a group of players). We suggest that those in the waiting lines be gainfully occupied. They might try a round of golf, or have a book handy. Soon we will go tennis-ward with a racket under one arm and golf clubs and a book under the other. Our standards do not permit idleness.

In the best interests of all concerned we suggest that measures be taken to relieve the present tennis situation. It is evident that four courts cannot possibly accommodate all the students who play tennis or who are anxious to learn. Even when we had eight courts, four for men and four for women, there were waiting lists. Reducing the number of courts by half has not gone far to reduce the number of players in these lists.

The girls feel the situation more keenly than do the men. We had tennis courts but they were taken away. Is it that we have lost an interest in tennis, or have we merely been neglected? It is true that since our courts have been removed we have been granted the privilege of using the men's courts, but even at its best this privilege has its limits, for none but varsity candidates may occupy the courts from 3:30 until 6:00 in the afternoon.

The girls of Susquehanna are hopefully awaiting the building of some tennis courts for their use, and also suggest that the addition of a couple courts for the faculty would be timely and undoubtedly appreciated.

ALUMNI NOTES

Graduates Married

Miss Hazel A. Edmunds, formerly of Millburg and now of Hartford, Conn., and Prof. W. W. Spiegelmyer, of Portage, Pa., formerly superintendent of Union Co. schools, were married on April 2, in Hartford, Conn.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Fletcher D. Parker in the Helen Ordway Parker Chapel of the Immanuel Congregational Church at noon.

Mr. and Mrs. Spiegelmyer left for an unannounced wedding trip by motor. They will reside in Portage, Pa.

Miss Edmunds, who served as teacher of English and history in the Millburg High School before going to Hartford, took special work at Susquehanna University. She is a graduate of Morse Business College at Hartford, Conn., and for a number of years has served as secretary to the superintendent of schools in Hartford.

Prof. Spiegelmyer has obtained the following degrees from S. U.: '00, A. B.; '03, A. M.; '18, Ph.D. For fifteen years he served as superintendent of schools in Union county. He is now superintendent of schools in Portage.

Sympathy

The "Susquehanna" extends sympathy to Rev. A. E. Grove, pastor of the Lutheran church in Nuremberg, Pa., because of the loss of his wife, who died at the Geisinger Hospital, Danville, from uremic poisoning.

Grove obtained his A. B. from S. U. in '25 and his B.D. in '30. Rev. and Mrs. Grove took charge of the Nuremberg congregation three years ago.

Mrs. Grove was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Erb, of Middleburg. She was a teacher for nine years in Snyder county before going to Nuremberg. Miss Thelma Erb, ex-'32, is a sister.

Among Our Alumni

Prof. John H. App, ex-'73, has retired and is living in Akron, Ohio.

Rev. Lloyd W. Walter, '03-'06, is a minister in Dixon, Ill.

Rev. Earl Mohnsey, '17-'22-'27, is a minister in Tamaqua, Pa.

Mr. Harry I. Frymire, '19-'29, is a teacher at Shamokin Dam, Pa.

Mr. Archie A. Aucker, '20-'23, is teaching in Scranton, Pa.

Mr. Orris H. Aueand, '21, is supervising principal of the school in Burnham, Pa.

Miss Alice M. App, '22, is teaching in Donora, Pa.

Miss Mary E. App, '22, is teaching in Dover, Del.

Rev. Thomas Atkinson, '23, is a minister in Lehigh, Pa. His wife was formerly Miss Esther Wildermuth, '20.

Mr. Marilyn Feterolf, '23, is a book-keeper in Johnstown, Pa.

Rev. Arthur G. Fry, '23, is a minister in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Mr. Ray V. Laudenslager, '23-'29, is supervising principal of the school of Weatherly, Pa.

Wilfred Fuge, ex-'24, '25, is a medical student at the U. of P. Mr. Fuge was graduated from Lafayette College in '30.

Mr. Raymond Klinedinst, '24, is teaching in Mt. Carmel, Pa.

Mr. Reginald Stroup, ex-'24-'25, is a medical student at the U. of P. Mr. Stroup was graduated from Dickinson College in '30.

Rev. George A. Martin, '25-'28, is a minister in Bladell, N. Y.

Mr. Floyd L. Adams, '26, is teaching in Brookville, Pa.

Mr. Robert W. Mitchell, '26-'29, is a teacher in Myerstown, Pa.

Arthur C. Moran, hon-'26, is a physician in Philadelphia.

Mrs. Ethel V. Taylor, '26, is a teacher at Duncannon, Pa.

Delsey A. Morris, '27, is a teacher in the schools at Doylestown, Pa.

Miss Mabelle M. Allan, '28, is teaching in Pottsville, Pa.

Mrs. Gertrude Arbogast, '28, is teaching mathematics in the public schools at Wattsburg, Pa.

Charles W. Marks, '29, is a teacher of science in Yardley, Pa. Mr. Harry S. Baird, ex-'30, is a student at the Temple Law School, Philadelphia, Pa.

Seibert Hall Echoes

A puzzled Co-ed inquired as to why the Bridal Wreath was planted outside of Hasting Hall. Perhaps it would have been more appropriate near Seibert, but the power of suggestion will work wonders with men.

One of the professors gave a splendid comparison of a college catalogue and a college campus. He says that they both lie about the college. Some of the girls are still trying to figure it out.

With the first appearance of spring the Botany enthusiasts have started their pilgrimages to the woods. May we offer a word to the wise? Dog-tooth violets, Spring Beauty, Jill-on-the-ground and a few others are now in bloom. They don't last very long so make haste and away, ye who would have a large herbarium.

Eleanor Sheriff and Muriel Camerer have turned dancing masters. They are training the town children for their May Day Dance. Dorothy Puckey accompanies them.

To some, the ideal of a lady is one who never wears run down heels. Judging by the number of girls who have been carrying shoes to the local shoemakers, they have taken this to heart. Of course, now that the snow has gone and we have stopped wearing our rubbers, these repairs are necessary.

Friday evening Grace Minnie turned her ankle and the doctor pronounced it a bad sprain and ordered several days in bed. We hope that he actually meant just a few.

Ruth Bergstresser spent the week-end in Philadelphia visiting her mother, who is a patient in the hospital there. We hope that she found her mother very much improved.

The dormitory was saddened Sunday by the untimely death of one of Miss Corbin's trained goldfish.

SPORT BITS

Most people like all the free publicity one can get but "Peanuts" Malasky has kept pretty well under cover since the bombardment he was forced to take last week.

For the benefit of several "fair ones" at Seibert Hall we wish to announce that the Athletic Field has a telephone which is at their service during baseball practice. Number 40 R 2.

It's bad enough to keep track of one batting average, let alone two, but Dutch Herman is confronted with this problem; it has been learned that a certain party he is interested in struck out three times the other day.

Playing against such "high pressure competition" is Ex-Captain Good and Cinder Snyder. Herb Spielmyer holds the honor of clouting the first home run of the year against the Middleburg Bears.

We have learned from reliable sources that Dutch Herman visited Hagerstown the other week. We wonder whether he went down to get a try-out with the Hagerstown Middle Atlantic team, or for something else?

Coach Ullery gave Stroup a big assignment the other day, writing a 10,000 word thesis on the "hit-and-run play." Nothing like the old method of drill.

"Barking" Al Meyer and Sayer McMiller composed the battery last Wednesday against the Middleburg team. Al was busy striking five men out in four innings, while "Mac" was behind the batters delivering an oration on the Irish.

Herb Spielmyer had another home run Saturday afternoon against Mo-ravian, but it happened to be of the unofficial type, as he made it on a single and an error.

Proser

It was during the early spring sales.

"If I were trying to match politeness," said the woman customer, glaring at the shop assistant, "I'd have rather a job to let it here."

"The assistant was equal to the occasion."

"Let me see your sample, madam," she said.

SORORITY NOTES

Dinner Party and Bridge

On Friday evening, April 25, the active members of Sigma Alpha Iota Fraternity had a delightful dinner party given to them by their pledges at the Hotel Sterner. This was followed by a pajama bridge in the sorority room, which had been very attractively arranged with bridge tables on all sides were small burners of incense, and with Japanese tapestries on the walls, thus giving it an atmosphere of the Orient. Punch was served and red roses were given as favors. The bridge prizes were won by Mary Hummel, Beatrice Gentzler, and Francis Stambaugh. There is no doubt but that the pledges are to be complimented for their originality and ability to entertain.

K. D. P. Hostesses to Honoraries

Last Monday afternoon, April 20, Kappa Delta Phi entertained their honoraries by giving them a Bridge-Tea.

Upon the arrival of the guests, a meeting was held in the sorority room, at which Mrs. A. W. Ahl was initiated into honorary membership.

After the initiating ceremony, Bridge was played in the social room, which was tastefully arranged. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Aikens and to Mrs. Eyer.

Wednesday, April 15, Omega Delta Sigma initiated Mrs. Williams, mother of Dr. Franklin Williams, into honorary membership in their sorority.

After the ceremony a tea was held in her honor. Mrs. Rhoads poured. Oriental tea and dainty sandwiches in various shapes made the menu unique.

The tea was attended by fifteen honoraries, Miss Hadd, Miss Strother, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Lettitz, and Joan Houtz.

Conservatory Notes

Music Week

National Music Week was instituted a number of years ago. It found ready support from leading musicians of the country. Its purpose is to bring to the attention of the people the advance in better classes of music, such music being presented by choral and orchestral societies and other such groups, and is given during the first full week of May.

Locally the Mozart Music Festival in Harrisburg has presented three-day musical program in the past three or four years. These programs have not limited themselves to works by Mozart alone, but have included works of many of the great master musicians, and, as in many other places, the services of five hundred or more school children have been enlisted. Such a music festival not only benefits the community musically but attracts many visitors, advertises the city, and helps to establish a music center.

Most institutions like Susquehanna University give some emphasis to music week. Locally the combined music clubs of Susquehanna University will give a concert Tuesday evening, May 5, featuring the Ladies' Choral Club, Men's Glee Club, University Orchestra, and University Band. Mrs. Bertha Lansing Rodgers, contralto, Professor W. Donald Hemphill, violinist, and Professor Frederick C. Stevens, tenor, members of the faculty of the Conservatory of Music, will appear as soloists on the program.

Seniors Entertained

Professor and Mrs. E. Edwin Sheldon recently entertained the seniors of the Conservatory of Music as their guests at a dinner and bridge party.

Those present were the Misses Leisher, Potteiger, and Reed, Mrs. Rodgers, and Mrs. Sheldon, Messrs. Freed, Legacy, and Professor Sheldon.

The youngest member of the faculty of the Conservatory of Music, Miss Shirley Linebaugh, celebrated her third birthday anniversary Friday, April 24, 1931.

Professor and Mrs. E. Edwin Sheldon attended a Rotary Convention which was held at Hazleton, Pennsylvania, on Wednesday and Thursday of last week.

AMUSEMENTS

Today is the last time to see Constance Bennett, that favorite actor of "Common Clay," in "The Enlist Way."

Wednesday and Thursday, George O'Brien and Marion Lessing bring to us the thrilling picture of the "Seas Beneath" story of U-boats and masked schooners who get their prey.

"It Pays to Advertise" is the attraction for Friday, with Norman Foster and Skeets Gallagher. You may be nonchalant when you come but you won't be when you leave.

The Stanley presents the "Conquering Horde" as Saturday's attraction.

Monday and Tuesday bring us the "Tailor Made Man."

Who's Who in the Senior Class

ETHELYNN V. MILLER

Although Ethelynn is slight of stature and has a gentle voice, which our old friend Lear said was an excellent thing in woman, she is endowed with a tremendous force of will power, and more tact and diplomacy than anyone else we know.

This year, Ethelynn has been President of Women's Co-operative Government, the highest honor to be conferred on any resident woman student. The year previous, she was the Vice President of Council, and very often filled the President's position, especially over week-ends when the dormitory is a little noisier than usual. Ethelynn's interest in the Y. W. C. A. has been active, also. During her Junior year she was a member of the Y Cabinet, and was a very faithful worker.

Being Chief Statistician of the Lanthorn is no easy position, but Ethelynn accepted it with that quiet smile of hers, and it was capably and carefully done. The Junior class had Ethelynn for their Class Historian and one has only to look at their Class History to see how well she fulfilled their every hope.

Ethelynn spent the first semester of her college career at Marion Junior College for Women. Since coming here she has grown to be the charming little lady we all know and respect so much. The word best associated with her is, undoubtedly, "dainty."

English is Ethelynn's chosen field, and she is more than a little proficient in it. As a teacher she will be very successful, and the high school which secures her services will be fortunate. All the best wishes of her class and her many friends on the campus will accompany her when she leaves.

SUSQUEHANNA TO MEET BUCKNELL AND JUNIATA IN BASE BALL

Two hard games, one with Bucknell on April 29, and the other with Juniata on May 6, face the Susquehanna baseball team within the next week.

The game with Bucknell will be played at Lewisburg this Wednesday and Coach Ulery considers this to be one of the tough ones on the schedule this season. Last year in the two encounters with the Lewisburg Bisons, Susquehanna lost out in both. Coach Ulery will start Captain Bob Donnell against Bucknell. He intends to strengthen some spots on his team before this game and will put forth every effort to win it.

Bucknell's pitching staff is made up of Steve Trudnak, who during the past season made the all-star collegiate baseball team which traveled through Cuba and West Indies playing exhibition games, and Fry, who was the game against the Crusaders at Selinsgrove last year.

It has been reported that Bucknell has several new ball players this season which will add strength to last year's team. Several of the men to be seen in the lineup will be Hinkle, who will probably play first, Lobel, another infielder, and Shaw, catcher.

The Juniata baseball team has been having a little tough luck getting started this season, dropping their first four games to Quantico Marines in two games, Mt. St. Mary's, and the University of Pennsylvania.

Blough, who last year allowed opponents only 2.16 earned runs per game in seven consecutive victories, is Coach Swartz's mainstay on his pitching staff. Lino Petty will do most of the receiving as he did through most of last season's schedule.

The infield will have Andrews at first, Laporte at second, Gracey at short, and Harley at third. Captain Atalski is holding down his old position in left field, Steele is at center, and Peel in right.

Susquehanna will journey to Huntingdon on Wednesday, May 6th. The Indians will return the compliment by coming to Selinsgrove on May 30.

Hear the debate tonight— "Clarence" expects you.

Rev. Dietz Speaks to Seminarians

Reverend Alvin A. Dietz, pastor of the Salem Reformed Church in Shamokin, outlined his organization of church and school before a large group in Gustavus Adolphus hall on Thursday, April 23. Students and faculty members of the Seminary, and ministers from Selinsgrove, Sunbury, and other neighboring towns were among those who listened to the interesting discussion of the plan which the Reverend Dietz has worked out so successfully in Shamokin.

In a word, the organization of church and school which he has put into practical use is the realization of the theory that has been under discussion in the Seminary during the present year.

The Reverend Dietz fully explained and developed the following outline which is the basis of his system: I—The Church is divided into three divisions: The children's division; the Young People's Division, and the Adult Division. II—The three divisions assemble at 9:45 A. M. The Children's Division (aged 1-12 years) meets for worship and study in their respective departments from 9:45 to 11:45 A. M. The Young People's Division (aged 12 to 24 years) assembles in the chapel for worship at 9:45 and after a period of worship which lasts fifty minutes, the members go to their respective departments for study. The Adult Division (aged over 24 years) meets in its department for study at 9:45 A. M. and at 10:45 assembles in the chapel for worship. The time of the sessions is from 9:45 A. M. to 11:45 A. M.

Improvements Made on Plot by School and Town

Business people, students and citizens will soon be greeted by some very much needed improvements. The trolley station grounds are undergoing a process of landscape gardening by a committee of men who are so interested in the town that they wish to make the appearance of the entrance attractive.

John C. Oberdorf, director of the grounds at Susquehanna, is at the head of the work and some splendid projects are under way. Of course, a plan of the lay out has been made and with the co-operation of the town folks new scenery will enhance the trolley grounds.

The S. and S. Trolley company, as well as the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, has contributed to the cause and it is expected that the citizens of the town will respond to the efforts of this committee. The plan in itself calls for shrubbery and flowers of practically every description and any of the citizens who have an overabundance of shrubbery can easily dispose of it by reporting to Mr. Oberdorf.

Ross J. Leitze, another of the men who have given their time to this project, will work in collaboration with Mr. Oberdorf. With two such experienced men at the head of the project there is very little doubt but that the work will be completed in the near future.

INTER-CLASS BASEBALL

The Inter-Class Baseball League was opened last Monday when the Frosh came up from behind and nosed out the Seniors to the score of 5-4. Gray led the attack for the Frosh with a home run, and his excellent work on the mound caused the Seniors much trouble. Stearns did the hurling for the Seniors, but they failed to come through with the necessary runs.

Batteries: Frosh—Gray and Fisher. Seniors—Stearns and Garman.

Score: Frosh 5 9 3 Seniors 4 6 2

On Tuesday, the Sophomores put on their slugging caps and defeated the Juniors in a loosely played contest by the score of 11-8. Ott was on the mound for the Sophomores and allowed only 7 hits while the Sophomores were finding Hohman for 14 hits.

Score: Frosh 11 14 7 Juniors 8 7 9

The Frosh-Junior and the Sophomore-Senior games were postponed, leaving the Frosh and Sophomores tied for first place at the end of the first week. The Frosh-Junior game will be played on Friday, May 1, and the Sophomore-Junior game on May 8. The games this week are as follows:

Tuesday—Junior-Senior. Wednesday—Frosh-Senior. Thursday—Junior-Sophomore. Friday—Frosh-Junior.

Who's Who in the Senior Class

RENO S. KNOUSE

Reno entered the portals of Susquehanna University in the year of 1926, after graduating from Selinsgrove High School, but the Class of '30 was thrown for a loss when he spent a year in New York.

His specialty is track and this was further demonstrated several days ago, when he ran on the fastest relay team that ever represented S. U. at the Penn Relays. He has been a member of the varsity track team and the Penn Relay team for the past three seasons. In class basketball, soccer and track, he has been one of the mainstays during his collegiate career. On the wooden way, he represented Epsilon Sigma fraternity of which organization he is a popular member. He is also a member of the Varsity "S" club and in appreciation of his services he was elected to the athletic board his Senior year.

He entered into his usual dynamic spirit just as he did in athletics. He was a member of the business staff of the "Susquehanna," the intra-mural board, and the Sophomore Hop committee during his first two years on the campus. Since returning from New York, he has been elected a member of the inter-fraternity council and treasurer of the student council.

Reno's love for service has won for him a legion of friends whose expression can be found in their intense confidence in him to succeed in his chosen profession—that of a commercial instructor.

SUSQUEHANNA'S SPORTS ATTRACTIONS FOR THE COMING WEEK

Track and Field Meet, occupying the center of attraction on the second of May, Susquehanna University will enter upon the intensive period of her 1931 spring sports program. On the same day and in conjunction with the Scholastic Meet, Susquehanna will meet Bucknell in a dual track meet. Last year the Crusaders emerged victors, but Coach Plant appears to have a stronger team than the one carrying Bucknell's colors last year. The meet will mark the initial appearance of both teams and will usher in their 1931 season.

On the same afternoon, Susquehanna's tennis team will meet Franklin and Marshall on the home courts, while the baseball team having played Elizabethtown, Moravian and Bucknell will be pointing for their fourth game on the 6th with Juniata at Huntingdon.

Coach Grossman will have his entire track team working out daily to prepare for the first dual meet and to get a team in line for the Eleventh Annual Central Pennsylvania Collegiate Track Conference Meet to be held May 16th on University Field with Susquehanna playing host to 200 picked athletes representing ten Pennsylvania colleges. The staging of the Conference Meet on University Field will be a fitting commemoration of the introduction of track activities at the Selinsgrove institution. The first track team to entertain competition was organized in 1901 and was composed of ten men who at the present time are all active in life.

Track is gaining in popularity at Susquehanna and during the last several years has made progress. In 1930, the team captained by Bill Welkey, former Newark Prep dash man, walked away with first honors in the Class B division at the Conference Meet held at Gettysburg. This year's team is captained by Cliff Johnston of Altoona and bids fair to again win honors at the meet while entertaining the visitors on its own track.

Each of the colleges represented in the meet seems to have better track teams representing it than in 1930. All in all, it is expected that the 1931 Conference Meet will be one of the best ever held.

DOUBT IT OR NOT — by Will U. Believceit

For four years "Judge" Parahs has played the role of Silent Sam when the topic of discussion has been women. He refused to commit himself. Thru a severe third degree George revealed more than was necessary. The Pride of Prince Hill really has a heart, girls, but Will is sorry to say that it has been left back in the coal town to stay.

The Duke of Dubois gave in to the call of the wild and entered the famous and notorious parlors from which he says Romeos never return. "Howdy" tells us that this was only his second attempt; at least, that is all that he can recall. Some believe that he has had a lapse of memory.

Pigeon Auman returned from the Brotherly City looking very tired and worn. There are but two conclusions to draw: either the lad entered the Annual Swimming Relays or they don't allow children to ride the elevators.

Al Garman says that when parking a car you should never tell a friend where to park it for it may take you a whole evening to find it. After this Al shall park his own. That's right, even your best friends can't help you.

When the home team has two men on base and the ball is set only the best kind of sport will throw in a dry ball so that the pitcher may have chances to retire the side. This was done on Saturday, thanks to Coach Ulery.

Some are wondering at Blimp Bedford's cap and bushes. Will has heard that the lad has signed up with the House of David Theatrical Co. to characterize their interpretation of Little Caesar.

Pi Gamma Mu Notes

John W. Keller, Deputy Secretary of the Department of Fisheries and Waters of Pennsylvania, and a former Susquehanna student will speak in Seibert Hall Chapel on Thursday evening, May 7, under the auspices of Pi Gamma Mu, National Social Science Honor Society. The Gamma chapter at Susquehanna brings at least one prominent speaker to the campus each year.

Mr. Keller attended Susquehanna nearly twenty years ago, and since then has been in the State Department of Fisheries and Waters for many years. He is fully prepared to lecture in an interesting and intelligible manner, and a large crowd is expected to hear his address.

Pi Gamma Mu will hold a business meeting Monday evening, May 4th, at 6:30 o'clock in Gustavus Adolphus Hall, room 102. At this meeting Signe Alford, Margaret Hofmeister, Robert Donnell, and Warren Wolf will receive membership. All members are invited to attend.

Annual Production Scores Big Hit

Yeast Stars in Title Role of Bond and Key Comedy; Miss Naomi K. Hade Directs Excellent Cast

Laughs were predominant Friday night, as the eccentric "Clarence" entertained a large audience and made the annual Bond and Key play a huge success. This four act comedy by Booth Tarkington was directed by Miss Hade and staged at Seibert Hall.

Russell Yeas climaxed his career of college dramatics with this wonderful interpretation of Clarence, and his work could scarcely be called amateur. From the time he first appeared in his hilarious soldier's outfit until the final curtain, he kept the audience in a continual state of laughter.

Of course, this was made possible by the excellent supporting cast, mention can hardly be made of one without including the other. Miss Edna Williamson was unusually brilliant and vivacious as Cora Wheeler, and presented a pleasing contrast to her haughty demeanor in "The Swan." As Bobby Wheeler, Daniel Graham was also excellent, especially when working with Miss Williamson in their many quarrels.

Miss Harriet Miller, in the minor role of Della, the maid, presented the most polished and artistic performance of the evening. Her articulation, accent, and every little gesture were just about flawless, but at the same time easy and natural. Appearing a few weeks ago in a society role, this talented young lady has shown, in two small parts, a natural ability for the stage, and should expect more opportunities in the future.

Miss Weavering and Herbert Rummel were ideally cast as Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler, and Miss Alfred skillfully captured the sympathy to be expected in her position as the misunderstood governess. Similarly, Alvin Barber successfully typified the troublesome "villain." Even Ira Sassaman, in the capacity of the austere butler, drew laughter as he appeared occasionally to rebuke Della, and tried to ascertain whether Clarence was one of the family or one of the help.

Concert Tonight to Open Music Week

Musical Clubs, Conservatory Faculty and Students Will Observe National Affair With Special Program

National Music Week was first observed in May, 1924. Its purpose is to bring to the attention of the people the advance in better classes of music, such music being given during the first full week in May by choral and orchestral societies.

Pennsylvania is one of the prominent states taking part in National Music Week. Through her effective preparations interest in music has been advanced. Many of her leading cities such as Philadelphia, Harrisburg, Pittsburgh, and others take a conspicuous part. During this week industries, business houses, homes, communities and institutions have more music than at any other time.

Pennsylvania can appreciate this trend, for no state has been a greater contributor toward development of music in this country than she. Here the first musical instruments originated; here concerts were first held and oratorios first sung; here were written the first art song, hymn, opera, and patriotic songs; folk music was born on American soil and here were developed some of the best of our musical organizations, composers and artists.

Susquehanna University and other institutions like Susquehanna give some emphasis to music week. Tonight the combined music clubs of Susquehanna University will give a concert in Seibert Chapel at 8:15 featuring the Ladies Choral Club, Men's Glee University Orchestra, and University Band. Those who will appear as soloists on the program are Professor W. Donald Hemphill, violinist, Professor Percy M. Linebaugh, organist, and Professor Frederick C. Stevens, tenor, all being members of the Conservatory faculty. The program to be given follows:

Annual Elections Held for 'Susquehanna' Staff

At the annual meeting of the Susquehanna Publishing Association last Thursday, the following men were elected from the Theological Seminary as officers: President, Luke Rhoads; Vice President, Russell Shilling; and Secretary, Park Wagenbach.

The members of the staff of '30-'31 who were elected to new offices are: News Editor, Laird Gemberling; Assistants on the Reportorial staff, Ruth Bergstresser, Penn Dively, Daisy Reese; Circulation Manager, Harold Kramer; Advertising Manager, Selon Dockey; Assistants on the Business Staff, Edwin Clapper, James Suter, Nelson King, Daniel McKelvey.

Four parts of the Constitution as amended by the Committee were voted down by the Association.

Article 4, Sec. 3 stating that the officers of the association must be from the Theological Department was decisively opposed.

Article 8, Sec. 1 was rejected by only one vote, while Sections 2 and 3 of the same article also failed to receive the required number of votes for adoption.

Debaters Heard on Free Trade Over Air

Forensic Teams Travel to Harrisburg to Debate Free Trade Question Over Station WHIP

Susquehanna took to the air last Friday evening when a post-season debate between the two men's debating teams was broadcast over WHIP, Harrisburg. A decision is to be reached by a vote sent in to that station by the listeners and will be announced later.

Mr. Walter Foulkrod, Mr. Wilson Sieber and Mr. Lawrence Fisher, all Seniors, represented the Affirmative case, while Mr. Samuel Brosius, Mr. Joseph Maimon and Mr. Edwin Clapper defended the protection issue of the resolution. "Resolved: That Free Trade Should be Adopted by All Nations." The Oregon Style of Debate was again put into practice and proved very satisfactory for reproduction by radio.

All the speakers possess excellent "radio voices," the program being clear and distinct. Every word was easily understood and the program was favorably received by many people throughout the Eastern United States.

Besides those named, Miss Clara Corbin, Coach of Debating at Susquehanna, and Miss Corinda Sell and Nellie Shue, of the Ladies' Debating Team.

Helen Swope Wins May Queen Honor

Lena Baird is Chosen as Lady-in-Waiting; Announcements are Made at May Day Breakfast

Miss Helen Swope and Miss Lena Baird were announced as the Susquehanna May Queen and Lady-in-Waiting for 1931 at the lawn breakfast held in front of Seibert Hall last Friday morning. The eight senior women who comprise the court sat at a special table while about eighty-five young ladies also gathered to hear the announcement and to do honor to the new Queen.

Miss Inez Sarver, as president of this year's Y. W. C. A. made the announcement, and the Misses Swope and Baird acknowledged the honor by rising and thanking the young women who had elected them. Following this, the fair co-ed's fell heartily to the appetizing breakfast, which was served entirely by women students.

The affair was colorful, and the breakfast well managed, so that this innovation will probably become a regular feature on the May Day calendar in the future.

National President Visits Local Chapter

Dinner, Musical Program by S. A. L.'s Mark Festivities for Misses Hazel Ritchey and Gertrude Evans

A most important and unusual event in the history of Sigma Omega chapter of Sigma Alpha Iota was the visit of the fraternity's National President, Miss Hazel Ritchey, this past week end. This has been the first visit of any national officer to Sigma Omega since the chapter was installed five years ago, May 5. The chapter was also honored by the presence of Miss Gertrude Evans, president of Eta Province, who arranged to have her visit occur at the same time as that of Miss Ritchey. The presence of these two women, who are held in such high esteem in the fraternity, served to impress upon every Sigma Alpha Iota girl the real meaning and importance of the fraternity.

Miss Ritchey arrived Friday afternoon and was accompanied at dinner in the evening by two members of Sigma Alpha Iota, Miss Dorothy Leisher, the former president, and Miss Dorothy Puckey, the new president. These girls also escorted her to the play in

Members of Women's Council Installed

Another council has completed its work and on Wednesday evening the new Woman's Cooperative Council was installed, with impressive ceremony.

There was roll call and the report of the secretary and treasurer was read by Sara Shaulls.

Ethlynn Miller as president of the old council installed first the new council as a whole, then the secretary-treasurer, the vice-president, and finally the new president.

After receiving the cap and gown from Ethlynn, Elizabeth Vorlage spoke to the girls concerning the plans for next year. There was a discussion of Freshman rules and other phases of dormitory life. It was announced that a box would be placed in the office of the Dean of women and anyone having any suggestion for the council would have an opportunity to make it known in writing in this way.

This ceremony was very impressive and was witnessed by nearly all of the resident women students.

Crusaders Lose to Bison Tossers

Trudnach, Bucknell Ave. Opposes Donnell; Many Orange-Maroon Errors Mar Game; First Loss of Season

The Susquehanna baseball nine, after gaining two successive victories, took a sudden reverse in form last Wednesday afternoon and lost its first game of the season to the Bucknell University nine by the score of 11-6.

After a brilliant rally in the first half of the eighth inning which gave them the lead, the Orange and Maroon wearers fell to pieces as a team and allowed Bucknell to tally six runs, thus winning the contest by a margin of five runs.

Up until that wild eighth inning the game had been an interesting one. Trudnach, the Bucknell ace, was putting on one of his best exhibitions on the mound. Until the seventh inning only Stroup and Spiegelmeyer were able to collect hits off his delivery, and his control was such that not a player walked.

With the exception of the third inning Donnell also did well. During the third inning Bucknell hammered him for three hits, and along with a walk and two errors, scored four runs. In the sixth inning Bucknell scored another run on a long hit and two errors.

Crusaders Smash Bucknell in Track

Short Distance Men Roll Up too Many Points for Rouns; Coates Is Star in Mile and 880

Superiority in the track events and a few unexpected points on the field enabled the Susquehanna under artists to open the current season with a brilliant victory, crushing Bucknell by a 77-14-40 score on University Field, Saturday afternoon. This marks the Crusaders' second victory over the Bison in as many years.

With the bark of the opening gun it was evident that the Orange was out to win. Johnny Meyers flashed across the finish line a few steps ahead of Captain Johnston and Bill Weliky to win all three places in the century dash. Bill Swann, the versatile Sophomore ran up thirteen points by capturing the 440 in the fast time of 53.9, by winning the broad jump with a leap of 20 feet, 5 inches, and by placing a close second in the high hurdles. Closely following him in scoring honors were Captain Cliff Johnston and Johnny Meyers with eleven tallies each.

Coates of Bucknell was really the star of the meet. The Bison captain literally walked away from the field in the mile and half-mile events. His performance in the latter was probably the best ever witnessed on University Field as he romped in 200 yards ahead to register the remarkable time of 2:35.

Two Freshmen gave the fans and "Prof" Grossman cause for elation when Holly Muir cleared 10 feet, 6 inches to take second place in the pole vault and Johnny Oberdorf scored seven points by hurling the javelin for a winning throw of 140 feet, 3 inches, and tied for second with George Hess in the high jump.

Newcenter showed his customary form in the hurdle races, and Bill Carolan turned in some fast time trying to catch Coates, the Bison flash. Reno Knouse lost second place in the 440 by a hair's breadth after encountering a questionable mixup with two Bucknell lads on the last turn. Similarly, Hartline and Kump put up a hard fight to overtake Bucknell in the two-mile, all three sprinting strongly to the tape. Bill Weliky and Frank Malasky helped

Gala Affair Under Making by Juniors

Popular Bill-Port Band to Furnish Rhythm for Junior Prom May 16; First Year Formal of Year

"Here ye, one and all," shouts the College Crier as he lifts up a large megaphone through which booms his loud voice.

"The Junior Class of '31 wishes to announce that a social function, a real one, better known as the Junior Promenade is fast approaching. The price is a small matter, for a bright red ticket, a beautiful partner, and a gloriously grand evening to the exotic strains of Joe Vanecek's orchestra from Williamsport, may be obtained for only $2.50 per couple. The orchestra music will permeate the ball-room with its graceful and lively tunes, inducing even the laziest of dancers to glide rhythmically. No one will sense that the Alumni gymnasium is anything but a steamer visiting the Seniors a 'Good Voyage.' The decorations will be superlative, the orchestra full of music and vitality, the dancing on board $5 from graceful and the fare a mere $2.50. Then, girls, don your dainty summer Parisian gowns; men, don your evening uniforms, for this is a Summer Formal, this Junior Promenade, and is under way to be the largest and most successful trip of the S. S. 'Prom.' The ship sails May 16, at eight o'clock from the Alumni Gymnasium dock of Susquehanna University.

Tickets may be bought from any member of the following Junior Prom committee:

Robert Hartman, chairman
Enza Wilson
Anna Dunkelberger
Harriet Leese
Jared Mayes
Forest Metzger.

AMENDMENTS

The members of Susquehanna's Publishing Association deserve credit for the way in which they cast their votes for the proposed amendments to the Association's Constitution. We, of the staff, feel that the results indicate that a thoughtful group was striving for the betterment of the school weekly. The three sections of two different articles that did not pass were inadequate to meet the needs of the Association.

We see no reason why the members of the Theological Department alone should be eligible for offices in the Association, especially in view of the fact that this department has decreased so greatly due to the desire for consolidation with other Seminaries.

The defeat of Article 8, Section 1 which gave the Selection Committee composed of members from fraternities and sororities power to elect all staff officers showed true insight and a real desire to remove the play of politics from this election. The amendment was no better than the original article because it permitted even a greater opportunity for election of men to the staff not deserving of the positions. Although at present there is no remedy because the old system still holds, we believe that a far better method is possible.

Section 2 of Article 8 which failed to pass the Association still leaves the staff without any power to fill vacancies. Some comment has been heard that this committee as proposed by the amendment which consisted of the Editor-in-Chief and the Faculty Advisor was not sufficiently large and might be partial in its appointments—a thing highly improbable, yet wise if at some time biased people happened to fill these positions. We realize and must impress upon the minds of the members that such a committee is a necessity for a completely functioning organization. And only upon the possession of this power can a staff obtain the best results.

ALUMNI NOTES

Church and Parish House Dedicated

The Feast of Dedication was celebrated at Christ's Evangelical Lutheran Church in Milton, whose pastor is the Reverend Clair R. James, '24. Work was just completed on the remodeled church and new parish house. A new organ has also been purchased.

At the morning worship on Dedication Day, April 26, Dr. John Wagner, President of the Susquehanna Synod, was the official guest. The sermon was preached by Dr. Raymond T. Stamm, a son of the church, now professor of New Testament in the seminary at Gettysburg. The dedication of the new organ and the other new improvements and the re-dedication of the church took place at this service.

Dr. Wagner preached the sermon at the evening service. At this time the new parish house was dedicated.

April 27 was Friendship Night when the church had as its guests, the Milton Ministerial Association and the sister churches of Milton.

April 28 was Fellowship Night and the following night an organ recital was given by Professor Percy M. Linebaugh of the Susquehanna Conservatory of Music.

Rev. Clair R. James is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tilden James, of Hanover. Before he accepted the call to the Milton congregation in April, 1930, he had met with success as pastor of the Reedsville Lutheran Church. Kenneth James of the class of '33, is his brother.

Alumna Will Complete Medical Course

Barbara Re Remer, '26, will complete her course in the Woman's Medical College of Philadelphia in June, the subject of her graduation thesis being "Mental Hygiene of Children." She has received an appointment to the Williamsport Hospital, the first time a woman has been appointed as intern in this hospital.

While at Susquehanna, Miss De Remer was the prime mover in securing student government for women. She was the first President of the Student Co-operative Council and also President of the Y. W. C. A., which became increasingly active during her administration. Before coming to Susquehanna she served several years as a nurse in the Kugler Hospital for Women and Children at Guntur, India. It is her desire to return to the Foreign Field as a Medical Missionary.

Meeting of Harrisburg Branch

About fifty-five attended a meeting of the Susquehanna University Alumni of the Harrisburg branch, held at Craver's on April 27. The addresses of the evening were delivered by Rev. William Swope and Dr. John I. Woodruff. Other faculty members present were Dr. Dunkelberger, Dr. Fisher, Dr. Ahl, Dr. Surface, Dr. Williams, Dr. Overbo and Prof. Grossman.

Re-election of officers was held. The following were chosen: President, Mr. Miles C. Hummer, '23; Vice President, Oden C. Gortner, '21-12; Secretary, Mr. Frank R. Keilin, '25; Treasurer, Harold Fisher, '20. The executive committee is composed of G. Herman Goetz, '23, and H. Winney Graybill, '22-30.

Graduate Given Ovation

At a congregational meeting of College Church in Gettysburg, a splendid ovation was held in honor of Dr. M. Hadwin Fischer, professor in Gettysburg Theological Seminary and a member of the class of '02-'05. Dr. Fischer was chairman of the building committee of this church and has been active in helping it.

Extensive alterations were begun on this church last August and just recently finished.

Announcement of Meeting
Mt. Carmel District Alumni Club will meet on May 5, at the Hotel Leeper, Ashland, at 7 o'clock. Dr. George Fisher will attend as the guest speaker.

Among Our Alumni

Rev. Charles W. Baker, ex-'79, of Gettysburg, is now living retired. Rev. Baker was graduated from the Gettysburg Seminary in '35.

Prof. John S. Bangson, '13-'17, is the professor of biology at Berea College, Berea, Ky.

J. W. Seip, '11, is a physician and surgeon in Erie, Pa.

Rev. Russell P. Auman, '20, '23, '29, is minister of the Redeemer Lutheran Church at Scarsdale, N. Y. He is a graduate student of the Biblical Seminary in New York City. Mrs. Auman was formerly Miss Lillian Renick, '23.

Harvey Erb, '24, is a minister in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Mr. George Bachman, '28, is teaching in Forty Fort, Pa.

Clarence Eichman, '28, is assistant principal of the high school in Millington, Pa.

SORORITY NOTES

Surprise Bridge Party Given

Wednesday night, April 29, Miss Beatrice Shively was given a surprise birthday party by her parents, to which the active members of Sigma Alpha Iota were invited. A novel idea was that of testing one's luck for surprise favors from an impromptu fish pond. The gifts were very unusual and amusing and furnished a great deal of fun while they were being opened. The remainder of the evening was spent in playing bridge and the prizes were won by Anna Dunkelberger, Margaret Markle, and Josephine Long. At a late hour a very delicious lunch was served and the guests departed wishing Beatrice many more happy birthdays.

MacDowell Silver Tea

The members of Sigma Omega chapter of Sigma Alpha Iota are sponsoring a MacDowell silver tea to be held in Seibert Hall parlors, Thursday afternoon, May 14, from 3 to 5 o'clock.

This tea is for the benefit of the Sigma Alpha Iota cottage at the MacDowell Colony, Peterborough, New Hampshire. The MacDowell Colony is a retreat for artists during the summer months, where they may go to rest from their winter's program and have a change of atmosphere and living.

This is the first time a tea of this sort has ever been attempted at Susquehanna and Sigma Omega cordially invites all students, faculty members and friends to attend, and aid the fraternity in making this a successful event.

Miss Mary Gaugler, an alumna of Omega Delta Sigma, visited at Seibert Hall Saturday afternoon.

Miss Wilma Walker came to see "Clarence" Friday night. Her arrival nearly held up the show. Wilma is a Kappa Delta Phi alumna.

Seibert Hall Echoes

Did you hear about the girl who went to Steele and when they saw her coming they locked the door?

Our Marie Dressler is lonesome with our Polly Moran away. Who do we mean? Estelle and Barbara.

Thursday found a group of our co-ed engaging in the new queer tactics; they wouldn't say a word either. Pledges, initiation time is here.

Berylle Wyman had her tonsils removed Saturday morning at Dr. Decker's private hospital. Berylle is coming around very nicely and will return to Seibert Hall after a few days of rest with Mrs. Rodgers.

Miss Florine Rhoads of Shamokin was a week-end guest of Helen Culp.

Who said that the co-eds were suffering from the heat? Several of them climbed Shikellany Saturday, were caught in the rain and had a general good time.

Quite a few of the girls attended dances at other colleges this week-end. Enza Wilson and Helen Culp went to the Inter-Fraternity Ball at Bucknell. Ruth Bergstresser was at Gettysburg and Corinda Sell went to a week-end party at Beckley.

TENNIS TEAM WILL MEET JUNIATA TOMORROW

The tennis team will accompany the baseball men to Bucknell tomorrow and attempt to keep a clean slate on for its court record.

The meet with Franklin and Marshall last Saturday was postponed because of wet grounds. Manager Leshner states that it is doubtful whether or not the match will be replayed.

English Class Holds Farce Trial in Lawyer's Office

Who is guilty? What connections did you have with the murdered man? What were your personal feelings toward the financial condition of the victim? Questions such as these were the problems that faced the suspects in a murder investigation held last Tuesday evening at Lawyer Sommer's Office.

Professor Hartung was the person in charge while the suspects were members of the class in Rhetoric. A murder plot was very ingeniously worked out by Professor Hartung in which every member of the class was implicated. Certain conditions pointed to the clues which cast each one under suspicion. The requirements of the trial demanded that each person implicated was to give his story with emphasis on the points which would turn suspicion from himself upon some other suspect.

The plan was very successful, in so much that a number of very good stories were given and quite a number of the individuals very readily answered all the cross questions without hesitation.

After each individual had given his story the following persons conducted the cross-questioning:

1. District Attorney—Quinto Gionta.
2. Detective on the Homicide Squad—Penn Dively.
3. Mrs. Borden's Private Investigator—Charles Keller.
4. Local Sheriff—George Wentzel.

After the cross-questioning, the four investigators decided who the slayer was and their decision was that Mr. Joseph Kapic, as the butler of the slain man, was guilty. The entire group then decided who had the best story and this time Miss Winifred Matter, impersonating a professional blackmailer, received the decision. The sentence was then served by Professor Hartung. The sentence was not "Death on the chair," or "Hang by your neck," but just four little words, "Better luck next time."

During the cross questioning some very interesting answers were given. For instance:

Questioner—"What were your personal feelings toward your husband?"

Questioned—"Isn't that a rather personal subject?"

Questioner—"Yes, but isn't death a rather personal matter?"

Questioner—"At what time did you have your first dream?"

Questioned—"I am sorry but I do not dream according to time."

When the last of the criminal matters were cleared up, a lunch was served which removed the last bit of hatred towards the questioners. Professor Hartung as host presented the two winners with prizes—the murderer received a toy gun, while the best liar received a volume that contains facts and questions.

Frosh Lead Inter-Class Baseball

By winning 3 out of 4 games, the Frosh broke the tie with the Sophomores and took the lead in the Inter-Class Baseball League. The Seniors are trailing close behind with 2 wins out of 3 games played.

On Monday the Frosh defeated the Sophomores 13-0, with sixteen hits to 1 hit of the Sophs. Tuesday found the Seniors winning over the Juniors by the score of 18-2, with 3 hits for the Juniors and 8 hits for the Seniors. The Seniors again won on Wednesday, when they gave the Frosh their first setback by a score of 6-4, each team having 8 hits. The Sophomores sank an other rung lower in the ladder on Thursday when they lost to the Juniors 10-8. On Friday the Frosh used the Juniors as a stepping-stone to win the high berth, when the Frosh collected 8 hits to 2 hits for the Juniors, and won 10-1. This was the play-off of the postponed game of April 22. It looks as though there are many surprises in store for us before the end of the season.

Standing of the teams:
Frosh 75c
Seniors 66c
Sophomores 33c
Juniors 25c

Games this week:
Tuesday, Sophs vs. Seniors.
Wednesday, Frosh vs. Sophs.
Thursday, Juniors vs. Seniors.
Friday, Sophs vs. Seniors.
Monday, Frosh vs. Seniors.

ORGANIST PLAYS AT MILTON

Professor Percy M. Linebaugh gave a dedicatory recital on the new organ at Christ Lutheran Church, Milton, Pennsylvania, Wednesday, April 29. He was assisted by Professor Frederick C. Stevens of the Conservatory faculty. Reverend Clair James, an alumnus of Susquehanna University, is the pastor.

PLEDGES ENTERTAIN BOND AND KEY CLUB

What might have been taken for a student demonstration by wondering bystanders on the streets of Selinsgrove last Tuesday evening proved to be part of a Bond and Key party conducted by pledges of the fraternity. The boys attended the local theatre "en masse" to see Constance Bennett's idea of "The Fastest Way" and then tramped back to the house for refreshments and a general get-together. Willie Herman managed to arrive in time after strolling the campus walks in a hurried interval of bliss, and Deacon Edwards was rescued forcibly from the lures of the co-eds in Kauffman's, but otherwise everything went smoothly and the entertainment was voted a success.

BASEBALL TEAM WILL PLAY TWO GAMES THIS WEEK

This week will be a busy one for Susquehanna's diamond stars, as the Ollerymen have two games in which to make up for the ground lost last Wednesday.

Tomorrow, the nine will travel to Juniata and attempt to wipe out the defeat handed to it last year. Juniata has been very strong in baseball during recent years, and will probably offer considerable opposition.

Saturday, Bucknell will come down to University Field for her return game, and the fans are expecting to see a battle. The Crusaders are determined to wipe out the memory of that too recent defeat at Lewisburg when the Bisons scored six runs in the eighth inning to win. Moreover, Bucknell may have a score to even also, for the decisive beating administered her on the track last week at the hands of the Orange.

Bound assignments are not known, but Brininger and Al Meyer will probably be called upon during the week.

FRESHMEN CRUSH H. S. TRACKMEN

By taking six first places out of ten events, the Frosh Track Team defeated the Selinsgrove High School Team last Monday on the University Field.

The Susquehanna men who took first place were Klausner in the 100 yard dash, Muir in the 220 yard dash and the pole vault, Bottzger in the half mile, and Oberdorf in the high jump and discus.

The Freshmen are having a good season, losing only to the Bucknell Frosh. They are good material for the varsity next year and some of them are right in the race with the varsity at the present time. You will hear more from this group of trackmen.

S. U. HOST TO SNYDER COUNTY TRACK MEET

After being defeated for four consecutive years, Middleburg High School, under the tutelage of Al Snyder, former Susquehanna University star, captured the Snyder County Interscholastics held on the local athletic field by piling up 51½ points to Selinsgrove's 32½. The others competing schools scored as follows: Beaver Vocational 10, McClure 3, Freeburg 1.

Y. W. C. A. PLANS FOR NEXT YEAR

Sunday morning the new Y. W. C. A. cabinet met to form plans for the year. The excellent breakfast served in the social room by Flora Elmer inspired the girls to plan big things.

Their program for next year will include meetings every Thursday evening in charge of different girls and it is planned that once a month an outside speaker will be brought in to speak to the girls and advise them in their problems. A tea shop will be held in the social room after each star course number, and special programs will be held for each holiday.

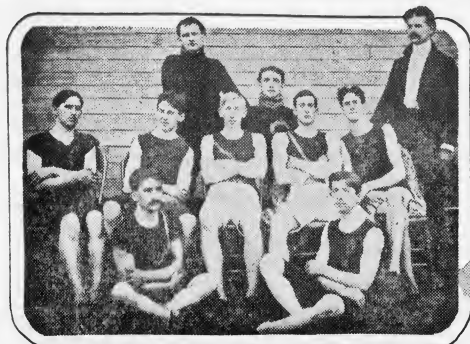

One of the topics for discussion which has not as yet been passed upon was the advisability of holding a student Sunday School on the campus every Sunday morning. It was pointed out that only about six girls attend the Sunday School down town and as many boys while there are a host of others who would probably attend if it were held on the campus.

The girls plan to do some real charity work next year and investigations are to be made to learn just where this charity is needed most.

Representatives are to be sent to the Young People's Missionary Banquet at Sunbury on Friday evening.

S. U. GRAD INJURED

Miss Margaret Elizabeth Keiser, a graduate of Susquehanna University, '26, who sang solo parts in the commencement choir one year ago, is now convalescing at her home, Drexel Hill, Pennsylvania, after receiving injuries due to a fall.

S. U. to Celebrate Track Anniversary

C. P. C. T. C. to Mark 30th Year of Track Activity on Campus. All of First Team Still Living

Staging of the Eleventh annual Central Pennsylvania Collegiate Track Conference Meet at Susquehanna University on May 16th will very fittingly commemorate the inauguration of track at Susquehanna thirty years ago.

Under the leadership of "Eph" Gearhart, Susquehanna's first track captain, these early Crusaders engaged in their initial meet. Nine men constituted the team, which was coached by M. Hadwin Fischer, their student director of Physical Education at Susquehanna.

Ten Pennsylvania Colleges hold membership in the conference—Albright, Bucknell, Dickinson, Drexel, Franklin & Marshall, Gettysburg, Juniata, Muhlenberg, Susquehanna and Ursinus.

When the track and field athletes, representing these colleges, assemble at Susquehanna on May 16th they will constitute the largest and most highly specialized group of track athletes that will gather in Central Pennsylvania during the year.

Increased interest in track as a school and college sport; improved track facilities at the colleges comprising the conference and the careful grouping of member colleges in the A and B divisions, thereby fostering more even competition, contribute in making this annual meet one of the most interesting and important track meets staged in the Middle Atlantic States district.

All Members of First Team Living
Altho scattered from the Atlantic to the Pacific all members of Susquehanna's first track team are still living and actively engaged in their various professions.

Six members of the team entered the ministry. M. Hadwin Fischer is a member of the faculty of Gettysburg Theological Seminary. F. W. Barry is a Lutheran pastor located at Highspire, Pa. M. K. W. Heicher is a member of the faculty of San Francisco Theological Seminary at San Anselmo, California; W. L. Price Lutheran pastor located at York, Pa.; Walter Wolgemuth is in the ministry at Oxford Junction, Iowa, and Captain "Eph" Gearhart is a prominent minister in Erie, Pa., where he is pastor of the Luther Memorial Church. Harry M. Gemberling resides at Truxa, N. D.; F. E. Shambaugh is a teacher in Lykens, Pa.; J. E. Auchmuty is a successful physician at Tamaqua and S. B. Burkhardt is engaged in the office furniture business in Pittsburgh.

See the track meet here Saturday.

Susquehanna Net Men Tie Elizabethtown

Led by Kaylor and Crouthamel, Elizabethtown presented a stubborn tennis outfit Friday afternoon, and succeeded in holding Susquehanna to a 3-3 tie. The Orange and Maroon courtmen were on the defensive more than once, endeavoring to prevent a defeat being chalked up for the opening match.

Jack Petry finally won over Lauer after the second set went into extra games, 6-4, 7-5. Bill Welky came through in the singles to defeat Rank, 6-4, 6-3. This pair also accounted for Susquehanna's third point by defeating the same two men in the doubles match, 6-4, 6-4.

Captain Reed Speer found a very brilliant and clever player in Kaylor, Elizabethtown's number one man, who was responsible for holding the score to a tie. Rummel likewise bowed to Crouthamel, of basketball fame.

The summaries:

Singles: Speer, Susquehanna, lost to Kaylor, Elizabethtown, 0-6, 3-6; Rummel, Susquehanna, lost to Crouthamel, Elizabethtown, 1-6, 3-6; Petry, Susquehanna, defeated Lauer, Elizabethtown, 6-4, 7-5; Welky, Susquehanna, defeated Rank, Elizabethtown, 6-4, 6-3.

Doubles: Speer and Rummel lost to Kaylor and Crouthamel, 4-6, 2-6; Petry and Welky defeated Rank and Lauer, 6-4, 6-4.

INTERPRETER HAS DIFFICULTIES
"Canote undostan" was the verdict of Eugene, interpreter extraordinary, as he brought to a close the comedy sketch "L'anglais tel Qu'on le Parle" ("Such English as they Speak"), presented by the French Club last evening.

You see, Eugene (played by Freddy Carl) took the position of interpreter in a French hotel, but French was all he could speak. Consequently, when John Meyers arrived as the irate Englishman, Mr. Hogson, following his daughter Betty who was eloping with Julien Cicandel, he placed the interpreter in an embarrassing position.

The ensuing complications were very amusing, and brought many laughs from the club members until Julien, who could speak both English and French, finally straightened things out and was forgiven by Betty's father.

The cast was as follows:

Eugene (the interpreter) ... Fred Carl
La Calisiere (clerk) ... Grace Minnie Betty Hogson ... Margaret Pink
Mr. Hogson ... John Meyers
Julien Cicandel ... Jay Worthington
Police Inspector ... Donald Steele
Garcon ... Benton Anderson
The play was sponsored by Miss Evelyn Allison, director of the club.

Ladies' Auxiliary Holds Monthly Meeting Sat. "Cranford" Postponed

The Ladies' Auxiliary held their monthly meeting at Seibert Hall Saturday afternoon.

A musical program in charge of Mrs. S. M. Smith was given in the chapel. All of the numbers were contributed by conservatory students. Isabel Horn and Josephine Pifer sang, "I Waited on the Lord," accompanied by Isabel Wagner. Raymond Minnich played a violin solo accompanied by Walter Stranquist. Isabel Wagner played, "Bird in the Wilderness" as a piano solo.

After the program in the chapel tea was served in the social room with Mrs. Margaret Wingard in charge. Mrs. Sadler of Selinsgrove and Mrs. Rockwell of Sunbury poured.

At this meeting it was decided that the presentation of "Cranford" would be postponed until fall, because of sickness among members of the cast.

These women are known for the splendid work they have been doing for Susquehanna. Their objective now is to establish a scholarship for a girl.

Lechrone Brothers Coach at Delaware Schools

The track team of DuPont High School, coached by Ellis K. Lechrone, a Susquehanna Grad, was the only one in the State of Delaware to place in the thirty-seventh annual University of Pennsylvania relay carnival at Franklin Field, May 24th and 25th.

The DuPont relay team took first place in their class. Ellis K. Lechrone, '21, has been coach of the Delaware High School athletics for the past two years. Last season his football team lost one out of their ten scheduled games. While at Susquehanna he was a letter-man on the varsity football team.

Arthur Lechrone, '30, brother of Ellis, is filling the position of assistant coach at Wilmington High School.

Both brothers were very active while on Susquehanna's campus and are to be congratulated upon their splendid work. Ellis and Arthur Lechrone are members of the Phi Mu Delta Fraternity.

TO GIVE SENIOR RECITAL

Miss Dorothy F. Leisher, a student in the Conservatory of Music, will give a Senior Recital, Monday, May 11, at 8:15 P. M. in Seibert Chapel. She will be accompanied by Miss Margaret Markle. Those assisting on the program are Miss Virginia Moody, pianist, and Mr. B. Ray Minnich, violinist, both of these students being in the class of '32.

TRACK SQUAD WILL TRAVEL TO DELAWARE FOR MEET THIS SATURDAY

Prof. Grossman's track charges will try for another victory this Saturday when the team travels to Delaware. Last year the Crusaders were victorious in this meet by a small margin, but this year they will face a much stronger team.

Lightning Harry White will cause a lot of trouble in the sprints and broad jump, both Susquehanna specialties, but it is expected that the Orange and Maroon will come through in the longer runs. In any event, the meet will be a fight to the finish.

PRESIDENT ENTERTAINS

Twenty university boys were the special guests of the President, Dr. G. Morris Smith and his wife at their home Thursday evening, April 30. Buddy's many games were enjoyed even by the college students, and the warm hospitality of both Dr. and Mrs. Smith gave the evening the distinction of being a most delightful one.

JUNIORS IN RECITAL

A very interesting and inspiring program was given Monday evening, April 27, in Seibert Chapel by the Juniors of the Conservatory of Music in the annual Junior Recital. Those persons majoring in piano, voice, or violin, took part. These students began their preparation for this recital months ago, and those who attended know that all this preparation was not in vain, for each instrumental number was played and each vocal solo was sung well.

Throughout the entire period of enjoyment and entertainment, the stage department, an outgrowth of the class recitals, was exceptionally good. We are also very proud of the fact that we have so much talent along the musical line among the students on our campus.

The members of the Junior Class are the Misses Kathryn Bittner, Anna Dunkelberger, Arline Kanpuck, Anna Leinbach, Mildred Lyon, Margaret Markle, Virginia Moody, Dorothy Puckey, Isabelle Wagner, and Beryl Wymann, Messrs. Ray Minnich, and Walter Strandquist. Those not appearing on the program are students of Public School Music.

It was in the seventh inning that the local batters began to find Trudnaek. Stroup walked and scored when Rubis lasky punched out a two base hit. Rubis was hit by Trudnaek and Speiglemeyer walked to fill the bases. Ross, the Bucknell short stop, fumbled Keller's ground ball and two runs crossed the plate.

In the following inning Susquehanna battered Trudnaek unmercifully to score three more runs and take the lead. Herman, Stroup, Malasky, Rubis, and Speiglemeyer all came through with nice hits.

Bucknell drew into a safe lead during the latter part of the inning, with two hits, two walks, and poor playing on the part of the Orange and Maroon, six runs crossed the plate.

NATIONAL PRESIDENT VISITS LOCAL CHAPTER

the chapter that evening Saturday afternoon Miss Ritchey spent in private interviews with each active member. Miss Evans arrived Saturday afternoon and also spoke to the girls when Miss Ritchey did. In the evening dinner was served at the Hotel Seibert in honor of Miss Ritchey and Miss Evans. The others present were the members of the fraternity and two alumna, Miss Mary Pottelaiser and Miss Freda Dreese. Following the dinner a regular business meeting was held in the sorority room at which both Miss Ritchey and Miss Evans spoke. Both talks were very inspiring and put new vigor and interest in the minds of everyone. The new officers were also installed at this meeting. Later, an initiation service was conducted by Miss Ritchey for the purpose of initiating Mary Pottelaiser and Freda Dreese into second degree membership. The only ones present at this service were Miss Ritchey, Miss Evans and the two initiates.

Sunday afternoon at one o'clock a short musical program was given in honor of the two guests. The audience included Miss Hade, Miss Strother, and the Sigma Alpha Iota girls. Those who took part in the program were Isabelle Wagner, Anna Leinbach, Mildred Lyon, Dorothy Leisher, and Margaret Markle. Sigma Omega was very happy to have been honored with two such distinguished guests and hopes to be able to live up to the ideals and aims of the fraternity with renewed success in the future.

The decision for the debate, which was broadcast between eight and eighty-five in the evening, will be announced in "The Susquehanna" next week. It is hoped, if a fairly representative poll of opinions can be secured by that time. All who listened in on the debate are urged to mail their votes at once to Station W.H.P. Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, which will act as teller and announce the decision. Do this at once if you desire to aid your team to victory.

about the identity of Clarence provided ample interest and opportunities for humor throughout the play. The audience was especially amused by his remark that he could drive a mule without swearing, and by the argument as to whether his name was Smun or Moon. Finally, the revelation that he was Mr. Smith, an expert on the subject of bugs, explained his many eccentricities and was in harmony with the general atmosphere throughout the production.

Humor was even provided between the acts. At the time when Miss Williamson was presented with a bouquet of flowers Danny Graham received one of onions, much to the glee of the male element in the audience.

The cast, in order of appearance, was as follows:

Mrs. Martyn Harriet Leese

Mr. Wheeler Herbert Rummell

Mrs. Wheeler Mary Weaverling

Bobby Wheeler Daniel Graham

Cora Wheeler Edna Williamson

Violet Pinney Signe Alford

Clarence Russell Yoas

Della Harriet Miller

Dimwiddle Ira Sassaman

Forensic Activities Flourish at S. U.

Foulkrod, Seiber, Fisher, All Seniors,
Standbys in Debate Through Entire College Career

Debating at Susquehanna during the past four years has leaped into prominence with startling rapidity, and, from all indications, her high position in the world of intercollegiate debating will not be lowered any during the coming four years, for the Freshman Class of '34 has proved itself a fertile breeding place of debaters that will advance the school to even higher honors in the forthcoming seasons.

But the purpose of this article is not to pay tribute to our new men, or to set forth paragraph after paragraph of optimistic forecasts of our future in that art. Rather, it is to review just what has clicked here at Susquehanna during those four years, and to laud those Senior members of the debating squads this year, who have been largely responsible for the sensational success of our teams during their college careers just coming to a magnificent close. The gentlemen in question are Mr. Walter Foulkrod, Mr. Wilson Seiber and Mr. Lawrence Fisher.

When these three young men arrived at Susquehanna in the fall of 1927 they found that intercollegiate debating was still in an embryonic stage. Only four years had passed since debates with other schools had first been arranged and progress had been, of necessity, very slow.

Foulkrod was the only member of the trio to make the grade in his initial year at Susquehanna, securing a berth easily and aiding greatly in the securing of victories over Albright and Elizabethtown in dual meets. Franklin and Marshall was met in a no-decision debate. That Seiber and Fisher did not succeed in their Freshman year is not to be wondered at, however, for almost the entire squad of the previous season was back and chances for Fresh aspirants were very low.

Untiring work on the part of the versatile Foulkrod was rewarded with a splendid schedule in the season of 1928-1929. Nineteen intercollegiate debates were scheduled and the Orange and Maroon emerged victorious in fifteen of them. Three were lost, and one was a no-decision. Among the colleges to feel the sting of defeat that year at the hands of Susquehanna were Princeton (a decisive decision at Princeton), Temple University (3-0), Albright (Aff. 3-0, Neg. 2-1), F. & M. (Aff. 3-0), Elizabethtown (Neg. 3-0, Aff. 3-0), Waynesburg (Neg. 3-0), Geneva (Neg. 3-0, Aff. 2-1), and Capital University (Neg. 3-0).

Chiefly on the strength of that splendid record Susquehanna was given a chapter of the National Forensic Fraternity, Tau Kappa Alpha.

Last year found the trio all members of the varsity teams, and again they came through with a fine record, de-

J. W. Keller Speaks for Pi Gamma Mu

Expert of Forestry Gives Interesting Talk to Fair Sized Audience on "Conservation of Forests"

On Tuesday evening a fair sized audience greeted John W. Keller in his lecture concerning the forests in our own state. Mr. Keller is Secretary of the Department of Forests and Waters of Pennsylvania and his treatment of this most vital topic was exceptional. During his talk which dealt definitely with the conservation of timber, some very interesting facts were disclosed. He stated that every edition of "The New York Times," one of the largest dailies in the world, used 80 acres of timber to provide the paper. Not only this, but it requires only two hours time for the entire process. In two hours and five minutes from the time that the timber is cut we get the fully printed edition from the newsboy. This sounds almost incredible, but today with the industrial conditions as they are almost anything is possible. He definitely pointed out that the placing of large forest tracts on the hillside is the only safe way to correct our water problem. His discussion was of particular interest because he has given his entire life to the study of forests and water projects.

Mr. Keller was brought here under the auspices of the Pi Gamma Mu, "Honorary Social Science Society." It may be of interest to know that the speaker at one time was a student at our University. The faculty members, as well as the members of Pi Gamma Mu and the students present all agree that the speech was timely and the topic of vital importance.

Rev. Park W. Huntington Elected to

Rev. Park W. Huntington, pastor of St. Stephen's Lutheran Church at Wilmington, Delaware, was elected as a member of the executive staff of the Chaplain's Association of the Army of the United States, at the sixth annual convention of that body, which was held in Washington, D. C., several weeks ago.

Rev. Huntington received his Bachelor of Arts degree from Susquehanna in '17 and graduated from the Theological Seminary in '21.

At the afternoon session of the association, he was selected by the chief of chaplains, Colonel J. E. Yates, to preside and had the honor of presenting Major General William G. Everest, a Baptist minister and chief of the Militia Bureau, as the principal

Abrupt End is Fate of Amateur Canoers

S. O. S. Call Is Received to Send Clothes to Stranded Boys. All Suffering from Sunburn

Several boys at the Bond and Key Club received an S. O. S. call the other afternoon from Reed Speer, Howdy Lukehart and Bill Stahlman. Having attempted a canoe trip into the rough waters of the Susquehanna River they had some hard luck and had to call for assistance.

These three, piloting Stahlman's canoe, were on their way to the State Capitol when their fragile craft was torn up on some rocky section about thirty miles from Selinsgrove. Everything was lost, including their clothing and the gun with which they intended to shoot the rapids. Investigations prove that their attempt to pass some extremely rough section was their downfall.

The boys are suffering no pains except that of severe exposure to the sun. The Sunday morning trip would have been entirely successful if they would have carried their canoe around these riffles. Rocks, jutting up at this unfrequented place, made it necessary for them to use the telephone in getting connections with friends at the school.

Several boys from the club took their dry clothing and met them along the road. The boys have returned safe and sound but their sad fate still stands as a reminder that the canoeing sport on the shallow Susquehanna should be accompanied by a fleet of cars to protect the participants from walking home.

This river disaster coming at this early stage of these men's lives perhaps will ruin their entire career as sailors, but it is hoped that they will continue their brave attempts to conquer the treacherous navigation of the river. Canoes, clothing, bathing suits, and because this extra weight made it necessary for them to abandon their canoe following the disaster.

JUNIOR PROM NOTICE

Tickets for the Junior Promenade, which is scheduled for the evening of May 16, are now on sale. The price is only $2.50. The favors are unique and useful, to say nothing of the decorations which will be the best ever. "Joe Vanucci" and his popular band from Williamsport will supply the rhythm and how they do it is one thing you can't miss.

Preparations for the event are in the capable hands of Misses Anna Dunkelberger, Enza Wilson, and Harriet Leese and Messrs. Robert Hartman, chairman, Jared Hayes, and Forest Metzger.

We aren't trying to persuade any one, but if you miss the Junior Prom this year you'll wish you hadn't.

Orchestra Presents Concert Tomorrow

Group to be Assisted by Miss Lois
Brungart and Prof. F. C. Stevens.
Prof. W. D. Hemphill in Charge

The annual concert of the Susquehanna University Orchestra, under the able direction of Professor W. Donald Hemphill, will be given Wednesday evening, May 13, at 8:15 p. m. in Seibert Chapel. Professor Frederick C. Stevens, tenor, and Miss Lois Brungart, cellist, will assist on the program.

We all know the successful appearances which this musical organization has made since it has played a number of times on some of our evening recital programs. Much work has been done by its members to make this concert a success, and from the favorable reports, we can be assured of a varied program which will be interesting, educational, and enjoyable.

There has been much new material introduced in the orchestra this year which ought to insure a more excellent and able organization for the remainder of this term, and for the next year.

STUDENT COUNCIL PRESENTS BIBLE

A new Bible for use in the Chapel exercises was presented to President Smith by Mr. Wilbur Berger on behalf of the Student Council last Wednesday morning in the Seibert Hall Chapel. President Smith thanked the council warmly for this thoughtful and appropriate gift.

Deleware Trackmen Put Skids on S. U.

Orange and Maroon Bows to Superior
Outfit as Opponents Take Twelve
Firsts; Knepp Wins Two-Mile

Winning only two first places in fourteen events, the Susquehanna track team experienced a bad afternoon as the University of Delaware administered an 83-34 beating in a dual meet on Frazer Field, Saturday afternoon.

It was clearly an off day for the Crusaders. Not only were they completely outclassed in some events, but in the others they lost first place by inches or simply could not hit their stride. Swann and Meyers lost in the high hurdles and 220-yard dash respectively by approximately a hair's breadth.

Merle Knepp was the one ray of light in the gloom of the Crusaders' camp. This hard working Senior came through with flying colors to register the first Orange and Maroon victory by romping away with the two-mile run in the comparatively fast time of 10:57, followed closely by his team-

Ten Schools to Vie for Annual Honors

Orange and Maroon Squad Will Defend
Co-Title on Saturday, May 16. S.
U. to be Host to 220 Athletes

Next Saturday will mark a red letter day in the history of sports for Susquehanna University. At that time the annual Central Pennsylvania Collegiate Track Conference Meet will take place on our own athletic field.

Ten colleges and universities of Pennsylvania will compete for the eleventh time for honors in track and field. In all, over two hundred athletes will be wearing the colors of their respective schools. Some of the best college track talent will be seen in action.

The ten colleges taking part in the meet will be divided into two classes according to the size of the school. These colleges represented in class "A" are Bucknell, Franklin and Marshall, Muhlenberg, Dickinson, and Gettysburg. Those in class "B" are Susquehanna, Albright, Juniata, Ursinus, and Drexel.

The meet will be especially interesting to the Orange and Maroon followers as Susquehanna will be defending the title which it tied Drexel for last year. Coach Grossman again has built up a strong track team this season, but the Crusaders will have as hard if not a harder fight to gain the title which it gained last season. Drexel will have a powerful outfit while Juniata promises to be especially threatening if its exhibition at the Penn Relays can be taken as an indication.

One of the outstanding features of the meet will undoubtedly be the running of Majerick of Muhlenberg. Last year at the conference meet he performed the unusual feat of running the 100 yard dash in 9.4 seconds to establish a new record. This year at the Penn Relays he captured the prize for displaying the best form in the century run.

Two other record holders will be here to defend their titles. They are Horst of Franklin and Marshall, who holds the best mark in the javelin throw in class "A" and Fetter of Juniata, who holds the same in class "B." Susquehanna boasts of only one record holder and that is Gearhart, who made a new mark in the high jump last year.

Some new records will probably be made on Saturday. The following of the class "A" colleges now hold the records: 100-yard dash, Majerick, Muhlenberg, 9.4 seconds in 1930; 220-yard dash, Groff, Bucknell, 22.1 seconds in 1928; 440-yard dash, Robinson, Muhlenberg, 51.3 seconds in 1924; 880-yard run, Taylor, Dickinson, 2:02.5 seconds in 1928; Mile run, Farrow, Bucknell, 4:32.9-10 in 1929; 2 mile run, Bayley, Dickinson, 10:3 in 1926; 120-yard high hurdles, Stumpf, Gettysburg, 15.3 seconds in 1927; 220-yard low hurdles, Hoke, Gettysburg, 25 seconds, in 1930; Pole Vault, Haslam, Bucknell, 11 feet, 11 3/4 inches in 1922; High Jump, Mackie, Bucknell, 5 feet, 9-8 inches in 1930; Broad Jump, Jones, Gettysburg, 22 feet, 10-14 inches in 1926; Shot Put, Diehl, Bucknell, 43 feet, 5.1-4 inches in 1926; Discus, Harter, Dickinson, 125 feet, 4.1-2 inches in 1924; Javelin, Horst, F. and M., 175 feet, 4 inches in 1930.

The following are the present Class "B" records: 100-yard dash, Woolforth, Albright, 10.1-5 seconds in 1928; 220-yard dash, Richards, Albright, 22 seconds, in 1928; 440-yard dash, Grant, Albright, 50.1-5 seconds in 1929; 880-yard run, Letter, Juniata, 2:04.3-4 in 1926; Mile run, Conover, Ursinus, 4:45.7-10 seconds; 2 mile run, Snider, Juniata, 10:29, in 1926; 120-yard high hurdles, Groff, Juniata, 16 seconds, in 1926; 220-yard low hurdles, Pentz, Juniata, 26.2-5 seconds, in 1926; Broad Jump, Greig, Drexel, 21 feet, 5.1-2 inches in 1928; High Jump, Gearhart, Susquehanna, 5 feet, 10-14 inches in 1930; Pole Vault, Gavin, Ursinus, 11 feet, 7.5-8 inches; Shot Put, Fetter, Juniata, 42 feet, 4.3-8 inches; Discus, McBeth, Ursinus, 128 feet, 7 inches, in 1929; Javelin, Fetter, Juniata, 177 feet, 7.1-4 inches in 1930.

Officials of the University of Washington have found that bright students marry other bright students, and the stupid ones wed those in the same category.

Y. M. C. A. DRIVE

This week will bring to a climax the drive for funds which the Y. M. C. A. has planned, in order that it may complete its several unfinished projects. It is the first time for many years that this organization has been compelled to ask the entire student body and faculty for financial aid. If we examine last years program of the "Y" we see that it has undertaken a number of new things. The establishment of a "Susquehanna in India" deserves our commendation and cooperation. Much good, both on the campus and in the foreign field has come from its efforts. Certainly it should be the privilege of every high-minded young man and young woman to do his or her share in making this small financial drive a success.

THE LAST LAP

The campus is indeed in a hustle with preparations of various kinds—"the Prom," parties, concerts, dances, recitals, "frat" initiations, and what not! Perhaps some do not realize that only slightly over two weeks remain before the faculty plays its trump card—final examinations.

Although we hate to think of such an uninteresting and unpleasant picture, it might be well for us to do so at this time. There still is time for students to catch up in a little back work and to exert some extra effort in pulling up a course or courses which may not be up to par.

The last publication of the "Six Weeks' List" is an indication that some should take the warning and lend themselves to a little more mental exertion. Such advice and talk about getting to work seems foolish in the editorial column—but despite risking such a fate as a flunk, these facts are ignored. It isn't always the getaway but the finish that wins a race.

ALUMNI NOTES

MT. CARMEL ALUMNI ELECTED OFFICERS

The second annual meeting of the Mt. Carmel District Susquehanna Alumni Club was held at Hotel Cooper, Ashland, Pennsylvania, on Tuesday, May 5. Twenty four members and six guests were present. The speaker of the evening was Dr. George Fisher of the University faculty, who used "Susquehanna is on the March," as his theme.

The organization decided to hold the 1932 meeting at Shamokin, Pa.

An attempt is being made to have issued quarterly an alumni bulletin of the district. Marion Pounder, '27, was appointed editor.

The following officers were elected: President, Rev. A. C. Harris, Gordon, Pa.

Treasurer, Charles Deit, '27, Mt. Carmel, Pa.

Committee on Education, A. H. Braham, '24, Shamokin, Pa.; Marion Pounder, '27, Shamokin, Pa.; Theodore, '27, Shamokin, Pa.

Proposed extension was made to increase the number of the Alumni Club meeting at Selinsgrove University at June 10.

Rev. David D. Dagle to Resume Work in Africa

Rev. David D. Dagle departed for New York, where he will sail for Africa to resume his work as a missionary, after spending an eight months furlough in Selinsgrove and vicinity.

Rev. Dagle first went to Africa in 1925, shortly after his graduation from the theological seminary at Susquehanna University. He spent two years in his field of labor before returning to the States. He then returned to hisregation in America called Trinity.

work for another two years period, but his work in Africa this time will be for three years.

Correction of Error

In "The Susquehanna" several weeks ago, it was stated that Andrew Beahm, '24, was pastor of a Mt. Carmel Church. This was a mistake. Mr. Beahm is now located at Trevorton. We are sorry this mistake has been made and are glad to have the opportunity of correcting it. We appreciate notice of any changes of address so that records may be kept accordingly.

Dr. S. E. Orhensford Speaks at Lutheran Meeting

Many local ministers attended the 75th semi-annual convention of the Danville Conference of the Evangelical Lutheran Ministerium of Pennsylvania and adjacent States, held at Washington, Monday and Tuesday of last week.

Dr. Walter C. Beck, pastor of the First Lutheran Church, preached the sermon at the communion service, held at the opening of the conference Monday. He also gave a report of Religious Observance at the Tuesday session.

Dr. S. P. Oelshlager, '70, retired minister of the Lutheran Church, and a former pastor of the First First Lutheran Church, read a paper on "The Organization of Our Young People's Work in the Congregation and in the Synod."

Rev. H. G. Spillie also attended the conference as well as Rev. H. A. F. Kopp of North Market street.

Rev. John Rine's Church of Historic Renown

Rev. John F. Rine, '30, formerly of Beaver Springs, is now pastor of the historic Emanuel's Evangelical Lutheran Church at Friesburg, N. J. This congregation has kept the faith continuously for about 225 years, the Lutheran preceding the Pilgrims, of Mayflower fame, by a year; and as early as 1649 this denomination had formed a congregation in America called Trinity.

he first ones came from Denmark, a flotilla of two vessels and 65 men. Every Sabbath day Rev. Rine preaches from the pulpit from which the celebrated divine, the Rev. Henry Muhlenberg, Sr., discoursed in 1759.

Wed Thirty Years

Dr. and Mrs. George R. Ulrich, of Jonkiewitz, were joined here on a recent visit in honor of their thirtieth wedding anniversary. They were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Myer, of Susquehanna Heights. Dr. Ulrich was graduated from Missionary Institute with the class of '86.

"Other Campuses"

Each day in college is worth $125 to a student, according to a survey issued at Willamette College, Oregon.

Any co-ed at Michigan who is found wearing a fraternity pin is liable to $50 fine or six days in jail.

Notre Dame has recently stiffened entrance requirements, refusing to admit any students who are in the lower third of their high school classes. The university has also established 77 as the lowest average with which a student can graduate.

Students of the University of Pittsburgh start growing goatees to distinguish themselves from the professors.

One thousand one hundred and forty couples attended the Marquette University Junior Prom. The reason? Coon-Sanders Nighthawks.

Students of Emory College consume approximately bottles of Coca Cola each day, according to the paper of that college. It is estimated that if the liquid were poured out on the campus, in ten years Emory would have a lake 200 feet long, 25 feet wide, and 25 feet deep, and if the total number of Coca Colas consumed annually were placed end to end, in bottles, they would extend for a distance of 46 miles.

Students at the University of Wisconsin are now required to carry identification cards around with them to show that they are privileged to attend classes. It was found that outsiders were attending classes and acquiring a free education.

SORORITY NOTES

S. S. D. Officers Elected

On Wednesday evening, May 6, Sigma Delta Sorority elected officers for the coming year. The result of the election is as follows:

President, Martha Gessner.
Vice President, Margaret Yagel.
Treasurer, Grace Minnig.
Corresponding Secretary, Margaret Pink.

Recording Secretary, Edna Olshefsky.
Alumnae Secretary, Freda Stephens.
The installation service will be held Wednesday, May 13.

Miss Mary Woodruff, daughter of Professor and Mrs. John I. Woodruff, was home for the week-end. She is doing graduate work at Cornell. Miss Woodruff is an alumna of Omega Delta Sigma and visited with the girls.

K. D. P. Honoraries Entertain

On Thursday, May 7 at 8 o'clock, the members of Kappa Delta Phi sorority were royally entertained at the home of Mrs. Frank Eyer. Upon their arrival, the girls were given attractive tidbits and escorted to bridge tables. Those who did not play bridge played anagrams and had equally as much enjoyment.

After cards a most delicious midnight supper was served. Each table was daintily set with different colored glassware and cut flowers.

Prizes were awarded to the following: Prizewinner—Leona H. Hitzig; second prize, Ruth Nelson; third prize—Ethel Miller; Anagrams—Lucille Lehman.

Mr. Eyer and Lois Brungart acted as chauffeurs.

TRINITY LUTHERAN CHURCH

Rev. Dallas C. Beyer, pastor—Sunday school 9:30 a. m. Morning worship 10:30 with a sermon by the pastor on "The Atonement Into Heaven."

The choir will sing "Gallia," by Gounod, in the afternoon at 3:30. Miss Mary Graham, of Northumberland, will assist the choir. Dr. Franklin P. Manhart, dean of the School of Theology, will deliver an address on "Music in Our Churches."

RECITAL

A Students' Evening Recital will be given Monday evening, May 18, at 8:15 p. m. in Seibert Chapel. The Sophomores of the Conservatory of Music will feature in this recital.

DOUBT IT OR NOT

Will U. Believeit

Have you ever heard the story of the bit league player who was sent to the state with orders from his manager to take three strikes; for particulars ask Sheffstahl?

Sals reports his observations on the Delaware trip, saying seven out of ten were auburns and the swimming was excellent.

There have been many ball games lost in the last inning and the fans who leave early sometimes are cheated by doing so. Leaving before the game is finished, at times, may also keep the ardent supporter from losing interest in the home team.

The little nursery rhyme about the Tucker youngster singing for his supper has come to pass, thanks to the stork of Snyder county and his recent visit to our campus. After all it is the little things in life that count and not Latin ponies after all.

Perhaps the majority of the student body saw Trader Horn, but not all were affected by the canoe ride depicted in this picture as Messrs. Stahlman, Lukehart and Speer, who immediately proceeded to paddle their bark down the dreamy Susquehanna to the capital city. What Will can't understand is why did Speer take Lukehart and Stahlman with him.

When the boys start to croon in the evenings there are but two conclusions to draw, either it is spring or they are—(this reason must be left out due to faulty censorship).

PI GAMMA MU HELD MEETING

Pennsylvania Gamma Chapter of Pi Gamma Mu, the National Social Science Honor Society, held a regular meeting Monday evening, May 4, 1931, at 7 o'clock.

The Juniors recently elected to membership in Pi Gamma Mu were present at this well attended meeting. The various committee reports indicate plans are well formed for the banquet and activities of Commencement Week.

Signe Alford, Ethel Angst, Margaret Hoffmeister, Nancy Hamlin, Wilson Sieber, and Warren Wolfe were initiated into active membership at this meeting.

STORK PAYS VISIT TO FACULTY ROW

A new resident came to faculty row Thursday morning with the birth of a son to Professor and Mrs. Robert Whitney Tucker. This is a first born of which the parents are very proud. After seeing Dr. Tucker on the campus after the event, you certainly must have known that something extraordinary had happened to make him look so happy. The boy, a seven-pounder, has been named Robert Whitney, Jr. Mrs. Tucker's mother is with her.

MISS HADE SPEAKS TO WOMEN OF KIWANIS

On Monday evening at 6:15 Miss Naomi K. Hade spoke for a "Ladies Program" of the Kiwanis Club in Lewistown. The entire program had a Mothers' Day atmosphere and Miss Hade's speech dealt definitely with the different phases of Mothers' Day.

UNIVERSITY BAND ELECTS OFFICERS

On May 4, the officers for the University Band were elected for the ensuing year and those elected were: Walter Strandquist, president; Harold Rowe, vice-president; John Ballentine, secretary; Ray Minnig, treasurer, and William Pursell, business manager.

A meeting of the Athletic Association for the election of under-graduate representatives on the Athletic Board will be held on Thursday morning, May 14th, at the close of the Chapel service.

MIS-CORBIN JUDGES

Miss Clara Corbin was one of the judges at the Perry County Final Debate held last week. Miss Corbin's experience with Forensic endeavor and her fine showing in coaching Susquehanna's platform orators have made her very popular in debate circles.

DR. AIL SPEAKS TO INSTITUTE

Dr. A. William Ail spoke to the Teachers' Institute at Wilkes-Barre last Friday afternoon. His topic was "At the Fountain Head of Modern Poetry."

MEDALS ON DISPLAY

Fisher's Jewelry Store at Sunbury has on display in its windows all the medals and trophies for the Central Pennsylvania Collegiate Track Conference Meet to be held on the University Field this coming Saturday, May 16.

Seibert Hall Echoes

On Wednesday two co-eds went riding and walking with ten men. They could give expert advice on how to cross a stream or how to catch snakes.

Elen Gulp has a new method for drying shoes. Her specialty is making white shoes yellow.

A great many of the girls spent this week-end at their homes in celebration of Mother's Day.

Speaking of Mother's Day, our House Mother, too, was remembered. To impress upon one and all the fact that there is some real talent on the campus we will try to publish each week a poem written by a girl. Please turn in contributions.

Lines Written in Class

I do not like your attitude;
It's marked by too much lassitude.
A laziness,
Or haziness
About the class at hand.

You do not have much energy.
You sit there in a lethargy.
With all the world and I think.
With all this talk of government.

SPANISH CLUB PLANS PICNIC

At a meeting of the Spanish Club, held last Tuesday night in the social rooms of Seibert Hall, plans were made for a picnic to be held the last week in May. The tentative date for the affair was set as Wednesday, May 27. It will terminate the second year of activity of the Spanish Club which was organized by Miss Lucy T. Irving in the fall of 1929.

At the meeting held Tuesday evening an interesting musical program made up the entertainment part of the meeting. Those who took part are the Misses Aberdeen Phillips, Ludlow Nichols, Freda Stephens, and Dorothea Myers, and Messrs. Selon Dockey, Walter Metzger, and Melville Adams.

SENIOR PETITION REFUSED

The seniors' attempt to eliminate the final examinations for the second semester was of no avail. A petition placed in the hands of the faculty to exempt the seniors from these examinations was turned down after a lengthy discussion on the part of the entire faculty.

The seniors had made a petition to this effect, thinking that it would make their rushed graduation week very much easier. The faculty's reason for refusing their plea was the fact that the Seniors must remain here over the time for examinations in order that they may graduate.

The faculty made some consideration for the seniors and decided that they might take all their exams on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday mornings of Exam. Week.

LEAGUE ENJOYS FROLIC

Sixteen young folks of the Trinity Luther League, Reverend Dallas C. Beyer, and the Misses Edith Frankenstein and Isabella Horn, workers in the League, picnicked off by the waters of the electric dam on May 9. The party walked out to the destination, starting a little after two, while the pastor motored out with the supper. No supervised games were supplied, but every one enjoyed the freedom of nature and the crackling fire which roasted the hot dogs and marshmallows, which comprised only a small portion of the supper. After the supper, each member was given a brightly colored paper ball, a souvenir from Japan. Tired, happy, and dirty, each one returned home, after having enjoyed a clear spring day and a camp supper.

SCHEDULE FOR FOR 1931-1932

The new schedule of the classes for the fall semester has already been posted in the various buildings and anyone interested can have access to it. Further announcements will follow.

National Music Week Concert Judged One of Best This Year

A concert in commemoration of National Music Week was given Tuesday evening in Seibert Chapel by the combined music organizations of Susquehanna University, and by members of the faculty of the Conservatory of Music. The organizations featuring in this concert were the Ladies' Choral Club, Men's Glee Club, University Orchestra, and University Band. Those assisting on the program were Professor W. M. Linebaugh, organist, Professor W. D. Hemphill, violinist, and Professor Frederick C. Stevens, tenor.

The University Orchestra under the direction of Professor Hemphill held everyone spellbound. The ensemble dynamic expressions, and tone quality, brought out in the playing of the orchestra, were exceptionally good. It was all too soon that the spell cast over us by the orchestra was broken. Professor Linebaugh in his organ numbers, played with his usual technique and finish. The Men's Glee Club, under the direction of Professor Stevens, and the Ladies' Choral Club under the direction of Mrs. Rodgers, were very good. The tone quality, diction, and expression aided in making these numbers a success. Professor Hemphill portrayed his exceptional ability as a violinist to the extent that an encore was demanded. Professor Stevens sang in his usual good form. If any found their spirits flagging, they were sure to have them revived by the selections of the University Band under the direction of Professor Allison.

One of the most important, enjoyable, and inspiring features of the program was the solo and choruses sung by the Combined Glee Clubs under the direction of Professor Sheldon. The numbers sung by the Glee Clubs, especially the one entitled "Romany Life," were unique in production, and highly spirited.

On the whole the entire program was good, and was judged by many as one of the best concerts given on our campus this year.

Y. M. C. A. PLANS DRIVE FOR FUNDS

A new Cabinet has taken its place in the "Y" and a few old projects still remain unfinished on account of the lack of funds. It was definitely decided at the last meeting that a drive should be made covering the faculty members and the students to raise sufficient funds to finish the most important issues.

A committee has been appointed from the Cabinet to go on with this canvassing, and this week has been set as the one for the final drive. Everybody will be greeted by some member of the Committee asking for some aid in the following unfinished projects:

1. Missions $50.00
2. Speakers $25.00
3. Pledges 50.00
4. Incidentals $25.00

It is of the utmost importance that every person lend his hearty cooperation in this work. If this drive is unsuccessful it will be necessary to drop the projects which have been taken up, with considerable loss to the group. President Fairchild feels confident that the students and faculty will not fail to meet this crisis and help to bring about the conclusion of these achievements.

INTER-CLASS LEAGUE HAS A BUSY WEEK

The Seniors broke into the lead of the Baseball League last week by defeating the Sophs 9-2, and with the help of the defeat that the Sophs handed the Frosh.

On Monday the Frosh won over the Juniors with the score of 9-4. On Tuesday the Seniors defeated the Sophs 9-2, allowing the Sophs only four hits when they were gathering six hits, aided by four errors by the Sophs. On Wednesday the Sophs held the Frosh to one hit and defeated them 5-3.

The game between the Juniors and Seniors on Thursday and the Sophs-Senior game scheduled for Friday, were postponed on account of wet grounds. The Junior-Senior game will be played May 20, and the Sophs-Senior game will be played May 21.

The game between the Juniors and Sophs on April 30, was protested and the game was given to the Sophs, 9-0.

Standing of the teams:

	Won	Lost
Seniors	3	1
Frosh	4	2
Sophs	3	2
Juniors	1	4

Games this week:

Tuesday, Juniors vs. Sophs.
Wednesday, Frosh vs. Juniors.
Thursday, Sophs vs. Seniors.
Monday, Frosh vs. Sophs.

"THE GALLIA." BY CHOIR UNDER DR. WILLIAMS

The Gallia, an oratorio by Charles Gounod, will be sung by the Trinity Lutheran Choir, assisted by Miss Mary Graham, soprano, of Northumberland, at 3 o'clock, May 17, in the Trinity Church. Dr. Franklin G. Williams, the director of the choir is a member of the National Guild of Organists whose members are accustomed to offering some musical contribution to Music Week. Dr. Williams is offering the Gallia, while Miss Ruth Hermann, organist at the First Lutheran Church, and Miss Virginia Moody of the Conservatory are playing the organ in honor of Music Week. All who are interested are cordially invited to attend.

Co-eds Busy Training For May Day Frolic

Although the May Queen has been elected and everything decided, campus interest in the pageant to be given Saturday evening, May 23, has not been allowed to wane. Evidence that the work "backstage" has been going in full swing has been provided by the presence of school children frolicking here and there about our dignified halls of learning. They will take part in the pageant and are being trained by some of the co-eds.

Others are busily engaged in learning dance steps, making costumes, and training for their parts in "Comus." No doubt some of the preparatory antics are more grotesque than the final presentation will be, but in any event, we may be sure that the co-eds will provide an entertainment worth attending.

Y. W. Women Attend Mission Conference

One of the most delightful privileges offered the girls this year was to visit the young women's banquet for the Missionary Conference at Trinity Lutheran Church, Sunbury. Six girls, representatives of the Y. W. C. A., chaperoned by Mrs. Kretschmann, attended. When it was discovered that Miss Horn was with the delegation she was called upon to make a few remarks and responded. The program at the banquet was in charge of the Milton Missionary Society.

The speaker of the evening was Miss Corinne Menges, who was a former roommate of Miss Sweetman, our registrar. Miss Menges is home from Argentine on furlough. Her address on her work there was very interesting, especially so as it had to do with a country that is new in the mission field. The Susquehanna girls who attended the banquet were so impressed with Miss Menges that they invited her to speak at the Monday morning chapel service so that the entire student body might hear her. Two dolls, which were a gift from children in the Argentine, and have traveled over thirteen thousand miles, were of particular interest to the girls. They were dressed not as they dress in Argentine today, but in the pioneer dress of that country. Today they dress as we do except that they receive the new styles four months before we do.

Those who attended the banquet and conference from Susquehanna were Misses Janet Leitzell, Edna Williamson, Betty Wardrop, Isobel Horn, Edith Frankenfeld, and Helen Guss.

NINE INVADES FOREIGN TERRITORY THIS WEEK

After cracking wide open in three successive games, the Susquehanna baseball team will invade foreign territory this week for a two-game trip. On Friday the Ullerymen will face Elizabethtown for the second time, and on Saturday they will meet Lebanon Valley.

Although the nine boasts of one victory over the former, recent performances give no assurance that the game will be a repetition of the initial contest. Lebanon Valley will be another obstacle on the Crusaders' uphill path, as she boasts of a string team this year. In recent years, the Orange and Maroon have been accustomed to beating the Valley nine, but this year will be no other year, our opponents having earned in some creditable victories, including one over Ullerymen last Saturday.

MRS. MOYER ENTERTAINS

The Missionary Society of Trinity Lutheran Church met at the home of Mrs. Moyer, of 110 Orange street, on May 5, at 7:30 p. m. A business meeting was held, after which the special speaker, Miss Isabella Horn, of Susquehanna University, delivered a most interesting address on the "Japanese Women and the Work of the Lutheran Church." While the refreshments were being enjoyed, the speaker answered the many questions which the various members asked.

Tossers Lose Two Straight by 12-3 Score, Last Inning Rally Saturday Shows Bucknell Pinch

By losing to Bucknell in a one-sided game Saturday afternoon Susquehanna's baseball team ran its losing streak into three successive lopsided defeats. Last Wednesday Juniaata pitched on the Orange and Maroon pitchers for a 12-3 scalp, and Saturday the Bisons duplicated this score.

In the latter game, the Crusaders yielded only in the ninth inning after both teams had put up an interesting battle. Then the visitors pounced on Donnell, scoring seven runs on five hits, a walk, and two errors.

Trudnak, Bucknell mound ace, pitched true form, yielding only seven hits and one walk, and striking out seven batters. Errors coming at the worst possible moments allowed Bucknell to place this contest on the victory side of their scoring sheet.

In the first inning, Bucknell scored one run with the aid of one hit, one walk and one error. In the second inning, the first man walked and then Palmer broke up the hit and run play by catching a low fly in front of first base and then stepping on the base for the first of Susquehanna's double plays. In the third inning, a walk placed one man on base, and then Mills pounded out a triple to score Ammerman. Boyer then connected with the ball, scoring Mills from third, but Boyer was put out when he tried to stretch the hit to a triple. In the sixth inning, two walks put two men on base and then Ross found the ball for another triple to score Boyer and Dutchak. A nice throw from Herman to Shaffer cut off a Bucknell scoring threat at this moment.

Although these were enough tallies to win, the Bisons turned the contest into a slaughter by that ninth inning fracas in which seven runners crossed the plate.

Susquehanna took the lead in her half of the first inning on Herman's single, a force-out, a free pass to Rubis, and Palmer's single for one run, and Rubis tallied on a bad throw to second to catch Palmer stealing. Palmer also drove in the third run in the sixth inning with his single, after Malasky had slapped a triple to left field. The Orange and Maroon registered only one hit after this inning.

In the Juniata game, Coach Ullery used three pitchers, but the Indians showed no discrimination, pounding the ball far and wide without regard as to who occupied the mound.

Snyder, the Juniata hurler, gave a fine exhibition of pitching, silencing the Susquehanna bats to such an extent that not a single tally crossed the plate until the eighth inning, when Herb Speigelmeyer caught one of his offerings for a home run with two on the bags. Malasky had reached first on Gracey's misce, and Rubis had singled when "Spig" rang up his circuit clout, thereby saving the Orange and Maroon from a white-washing.

Bisons Outclass S. U. Tennis Ace, 7 - 0

The Susquehanna tennis team traveled to Lewisburg last Wednesday afternoon and was defeated by Bucknell University to the tune of 7-0. Bucknell displayed a team of unusual strength and balance and outclassed our players.

The results of the singles matches are as follows: Seide, Bucknell, defeated Speer, Susquehanna, 6-1, 6-1; Englerth, Bucknell, defeated Slagle, Susquehanna, 6-0, 6-0; Bonar, Bucknell, defeated Petry, Susquehanna, 6-3, 6-4; Halpern, Bucknell, defeated Weliky, Susquehanna, 6-2, 6-1; Vaughan, Bucknell, defeated Rummell, Susquehanna, 6-1, 6-1.

The results of the doubles are as follows: Seide and Englerth, Bucknell, defeated Speer and Rummell, Susquehanna, 6-4, 8-6; Bogar and Hal, Bucknell, defeated Weliky and Petry, Susquehanna, 6-1, 6-1.

PETS ENJOY SEIBERT HALL AS LIVING QUARTERS

It is time that some residents of Seibert Hall who pay neither board nor room rent should get some publicity. "Coty," a parrot owned by Miss Irving, came to college in September and since that time has made friends with many of the other students. "Coty" is a very well behaved parrot, talks little, laughs a lot, and has a particular liking for Miss Strother, but this liking is not mutual. This bird is very fond of mauling and is often seen driving about with Miss Irving. "Coty" claims that the best position in a car is at the windshield.

Miss Corbin has some very fierce sea beasts in her room. Her gold fish receive very excellent care and are quite happy in her surroundings. They have never been placed upon the six weeks list, which is a proof of their high scholastic standing. They are all majoring in English.

Just last week several more little creatures have come to our dorm to stay. The first of the family to come were two minute turtles that have made life worth living for Muriel Camerer and Eleanor Sheriff. The favorite pastime of these two turtles is that of racing across the floor. Muriel's protege usually wins.

Madeline Steininger is one of those girls who has a warm spot in her heart for dumb animals and she too has taken a little turtle into her room. This is a noble piece of work and is appreciated by the Society for Finding Homes for Stray Turtles.

LADIES' CHORAL CLUB HEARS BACH CHOIR

The Ladies' Choral Club of Susquehanna University motored to Bethlehem, Pennsylvania to hear a program of sacred music by the celebrated Bach Choir under the direction of Dr. Fred J. Wolfe. The final rehearsal of the choir was held at Packer Memorial Chapel, Lehigh University.

There were about two hundred and twenty-six talented persons in the choir. They were being preparing for their great annual concert since September, 1930. The concert of the Bach Choir was given Friday and Saturday, May 8 and 9. They were assisted by an orchestra and by soloists from Philadelphia.

The majority of the people attending the rehearsal were deeply impressed by the soprano and bass sections of the choir. Under the splendid conducting of Dr. Wolfe, the rendition of the "Mass in B Minor" by Bach was magnificent. The tone quality, expressions, diction, phrasing, and interpretation were very good.

After the program the ladies of the Choral Club had the pleasure of meeting Dr. Wolfe individually. Dr. Wolfe has a very pleasing personality, and is highly respected by those who know him. From the interview that the ladies had with Dr. Wolfe, they found out that he not only has had experience as a conductor, but also as a traveler.

"THE BOOR" TO BE GIVEN THURSDAY NIGHT

On Thursday evening, May 14, at 8 o'clock "The Boor" by Anton Tchekov, will be presented in Seibert Chapel Hall.

"The Boor" is a remarkably well-constructed one-act play and is probably the finest one-act play of the Russian school of drama. In it Tchekov shows the lighter, humorous side of Russian country life, infusing some of the spirit of the great Gogol into his broad and somewhat farcical character portrayals.

The characters are: Helena Ivanova Papov a young widow—Sarah Rhoads.

Grigori Slepavitch Smnitov, proprietor of a country estate—Harold Stearns.

Luba, servant of Mrs. Papov—Andrew Kovak.

The play is given under the auspices of the Dramatic Association and is being coached by Professor Russell W. Gilbert. There will be no charge for admission.

mate, Paul Hartline. Captain Johnston broke the tape in the 220-yard low hurdles for the only other first place, also being followed by another Susquehanna man, Neiswenter.

The famous "Lightning" Harry White won the 100-yard dash and the broad jump, although he gave no evidence of being a runner, failing to live up to the reputation which has been accorded him by newspapers this season. His teammate, Cavalli, gave him a merry chase in the century and won the 220, while our own Johnny Meyers was only a few inches behind in the broad jump. Pohl, Strandwitz, McVaugh, and Lindstrand scored many points for the Blue Hens, each tallying in at least two events.

The half mile run was a wild affair. All the entrants were content to loaf on the first quarter, and then sprint down the last straightaway like a hundred yard dash. Four men finished within a space of about three square feet in the ridiculous time of two minutes and nineteen seconds. Bill Carolan was in the crowd some place but was disqualified for cutting in on a Delaware man.

The Summaries:

120-yard high hurdles—Won by Strandwitz (D); second, Swann (S); third, Neiswenter (S). Time, 16.9.

Shot Put—Won by Sloan (D); second, Pohl (D); third, Branner (D). Distance, 39 ft. 2 in.

100-yard dash—Won by White (D); second, Cavalli (D); third, Meyers (S). Time, 10.2.

One-mile run—Won by Lindstrand (D); second, Carolan (S); third, Coombs (D). Time, 4 min. 52.7-10 sec.

Pole Vault—Triple tie between Knight, Pohl, and Strandwitz, all of Delaware. Height, 10 ft., 3 in.

440-yard dash—Won by McVaugh (D); second, Swann (S); third, Knouse (S). Time, 54.3-10 sec.

High Jump—Won by Cotty (D); second, Pohl (D); third, tie between Hess (S), and Coombs (D). Height, 5 ft. 4 in.

220-yard dash—Won by Cavalli (D); second, Meyers (S); third, Smith (D). Time, 23.2.

Two mile run—Won by Knepp (S); second, Hartline (S); third, Broadbent (D). Time, 10 min. 57.9 sec.

220-yard low hurdles—Won by Johnston (S); second, Neiswenter (S); third, Green (D). Time, 27.6.

Javelin throw—Won by Manns (D); second, Sloan (D); third, Pohl (D). Distance, 151 ft. 5 in.

Broad jump—Won by White (D); second, Meyers (S); third, Weliky (S). Distance, 21 ft. 1/2 in.

880-yard run—Won by Coombs (D); second, Lindstrand (D); third, McVaugh (D). Time, 2 min. 19.5 sec.

Discus—Won by Parkinson (D); second, Nigels (D); third, Oberdorf (S). Distance, 119 ft. 1/2 in.

feating such formidable opponents as St. Thomas, Elizabethtown, Albright, Ursinus and Temple. This was the last year that Dr. Kern was coach of debating at Susquehanna, and these records are a glowing tribute to the ability of the man in that capacity.

Under the careful and excellent tutelage of the new coach, Miss Clara Corbin, the three debaters, as Seniors, found themselves all on the Affirmative team. It was altogether fitting and proper that Foulkrod, who has done more, perhaps, than any other student at Susquehanna for the advancement of debating, should be teamed with his two classmates.

Comprising the Negative team were Mr. Warren Wolfe, Mr. Samuel Brosius and Mr. Edwin Clapper. The latter's fine work during the season is a good example of the potentialities of the Freshmen candidates for positions, and he and Mr. Brosius will probably form the nucleus around which Coach Miss Clara Corbin will construct next year's teams.

The record of the past season clearly shows how these two teams turned in another typical Susquehanna season, with only two losses out of twenty-four debates. Following is the record of the season:

Feb. 27, Susquehanna Aff. vs. Franklin & Marshall. (No-decision).

Feb. 27, Susquehanna Neg. vs. Franklin & Marshall. (No-decision).

Slump Continues as Nine Falter Twice

Ragged Fielding Marks First Loss to Elizabethtown; Donnell Loses Tough One to Lebanon Valley

The Susquehanna baseball nine remained in its slump over the week-end when it lost games to Elizabethtown, and to Lebanon Valley.

On Friday afternoon the team traveled to Elizabethtown College where it met with a 7-1 defeat. The ragged fielding on the part of the Orange and Maroon players seemed to be the biggest factor in the defeat since they were a match for the winners, and Brinninger pitched as well as Ebling. In fact Susquehanna made all the extra base hits of the game but failed to come through with hits when they were needed.

A four run rally in the seventh inning when Susquehanna collapsed entirely gave Elizabethtown its large winning margin.

The score:

Russian Play Makes Hit With Audience

Presentation of "The Boor" is Well Handled by Prof. Gilbert's Cast; Stage Setting is Ideal

Fine acting and excellent stage arrangements played important parts in the successful presentation of Anton Chekov's "The Boor," by the Dramatic Association on Thursday evening, May 14, at the Seibert Hall. Prof. Russell W. Gilbert directed this one-act masterpiece, which is considered one of the finest of the Russian school.

Fortunately there were only three characters to watch, for these three were so excellent that they demanded the undivided attention of the audience. Miss Sara Rhoads, as the young widow Helena Papov, shut in by her "four walls," affected an air of grief for her dead husband. Only her aged servant Luka, Andrew Kozak, was allowed to remain near her, until the bustling Grigori Stepanovitch Smilvin appeared to tear off her mask of self-pity.

Mr. Harold Stearns carried off the honors in this role of the rough, tough, and nasty farmer gentleman. So realistic did he become, that as he demanded in a particularly forceful speech, what one thing there might be to love about a woman, a horrified feminine yelp was heard in the audience. The play was held up for several moments while the "four walls" threatened to collapse.

After abusing each other throughout the play, with poor Luka coming in for his share, Smilvin and Mrs. Papov finally fall in love with each other at the crucial moment. Luka Rhoads at this juncture, only to have the curtain close as the play ended.

Miss Reeder and Harriet Miller, in arranging the stage, succeeded in creating the exact atmosphere of the Russian country setting. Professor Gilbert gave a short explanatory talk concerning Russian drama and the choice of "The Boor."

Annual Publication Nears Completion

Date of Distribution of Lanthorn Indefinite. Art Work to be Outstanding. Finances a Success

The Junior Class sponsors two big projects each year—the Junior Prom and the "Lanthorn," the college annual. The Prom over and the affair a great success the school is anxiously awaiting the arrival of the annual publication.

Many inquiries have been made concerning the date for arrival for fear the book may appear late. However, we are pleased to announce that the Lanthorn will be out and ready for distribution between now and the 29th of May.

The staff has worked hard throughout the year, and feels its efforts will be rewarded.

A few changes have been made in this year's volume which it is felt is an improvement in the development of the Lanthorn. The most marked change will be in the campus views and the football sections. Minor changes have been made in the faculty and Sophomore pictures.

The art work under the direction of Mr. Fred Wilks is built around an attractive theme different from any ever used at Susquehanna. The printer commenting upon the art work and the general layout of the book feels that it will be one of the finest volumes of the Lanthorn.

The business end of the book has (Concluded on page 4.)

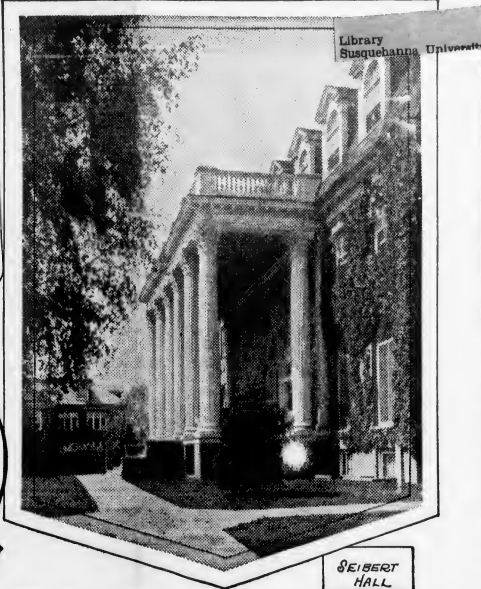

College Students and Townpeople Amused by Pledge Initiations

"Heroes are born, not made," but the initiations must go on. The fraternities brought out a bigger crowd this year than ever, and the gate receipts still remain the same. This may not seem a paying proposition, but it does afford amusement and add polish to those who participate.

The street cleaner was compensated by a citizen who really saw the need of such a borough (not a burro) employee. Those who realize the school situation in Russia aided the lanky yearling in his distribution of Russian roses. His gate receipts were tired feet.

Prof. Grossman undoubtedly would have enjoyed the proclamations that were delivered every half hour telling of the track enterprises.

One man aided in collecting statistics for the town's archives by measuring the streets with a weiner. While the tedious performance of rolling a peanut was being executed, his colleague, Mr. Fisher, took an easier and more (Concluded on page 4.)

May Day Honors Go to Popular Women

Pageant on Saturday Night Will Mark Fitting Climax for Misses Helen Swope and Lena Baird

As the sun slips quietly into its golden bed in the west to mark the close of another day on Saturday, it will also mark the final achievement of two of Susquehanna's fairest and most popular young ladies. At this time Miss Helen Swope and Miss Lena Baird will take their places as the May Queen and her Lady-in-Waiting in the 1931 May Day Pageant.

Both of these Senior women are well deserving of this honor, having left behind them a record of many accomplishments, activities, and scores of friends during their college careers at Susquehanna. Miss Swope, by her charming personality and intellect, has won her way into the hearts of all who know her, overcoming the natural handicaps and prejudice which must be met by a day student whose presence on the campus is limited largely to the classroom. Her home is in Northumberland, and she is a member of the Omega Delta Sigma sorority.

Miss Baird has been prominent in many of the campus activities. She is a member of the Kappa Delta Phi sorority, and treasurer of the Senior Class. In her Freshman year she was vice-president of the class, and since then has been active in the Y. W. C. A., Spanish Club, the Women's Athletic Club, and the business staff of the 1931 "Lanthorn." Last year she was on the Junior Prom Committee.

Final Recital Given by Miss D. Leisher

Variety of Numbers Make Up Program. Miss Virginia Moody and Mr. Ray Minich Assist Soloists

Miss Dorothy F. Leisher, soprano, gave her Senior Recital on Monday evening, May 11, in Seibert Chapel. Those assisting on the program were Misses Virginia Moody, organist and pianist, and Margaret Markle, accompanist, and Margaret Markle, and Messrs. B. Ray Minich, violinist, and Walter Strandquist, accompanist for Mr. Minich.

Miss Leisher sang exceptionally well, and although her program was short, it had variety, unity, an effective arrangement, and was well received by the audience.

The following program was given:

Delightful Decorating Plan Transforms Alumni Gym Into Ball Room, "Joe Venucci" Furnishes Music

One of the largest crowds in the history of the University danced in the low, hot rhythm of Joe Venucci's band on Saturday night at the Annual Junior Prom. The floor was crowded to its capacity but all were able to enjoy themselves. A unique plan of decoration was followed out.

Blue and white blended to make the hall attractive. The attempt to make the dance floor to represent the deck of a liner was altogether successful. The lighting was arranged ingeniously enough to give the whole floor a delightful aspect. The Committee did not forget the balloons either, and during the second half they were dropped among the dancing couples. The favors were a program and coin purse combined with the S. U. Seal on the cover.

The dance was chaperoned by the following patrons and patronesses: Dr. and Mrs. G. Morris Smith, Dr. and Mrs. George Dunkelberger, Miss Naomi K. Hade, Dr. F. D. Williams and mother, Dr. and Mrs. P. J. Ovrebo, and Dr. and Mrs. Charles Leese.

The very efficient Prom Committee consisted of Robert G. Hartman, chairman; Enza Wilson, Ann Dunkelberger, Harriet Leese, Forrest Metzger, Jerry Mayes.

Engagement of Miss Swope Announced at Wingard Tea Sat.

Saturday afternoon Omega Delta Sigma were the guests of honor at a tea given by Mrs. Margaret Wingard and Miss Adeline Wingard, at their home in Selinsgrove.

The Wingard home was beautifully decorated with flowers. Tulips and lilies formed the basis of the decorations. This home which is always attractive was even more so for this occasion.

A delicious luncheon was served and with it was the announcement of the engagement of Miss Helen Swope, Susquehanna's May Queen for 1931, to Mr. S. Grayne Ranck, of Bucknell. The wedding will take place on May 8 in the Episcopal church of Selinsgrove. This announcement came as a surprise to many, including the prospective bride, who did not know that she was to be the special guest of honor.

Between seventy and eighty guests were entertained, including all of the members of Omega Delta Sigma, other Susquehanna students, students from Bucknell, and residents of Sunbury and Selinsgrove.

Dash Records Fall in Conference Meet

Muhlenberg and Ursinus Champions for 1931; Susquehanna Fourth as Meyers Lowers Century Record

Muhlenberg won the class "A" title and Ursinus captured the class "B" championship in the Central Pennsylvania Intercollegiate track and field meet held here last Saturday afternoon. It was the first time either of these schools has won this championship in the eleven years that the meets have been held.

The final team scores among the class "A" colleges are as follows: Muhlenberg 38½, Dickinson 35 1-3, Franklin and Marshall 31 1-6, Gettysburg 30½, Bucknell 17 1-6. The Class "B" results are: Ursinus 35 3-5, Drexel 31 1-3, Albright 30 8-15, Susquehanna 28 7-12, Juniata 25 17-20.

The results of the Class "B" colleges were especially close, and another place or two by any of the teams would have made tremendous differences in the final results.

A good track and a strong wind favored the times and distances in a large number of the events of the meet, and as a result some fast marks were made. Several records were broken, the most spectacular of which took place in both the Class "A" and Class "B" 100 yard dash events. In the latter class Johnny Meyers got away to a good start and snapped the tape in the brilliant time of 9 and 4-5 seconds, battering the previous record by 2-5 of a second. Among the Class "A" competitors Majerick, of Muhlenberg, came close to the world's record when he dashed across the line in 9 and 3-5 seconds, breaking his own record of last year.

Others who broke records were McCarthy of Gettysburg, who tossed the javelin 184 feet 2 inches, and Ulrich of Muhlenberg, who made new marks in both the low and high hurdles.

Meyers tied with Black, of Ursinus, for the highest individual scoring honors of the meet. Meyers ran up ten points with a first place in the 100 yard dash, a second place in the 220 yard dash and a third place in the broad jump. Neiswenter tied for third highest scoring honors with 8 points. He gathered his total with a first place in the high hurdles, and a second place (Concluded on page 4.)

Music Lovers Hear Orchestra Concert

Miss L. Brungart, Prof. F. C. Stevens Are Soloists for Best Concert in Years; Hemphill Conducts

The annual concert of the Susquehanna University Orchestra, under the direction of Professor W. D. Hemphill, was given in Seibert Chapel on Wednesday evening. Professor Frederick C. Stevens, tenor, and Miss Lois Brungart, cellist, assisted on the program.

The University Orchestra had been preparing for this concert since last Fall, and in the rendition of the program we realized that all the practice and preparation was not futile. Every member of the orchestra paid very close attention to Professor Hemphill's conducting and as a result there was good ensemble, good tone-quality, fine phrasing, and finished interpretation. Professor Stevens, in his German numbers, appeared in his usual good form. Miss Brungart exhibited her wonderful technique and finish in the playing of her cello number.

The program given follows:

Overture—

Poet and Peasant - - - von Suppe

Orchestra

Ave Maria - - - Schubert

Miss Lois Brungart

Menuet - - - Paderewski

Mr. Lewis XIII - - - Ghys

Evening Star (from Tannhauser) Wagner

HAPPY BIRTHDAY

THE SUSQUEHANNA wishes to extend to Dr. G. Morris Smith hearty and sincere congratulations on his birthday which the family celebrated on Sunday, May 17. We wish him every success and best wishes for as many and delightful years as he has seen in the past.

S. U. CONFERENCE MEET

Susquehanna University was the host to ten colleges of Central Pennsylvania in the Eleventh Annual Track Conference Meet on Saturday. We wonder what impression of S. U. was given to those athletes who come from institutions similar to our own. THE SUSQUEHANNA wishes to commend the Athletic Department for the fashion in which they conducted the meet. We certainly believe that great value lies in friendly athletic competition. Half the fun in any sport is the chance one has to meet and learn to know the fellows. Dr. G. M. Smith's address of welcome and the toastmaster's wise-cracks at the lunch served the athletes prior to the meet stirred up a spirit of friendliness that was evident in the competition during the afternoon.

Regarding the scene of the meet—any school should and many would be proud of a track, straight-away, and field as beautiful as ours. It indicates activity and work on the part of those of the Athletic Department. It is certain that without competent officials the meet could not have been successfully executed and credit is due to all who served as timers, announcers, and judges.

TO THE PROM COMMITTEE

Only the heartiest of congratulations must go to the Prom Committee for their success in this annual affair. Without a doubt it was one of the best Proms that has ever been staged in the Alumni Gymnasium. The decorations of blue and white, spelling originality, transformed the gym into a perfect ballroom. Blue and white streamers covered every trace of the old floor and the setting for the orchestra gave a unique background to the rhythm makers. We shall not soon forget the music. The rumor that "Joe Vennucci" was not sending his original band proved to be another falsification, for "Joe" was there with his "black licorice stick" and those slow, hot tunes of his were just the thing to make one want to dance—some more.

Success is the only term that anyone can apply to the Prom Committee and the gala affair.

LOST SELF CONTROL

By Harriet Parsons

Cleveland, Ohio—(IP)—Judge Florence E. Allen of the Ohio Supreme Court held up the "Stop, Look and Listen" sign to the 3,000 teachers of nursery schools, kindergartens and primary grades, gathered from all parts of the country for the 38th annual meeting of the Association for Childhood Education here.

Brushing aside, as of minor significance, the much-debated techniques of education, Judge Allen threw down a challenge to these trainers of the youngest Americans, and said in effect:

"With all your progressive education, your new psychology, your splendid equipment, your increased cultural facilities, education in America has missed the vital meaning of spiritual and cultural life.

"Even in college educated circles, people don't really read.

"Concerts never advertise what is to be played but always the soloist.

"In the past twenty years there has been a definite retrogression in self-control and self-mastery in the individual and the group.

"We have the racket, which is no longer an isolated phenomenon, because we have not taught self-control in the home and the school."

"This machine age has us by the throat," she said. "America has not mastered itself. It may be partly the fault of the teachers."

Rev. James H. Goss Wins in State Oratorical Contest

Rev. James H. Goss, 21, '24, pastor of St. Peter's Lutheran Church, York, Pa., participated in an oratorical contest conducted by the Lion's Club of the State of Pennsylvania, which held its annual State Convention in Reading, Pa., on May 4 and 5. Rev. Goss won third prize for the York Lion's Club. The first prize was awarded to Norristown, and second prize to Lebanon. A total of eleven orators competed in the contest.

Charles Arbogast Cashier of Local Farmers National Bank

Charles Arbogast, '04, assistant cashier of the local Farmers National Bank for the past twelve years, was yesterday, at a meeting of the board of directors of that institution, elected to the position of cashier, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Kemer C. Walter, who had been the bank's cashier since its organization twenty-four years ago.

Cashier Arbogast is especially well qualified to fill the position of his merited appointment. After attending college at Susquehanna University he began his banking career with the First National Bank of Selins Grove, and later became associated with the First National Bank of Sunbury, from which institution he entered the Farmers National Bank.

Charles Arbogast is secretary of the Selinsgrove Building and Loan Association, giving much of his time and talent to that community enterprise. He is also a leader in the activities of Trinity Lutheran Church.

Simon Rhoads, '30, was named assistant cashier, and Mr. Rhoads, former position as clerk will be filled by Wilfred Renner, of Williamsport.

Graduate to Deliver Baccalaureate Sermon

Rev. John B. Knisley, of Northumberland, a graduate of Susquehanna, will deliver the sermon to the graduates of the department of theology on the evening of June 7. Commencement week will open June 4.

Church Employs Vested Choir

St. John's Church at Girard has joined the churches of the synod which employ vested choirs. The pastor of the church is J. O. Kroen, who was graduated from the Susquehanna seminary in '28.

Easter Shower for Pastor

Pastor Edgar B. Hanks, of Blairsville, enjoyed an "Easter Shower." Many gifts were received, including an electric bulletin board, altar hangings, pulpit and lectern lights, lighting fixtures, and refrigerator for the church kitchen.

We were pleased to see so many of the alumni back last Saturday to witness the track meet, and to attend the Junior Prom. This shows that they still have an interest in their Alma Mater. We remind you that June 6 is Alumni Day.

DOUBT IT OR NOT

— by —

Will U. Believe it

When you talk about the marvelous performances on the cinders in Saturday's conference you cannot overlook those of one of the most brilliant distance runners of the day. This lad was in disguise, he wore no emblem designating the school he represented, and he ran his whole race with a smile, beating the fastest men of the day. Jimmy Grove, the yearling messenger of the meet, ran the following events: SIX HUNDRED HEATS, SIX ONE HUNDRED HEATS, AND TWELVE TWO HUNDRED AND TWENTY HEATS. This makes a total of 3,960 yards in all. Give the little boy a hand.

Saturday would have made a wonderful day to lose a semester report. Your thoughts would have soared high into the air as you chased it. It looked as though Johnny Meyers were after a thesis as he broke the tape in the hundred; undoubtedly he caught it and shall pass the course.

The Prom is over. What else do the Juniors have to worry them? After all, it is not how many attended but have you collected and why?

The Band won by DEFAULT because no competition was at hand.

"Pigeon" Auman deemed it wise to take "French Leave" during "Hell-week." Five more for that!

To be at home in the Dean's Office at all times and upon all occasions; to count baseball scores mere remembrances and Art or Mary as your intimate friend; to gain a standard of appreciation for the other fellow's girl friend and a criticism for your own; to carry the keys of the library so that you can get the books you need to finish your semester report and have the profs behind you while you are doing it; to make a host of friends among the squirrels that shall be let loose on the campus and keep the Freshmen off the grass; to lose yourself in generous enthusiasm and cooperate with those who set down the rules for Commencement Dances; to learn manners from those who are prone to crib on exams, and to choose characters for the May Day Festival—these things the college offers for the last two weeks in the year.

(With apologies to President Hyde in his treatise "The College Offer.")

"Prexy Jr." seemed to be one of the entries for the four-forty. His buggy clattered up and down the track in his preliminary work-out but was rudely interrupted when the "trooper" sang a lullaby pertaining to "Hey! Clear the track. Do you have a badge?" This adventure ended in a hectic dash for the grandstand high above the rabble. Time—Four seconds, aided by the wind, establishing the field record as this is the first year this event was staged.

SORORITY NOTES

Miss Harriet Leese entertained over the week-end Miss Betty Lou Walker and Edward Gaspey, Dickinson College, Miss Phyllis Light, Wilson College, and Mr. Jim Didier, principal of Eagles Mere High School.

Miss Walker and Mr. Gaspey attended the Junior Prom on Saturday night.

Miss Inez Sarver entertained Miss Adda Newman, of Danville, over the week-end, who also attended the "Prom."

NEW BOOKS

"IMPERIAL PALACE HOTEL"

Arnold Bennett has written another exciting history of modern life which has the stature and importance of "The Old Wives' Tale." This is "Imperial Palace." It is a story of Evelyn Orchan, the Managing Director of the Imperial Palace Hotel. Showing minute observation of even the slightest detail, the author portrays for us the daily routine of this great business man who pours himself and his individuality, his hopes, his ambitions into the service of the great hotel—you see him as he rises at 4 a. m. to accompany his meat buyer to market, as he holds conference with directors, as he visits the Imperial Palace laundry, as he welcomes distinguished guests—always ready to give advice to employees, and demanding of them the same unselfish devotion to the hotel as he himself gives.

We are introduced to and read the words of 84 characters in this one book, each one portrayed with the same keen insight and delightful detail.

Orchan's personal life is an enigma until he meets Gracie Savott, the spoiled daughter of an influential millionaire. Gracie has always had what she wanted, so when she wants to understand the management of the Imperial Palace Hotel, she succeeds, and when she wants Evelyn to forget his business and responsible position to play with her, she succeeds there too. Will she succeed in completely ruining the great career of this man, or will he regain his usual common sense in time to avoid this tragic misfortune? Will he be able to substitute for Gracie's selfish love, the love of one more worthy of affection?

The characters, while not great, are all keenly alive. They are commonplace people who only become interesting through some talent or some intense desire.

This book records all we want to know about the management of a modern London hotel, and heightens its appeal by the story interwoven with it.

SUNDAY SERVICE IN TRINITY

Rev. Dallas C. Baer, pastor. Morning service 10:30, theme "I Believe in the Holy Ghost." Evening service 7:00; the baccalaureate sermon to graduates of the Selinsgrove high school, theme "Perseverance in Well Doing," by the pastor. This will be a union service. Dr. Beck will read the scripture lesson, Rev. Kline will offer the prayer and Rev. Fitzgerald will ask the benediction.

"Pain," says Booth Tarkington, "is the whip that drives men to greater activity," and that, as everyone knows who has ever had a jumping toothache, is the honest-to-goodness, solemn truth.

In a vote held at Louisiana State University recently, students picked football as the sport they preferred to watch and swimming as the sport they preferred to participate in.

The President of Colgate University says man is too brainy for his own well-being. Which probably explains why we are as we are, granted we are.

Dr. A. A. Michelson, 78, foremost world scientist and dean of American physicists, died Saturday, May 9, a few hours after he had given to the world his latest findings in the field of light speed.

The whirligig of time brings in his revenges. Walt Whitman, the poet who received but scant honor during his lifetime, and whose books were under ban for some years, has now been memorialized by means of a marble bust in the Hall of Fame in the New York University. Three others were honored at the same time—President James Monroe, Matthew Fontaine Maury, the hydrographer and naval officer, and James Abbott McNeill Whistler, the painter. All four were elected last year but the formal unveiling of the busts was naturally made the occasion for a special ceremony.

The late George F. Baker once advised everyone to reduce his talk two-thirds. Well, if silence is golden, vocal conservation might make us all richer.

Freshmen Lose to Bison Yearlings

Efforts of Grossman's Frosh Squad Are Futile to Overcome Bucknell Lead; Muir is High Scorer of Meet

In spite of stellar performances on the part of Muir, Susquehanna Freshmen's crack athlete, who piled up 14 points as high scorer in the track meet last Tuesday afternoon with Bucknell Freshmen, the Frosh Crusaders dropped the contest by an 89½-36½ score. The entire meet was staged in a continual downpour of rain, which made the track exceptionally heavy; this caused slow time in the running events. Simondson, versatile Bison, led his mates on to the victory by securing ten points.

Oberdorf and Handford were tied for second in the Susquehanna scoring, each having six points. Bean was second high scorer for Bucknell with nine points, while Priest, National Prep School Champion in the javelin throw, and Szyplulski, fleet dash man of Bucknell, registered eight counts each toward the Crusader's downfall. The Bucknell Bisons were the only ones, this year, who were able to cope successfully with the strong Susquehanna Frosh Track Team.

Summary:
100 yd. dash—Won by Szyplulski (B); second, Muir (S); third, Erricho (B). Time: 10.8 seconds.

220 yd. dash—Won by Simondson (B); second, Szyplulski (B); third, Muir (S). Time: 25 seconds.

880 yd. run—Won by Moll (B); second, Sweet (B); third, Anderson (S). Time: 2 min., 21 seconds.

1 mile run—Won by Deacon (B); second, Botteiger (S); third, Jacobs (B). Time: 5 minutes, 12½ seconds.

2 mile run—Won by Jacobs (B); second, Stevens (B); third, Safford (B). Time: 11 min., 36 seconds.

120 high hurdles—Won by Handford (S); second, Sweet (B); third, Schlegel (S). Time: 20½ seconds.

220 low hurdles—Won by Erricho (B); second, Rishel (S); third, Handford (S). Time: 30 seconds.

Shot put—Won by Dempsey (B); second, Priest (B); third, Ruger (B). Distance: 34 ft., 6 in.

Discus—Won by Gilland (B); second, James (B); third, Ruger (B). Distance: 119 feet.

High Jump—Won by Oberdorf (B); second, Bean (B); third, tie between Morrow (S) and Jett (B). Height: 5 ft., 2 in.

Pole Vault—Won by Muir (S); second, Jett (B); third, Schlegel (S). Height: 10 ft., 3 in.

Javelin—Won by Priest (B); second, Elias (B); third, Oberdorf (S). Distance: 157 feet.

Broad Jump—Won by Muir (S); second, Bean (B); third, Erricho (B). Distance: 18 ft., 8½ in.

Rehearsals for Alumni Minstrels in Full Sway

Those of you who saw Dr. Leon Messner's able production last year will realize what a treat is in store when the Alumni Minstrel show is given in Seibert Chapel Hall. This year the event occurs on the night of June 6.

Miss Irene Mengel and her brother will present a few numbers and Mr. Witmer will add something worth while toward the evening's entertainment. Mr. Witmer was formerly a member of the Philadelphia Opera Company.

This year there will also be a dancing chorus under the direction of Miss Dorothy Reeder. Twelve girls from the college have been chosen for the chorus and they will present various original dances.

Students who wait over after the commencement dances, as well as friends of the college and Alumni, may rest assured that they will fully enjoy the minstrels.

S. A. I. HOLDS MACDOWELL SILVER TEA

Thursday afternoon the members of Sigma Alpha Iota sorority held a silver tea in Seibert Hall parlors from 3 to 5 o'clock. This tea was for the benefit of the Sigma Alpha Iota MacDowell colony. A string ensemble, composed of Elizabeth Kinney, violin, Lois Brungart, cello, and Margaret Hinkle, piano, furnished the music while the guests were arriving. Later, Mrs. Sheldon gave a short talk, in which she explained that the MacDowell Colony is a group of cottages at Peterborough, N. H., founded by the composer MacDowell for the purpose of a retreat for artists during the summer.

Sigma Alpha Iota wishes to express its appreciation of the kindness and cooperation shown by its patronesses, the sororities, students, faculty, and everyone who helped make this tea a success.

LARGE GROUP HEARS MUSIC AT TRINITY CHURCH

Trinity Lutheran Church held a special vesper service on Sunday at 3:30 when the choir presented "Gallia," a motet by Charles Gounod, under the capable direction of Dr. F. G. Williams.

Miss Mary Graham, of Northumberland, soprano, rendered her solos in the "Gallia" exquisitely. Professor P. M. Linebaugh of the Conservatory performed with his customary finished touch at the organ throughout the service. An organ number, the first movement from Gullmunt's "Third Sonata," was excellently played by Miss Virginia Moody, of the Conservatory. In addition to the musical part of the service, Dr. E. P. Manhart, of the Susquehanna Seminary, delivered an interesting address on "Music in our Churches," which dealt particularly with the hymns every one delights in singing. This service was sponsored by the Susquehanna Chapter of the National Association of Organists.

PRESIDENT G. MORRIS SMITH SPEAKS AT SYNOD MEETING

Dr. G. Morris Smith spoke at the St. John's Lutheran Church in Northumberland on Thursday, May 14, 1931.

He stressed the fact that Susquehanna strives to educate not only the mind of the students, but also places emphasis on the physical and spiritual education. His talk was of profound interest and was enthusiastically received by the two hundred ministers and laymen.

Devotionals which opened the morning session were in charge of the Reverend R. W. Smith, of Williamsport, who used for his subject "Forward with Jesus."

The proposed merger of the theological departments of the Susquehanna and Gettysburg Seminaries was tabled by the Central Pennsylvania Synod.

PENN STATE AND LEBANON VALLEY ON BASEBALL CARD

The Orange and Maroon will be up against two of its hardest tests of the year this week when it meets Penn State and Lebanon Valley in baseball. On Wednesday afternoon the nine travels to State College to play Penn State, and on Saturday they will be matched against Lebanon Valley on our own grounds.

It is very hard to judge what sort of a lineup Coach Ullery will use tomorrow in an effort to drag the team out of the slump into which it has fallen. It is also difficult to say whether Captain Donnell or Brinninger will start on the mound tomorrow. Both are in condition, and neither has been pitching a poor brand of baseball. They simply have not been receiving the support they have deserved.

"Y" Will Convene in the Poconos

Students' Organizations of Region Will Hold Ten-Day Sessions at Forrest Park

The annual Middle Atlantic Student Conference, held under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. organizations of the colleges in the Middle Atlantic States will be held at Forrest Park, near Stroudsburg in the Poconos, from June 10th to June 20th. The conference is open to all college students.

The conference at Forrest Park is the same as the conferences that used to be held at Eagle's Mere. Many fine speakers have been secured for this year's conference. The program includes worship, study groups, recreation, association hours and general discussions on race, unemployment, and other contemporary American problems. Swimming, boating, hiking, and tennis are on the program for recreation.

Forrest Brown will have charge of the "Technique Hour" for college Y. M. C. A. leaders and presidents. The purpose of this hour is to train the various Y. M. C. A. leaders and presidents in the technique of administration.

The speakers secured for the conference are: Reinhold Niebuhr, who will be a speaker at Bucknell next fall, Harold Carr, Amy Blanche Green, Visser Hoot, Phillips Randolph, Phillips E. Elliot, Kirby Page, William E. Kroll, and a few others.

The Forrest Park Conference is one of the greatest conferences of its kind in the country. Last year over five hundred collegians from the Middle Atlantic District attended the conference. Anyone from Susquehanna wishing to attend the conference this year is advised to get in touch with Mr. Brown at the Y. M. C. A. office in West College. The total expense of the conference will amount to about $35.

Lebanon Valley Quells S. U. Tennis Stars

The Orange and Maroon tennis team lost its only match of the week last Saturday morning when it was defeated by Lebanon Valley, 6-1, at Annville, Pa. Meets which had been scheduled with Juniata on Wednesday, and with Elizabethtown, on Friday, were both cancelled on account of rain.

Adams was the only Susquehanna man to win a match on Saturday against Lebanon Valley; he conquered his opponent 7-5, 6-4. Petry was beaten out in a close match in the singles.

while Rummel and Schlegel were defeated in a well fought match in the doubles. The Orange and Maroon singles were made up of Spear, Rummel, Petry, Adams and Schlegel. The doubles teams were Petry and Spear, and Rummel and Schlegel.

This week the team is scheduled to take part in three matches. On Wednesday afternoon it meets Bucknell here, and on Friday and Saturday it travels to play Penn State and Juniata.

PHILHELLENIC SOCIETY MEETS
The Philhellenic Society met on Friday evening at the home of Dr. A. William Ahl. The major interest of the society was taken up in the speech on the Theater at Dionysius by Lewis Fox. He made it known that the foundation of the theatre was on the mountain-side. He gave detailed stage outline, manner of changes from one scene to another. He also said that the large audiences witnessing the drama presented here was an act of worship. Real gems of literature and the greatest

NIGHT AND A FAST TRACK!

A TRACK man will tell you that records are broken when the track is fast. Think of this setting—a cool evening, the stands overflowing, the whole spectacle brilliantly lighted with G-E floodlights, and a fast track—a record simply couldn't stand the "gauff."

Nighttime, when people naturally turn to diversion, is the logical time for a track meet. Lack of support will be a thing of the past. And just watch the athletic bond grow.

G-E floodlighting projects, largely the development of college-trained men, are easily adapted to any occasion whether football, track, tennis, commencement, receptions, or plays. Efficient G-E illumination promotes athletics and builds school spirit.

ETUDE RECITAL GIVEN TUESDAY

Tuesday afternoon at 4:15 o'clock students taking work in the Conservatory of Music gave their regular recital class program. Professor E. Edwin Sheldon and Miss Mary K. Potteiger were in charge of the meeting. This recital was an Etude recital. It gave each student an opportunity to find out just what the other students were accomplishing in piano, voice, organ, and violin technique. The two special numbers on the program were a ladies' trio, entitled "After," composed by Miss Virginia Moody. '32, and a male quartet, entitled "Beautiful Sea," composed by Miss Arline Kanyuck. '32.

On Saturday afternoon Susquehanna played much better baseball at Annville but was defeated by Lebanon Valley by the score of 3-1. The scores made by both teams were unearned runs.

Susquehanna again hit as well as her opponents but failed to develop the hits into runs. Again the Susquehanna pitcher equaled his rival moundsman. Donnell held Lebanon Valley to 6 hits and fanned eight batters, while Murphy performed in exactly the same manner.

In an effort to get the team out of its slump Coach Uhly shifted the order of the line-up. However, this change failed to bring in the runs.

ACTIVITIES OF COMMENCEMENT ANNOUNCED FROM JUNE 4 TO 8

Rev. H. C. Michael Will Speak at Baccalaureate Service and Pres. J. A. W. Haas of Muhlenberg to Address Class at Commencement Exercises

Commencement week will be observed from June fourth to June eighth. The campus will be the scene of many features during this week. The fraternity and sorority dances will also take place as well as the annual Commencement.

June fourth, Pi Gamma Mu, the National Society Science Honor Society, will hold its annual banquet at five o'clock in Seibert Hall. The day will be capped off by the big commencement dances given by each sorority on the campus at nine o'clock. Omega Delta Sigma's dance will be held in the Bond and Key House. Kappa Delta Phi and Sigma Alpha Iota will join their dances at the Phi Mu Delta fraternity house. The Sigma Sigma Delta girls have secured the Epsilon Sigma house for their dance. Everyone is looking forward with great anticipation to these enjoyable dances which mark the opening of the program for Commencement week.

Class Exercises
On Friday, June fifth the day will open with the Senior Class Day Exercises at 10:30 A. M. The history of the class will be read, and the Class gift to the college campus will be presented by S. Walter Fouldkrod, the president of the class. President G. Morris Smith, A. M., D. D., will accept the gift in the name of the college. At 12:30 Dr. Smith will give a dinner to the graduating class at the country club. A music recital will be given at 2:30 by the conservatory students in Seibert Hall. At 9 o'clock the fraternities will begin their commencement dances in their respective houses. Elaborate plans are being made for the success of each dance.

Alumni Meetings the Sixth
Alumni Day will be on Saturday, June sixth, and will be opened by an alumni luncheon and business meeting at 12:30. Class reunions and informal sports will be in order at 2:30 o'clock. (Concluded on Page 4)

Honor Science Has Faculty Speakers

Dr. F. G. Williams Proves Area of Circle Cannot be Equal to That of Square; Others Interesting Also

The Honor Science Society of Susquehanna University held a meeting Tuesday evening, May 19, in Steele Science Hall. It was under the direction of the newly elected officers. Smith Coldren, Mary Walborn and Roscoe Fisher. Four members of the faculty representing the departments of Physics, Biology, Chemistry and Mathematics were the speakers for the evening.

Dr. Paul Overbo discussed "The Application of Physics in the Industrial World." In addition to showing in a general way the part played by physics in the United States Bureau of Standards and other governmental agencies, he told of the work of the National Bureau of Standards. Dr. Overbo described their newest "tick in the old scale" by means of a delicate instrument known as the "torsion balance" which can predict accurately the exact location of oil wells in new fields. This means a great saving in expense since it costs between five and ten thousand dollars to drill one well.

"The Geological Survey of Kratzeville and Vicinity" was the basis of Dr. Fisher's talk. With his numerous specimens and his geological map he presented an interesting and accurate account of rocks and strata in this part of the State.

Because of recent study and intense interest in fish, Professor F. W. Scudder discussed the "Life and Living Characteristics of the Lamprey Eel." He had on display a pair of eels which he had caught during his last year of study.

Dr. Franklin G. Williams proved that the statement recently issued by a prominent and successful business man (Concluded on Page 4)

TO DEDICATE "LANTHORN"
The dedication of "The Lanthorn" will be made tomorrow morning at chapel time and the books will be ready for distribution during the day.

Mr. Harry Corson of the Clark Printing House of Philadelphia, in commenting on this year's "Lanthorn" said, in part: "Everyone here commented upon the fine appearance of 'The Lanthorn'; we are sure you will be pleased with it. We believe it is the best one yet."

Band to Give Annual Concert on Thursday

Reginald Kehoe, Xylophonist, and Fernie Henry, Accordionist, Radio-Keith Artists, to be Soloists

The Susquehanna University band will render their annual concert in Seibert Hall Chapel, Thursday, May 28, under the direction of Professor Elrose L. Allison.

The guests assisting in the program are Reginald Kehoe, Xylophonist, and Fernie Henry, Accordionist. Both musicians are exclusive Radio-Keith Orpheum Artists. They will present a varied program consisting of classics and popular music.

Move-Up Day Installed as Tradition at S. U.

With the use of the Freshman boys still possessed drinks, disposed of their quickly last Wednesday, May 20, as Move-up Day was ushered in as a recognized annual institution at Susquehanna. For the first time, an actual "ceremony" was carried out, each class receiving the chapel seats and privileges of the class one year its senior.

The rather scanty pile of caps and black ties had no dangerous conflagration, but at least the rite itself was symbolic of a tradition to be followed by posterity. A Susquehanna cheer ended the ceremony, and the Frosh marched off, glorying in their exposed craniums.

The Seniors probably benefit most by this custom, as they are relieved of chapel obligations, but some of the girls are probably wondering why the advancement does not figure in dormitory rules.

Faculty Member's 50th Anniversary

Dr. Frank P. Manhart, Dean of S. U. Theological Department, began Ministry in 1881

Dr. Franklin P. Manhart, of West Pine street, dean of the Theological Department of Susquehanna University, will celebrate on Sunday, May 31, at St. Matthew's, Bloomsburg, the fiftieth year of his active ministry in the Lutheran Church, where he is one of the outstanding figures today.

St. Matthew's Church has requested the distinction of this service as it was there in 1881 that Dr. Manhart began his first charge.

Dr. Manhart was the leading spirit in the movement to unite the various American Lutheran bodies, especially the General Synod, the General Council and the United Synod of the South into one United Evangelical Lutheran Church of America, aided in the preparation of the constitution of that body and participated in its organization in 1918, becoming the first secretary.

Track Team Bows to Juniata Jinx Again

Meet in Balance Until Last Event as Visitors Take 880; Freshmen Win Two; Newsteiner is High Man

The jinx which has followed the Susquehanna track team in dual competition with Juniata for many years descended once more into the camp of the Crusaders as the Indians went home Saturday with a 67-2-3 - 581-3 scalp hanging from their belts. The meet, a repetition of last year's, was run in a drizzling rain, and was not decided until the last event when Juniata took first and second in the half-mile run.

Noisewer was high scorer for the meet, scoring victories in both the low and high hurdles, and taking a third in the half-mile for a total of eleven points. It was the first time he has been the star of this year. Johnny Meyer, who had won at Juniata, scored one point in the quarter-mile, and a later placing in the half-mile. The other points were won by the visitors. The visitors' team took a first, second, and third in each of the nine points for third honors.

Muir and Oberdorf, Susquehanna's Freshman stars, registered victories in the pole vault and high jump respectively, the latter also taking a third in the discus.

The 440-yard dash was probably the most exciting event of the afternoon. Bill Swann put up a gallant fight to hold his slim lead, but was overtaken on the stretch first by Fetner, and then Light, in a brilliant sprinting finish. Collick of Juniata displayed a wonderful stride as he topped an easy victory in the two-mile, and then captured a second place in the 880. His time of ten minutes and 51 seconds in the former was the fastest time for that event to be clocked against Susquehanna this year.

The summaries:
100-yard dash—won by Meyers (S); second, Rowland (J); third, Fetner (J). (Concluded on Page 4)

"COMUS" FEATURED IN MAY DAY FESTIVITIES ON MONDAY NIGHT

Jupiter Pluvius Halts Production on Saturday. Co-eds Preset Difficult Roles with Ease, Under Direction of Miss Dorothy Reeder.

NOTICE
And they say there is no Santa Claus—Just listen to this. Any person living in the dormitories and desiring to have his trunk taken to the express station may have it done "free of charge" by simply notifying Miss Isabella Strouther or Mr. George Oberdorf, Superintendent of Grounds and Buildings. Your name and dormitory address is all that is needed to have one of Mr. Oberdorf's men call for your belongings and take them to the express office.

In the past, May Day festivities were held on Monday and when the sun very obligingly dried the ground and warmed the air, enthusiasm was restored and Susquehanna had another successful May Day.

The queen in her satin gown and her court in their ornate dresses of Old English design made a most effective appearance. The pink of the Lady-in-Waiting and the green of the other members of the court blended beautifully. Lovers of beauty uttered exclamations of delight as the procession began from the side of Seibert Hall, came down over the terrace and passed before the audience. The queen made her proclamation standing before her throne.

Old English Festival Featured
The first part of the queen's entertainment was an Old English Festival. The Ladies' Choral Club in Old English costumes sang two numbers. Forty little girls from the town, also dressed in Old English costumes, did the May Pole Dance, which was well done for children. After another English Folk song by the Choral club the group presented an English Folk Dance.

This part of the program took place before the artificial lights were turned on and was very colorful and pretty.

Comus a Success
The pageant "Comus" was one of the most difficult pageants ever presented here. The sun dance with Theobalds as Apollo and Culp, Andrews, Linds and Jones as the horses represented the setting of the sun and Marian Walborn as Night showed the coming of darkness. Janet Lettice deserves much favorable comment for her interpretation of the character of Thyras. Miss Lettice has a very clear, loud voice that carried to the entire audience. Adeline Wingard as Comus was attractive enough to tempt anyone to drink from the silver goblet. Miss (Concluded on Page 4)

National Sorority Officers Met Here

Sigma Sigma Delta Held Special Conference at Susquehanna Last Week; Informal Discussion on Problems

The National Officers of Sigma Sigma Delta National Open-Sorority held a special meeting at Susquehanna this week-end as the guests of Beta Chapter. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss informally certain problems that will be definitely settled at the biennial national convention to be held in December, 1931 at Gamma Chapter, Northwestern University, Chicago, Illinois.

Those officers who attended the meeting were Dorothy Goff, President; Mary Bishop of Beta, Vice President; Louise Goss of Gamma, and Virginia Priddy of Sigma Delta. Other guests were: Alpha, Hamilton; Beta, Selinsgrove; Gamma, Selinsgrove; Delta, Selinsgrove; Epsilon, Selinsgrove; and Zeta, Selinsgrove. The conference was held in the evening at the home of Mrs. Manhart. The President, Mrs. Manhart, of Theta Chapter, gave a talk on "Problems and Their Solution."

The special meeting of Beta Chapter was held on Saturday morning, a session was also held in the afternoon. Saturday evening the girls were the guests of Alpha chapter at Bucknell. The conference was formally closed with a breakfast at the sorority room on Sunday morning.

An unusual feature deserving mention was a unique repast held privately after the return of the girls from Bucknell. Three presidents, national, local and pledge provided and served sandwiches, olives, potato chips and lemonade to a favored few. Fatigue finally broke up the party.

Sigma Sigma Delta, as a National Open-Sorority was organized at Bucknell in 1928. At present there are seven chapters, located at Bucknell, Susquehanna, Northwestern, Evanston, Illinois; Wittenburg, Ohio; Marietta, Ohio; Knox, Illinois, and Baldwin Wallace College, Ohio.

Inter-Fraternity Ball Planned for October

At a short meeting at the Phi Lambda Theta Fraternity House last Thursday evening, the Inter-Fraternity Council set October 3, as the final date for the "Inter-Fraternity Ball." The Committee for the event consists of Andrew Kozak, Robert Sala, Fred Wilks and Laird Gemberling. Plans for the Ball will be made during the summer since but two weeks will be available for preparation after the opening of the fall session.

The members of the Inter-Fraternity Council for next year are: Phi Mu Delta, Fred Wilks, Harold Witkop; Epsilon Sigma, Laird Gemberling, Russell Sprout; Phi Lambda Theta, Arthur Wilmarth, Robert Sala; Bond and Key, Andrew Kozak, Robert Manhart.

DR. SURFAY CALLED "COURAGEOUS" FOR VOTE

A resolution adopted last Saturday by the Allied Boys' Clubs of Philadelphia, "representing 40,000 to 50,000 boys," commending Representative Harvey A. Surfay of Selinsgrove for "his courageous stand" in supporting the Denning Sunday baseball bill, was presented to the assembly Monday night by Joseph J. Kneable, president of the organization.

"COMUS" FEATURED IN MAY DAY FESTIVALS ON MONDAY NIGHT

With a splendid cast of characters, the play "Comus" was presented on Monday night at the Selinsgrove Community Center. The play, written by John Ford, is a classic of the English Renaissance. The story is set in a forest where three young women, the Fairies, are lured by the evil forces of the woods. The play is a beautiful example of the power of the human spirit to overcome evil. The cast was excellent, and the production was of high quality. The play was a great success, and the audience was very appreciative.

Good Audience in Attendance

Those in charge of the program were very glad to see the comparatively large audience. It was feared that the uncertain weather would prevent many from attending. Quite a number of people who were disappointed on Saturday came back for the ceremonies. A larger, but not a more appreciative audience could have been desired.

No definite statement can be made as to the financial success but the Y. W. C. A. is very anxious that all expenses may be met.

Miss Reeder Directed

The burden of May Day rests upon Miss Dorothy Reeder, the women's physical director. It was she who selected the program, adapted it to the help plan the costumes and staging and directed it all. She spent no little time on this production and she with her committees are to be congratulated for their splendid work.

Miss Dorothy Puckey was the pianist.

TWENTY-TWO ATHLETES TO GRADUATE IN JUNE

The lot this year. While he shall, in proportion to the number of players on the different squads, suffers least of all in that respect, the loss of these two experienced men will be keenly felt as the Crusaders go forth to battle their foes next spring.

Class Day Exercises
Attended by ManySenior President Foulkrod Delivers Farewell Address, Class '31 Memorial Scholarship Fund

A large group of friends and faculty gathered with the Senior Class at the annual Class Day exercises, which were held on the terrace between Seibert and Selingrove Halls Friday morning at 10:30 a. m. This was the opening of the Senior program of Commencement Week and was executed in a splendid manner, due to the many fine addresses which marked the affair.

The opening address, that of the President of the Senior Class, Mr. S. Walter Foulkrod, was one of welcome and farewell, and was delivered in the manner which has characterized him as being one of the finest orators ever graduated at Susquehanna.

Next came the reading of the class prophecy by Miss Mary Hutchings. Four years' experience on the editorial staff of the "Susquehanna" showed results in Miss Hutchings' fine composition.

The President of the Class, Mr. Foulkrod, again came to the foreground when he presented, with a few well-chosen words, the class gift to the University. The memorial from the Class of '31 is a scholarship, amounting to the interest from a principal of over eight hundred dollars. This will go to some worthy student who is in need of financial aid to continue his college career. Another President, this time Dr. Smith, President of the University, made the address of acceptance and expressed the school's appreciation for the class' fine gift.

The Cap and Gown ceremony, that old and beautiful Susquehanna tradition, came next in the order of events, with Senior President Foulkrod bestowing the Senior responsibilities upon Senior Class President-elect, Frederick Wilks. Foulkrod said in part:

"The Senior Class of 1931 invests you Juniors, the Class of 1932, with the (Concluded on Page 4)

Valparaiso University

Adelbert C. Hartung, efficient head of the English department at Susquehanna University for the past two years, has received promotion by being called to the head of the English department at Valparaiso University, Indiana.

Professor Hartung has tendered his resignation to take effect at the end of the coming summer school session. The Board of Trustees accepted his resignation with regret, but with best wishes for his success in his new position.

In his comparatively short stay at Susquehanna, Professor Hartung became very popular with the faculty and student body. He was born in Rochester, New York, where he attended the Rochester City Normal School and East High School. After receiving his degree in Bachelor of Arts, he studied at Harvard, Johns Hopkins, and University of Chicago, receiving his Masters degree in Arts.

Previous to his stay at Susquehanna, Professor Hartung was an instructor at Thiel College in 1926-27, and at Johns-Hopkins in 1927-28.

Minister Addressed Graduates of Seminary Last Night

Upon Reverend John B. Kniseley, a former student and graduate of Susquehanna's university and seminary, has been conferred the degree of Doctor of Divinity. He has been an active minister since his graduation from the seminary in 1916. As preliminary work, he graduated from the college with an A.B. degree in 1913. As an index of his ability and work, we note that he accepted his first charge in 1916, the same year in which he was ordained. He worked with the congregations of Port Royal until 1920 when he was called to serve a Dubois charge. In 1925 his field was in Northumberland and he has served this congregation faithfully until the present time. It is interesting to note that his popularity among the alumni. In 1915 he responded to the secretaryship of the association and served for two years. In 1920 he again filled the same office which was his until 1927.

He was further honored when he was called upon to deliver the Baccalaureate address to the graduating class of the Seminary. The address was indeed, one of splendid correctness, giving attention to the new ministers of the gospel and also a bit of brotherly spirit. His theme was "Called to a Holy Office" and this theme was amply explained in his reading from Second Timothy. He first extended his congratulations to the graduates and then began a series of explanatory bits of advice for the men.

Annual Reception on Pine Lawn Given by
Pres. G. Morris Smith

Saturday afternoon the President's lawn was the scene of the Reception for Women's Auxiliary, Faculty, Students, Alumni and friends of the University. President and Mrs. G. Morris Smith have installed this reception as an annual gathering of the people interested in Susquehanna. From four thirty until five o'clock the lawn held a large number of these interested people. Decorations on the lawn at this reception were very beautiful. Japanese lanterns played their part in the coloring effect in comparison with the foliage of the many trees surrounding the mansion.

An orchestra was on hand and rendered several delightful numbers which pleased the large group. The members of this ensemble were Professor Elmore Allison, Miss Kathryn Morning, and Miss Lois Brungart.

Delightful refreshments were served to the group, consisting of punch, ice cream, fancy cakes, mints and nuts. Four of the college girls acted as waitresses. They were Miss Janet Leitzel, Miss Edna Williamson, Miss Betty Wardrop, Miss Elizabeth Vorlage.

The reception was one of the greatest successes for the people attending had a chance to become better acquainted with the President's family and the family a place to greet the real friends of the University.

ted to Board of Trustees

At the meeting of the Board of Directors of Susquehanna University held in Selingrove, Pennsylvania, June 4, President G. Morris Smith read his annual report, which showed progress during the year and a healthy condition in general. The institution last November won full accrediting from the Association of Colleges of the Middle States and Maryland, and in January of this year was elected a member of the Association of American Colleges.

President Smith reported growing Scholarship Endowment Funds, one for women students, promoted by the Women's Auxiliary of the institution, and the other for men, started by the class of 1930, and this year supplemented by the class of 1931 and the class of 1914. The interest on these scholarship funds is to be used to assist worthy students in gaining a college education.

The trustees voted to commend to the Alumni Association, which meets tomorrow, the starting of a permanent alumni fund, or annual roll call. The alumni fund will not be a drive, as the appeal goes out annually and presupposes smaller gifts. The appeal is often handled through the class organizations.

A study of trends in student enrollment prepared by Dr. George F. Dunkelberger, Dean of the College, was presented to the directors; also reports from Miss Naomi K. Hade, Dean of Women; Mrs. Martha Dodson, Librarian, and Mr. John C. Oberdorf, Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds.

According to the report of the auditor, Mr. Frank Stroh, the financial condition at the University was seen to be healthy, and over $12,000 was added to the endowment fund during the past year, though no campaign was held. The campaign for $650,000 which was to have been conducted last fall was carried over until economic conditions should improve.

The action of the Board with reference to a merger of the Theological Seminary Department with that of Gettysburg Seminary was that the time is not opportune for such a merger, as a study is at present going on (Concluded on Page 4)

Rev. W. H. Traub
Speaks to GraduatesSupplements Reverend H. C. Michael on Sunday Music Offered by Large Choir and Soloists

Using as his text the 46th verse of the 13th chapter of Matthew, Reverend Walter H. Traub, D.D., of York, Penna., delivered the 73rd annual Baccalaureate Sermon at Trinity Church on Sunday morning, taking the place of Reverend H. C. Michael, of Johnstown, who has become ill suddenly.

Reverend Traub's sermon was overflowing with life and truth. He is a speaker of excellent expression and imprinted his points on the minds of his audience.

"The extreme selfishness and consequently the luxury of today is due to our lack of a continued interest in religion. The world has progressed at a rapid pace scientifically—but have our moral and religious kept pace?"

"It seems that creation is worshipped more than the creator."

"What we need today is Christian education—an education of the heart and conscience."

"Our citizenship calls for patriotism. Patriotism says: You are as good as I am," but Nationalism says, "I am as good as you are." We need more patriotism and less nationalism.

"America is great because her soul is great, and only as long as she tries to attain the 'Priceless Pearl'—Christ and His Ideals, will be continue in her greatness."

Under the direction of Dr. Franklin G. Williams the choir offered the anthem "Te Deum in G Minor," by T. Tertius Noble. Miss Dorothy Leisher sang a solo, "Joyous Beliefs, O Heavenly Daughter of Zion," from Handel's Messiah.

Professor Percy Linebaugh officiated at the console in his usual masterly manner.

For Dancers on Thursday and Friday Evenings

On June 4, with everyone through with examinations, the sorority commencement dances were held. Walnut street boasted more peppy music than it has had for a while. Dancing began at nine o'clock and lasted until one o'clock. It was indeed a pretty sight to see the girls and their escorts walking down to the fraternity houses vacated by the members. During the course of the evening there were showers, but the couples gaily dancing inside scarcely noticed them.

The Omega Delta Sigma Sorority dance was held in the Bond and Key Club House. The music was furnished by the Pennsylvania Ramblers, and they were great. Military sets were given as favors with the Omega Delta Sigma Sorority seal on them. The patrons and patronesses were:

Dr. and Mrs. G. Morris Smith, Miss Naomi K. Hade, Miss Isabelle Strothers, Dr. and Mrs. G. N. Wood, Professor and Mrs. W. W. Ullery, Professor and Mrs. L. D. Grossman.

The Kappa Delta Phi and Sigma Alpha Iota Sororities enjoyed their dance at the Phi Mu Delta Fraternity House with the Clarksburg Cheer Leaders furnishing the music. Each sorority gave bill-folds with its own sorority seal on them for favors. The chaperones were:

Mrs. Carrie Atkins, Dr. and Mrs. A. W. Ahl, Miss Mary Nesbitt, Mrs. Bertha Rodgers.

Sigma Sigma Delta with Art Wendel and his Hotel Altamont Orchestra held its dance in Epsilon Sigma House. The favors were key cases. The patrons and patronesses were:

Dr. and Mrs. George Fisher, Professor A. C. Hartung and Miss Emily Sweetman, Miss Clara Corbin, Professor and Mrs. E. K. Rumberger, Professor J. R. K. Stauffer, Miss Sara Seal.

The evening of June 5 like that of June 4 was marked by dances. This time, though the gentlemen of the fraternities were hosts in their own houses. The weather was slightly inclement, but dancers seldom notice that.

Phi Mu Delta had the Manhattan Serenaders to furnish the music. The snappy tunes and the master shades made a very good combination. The favors were electric shadow lamps with (Concluded on Page 4)

Susquehanna University and its seventy-third annual Commencement Program on Monday morning, June 8, when it awarded diplomas and conferred degrees on 124 students of the Theological Seminary, the Conservatory of Music and the College of Arts and Science.

Following the academic procession from Selingrove Hall, the members of the graduating class, preceded by the faculty, entered the Seibert Hall Chapel for the exercises.

As an overture the "Air Louis XIII" by Gipsy was rendered by the college orchestra under the direction of W. Donald Hemphill, Mus.B. Following the prayer, the orchestra played another selection, "Raymond Overture" by Thomas.

Valedictory and Salutatory Orations. Addresses, retrospective and prospective, were then delivered by the Salutatory and Valedictorian of the class of 1931, Miss Ethel Leone Holtzapfel and Mr. Lawrence C. Fisher respectively. The subject of Miss Holtzapfel's address was "Seventy Years of History," while Mr. Fisher presented a "Forward Look." Both speakers are residents of Selingrove. Wagner's "Evening Star" from "Tannhauser" was then rendered by the orchestra.

Dr. Haas Addresses Graduates

The address to the graduating class was delivered by John A. W. Haas, D.D., LL.D., President of Muhlenberg College. Dr. Haas presented some new ideas in a very impressive and interesting talk on "New Fatalism."

President G. Morris Smith then awarded the diplomas and conferred degrees upon the members of the graduating class, following which, the announcement of the prizes was made.

The Rev. M. H. Stine Mathematical Prize was won by

MONDAY, JUNE 8, 1931

TO THE CLASS OF 1931

This is a message of joy mingled with regret. Joy that you have come to graduation from college, which is a very significant index of real achievement; joy, further, that the class has shown such a splendid spirit of cooperation with the plans for a greater Susquehanna, for which the administration and the Directors are sincerely grateful. Regret that the time of our intimate fellowship is drawing to a close. Nevertheless, we, the Faculty of Alma Mater, will think of you often and follow you with high hopes. Come back for class reunions when you can; keep Susquehanna University frequently in your mind, and let its high aspirations move you to the finest living of which you are capable. We assure you of our affection and good wishes always.

THE ADMINISTRATION.

FAREWELL

Two members of the faculty will not be in our midst when school opens in the fall. It is indeed with regret that we must bid good-bye to these men who have so successfully carried on their work. Both Professor Adelbert C. Hartung and Professor Jacob R. K. Stauffer have taken an active interest not only in raising Susquehanna's scholastic standard, but also in the extra-curricular program of the college. Professor A. C. Hartung will become head of the English department at Valparaiso at the beginning of the fall session. Professor J. R. K. Stauffer is expecting to finish within the next year his work for the Ph.D. degree in mathematics at Chicago University.

THE SUSQUEHANNA extends to these men the best wishes for success in their new field of labor.

ALUMNI NOTES

Omega Delta Sigma announce the following alumni visitors to the campus from Thursday until Monday: Vesta Steinger, Marjorie Phillips, Blanche Stauffer, Margaret Keiser, Mary Ella Caugler, Anna Moore, Helen Brandon, and Judith Morgan.

William E. Persing, M.D., has located and is a practicing physician at West Stockbridge, Mass. Dr. Persing was graduated from Susquehanna University in '26 and from Middlesex Medical College, Boston, Mass., in '29. Last year he was interned at Columbia Hospital, Wilkesburg, Pa.

Joseph E. Law is pastor of the Reformer Lutheran Church at Williamsport. He reports the largest attendance at Easter ever had in the church. There were twenty-eight new members taken in, and twenty-five infants baptized.

Professor C. N. Hanner '28 has been elected to fill the vacancy as supervisor of the principal of the Dayton schools. Dr. Hanner was graduated from Mountourville High School and entered Susquehanna the same fall. After graduation from Susquehanna, he was elected to fill the position as teacher of science at Dayton Vocational High School.

Son of Graduate Made Synod Secretary

By action of its Executive Committee as authorized at the last convocation of the United Lutheran Synod of New York, the Rev. Paul C. White, of Evanston, Ill., has been called to become secretary of the religious education for the synod. Rev. White is the son of the Reverend Robert A. White, who was graduated from Missionary Institute in '86.

The task of the new secretary will be to help pastors and superintendents in their own program of parish town. Pa.

education, as fitted to their local needs. He will also supervise summer camps and assemblies and will propose methods of leadership training. He will bring to the congregations the program of the United Lutheran Church and the highest educational methods.

Mr. White was graduated from Midland College, Western Theological Seminary and Northwestern University. He is now instructor in religious education in Northwestern University and has completed practically his entire requirements for the degree of Ph.D., all the study for which was in fields directly related to religious education.

Graduates Married

The Reverend John E. Sanderson, of Littlestown, and Miss Grace Beckley, of Lewistown, were united in marriage by Dr. H. N. Follmer. The ceremony was performed on Wednesday evening, May 27 in the Selinsgrove Trinity Lutheran Church. Rev. and Mrs. Sanderson are both graduates of the class of '28. They were attended by Miss Martha Eitel of Williamsport and the Reverend Decker of Gettysburg.

Resigns Pastorate

On May 21 the resignation of Samuel N. Carpenter D.D., took effect. Dr. Carpenter has received the following degrees from Susquehanna: A.B. '96, B.D. '00, A.M. '01, D.D. '17. Dr. Carpenter has been pastor at Brimingham since December 1, 1927. The church has prospered during this period despite the serious depression in the city.

Upon acceptance of the resignation, the congregation adopted resolutions expressive of deep regret and commending the work of Dr. Carpenter and his family. The people unanimously adopted a resolution pledging their loyalty and allegiance to the work of their church, and hopefully look for a pastor who will lead them in a triumphant march of progress during the years to come.

Dr. Carpenter retires from the pastorate temporarily and will engage in business in his native town, Beaver-

Elected to Responsible Position

The Rev. Park W. Huntington, pastor of St. Stephen's Lutheran Church, Wilmington, Del., has received official notification of his election as a member of the executive staff of the Chaplains' Association of the Army of the United States, at the sixth annual convention of that body which was held in Washington several weeks ago. Rev. Huntington received degrees in '17, '21 and '26.

Synod Conference

The Juniata Missionary Conference of the Susquehanna Synod of Central Pennsylvania met in Immanuel Church, Thompsonstown, of which the Rev. Reuben Bingham, '23, '25, is pastor. The theme was "The Challenge: How Shall We Meet It?"

Article by Dr. F. P. Manhart Appears in "The Lutheran" Magazine

The issue of May 28 of "The Lutheran" contains an article written by Dr. F. P. Manhart. The article is included under Books and Literature and is entitled "Paul's Epistle to the Ephesians." This is a book review of the work of Norman B. Harrison, D.D., on this subject.

Changes of Address

Changes of address have been made by the following graduates: Paul M. Kinports from 203 Cocoa Ave., Hershey, to 5123 Newhall St., Germantown, Philadelphia, Pa.; Louis C. Rode from 2332 Prince Edward St., Vancouver, B. C., to Wyncoote, Pa.

To Deliver Baccalaureate Sermon

The baccalaureate sermon to the graduates of the '31 class of the high school in White Haven, Pa., is to be preached by the Reverend John Stamm '29, pastor of the Methodist Church of that town.

Variety of Numbers in Commencement Concert

The annual Commencement Concert was given Friday evening, June 5, in Seibert Chapel. The Juniors of the Conservatory featured in this concert. The Orchestra of the University, and the Combined Glee Clubs assisted on the program. The two solo and chorus numbers that were given in the Music Week concert and that were enjoyed by all, were repeated.

Three Initiated to Tau Kappa Alpha

At a meeting of the Tau Kappa Alpha national debating fraternity, Miss Clara Corbin, Mr. Samuel Brosius, and Mr. Joseph Maimon were initiated. After the rites and ceremonies were dispensed with, the new members were each given the certificate of the fraternity.

Mary Weavering was elected president for next year; Samuel Brosius, vice-president, and Joseph Maimon, secretary-treasurer. The manager of the girls' debating team is Mary Weavering and the manager of the boys' team is Joseph Maimon. Much of the success of this organization has been due to the efforts of the out-going Seniors, particularly S. Walter Foulkrod, Lawrence Fisher, Wilson Seiber, Corinda Sell and Nellie Shue. It is the hope of the student body that the organization will continue to contribute as much to Susquehanna's forensic next year as it has this past season.

Entire Ball Team of 1881 Still Living

Olympians Represented Missionary Institute, Team of 50 Years Ago; Runs Were Only Box Score

Thru the painstaking efforts of Professor Luther D. Grossman, director of athletics, "The Susquehanna" is able to present a photograph of the first varsity baseball team to represent Missionary Institute, as S. U. was known formerly. The team went under the name of "Olympians" and played against the Sunbury Club of 1881 and other teams in the vicinity at the Selinsgrove Fair grounds.

On the team of fifty years ago, there was a player designated as "tenth" who cawed between first and second bases. The tabulation of runs was the main thing and was the only performance recorded in the box score.

A remarkable coincidence is that the ten men who took the field of battle fifty years ago are still living. There are only nine players on the picture, but the missing person is Chauncey Keeley, shortstop, who was a merchant in Selinsgrove, but retired several years ago. He possesses exceptional musical ability and at the present time is active as a director, teacher, pianist, and organist.

The third baseman, C. W. Herman, father of "Dutch" Herman of Penn State athletic fame and a resident of Selinsgrove, retired this year after fifty years of active public school work. He was also a member of the State Legislature, representing Snyder County. J. L. Rothrock and George Fockler who chased flies in right and left fields, respectively, both studied medicine and became successful practitioners—Dr. Rothrock at St. Paul, Minn., and Dr. Fockler at Mason City, Pa.

J. W. Shannon, first sacker, now is a retired Lutheran clergyman, residing at Watsonstown. S. M. Smyser, pitcher, is a member of the faculty of the Sunbury High School. He is also a resident of Selinsgrove, where he is active in community affairs and secretary of the Borough Council.

Last but not least, our own Dr. Harold N. Follmer was the catcher and one of the hard hitters on the team. He entered the ministry after completing his theological studies at Wittenburg College and since 1906 has been professor of economics and sociology at S. U.

Prof. J. R. Stauffer to Work for Ph.D. Degree

Professor J. R. K. Stauffer, Instructor in mathematics at Susquehanna University during the past year, will leave for the University of Chicago at the beginning of the summer session to continue his work for the degree of Ph.D. in mathematics.

In addition to his classroom work, Professor Stauffer took considerable interest in the athletic program at Susquehanna. He was one of the mainstays on the strong Faculty volleyball team, and has been seen frequently in the gym, on the track and on the tennis courts.

Professor Stauffer received his A.B. degree at Franklin and Marshall College in 1924, and his M.S. at Chicago University in 1928. During the period from 1927 to 1930 he was instructor of mathematics at Purdue University, whence he took up his position at Susquehanna.

Kindsvatter Wins In Jr. Oratorical Contest

The annual Junior Oratorical Contest held in the Chapel, June 5, at 7 p. m. had as its contestants Miss Janet Lettitz, Mr. Lee Fairchild, and Mr. John Kindsvatter. Miss Janet Lettitz used as her subject "The Value of Dramatics in College." She placed before the audience well-constructed facts which proved that dramatics should be given a large place in college, not only because of their educational value, but because of their cultural value as well. Mr. Lee Fairchild talked on the subject, "Where Now America?" His talk dealt with the over-production of materials in the United States and what is to be done about their consumption. Mr. John Kindsvatter's oration was entitled "An Answer to an Unanswered Question." His subject dealt with life, its problems and difficulties.

These contestants have been very active in dramatics and debating in college and their arguments and methods of delivery showed thought and training. The audience was small but select. John Kindsvatter presented his subject most logically and was conceded the first prize. Miss Janet Lettitz took the second prize and Lee M. Fairchild was given honorable mention.

Pi Gamma Mu Gave Banquet on Thursday

Pi Gamma Mu, National Social Science Honor Fraternity, held its final business meeting of the year on Thursday evening at 5 o'clock in the Omega Delta Sigma Sorority room. About 25 faculty, alumni, and undergraduate members attended.

Dr. Kretschmann read the minutes and gave the annual Secretary-Treasurer's report, after which Herbert Schmidt, President of the Fraternity, reviewed at length the national Constitution of Pi Gamma Mu. This review was mainly for the benefit of the new members. President Schmidt then proceeded to receive into membership the following juniors: Margaret Fink, Edna Wilson, Edna Williams, Janet Lettitz, Herbert Rummel, Meryl Hubbard, Frederick Wilks, John Kindsvatter, and Samuel Brosius. Robert Donnell, a Senior, was also received. Election of officers for next year was held with the following results: President, Herbert Rummel; Vice-President, Edna Williams.

After the meeting the members enjoyed the annual Pi Gamma Mu banquet, which was served in the Horton Dining Hall.

Herbert Schmidt presided as toastmaster. G. Morris Smith gave the address, the topic of which was the challenge of present conditions to those interested in social science. Following the address, President Schmidt installed the new officers. Herbert Rummel took charge after the installation, and ordered the meeting closed by the singing of the Alma Mater.

LEESE STANDS FIRST IN OUTDOOR TRACK MEET

When the girls held their outdoor track meet only five events were listed. There were not many participants as there might have been and there were only a few entered in each event.

The winners were: Baseball throw—Leese, first; Jones, second; Fink, third. 100 yd. dash—Savidge, first; Fink, second; Nichols, third. High jump—Leese, first; Leese, second. 60 yd. hurdles—Savidge and Leese tied for first place; Nichols, second. Broad jump—Jones, first; Savidge, second; Crow, third.

Many Enjoy One-Act Play, "Sham"

Monday evening under the direction of Professor A. C. Hartung, the Dramatic Club presented "Sham," a one-act play, the last for this season.

All of the members of the cast were well known and gave an excellent performance. They should all be congratulated for it was a strain to have to practice just before examination week.

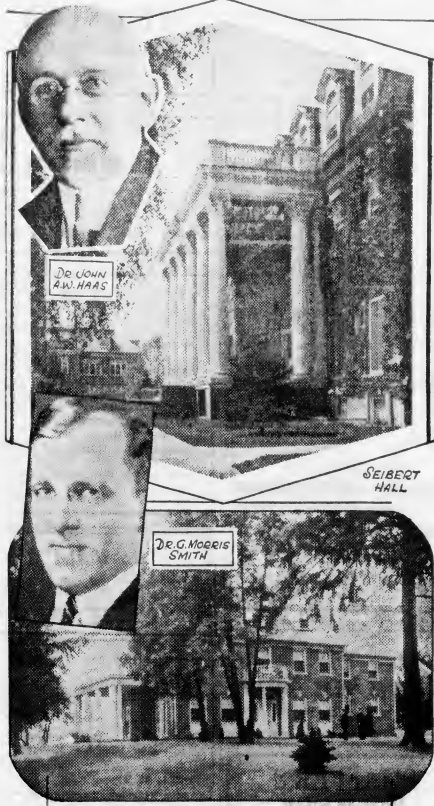

Professor Hartung is also to be congratulated for the work he did in this play, which is the last he will present at the campus.

Betty Wardrop had charge of the staging and she showed the experience which she has had in this work.

The cast was as follows: The Thief, Luke Rhoads; Clara, Mary Hutchings; Charles Arthur Wilmarth.

Susquehanna Commencement Closes

Familiar Scenes on the Campus of Susquehanna University, Whose Annual Commencement Closed Today.

President Is Host At Country Club

President and Mrs. Smith entertained the members of the Senior Class at a reception given in their honor at the Susquehanna Valley Country Club on Friday noon, immediately following the close of the Class Day exercises on the campus in the morning. At the Club the students were received by Dr. and Mrs. Smith, Dean George Dunkelberger, Dean Hade, and President Smith, with the Senior response from the Class President, S. Walter Foulkrod, who expressed a sincere word of gratitude in behalf of the class of which he is President for the "considerations, kindnesses, and courtesies" which the Administration has extended the Seniors and accorded the entire student body.

A delightful hour was spent following the dinner, during which the intimate friendships, which of necessity were soon to be severed, were enjoyed for almost the last time.

O. D. S. HOLDS SHOWER FOR HELEN SWOPE

May 27, Omega Delta Sigma surprised one of her members who will be a June bride of 31. After the sorority meeting Wednesday they presented Helen Swope with a pyrrh dress set. With this gift went the best wishes of her sorority sisters for many years of happiness.

Miss Swope is to be married June 8 the first of the graduating class to marry.

The evening passed quickly with dancing and refreshments were served before the girls finally left to finish those last minute reports.

SORORITY SISTERS PRESENT GIFTS

To prove that they were really sorry that the seniors were leaving Omega Delta Sigma presented each of their seniors with a vanity case with the sorority seal. It is the hope of the girls that the seniors who are going out this year will often think of them and Susquehanna. At least they are sure to be in their thoughts every time their noses shine.

The program rendered was as follows:

March—"Bombasto" - Tobani
Overture—"Magic Flute" - Mozart
Trumpet Solo—"The Swan" - Londoner
Frank Bennardi

"College Overture" - Lake

"Waltz of Blue Danube"—Johannes Strauss.

"Stars and Stripes Forever" - Sousa

"Faust" - Gound

"March Tannhauser" - Wagner

STUDENT ESCAPES INJURY IN AUTOMOBILE CRASH

Donald Steele, nephew of the former Senator Charles Steele and a sophomore at Susquehanna University, narrowly escaped death last Friday evening when the car in which he was riding, on the road to Shamokin, suddenly overturned on a curve and immediately burst into flames.

Mr. Steele was traveling with a Sunbury orchestra to fill an engagement when the accident occurred. The car, a small truck, was carrying five members of the orchestra and the instruments. As it rounded a sharp curve at the bottom of a hill, the tires skidded off the slippery pavement and the vehicle overturned. Although all landed unharmed, the greatest danger was in the gasoline tank which burst immediately into fire and the riders were fortunate to escape that, let alone to rescue the instruments.

Most of the instruments were ruined, and those that were recovered are practically the same. The loss of these alone amounts to nearly a thousand dollars.

GIRLS TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP WON BY KEM

Miriam Kem of the senior class won the championship in the women's singles for 1931. She defeated Lehman and Shue. She also won the doubles playing with Maurey. Together they defeated Geisel and Lidsas.

There were very few girls entered in the tournament this year. The lack of interest may be attributed to the fact that the girls have no courts for their exclusive use.

Nine Downs Juniata Jinx in Timely Win

Smart Playing of Entire Team Upsets Indians' Hopes of Easy Game. Hits in First Inning Give 4-0 Victory

With Captain Bob Donnell pitching a brand of shut-out ball in his last collegiate baseball game, the Crusaders suddenly came to life and surprised the Juniata Indians in the first inning on University Field on Saturday, and won 4-0 in the last game of the season.

The Crusaders started out in the first inning by playing a brand of baseball that could not be beat, and scored all four runs which gave them the game Juniata had expected would be their third victory this week, after defeating Bucknell and Villanova.

Captain Donnell led off in the first inning with a hard double to right field. Spielmyer was given a free pass and both runners advanced on Malasky's sacrifice. Donnell stole home and was safe as Petty dropped the ball. Stroup then came through with an infield hit, scoring Spielmyer. Herman reached first stop. Rubis then sacrificed, scoring Stroup. Palmer then came through with the third hit with a "Texas Leaguer" behind second base, scoring Herman for the fourth run and the final run scored in the game.

Every member on Coach Ullery's team played heads-up baseball and gave splendid support to Captain Bob Donnell. "Swede" Palmer played the best game in the field, being on the end of a double-play, accepting hard chances and having ten chances without a slip-up.

This game was also notable for the breaking of the so-called "jinx" which the Indians had over the Crusaders on the diamond for the past three years, and marked the second victory over Juniata by Captain Donnell in four years of college competition.

Snyder started on the mound for Juniata, but was sent to the showers in the first inning after two outs had been made. He was relieved by Fraker, who pitched a one-hit game in 8-2 innings.

Captain Donnell and Herman will be the only two men lost by graduation, and both played one of their best games on Saturday afternoon.

Seibert Hall Echoes

Seibert Hall co-eds look prosperous this week. Did you notice all of the cars parked about the girls' dormitory? Some mighty nice looking ones, too.

The janitor feeling that can come to one comes to the girls in Seibert Hall when all of the trunks are brought out of storage and placed in the hall before the owners' doors.

It would be appropriate to dedicate this week's echoes entirely to the seniors. It would be very nice if all of the space could be used to say the pleasant things about them that deserve to be said. We all know them and we are all going to miss them next year. All that we can do is to wish them every bit of luck that horse shoes, four leaf clovers and rabbit feet can bring them and hope that the freshmen next year will in some slight way compensate us for their loss.

MEN'S STUDENT COUNCIL

On June the fourth the Men's Student Council elected their officers for the coming year. Following are the results of the election:

President—Maurice Shaeffer.

Vice President—Herbert Rummel.

Secretary—Robert Sala.

Treasurer—Joseph Malmoin.

With such a group of representatives from our campus it is certain that much good will be derived from this organization.

He continued in the same vein: "Be an example in word, in conversation, in charity, in spirit, in faith, in purity, and the Lord will abundantly bless your ministry." He closed his address with this admonition, feeling sure that the newest members of the Gospel Ministry would be a bit better for a word of friendly advice from one who has already started the work.

Host of Alumni See 'Show Boat' Saturday

Dr. Leon Messner Directs Production in Splendid Manner. Program Includes Display of Talent

Gaiety reigned supreme in the annual Alumni Minstrel under the direction of Dr. Leon Messner, who, with a bang Saturday night in Seibert Chapel Hall, adding a pleasing zest to the week-end program.

The "Show Boat" consisted of two parts: the first, largely a musical and dancing, and the second a play especially musical number, and the finale. Music was supplied by the College Band. Professor Elrose Allison at the organ, the circle, and several groups and individuals, while a dancing chorus contributed the toe-work.

"The Teeth of the Gift Horse" was presented in the second half of the program, a modern sketch, featuring many of Susquehanna's favorite actors. Every member of the cast has appeared previously in at least three campus productions. Then came the specialty number with Mrs. Bertha Rodgers and Miss Irene Mengel, followed by the finale.

The dancing chorus was under the direction of Miss Dorothy Reeder, the play coached by Mrs. Margaret P. Wingard, and the specialty number arranged by Mrs. Bertha L. Rodgers. These people and their groups are to be commended for their cooperation with Dr. Messner in staging the Minstrel so successfully.

HONORARIES ENTERTAIN AT COUNTRY CLUB

The honorary members of Omega Delta Sigma entertained the actives with bridge and dinner at the Susquehanna Valley Country Club, May 29.

At three o'clock a line of cars formed in front of Seibert Hall to take the girls to the club house. Upon their arrival the attractive ladies were distributed and an afternoon of bridge was enjoyed. Of course everyone does not play bridge and a table of anagrams amused those who preferred that.

Dinner was served in the club dining room and it was thoroughly enjoyed by all of the guests. After dinner the girls danced until the cars arrived to take them back to the Dorm. The bridge prizes were won by Sara Rhoads, Eleanor Sheriff, and Janet Leitzell. Ruth Bergstrasse won the prize for anagrams.

MRS. MARTHA DODSON TO HAVE EXPERIENCED ASSISTANT

Miss Alice Bickstaff, of Buffalo, New York; A.B. from Oberlin College and also a graduate from the Library School of Buffalo University, has been engaged as Assistant Librarian and will begin her work July 1st. Miss Bickstaff has also been an English instructor for four years.

Dr. and Mrs. G. Morris Smith, Dr. George Dunkelberger, Dr. and Mrs. Allison, Dr. and Mrs. Wood Professor and Mrs. L. D. Grossman.

Seniors' Andrews and his playmates furnished the music for the Spillon Sigma dance. Electric lights in favor with the Electric Sigma seal on them told the girls when the dance was over. There were no popular dances, but the faculty members were invited to attend any time during the evening.

The Bond and Key Club members were entertained by Paul Zimmerman and his band. The favors were portfolios with the Bond and Key seal on them. The chaperones were:

Dr. F. G. Williams and Mother, Dr. and Mrs. H. A. Surface, Dr. and Mrs. P. G. Orsbe, Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Woodruff, Dr. and Mrs. A. H. Ahl, Dr. H. N. Follmer, Professor F. S. Scudder, Professor and Mrs. P. M. Linebaugh, Professor and Mrs. E. E. Sheldon, Professor and Mrs. W. D. Hemphill, Miss Isabelle Strouther.

Phi Lambda Theta enjoyed the music by the Golden Serenaders. The favors were silver stage coach vanities. The chaperones were:

Dr. Manhart and his wife, who are senior members; Dr. Sadtler and his wife, Dr. Dunkelberger.

Everyone is tired after the two nights of dancing but on all sides one can hear "Weren't those favors dear, and didn't you have a grand time?"

Weekly Comment

Mistakenly, I think, shared in the faces of the young girls for blood a policeman "wrote in a not call to" subdue 400 Ohio Wesleyan University sophomores and freshmen women, who had come to searching, biting and snarling because the first year girls refused to wear "rat" caps.

Resisting and the drinking 14 bottles of beer a day is the best back which a student in Selinsgrove can enjoy. He is comforted in the West. Professor Allison is in Selinsgrove which is a student's best opportunity and one who has it will take a person satisfied with 14 bottles of beer a day, as Fred B. and his friends, and there, and Fred B. and his friends.

SUSQUEHANNA GRAD AND DIPLOMAT LOST IN CHINA TROUBLE ZONE

Dr. Claude A. Buss Believed to be in Midst of Turmoil That Threatens Sino-Jap War.
Parents Receive No Word

According to press dispatches from Washington, D. C., Dr. Claude Albert Buss, who received his master of arts degree from Susquehanna in 1924 and now language officer in the American legation at Peiping, China, is in the midst of the international ferment that threatens to engulf Japan and China in war.

With Chinese Nationalists bitterly assailing Japanese officials for alleged acts of imperialism and with reports of Americans slain in Manchuria, the Sunbury man may easily find himself in the vortex of a grave international crisis. It was remarked in diplomatic circles.

It was stated by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Buss, 153 Reagan street, Sunbury, that he has not been heard from in the past six weeks. This is most unusual, since the young diplomat was in regular correspondence with the home folks. During times which might cause concern to his relatives, it has always been his policy since going to China to send through some reassuring word. It is believed, however, that his continued silence is due to disrupted mail service.

Dr. Buss was born at Sunbury, November 29, 1903. He received the degree of bachelor of arts at the Washington Missionary College in 1922 and that of doctor of philosophy at the University of Pennsylvania in 1927. Other institutions in which he amplified his studies were L'Institut des hautes Etudes Internationales (Carnegie fellowship in international law) and L'Ecole Libre des Sciences Politiques in 1927-28.

For two years he was instructor in political science in the University of Pennsylvania and for another two years professor of political science at Grove City College. After an examination, he was appointed unclassified foreign service officer and vice consul of career March 26, 1929 and on the first of May of the same year he was assigned to the foreign service school. His appointments as language officer at Peiping dates back to September 16, 1929.

Crusaders Will Tackle Delaware

Saturday Game to be One of Toughest
This Season. Each Team Plays
First Game of Schedule

When the whistle blows for the kickoff and the opening of the football season Saturday afternoon, the Susquehanna grid men will find themselves matched against one of the strongest (if not the strongest) eleven they will meet this season when they play Delaware College at Newark, Delaware.

Delaware did not play last Saturday so there is no certainty as to the strength of the eleven it will put on the field Saturday. However, if its record of last season and prospects for the coming campaign mean anything, Delaware will undoubtedly be one of our strongest opponents.

Susquehanna was matched against the Delaware team two years ago and defeated them on our field by a 20-0 score. At that time a weak Delaware eleven was put up against a Susquehanna team made up of veterans. Last year the two teams were not scheduled.

This year things will be considerably reversed. The Orange and Maroon will enter the fray with a team woefully weak in veteran material. The result of the game will be largely dependent on the showing of the newer men. Although some have been very promising in the practices, the real test will come Saturday afternoon.

Stars of last season who will not wear the Orange and Maroon colors Saturday are Garman, Moser, Scott, Wolf, Winters, Berger, Hudkins, Barber and Glenn.

However, there will be eleven lettermen around whom the team will be built. They are Captain Adams, end; Auchmuty, guard; Extor, tackle; Myers, halfback; Fisher, center; Rishel, fullback; Sprout, fullback; Carmichael, guard; Witkop, guard; Speer, halfback; Spieglemyer, end.

Snell of Dickinson to Coach Linemen

Assisting Coach Ullery in football this season is Herbert Snell, whose specialty will be training the Orange and Maroon linemen.

Snell comes here directly from the Dunmore High School, where for the last two seasons he has been very successful in his work as a football coach there. He has had considerable experience playing football himself, being a member of the Scranton Tech. High School, the St. Thomas Prep eleven, and four years on the Dickinson team while at the law school and college. He played at both the tackle and guard positions.

At Dickinson College Snell was coach of the Freshmen basketball team. He will also assist Ullery in basketball here this winter.

Depression Misses Profs as Cupid Hits

Faculty Men Cause Matrimonial Boom
During Summer Months; Stauffer and Miss Seal Leave as One

Professor Russel W. Gilbert, of the department of German, was married to Miss Viola Kemmerer of Etnaus, this summer. Professor Gilbert was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania, and taught in Lehigh University and Muhlenberg college previous to his coming here. Mrs. Gilbert had been teaching in the Allentown public schools before her marriage. The couple will reside in Selinsgrove.

Professor Frederick C. Stevens and Miss Sally Brungart were married at Bangor, Me., on June 20. Professor Stevens received the degree of Bachelor of Music at the University of Minnesota and studied music for two years in Europe, principally at the Conservatoire in Paris. Mrs. Stevens was graduated from Susquehanna University and has been engaged as a member of the Millburg High School faculty. They will also reside in Selinsgrove.

Professor Jacob R. K. Stauffer, instructor of mathematics during the past year, was married to Miss Sarah E. Seal, instructor in Business Administration of this University.

Professor F. W. S. Scudder, Professor of Biology, was married this summer, to Miss Wright, a graduate of Cornell University. Mrs. Scudder is a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

Bob Sala Fractures Leg in Soccer Game

Junior at Susquehanna is Victim of Unfortunate Mishap on Athletic Field; In Sunbury Hospital

While a score or more of football warriors charged each other with bone-crushing tactics, not fifty yards away hospital attendants were lifting the still form of Robert Sala, clad in a contrasting gym suit of white, from the soccer field into an ambulance, late Tuesday afternoon.

Sala, a Junior at Susquehanna University, now lies in the Mary M. Packer Hospital at Sunbury with a fractured thigh bone as a result of a scrimmage during a soccer game between members of the Junior Physical Education class.

The mishap appeared so incidental and without demonstration that play continued for several seconds before it was realized that Sala was badly hurt. Then a local doctor was summoned, who advised that the student be taken to a hospital immediately for further examination. During all this time Professor Grossman wisely refrained from moving the injured youth, thereby sparing him much unnecessary pain.

Much comment was heard upon the fortitude which Sala maintained all through the grueling period of waiting for the ambulance, suffering examination, and being moved to the vehicle, not to mention the thoughts of what lay before him. With a stoicism that would have done credit to any Spartan he calmly exchanged jokes and witticisms with the group of sympathetic friends who crowded around in an attempt to help in what little way they could. He seemed to enjoy their helplessness hugely, and insisted that "it doesn't hurt; it's only numb."

After setting the limb, the attending physician reported that Sala would probably be retained at the hospital for a period from three to six weeks.

Students Attend Sunday Vespers

It seemed entirely fitting that the two first vespers services should have been led by the presidents of the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A., respectively. As leader of the service on September 29th, Lee Fairchild was ably assisted by Lewis Fox. They drew a striking picture of the Christ as a man of great personal and spiritual power, a picture which the students who attended the service will not soon forget.

The following Sunday the Y. W. C. A. and Janet Letteltz in particular, were in charge of the service. It is the plan of the vesper committee consisting of Pauline Crowe, Edith Frankendorf, and Samuel Brosius, to have the boys and girls alternate each week in making Vespers a spiritual success.

SUSQUEHANNA UNIVERSITY BEGINS SEVENTY-FOURTH ACADEMIC YEAR

Reverend Hanning Addressed Students in Opening Exercises; Faculty Reception Scores Again; "Y" Helps Freshmen

DR. ARTHUR HERMAN WILSON

Susquehanna University officially opened its seventy-fourth academic year on Thursday morning, September 17, when nearly four hundred students reported at the Chapel in Seibert Hall for the beginning of a new term. Rev. Hanning, as a guest of the Faculty, responded very nobly to a call from the President and addressed the body. He presented most forcibly many of the initial features of progress at the University. Further, he proceeded to admonish the students to higher ideals during the coming year, enumerating the values of concentrated study and elevated moral standing. President Smith and Dean Dunkelberger presented addresses of welcome to all members of the assembly and clarified many of the new regulations that the Administration has instituted for the forthcoming year. Others of the Faculty expressed their opinions and ideas.

Following the chapel services, classes began promptly at 10:10 so that the pupils might become accustomed to their classroom schedule and the many new faces on the Faculty as soon as possible. Some schedule changes were made since the past term and the students were anxious to become acquainted with them quickly.

On Thursday evening the opening day was satisfactorily brought to a close at the Faculty Reception in Horton Dining Hall. Practically the entire student body was present to greet their old friends on the faculty and become acquainted with the new.

Seven New Faces on University Faculty

Vacancies in Departments Are Filled by New Profs; Includes Assistants in Library and Coach

A number of new faculty members assumed their teaching duties at the University with the opening of the 74th session of Susquehanna. The accessions to the faculty are in the English, Mathematics, French, Business and Library Departments. Having received their degrees from leading colleges and universities and with sufficient teaching experience, these men maintain the high standards of Susquehanna's strong faculty. The additions include:

Dr. Arthur Herman Wilson, Ph.D., a member of Phi Beta Kappa and a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, where he taught for four years, has been elected to succeed Prof. A. C. Hartung as head of the English Department.

Dr. George Seidel, Ph.D., of Johns Hopkins University, will serve as instructor.

NOTICE! ALUMNI!

This issue of the Susquehanna is being sent to all alumni as an effort to secure subscriptions for the coming year. As an alumnus of Susquehanna, you are no doubt interested in its progress and the best way to keep in touch with the activities of your Alma Mater is to subscribe to the weekly publication, THE SUSQUEHANNA. A sure way to find out about your fellow graduates is to follow the alumni notes which appear each week.

The Staff will strive to lead this student publication to become the finest voice of the Spirit of Susquehanna University. The Staff is ready to undertake seriously its work for the year. But as is always the case, it is only through your cooperative comments, subscriptions and contributions that THE SUSQUEHANNA can become a complete success.

NOTICE ALUMNI

Would you like to read a column under the alumni notes such as "Susquehanna As It Once Was"? We, here at Susquehanna, cannot conceive of the school except as we know it now. A column such as this one, would interest everyone. The following list may offer some suggestions to you for the subject of an article: the campus and its buildings, the students, your classes, the faculty, the food, old customs, pranks played, athletic games, plays, or anything to show us the contrast between that Susquehanna and the Susquehanna of today.

We feel that news of this kind would have a greater appeal to the present student body and new members of the faculty. Your old classmates, too, would no doubt be interested in having recalled to mind their school days.

Is there not at least one incident outstanding during your entire college life that would be worthy of publication? Your name need not be published if you object. Any news for this column would be appreciated by the alumni editor.

WELCOME CLASS "1935"

By this time it is likely that the Freshman class has not only been welcomed but has adjusted itself somewhat to the life at Susquehanna. However, the Weekly, as the expression of the student body, wishes to add its greetings and extend its wishes for a successful college career to each member of the incoming class who has chosen Susquehanna as his home. The unease and feelings of strangeness which you had during your introduction to new people and new places have disappeared and we hope you are finding Susquehanna more enjoyable and will find it more profitable each day of your four years.

You have caught the pep and spirit and enthusiasm at the start. Your "get-away" was a success. Your organization as a class has begun. Now it is your duty to continue in the fine way that you started. At Susquehanna as at any school your success or your failure in all the activities of college life depends only upon yourself. No matter how fine a faculty or efficient an equipment or splendid a student body a university may have, you yourself cannot be fully successful unless you take all you can from college life and give back to your Alma Mater your best efforts for its betterment.

You will become affiliated with organizations and clubs. Make each organization of which you are a member feel that enthusiasm and spirit which makes for vital progress. Above all, remember that you are training for life and your life work. There is some one who is deeply interested in what you do and accomplish. Do not destroy that faith.

It is you, each member of the class of "1925" that guides and controls the record which you will have when that year, four years hence, rolls by.

IN GRATITUDE

To Miss Clara Corbin THE STAFF wishes to extend sincere appreciation and gratitude for her untiring efforts expended as the advisor to the editorial group of the weekly. She has felt that her debating work and extension courses as well as college work would burden her heavily and so has asked to be relieved of the responsibility of editorial advisor. Her place will be taken by Dr. H. B. Wilson, the new head of the English department.

DEPRESSION AND THE UNIVERSITY

The depression which has affected the entire world has left its mark also upon the college and university. Hand in hand with the numerous losses of money and business ventures goes the enrollment of these higher institutions of learning.

Perhaps extremely wealthy men have not had to make a change in the education of their sons and daughters, but many people in the middle class of society have not been so fortunate. Many parents who have had to change to positions of lower salaries or have lost their income entirely, for at least some time, have felt it impossible to give further aid financially to their children who were attending higher schools. It thus rested entirely upon the student whether he would continue in college this fall. A student who has had the financial aid of a parent all his life might be entirely incapable of handling this new and unexpected responsibility.

Susquehanna has been well treated in its enrollment of old students. The percentage that returned is very high. It is an indication that either the parents of our students have been fortunate or that some students have undertaken their college education single-handed. Not only have the old students returned, but the Freshman enrollment almost equals last year's mark.

To curb the effect of the depression and keep at least some from discontinuing their education this year, colleges and universities are cooperating actively with President Hoover's plan and organization for unemployment relief through the increasing of scholarships and student loans, acceptance of work and promissory notes for tuition and many other methods.

After the suggestions for these kinds of assistance had been made to the schools by the President's committee on unemployment the report has been issued by Mr. Fred C. Croxton, assistant director of the organization, that scores of letters have come in "pledging the finest types of service."

Dean C. Mildred Thompson of Vassar College wrote that aid was being extended to students through scholarships in order to prevent their discontinuing their education at that institution.

President William A. Neilson of Smith College reported that the withdrawal of upper class students has been less than usual, but that the demand for financial aid has been greater, and that the college was returning about $125,000 of its fees in the form of scholarships.

Northwestern University has appropriated additional loan funds and arranged more scholarships this year according to the president, Wallace Dill Scott.

College students in Iowa have been urged not to compete with the unemployed, according to Miss Agnes Samuelson, the State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Replies promising cooperation have been received by the unemployment committee from many other colleges and universities. Through such cooperation will the effects of the depression be less felt and many will be able to complete their college education.

ALUMNI NOTES

Receives M. A. Degree

N. L. Bartges, supervising principal of the Avis borough schools, received his master of science degree from Pennsylvania State College at the end of the school term last June.

Mr. Bartges received his elementary education in the schools of Logan township, Clinton county. He was graduated from the Lock Haven Central State Normal School in 1912 and received his A. B. degree at Susquehanna in 1928.

He began teaching in the schools of Logan township, was supervising principal of the schools of Chapman township for one year, of the high school at Centre Hall for five years, and has been supervising principal at Avis for thirteen years. During this time at Avis, the schools have increased from 168 to 385 pupils and the number of teachers from four to eleven. The building has been twice enlarged, and the borough now has a first-class four-year high school course.

Grad. Weds

The marriage of Miss Ethel Mason, of Myersdale, Pa., and the Rev. Wayne M. Daubenspeck of Oshkosh, Neb., was solemnized July 15, in St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Omaha, Neb., by Dr. William I. Guss, president of the Nebraska Synod. Mrs. Daubenspeck is a graduate of Goucher College, Baltimore, Md., and has taught in the public schools of Pennsylvania since her graduation. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Della Daubenspeck of Selingsgrove, Pa., and the late Rev. L. M. Daubenspeck. He has been the successful pastor of the Oshkosh-Lewellyn Parish since his graduation in 1930 from Susquehanna University and Theological Seminary at Selingsgrove.

Death of Young Lady

Mrs. Arthur S. Cooper, formerly Lillian Kathryn Bigelow, ex-'28, during the summer died at the Westside Hospital, Olean, N. Y., following an operation for appendicitis.

Mrs. Cooper was born and reared in Phillipsburg. She later attended Susquehanna University and Beckley College. Since completion of her college studies she has taught school, at the time of her illness and subsequent death being commercial instructor at Eldred. She previously taught three terms in the Phillipsburg High School and one in Delbarton, W. Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Cooper had been married only two months and had intended to take up their residence at Austin.

Miss Tressler Returns to Post at Academy

Miss Edna R. Tressler, '29, has resumed her duties as director of music in the Vermont Academy at Saxtons River, Vermont. Before returning to that place she attended the convention of organists in New York.

This is Miss Tressler's second year at the Vermont Academy.

Ex-Grad Secures Position as Dramatic Coach

Miss Dorothy Turnbach, ex-'31, secured a position this year as coach of dramatics in the million dollar high school at Hazleton, Pa. This is to be considered an especial honor in that inexperienced teachers are very seldom employed.

Miss Turnbach attended Susquehanna for two years until she completed the course in public speaking, and then transferred to Grove City College from which she was graduated last June.

During the summer, & play, written by Miss Turnbach, was presented in one of the Hazleton theatres.

Graduate Debater Addresses Club

Walter Foulkrod, '31, was the principal speaker at a luncheon given by the Kiwanis Club of Hazleton. He used as his subject "Peace and Rumors of War" and based his remarks on findings of the Kellogg Pact. Some will remember Mr. Foulkrod's debating on this subject last year. A's member of the club considered his address brilliant and commended highly on Mr. Foulkrod's command of knowledge on the subject.

High School and College Classmates Wed

The marriage of Miss Gertrude Arbogast and George Spaid took place recently in the St. John's M. E. Church in Sunbury. Both young people were graduated from Selingsgrove High School in the class of 1925 and later from Susquehanna University in 1929. Mrs. Spaid then taught in the public schools of Wattsburg and Mr. Spaid attended the U. S. Army flying school at Kelly Field, Texas, and was graduated from there last February.

Marriage

Miss Mable Dagle of Northumberland recently became the bride of Ralph Gramley of Rebersburg.

Mrs. Gramley was graduated from Northumberland High School and from Susquehanna University in 1926. Immediately after that, she accepted a position as history teacher in the Northumberland Junior High School. Mrs. Gramley is a member of the Omega Delta Sigma sorority at S. U.

The bridegroom is a World War veteran. He was graduated from Susquehanna in 1925. He then took a position as teacher in the Williamsstown High School and last year went to Forty Fort. He is a member of Epsilon Sigma fraternity.

S. U. Women Enjoy Two Pleasant Teas

Afternoon tea is always a perfectly delightful way of spending a bit of time and visiting with people, and is in great favor at Susquehanna.

The Y. W. C. A. was the first organization to invite the Freshmen to tea. It has become one of their traditions to entertain with tea the first day that the students are all back. Running true to tradition, it was held September 16 and was attended by near; all of the women students. Miss Lettzell, Miss Hade, Mrs. Smith and Miss Strother received while Miss Weaverling and Miss Dunkleberger poured.

Inter-sorority opened the season entertaining with the inter-sorority tea Saturday, September 26. The presidents of the sororities, Miss Sheriff, Miss Miller and Miss Puckey received and Miss Williamson, Miss Gentzler and Miss Geisel poured.

This was one of the most congenial teas held on the campus.

The Editor's Mail

Students, alumni and friends of THE SUSQUEHANNA will have an opportunity to express their ideas and criticism in this column. At the discretion of the editorial staff all letters will be published. All you have to do is to address your letter to THE EDITOR or give it to one of the staff members. We hope everyone will at one time or another make use of this chance for self expression.

S. U. PEPYS

Last year there five or six goofy columns like this one scattered all over the paper which the unwary reader might stumble upon and read before he realized his mistake. For your convenience this year we shall combine them into one so that you may avoid this misfortune.

It seems that the co-eds at Bucknell must have a smoking room, since they resort to cemeteries and buildings under construction to enjoy their little puff and keep kissable. The "Bucknellian" wails: "Do we want our co-eds ignominiously kicked from a cemetery or hurt by falling concrete blocks?" At any rate, at Susquehanna one would have to travel pretty far to find a building under construction.

When the average Soph says "Button, Frosh," the cry of "Beat Delaware" is not very enthusiastic, but what a response when Barkin' Al Meyer lets a below! The blast loosens the ceiling above the poor boys in Selingsgrove Hall, scares the horses at Hummel's Wharf, and out in Paxtonville, makes the yearling commuter stop milking the cows, to implore "Beat Delaware!"

The frosh get-away "thru different eyes":

Freshman: Did we put it over on 'em? I'm askin' you, was that a get-away? I guess we showed 'em. Tried to get our election, but they didn't stop us. No, sir! We just paraded back to town, kept 'em off, and had some supper.

Sophomore: Getaway? Humph! I guess we put 'em in their place. You got hurt most? Naw, we didn't take their president, because we thought somebody else might get hurt, and we aren't that sort.

The rest of us: A lot of torn shirts, dirty faces, hysterical females, and the fire department.

Some of the boys who saw the game at State College on Saturday suggest that we have Penn State on our schedule. Anyway, most of us aren't sorry that we're not playing Ursinus this year. Did you see it? Ursinus 12, Lehigh 7.

Imagine the astonishment of the old student who looked in the pool. Science for the 1,999th time, and actually saw two fish swimming about majestically.

Not to mention the poor boy who hoped for some quiet in the dormitory this year, and saw Byron Hafer coming in with a tooth brush and an extra collar.

We poor b-boys in Hassinger d-don't remember what hot w-water feels like. It's even p-g-getting too c-cold to write.

Ain't you glad? R. V. NERTZ.

Freshmen Get-Away Shows Organization

Early Move Catches Sophomores Off Guard: Streets of Selinsgrove Mark Scene of Struggle

Unusual ability for quick organization was the dominating factor in the success of the Frosh get-away last Tuesday, boldly carried out in the streets of Selinsgrove. Within less than a week's time following registration day, the yearlings had drifted off the campus by five o'clock, during which time the Sophs were unconsciously coveting about the soccer field.

"Great Gadooks," shouted those irate gentlemen when the great light descended upon them and, donning fighting togs, they sallied forth in hot pursuit, through the help of squad cars (consisting of a half dozen or so vehicles, genus Ford, species model T).

Guided by that strange mysterious instinct which always seems to accompany Sophs on the trail of wayward Get-awaying Frosh, they finally wound up at an old barn on North Market Street at the psychological moment, i. e., when the election was in full swing.

"The nick of time," growled the persecutors and stormed the election hall with a magnificent burst of confidence.

"Oh yeah!" retorted the inconsiderate campaigners, and not seeming to appreciate the fact that Sophomores were created to dominate over timorous Freshmen, they promptly and forcibly ejected the intruders with malice aforethought, and no little assistance from their feminine dassmates.

"Curses," retorted their uppers, and remained outside while the political session was resumed within.

It seems that one William Reiger, hailing from Somerville, New Jersey, was elected president for the fiscal year of 1931-32. The other officers taking the oath were: George Davis, vice-president; Helen Monahan, secretary; and Thomas Crelan, treasurer.

Meanwhile, the fuming Sophs were planning dire vengeance, centering their retaliation on the thought of taking the newly installed president, and possibly some of his associates, "for a ride." With this intent they charged the now officially organized class of 1935. The latter again offered resistance, and so the warlike cavalcade approached the metropolitan district of Selinsgrove.

By this time, the Sophs had registered some decisive blows, aided by the fact that some innocent bystanders, in the form of Junior and Senior football men had been maltreated in the enthusiasm of the yearlings and had promptly returned the compliment.

The havoc was now rapidly approaching its pinnacle, having attracted the local police and fire departments, and roused the amazed citizens from their slumbers, the hour now having passed seven in the evening.

At this point, one of the Freshman boys passed into temporary oblivion, having come into contact with an unusually hard paving stone, and the Sophs were content to call a truce which finally ended in the complete cessation of combat.

The Frosh then retired to a refreshment parlor to partake of a scanty supper, tired, bruised, but happy at the achievement of their aims.

Further hostility was entirely removed later in the evening when the Freshman boys showed their colors by treating the Sophs to sodas and sandwiches, and all assembled to reminisce over the day's happenings like a lot of naughty little boys. Thus ended the Freshman get-away for the year of 1931.

ADAMS

Captain "Bill" Adams will lead the Orange and Maroon grid squad on the field Saturday afternoon when Susquehanna opens its season at Delaware. Bill has been a member of the squad for the last two years and showed up especially well last season with his work at end. He is a graduate of the Crafton High School where he starred at football.

S. U. Women Athletes Enjoy Treasure Hunt

Captain Kidd in all of his glamour could not have hidden his treasure as well as the girls of the Athletic Association hid the treasure in the first hike and hunt sponsored by the Y. W. C. A.

Leaving the dormitory, the girls followed unknown roads, scrambled over railroads, inspected barns, tore into woodpiles and all to find the trail to a fire, food, and a treasure. Every thing went smoothly until they came to the woodpile and some little time was lost until the clue was found. Again difficulty was experienced when a farmer removed our letter with his mail. Finally the last letter was found and the girls scrambled to find the stone pile mentioned. A stone pile was found but alas it was not the stone pile. Ruth Bergstresser finally found another pile and unearthed the treasure.

All this activity had stirred up appetites and a cheer was given for Miss Reeder who had the coffee ready for us. Mrs. Humphries had put up the lunch. And were those sandwiches good? Thank you, Mrs. Humphries! The hike home was almost as much fun as going out. It was accomplished more quickly because all knew just where they were going.

Musical Supervisor Gives Opera Scores

Professor David J. Lewis, Supervisor of Music in the Public Schools of Hazleton, has presented the Conservatory of Music with the following opera scores: Aida—Giuseppe Verdi. Lohengrin—Richard Wagner. Natoma—Victor Herbert. Pagliacci—Ruggerio Leoncavallo. This gift is much appreciated by the students and faculty of the Conservatory.

Seibert Hall Echoes

Seibert Hall complains that the depression has marred the efficiency of Mr. Cupid. It seems that the Susquehanna dating season did not open as successfully this year. Such a state of affairs could not last long and so a Dean's Dance was held Saturday to start activity.

Every family simply must tell about the precious thing the little darling just did. Some of our Freshmen are just too cute for words and so—

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

Y. M. C. A. work has begun for the new term. The initial business meeting took place last Monday night at 6:45 o'clock in the Y. M. rooms. Ex-President Wilson Sieber was in charge of the devotional service and President Fairchild took active charge of the business meeting.

As a matter of business an outline of the activities of the forthcoming year was reviewed. Many of the activities of the past year will again take place and some surprises are in store for those interested in the Y. A. Report of the Y. M. C. A. activities during Freshman Week was brought before the Cabinet by President Fairchild and commended by the body.

It was finally decided that a drive is to be made inviting all the freshmen to membership in this group. The Freshman group will find much of interest in the Y. M. C. A. and President Smith and Dr. Dunkelberger will give their heartiest support to the workings of the group. The Y. M. C. A. wishes to welcome all the new men to active service using this paper as the medium of invitation. Regular meetings will be held and a Freshman Cabinet will be formed to aid in the solving of Freshman problems on the Campus.

Frosh Week Carried Out Successfully

Freshman week was an especially hilarious time on our campus. If you doubt this statement, try entertaining about eighty freshman who never saw each other before and who are just a little homesick.

The Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. started their entertaining with a big party in the social room, Monday evening. The ice was broken at once by a mixer and then representatives of both Christian organizations performed.

Many kinds of entertainment were presented, one-act plays, monologues, dialogues and recitations. The most important feature of the evening was the presentation of the ice cream cones.

Tuesday evening, Horton Dining Hall was quite an unusual place. At first sight you might have thought that Christmas was being celebrated, but upon second sight you might have thought that Easter was the holiday. Then came the announcement that this was the birthday dinner and each person was to sit at the table that was decorated to represent the month in which his or her birthday fell. The excellent dinner was enjoyed with new friends. After the dinner a great many gathered in the social room and edited "The Life Story" of someone else present. Many of these biographies were very original and clever.

Judging from what we heard and what we saw we are certain that a very successful Freshman week was held this year. Perhaps we are learning from experience!

Fraternity Row

Epsilon Sigma

The officers elected for the ensuing semester are as follows: Herbert G. Hohmann, president. Fred H. Carl, vice president.

Harold Kramer, secretary. Laird Gemberlert, treasurer. John Schoffstall, chaplain. John Hassay, monitor.

During the past summer, six members of the local chapter joined the Royal Order of Benedictos or in everyday parlance were married. They were Harold E. Crossman, '30, of Bradford; Wayne M. Dausenspeck, '27, of Oshkosh, Neb.; Dr. Allen A. Gleitz, '25, of East Springfield; C. Ralph Gramley, '25, of Forty Port; Robert W. Mitchell, '26, of Myerstown, and George A. Spaid, '29, of Selinsgrove.

Bond and Key

Among the visitors at the Bond and Key house over the weekend were Harold (Skippy) Glenn captain of last year's basketball team, who is now attending State College and acting as assistant football coach of the high school there, from which he graduated.

Others included Russel Yoas, '31, who is teaching at Red Lion, Clifford Johnston, captain of the '31 track team, and Bill Herman, also '31.

First Dean's Dance is Well Attended

The Dean's Dance which opened the season Saturday night was well attended although there were few Freshmen who took advantage of this opportunity to date.

It seems that the newest steps are in favor on our campus. Several of our boys are especially good. Several of the "Stumble Down," but they complained that the girls couldn't follow them. Evidently the girls will have to practice more at Seibert Hall.

Music was furnished by the Omega Delta Sigma victrola.

Caution and Selfishness

AMUSEMENTS

The Stanley Theatre has again booked a week of excellent programs for theatre-goers.

Tonight will be the last chance that you can see and hear Ruth Chatterton in "The Magnificent Lie."

On Wednesday evening Fox presents Victor McLaglen, Fay Wray, and Eddie Gribbon in "Not Exactly Gentlemen."

Eddie Quillan and Marian Nixon will take the leading roles in "Sweepstakes," a Pathe production, on Thursday evening.

On Friday night, Warner Brothers will feature Conrad Nagel in "The Reckless Hour."

Richard Arlen will play opposite Mary Brian in "Gunsmoke," on Saturday evening.

The famous Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., is featured on Monday and Tuesday nights in "Chances," a Paramount talkie.

Oh, Yeah?

"Help your wife," counsels a noted domestic expert. "When she mops up the floor, mop up the floor with her."

FACULTY ROW

College newspapers are never democratic unless both of the major issues of college life are definitely combined in their production. For a long time the editorial staff has felt that its paper had become partial to one of these issues. It was discussed and even attempted last year to endeavor to counteract this seeming irregularity in the college issues. Regardless of careful planning the effort was in vain and the plan did not succeed. However, the staff has again formulated a plan whereby the paper may become more inclusive in its news.

The students are receiving all the benefits of "The Susquehanna" while the faculty gains nothing by the publication, except condemnation if the "platform" of the issue is wrong. Furthermore, the faculty activities never receive their full quota of publicity.

In order to remedy this seeming lack of courtesy on the part of the staff, they have inaugurated a new column in their publication. This column will be known as "Faculty Row." Every week every member of the Faculty will be interviewed by a reporter to receive any information that the Faculty may wish to give for publication.

The column will include all the social news of the members of the Faculty, all their joys, sorrows, hopes, and fears. It will be a chance for the administration to present publicly their opinions to the students. Each week there will be special features in store for the readers. For example, next week we will endeavor to give you the vacation news of the instructors on this campus. We will also give you the privilege of meeting in print at least the new faces on the faculty.

As a little favor to the reporters, we ask that the Faculty be prepared to give a few short paragraphs concerning their summer vacation. This is the Faculty's Chance to present opinions for the betterment of our paper. We want this to be a "live wire" column, and remember, if you like humor, this column will be willing to accept that also.

The Faculty Column has never been a success before, and the Staff accepts all criticism, but this time it will succeed. Be prepared for a reporter!

structor in the Mathematics Department, filling the vacancy caused by the resignation of Prof. Jacob R. K. Stauffer.

Prof. Dr. Irvin Reitz, M.A., of the University of Pennsylvania and for the past eight years Professor of Business Administration at Cedar Crest College, has been appointed instructor of Business Administration succeeding Miss Sarah Seal.

Miss Agnes Grove, M.A., a graduate of Columbia University, who also holds a diploma from the Sorbonne in Paris, France, is substituting in the French Department for Miss Evelyn Allison, who has been granted a year's leave of absence for further study abroad.

Miss Thelma Armogast, A.M., from the University of Pittsburgh, will serve as instructor in the Department of Commercial Education, succeeding Miss McElwee.

Mr. Herbert Snell, Dickinson College, will serve as assistant in the Department of Physical Education.

Miss Alice Bicerstaff, A.B., Oberlin College, also a graduate of the Library School of the University of Buffalo, with four years teaching experience in English, began her work as full time assistant librarian.

DATE SET FOR OCT. 10

event last fall when the dates for all functions were handed to the social committee. The day of the first football game on the home field was the date wanted for the ball.

The social committee has issued final word that this year the Interfraternity Ball will take place on Saturday, October 10.

Communications have been made to several dance bands of wide fame. Prices have been received from the Casa Loma orchestra, Gene Goldkette's unit, and Felix Ferdinand, both of them leading bands in the dance world. Their prices, however, were too steep for the pockets of the fraternity men, who have evidently been hit by the depression. Consequently no orchestra has been given the contract at this date.

Freshmen Show Interest
In Newspaper Work

At the request of the Editor-in-Chief and the Business Manager of the Susquehanna a meeting of the Freshman class was held on Friday evening, September 18, at which meeting was explained the method of obtaining positions on the staff of the newspaper weekly. The Editor-in-Chief, Andrew Kozak, explained the value of newspaper writing, especially the use one can make of it in the directing of high school newspapers. The duties of the business staff were explained by Lee Fairchild, the Business Manager. A keen sense of interest was displayed by the members of the Freshman class. About one fourth of the entire class handed their names to the two heads as desirous of affiliating themselves with the newspaper. The majority of the candidates have had previous experience in such work, either in annual or weekly publications.

Phi Lambda Entertains
Susquehanna Faculty

Phi Lambda Theta fraternity was host to the new professors of Susquehanna at a dinner given at their West Pine street home, last Friday evening.

Twenty-two persons were present, which included university officials, members of the faculty, and fraternity members. Short speeches were delivered by Dr. G. Morris Smith, president of S. U.; Dr. George F. Dunkelberger, dean; Samuel Brosius, chaplain of the fraternity; and Arthur Wilmarth, president.

Prof. Dr. Irvin Reitz, Dr. Arthur H. Wilson, and Dr. George Seidel were the new professors and instructors present, who took up their duties here this year. Professors Russell Gilbert, Frederick G. Stevens, and Eldon K. Rumberger were also honored at the dinner.

Students' S. S. Classes
Will be Organized

Two new Sunday School classes developed as the result of the return to Selingsgrove of Susquehanna's young men and women.

Mrs. Kretschman kindly consented to teach the young women's class; and Dr. Seidel has taken the young men's class. There were approximately thirty-five students in each class.

The young women and their teacher have decided to study, during the course of the year, the Book of John.

The young men are continuing to study the regular Sunday School lessons as put out by the church school. It is hoped that all college men and women will endeavor to put these new classes across. Won't you come too?

Varsity Defeats Scrubs
in Sat. Scrimmage 19-6

The Susquehanna First and Second teams staged an interesting scrimmage on the Practice Field on Saturday afternoon which finally ended 19-6 in favor of the First team.

Although the line-up was shifted somewhat to make both teams more even, the First team had the upper hand in practically every part of the game. Both teams displayed their fighting courage when they battled for an hour without rest. Of course, there were the accustomed pre-season fumbles which are always prevalent in scrimmage at this time, but from all appearances Susquehanna will be represented by a clean, hard-fighting team at Delaware on Oct. 3.

The First team broke into the scoring column in the fifth play of the game when the Second team punted on the first play after the kick-off and the ball was returned twenty yards. Myers on two plays advanced the ball twenty-seven yards and Sprout went through the line for the first score.

The Second team was next to score and was the result of a First team fumble and two beautifully thrown passes, the second going to Rummel for a touchdown.

A forty-yard run by Myers accounted for the second score and long gains by Speer, Sprout and Myers permitted Myers to again carry the ball across the line for the final score, while Sprout went through the line for the extra point.

Honor Society Will Hold First Meeting

Regular meeting of the Pennsylvania Gamma Chapter of Phi Gamma Mu will be held on Monday evening, October 5th, at 6:30 o'clock in Room 102 of Gustavus Adolphus Hall.

Prof. Gilbert Speaks at Rotary Meeting

Prof. Russell Gilbert, head of the German department at S. U., was the speaker at the meeting of the Selingsgrove Rotary Club, last Friday evening. He gave a discussion on the passion plays of Germany, of which there are a great number besides the famous Oberammergau production.

As another feature of the meeting, Prof. W. Donald Hemphill, instructor of violin in the Conservatory of Music, rendered two violin solos.

Crusaders Set Back
At Delaware, 27-0Kramer and Martinec Are Highlights on S. U. Team. Backfield Stopped Easily by Delaware Defense

With a relentless attack that the Crusaders could not halt the Delaware College football team crushed Susquehanna by a 27-0 score Saturday afternoon at Newark, Delaware.

For its opening eleven the Orange and Maroon met with a line that functioned equally well on the offensive as well as on the defensive. The Susquehanna backfield was stopped consistently in trying to puncture the Delaware line and was held so well that not one single long gain was registered. Delaware on the other hand tore holes in the Orange and Maroon line and was able to pile up yardage both at the center and at the ends.

Delaware held an advantage over Susquehanna in the fact that it always had a fresh team on the field. Coach Rogers ran his second team in to start the game, but shifted to his regulars before the half ended. He again used both teams in the second half.

The bright feature of the game for the Crusaders was the playing of Kramer and Martinec. Kramer, who was a substitute last season, started in the regular line-up and put up a good defensive game at the guard position. Martinec, a freshman, took up the kicking assignment Saturday and did a fine job of it. He will undoubtedly smooth out one of Coach Ullery's big worries for this season.

During the course of the game, Susquehanna came within possible scoring distance but once and that was in the third quarter. Kramer blocked a punt on the Delaware 40-yard line and from there the Crusaders with short gains worked the ball nearly to the 20-yard line, but were halted there.

Delaware scored its first touchdown in the first quarter. Sloan took a long forward pass from Green. On a line (Concluded on page 4.)

Gridders Will Meet
Haverford This Sat.Parents' Day Tilt Is Against More
Even Odds Than Delaware Game
Last Saturday

One of the features of the Parents' Day program Saturday afternoon will be the football game with Haverford College. The day will also mark the opening game of the season for Susquehanna on its own gridiron.

An Orange and Maroon team made up practically of all new material was outclassed Saturday afternoon at Newark, Delaware, by an experienced Delaware College eleven. In Haverford, Susquehanna will be matched against a much more even opponent and an interesting struggle should result.

Haverford is by no means a weak opponent. It opened its season Saturday by losing to Ursinus, 24-0, a college which has one of the strongest teams this season that it has ever produced and which opened its season by defeating Lehigh.

The Crusaders did not play Haverford last fall but were matched against the gridders of that school two years ago on our field. That game also was part of a Parents' Day program. At that time Susquehanna was battered to a 19-7 defeat by a heavy Haverford team. Captain Morris, a 219 pound fullback, did most of the damage.

Having seen his men in battle for the first time, Coach Ullery will set about this week to iron out all the weakness of Saturday's game. As a result, there may be several shifts in the line-up this Saturday.

It is better to have the forward look than the backward glance.

Was Popular on Campus

Dr. H. V. Pike, former lecturer at Susquehanna University and clinical director of the Danville State Hospital, left recently for Europe with his bride on a honeymoon trip which will include a tour of the Mediterranean Sea. The bride, nee Miss Margaret Helen Lovett, is a graduate of the Danville High School, and for some years has been chief clerk in the department of clinical records at the hospital.

Dr. Pike is well known at Susquehanna for his popular and interesting course in abnormal psychology, which he conducted on the campus until last year. He is also a familiar figure in the entire valley, through his extensive work at the Danville State Hospital.

The couple left for New York a week ago Saturday, where they took a steamer for the Mediterranean. Following the European tour, they expect to reside at Danville.

Walsh Frosh Backfield Contender Seriously Hurt in Delaware Game

The first serious casualty was received by the Susquehanna football squad Saturday when Vincent Walsh had two ribs broken loose from his back bone. The injury came near the end of the game with Delaware while Walsh was carrying the ball. He was at once rushed to the Wilmington hospital.

Walsh was one of the most promising members of the Freshmen class on the football team. He is a backfield man and starred at that position on the Dunmore High School team where he played before coming here.

Music Conservatory
Has Large Enrollment

Professor E. Edwin Sheldon, director of the Conservatory of Music of Susquehanna University, announces that the enrollment for this year, especially the enrollment of the Freshmen class, is the largest in the history of the school. The total enrollment for the Conservatory is 127 students, which is taking the present accommodations of the Conservatory. Of the 127, there are fifty regular students taking the full music course. The remainder are taking advantage of the opportunity of high class vocal and instrumental instruction.

Radio Band to Play
For Dance Saturday"Weedie" Meyer and Radio Broadcasting Orchestra Will Play For Interfrat. Dance

"Weedie" Meyer and His Virginians will furnish the music for the first interfraternity dance held on Susquehanna's campus on Saturday evening. "Weedie" will bring one of the smoothest dance outfits that has ever played on the campus. Dancing will begin at eight o'clock and continue until twelve.

"Weedie" Meyer will come here direct from Washington, D. C., where he has been playing at the Hotel Annapolis. He and his rhythm-makers have played at many of the famous dance floors of the country. During the past summer he played at Virginia Beach and broadcasted over radio station WRVA, at Richmond. Previous to that, he played a long engagement at the Paramount Grill, New York City, and came over the air through Station WABC. He also broadcasted over radio station WLW from Cassell Farms, the famous night club of Cincinnati. A real night of dancing and entertainment is expected to climax Parents' Day.

At the interfraternity council meeting last night it was decided that the dance should be an informal affair.

S. U. Man Re-elected
To Kiwanis OfficeDr. J. B. Kinsley of Northumberland Church Receives Re-election as Lieutenant Governor

Re-election of Dr. John B. Kinsley, a former student and graduate of Susquehanna University and Seminary, as lieutenant governor of Kiwanis was announced at the State convention of Kiwanis in Allentown, last week.

Dr. Kinsley, who is pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church at Northumberland and a member of the board of trustees of Susquehanna, has concluded his first year as lieutenant governor of the East-Central District of Kiwanis.

He is a diligent worker in service club affairs and splendid progress through his district was noted during the past year.

It is stated that only when a lieutenant governor gains the reputation of an active worker by means of his steady interest in the office he is re-elected. It is from those men who are a success as lieutenant governor that the new State governor is eventually chosen.

Dr. Kinsley was graduated from S. U. with an A. B. degree in 1913 and has been an active minister since his graduation (Concluded on page 4.)

DR. THOMAS C. HOUTZ

Dr. Thomas Houtz
Is 78 on Natal DayProfessor Emeritus of Math Serves University 46 Years. Enjoys
Best of Health

Dr. Thomas Calvin Houtz, professor emeritus of mathematics and astronomy of Susquehanna University, celebrated his seventy-eighth birthday on September 28th. At the present, he is enjoying excellent health, although his services at the university have covered a span of forty-six years.

He was born at Lamont, Pennsylvania, eight years before the opening of the Civil War. He received his bachelor of arts degree in 1879 and his master of arts degree in 1886 from Pennsylvania State College. At the graduating exercises in 1918, Susquehanna University conferred upon him the degree of Doctor of Divinity.

Following his graduation from Penn State, Dr. Houtz taught at the Rock Springs public school and the Pine Grove Mills private school. In 1885 he started his duties at Susquehanna, then Missionary Institute, and was vice principal from 1886 until 189, when Susquehanna came into existence.

In addition to his professional activities, Dr. Houtz has been an ordained minister since 1889. He has filled many important positions in the Central Pennsylvania Synod, including that of statistician from 1896 to 1916, and of president from 1916 to 1920. He has also been a member of the Ministerial Examining Committee since 1901.

Dr. Houtz has had a part in the development of Susquehanna since 1885, when it was practically a junior college with less than a hundred students and a single building, until today it has nine buildings and over four hundred students.

Gradual Decrease Is Noted in Summer School Attendance

Student interest in summer school seems to be gradually decreasing at Susquehanna and at many of the other colleges during the past few years. For instance, the peak attendance in our summer school was reached in 1928 when 421 students were enrolled in the "short term" courses. The past term showed a student enrollment of only 252. Dean Dunkleberger gave sufficient reasons for the gradual decrease over this three-year period. He states, in his Annual Report: "We already have a large surplus of teachers in Pennsylvania. Consequently, the beckoning call from the teaching profession for more teachers cannot be loud and convincing." Again, he concludes: "It may be added that the abandonment of graduate work as of June, 1928, had a slight effect upon the enrollment. Primarily from these causes we have in summer sessions only those undergraduate students wishing to work off standing credits and failures.

The regular-term faculty was supplemented by some additions during the summer term. Those new members were: Professor N. A. Danowsky, superintendent of Northumberland schools; Dr. J. Crawford Foley, of Wabash College, and Miss Mary Skillen, supervisor of Elementary Grade Work of the Lancaster schools. In special classroom lectures, Dr. Horace V. Pike, of (Concluded on page 4.)

Parents' Day to be Held Here SaturdayMothers and Dads Will Visit Campus
For Banquet in Their Honor; Also To Watch Opening Game Here

Parents' Day will be welcomed on Susquehanna's campus for the third successive year on Saturday, October 10. This increasing popularity which has greeted this affair in its two previous occasions has definitely placed Parents' Day on the college calendar as an annual institution.

Far from the mild affair which the title may imply, Parents' Day is a gala and colorful event, marked particularly this year by the addition of the Inter-Fraternity Dance which will take place in Alumni Gymnasium on Saturday evening.

Last year nearly four hundred parents were present to attend the banquet held in their honor, and afterwards the football game on University Field. Similar arrangements have been made this year, the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. again being ready to do their part in accommodating and entertaining their guests.

The attraction on the gridiron this year will bring Haverford College before the eyes of the parents once more, they having witnessed the same team two years ago on the first occasion of Parents' Day. Following the game, the parents will be offered the hospitality of Seibert Hall to extend their acquaintance with the faculty and also the fathers and mothers of their off-springs' classmates.

Of the banquet, speeches will be in order, probably including those of parents who may also boast of being alumni. Nor will these be the only members of the alumni present, for many are attracted by the occasion, and also the fact that Haverford will be Susquehanna's first opponent on the home field.

It is expected of the student body that everything possible be done towards making the day a happy and eventful occasion for the parents.

Students of Campus
See Barrie's PlayHarrisburg Production Not Comparable
With Effects Produced in Our
"Miniature Theater"

Susquehanna students do appreciate fine things. This is proved time and time again. Last Tuesday was just another example of this when about twenty-five students and members of the faculty went to Harrisburg to see Mr. Walter Hampden and Miss Fay Bainter in a revival of Sir James Barrie's "The Admirable Crichton."

Of the actors and the acting little can be said, since it was too nearly perfect for any but experienced critics to comment upon. All we can say is: Wonderful!

The settings were excellent and those of us who have tried to achieve particular effects on our own limited stage could appreciate them. The second act was especially good, being an outdoor scene on a deserted island. The change in lighting, which portrayed the coming of night and the gradual darkening of the stage was a decided contrast to the abruptness with which the shadows gather in our productions. The sound of the lashing waves made the whole thing seem very real. The third act, which was the interior of the home built upon the island by the marooned English people, was very amusing.

Of the play itself it was too ready to be said that a quotation from a critic might better express the thought. What pleased the eminent caricaturist and critic in 1902 may very possibly have pleased the taste of 1931. To the contrary, however, the loud acclaim that always follows a revival of this play proves that Sir James Barrie is made of sterner stuff than (Concluded on page 4.)

"OH, YEAH?"

Edna Ferber, American novelist and Pulitzer prize winner, declared upon her return from Europe several weeks ago that the younger generation in America is "twelve years old permanently," and that its reaction to the great problems of the world may be summoned up in the phrase, "Oh, yeah?" The following paragraphs are excerpts from her criticisms released by the United Press. They are only inserted to give a little food for thought to the reader of the editorial column:

"It is terribly vital that nothing matters to the young men and women of today but wise-cracking. The boys and girls going to college have absolutely no serious discussion. The only thing they can talk about is football. This is true of no other country in the world.

"In this country, to be serious is to be ridiculous. The boys and girls on the boat, whether they were seventeen or twenty-five or thirty, did nothing but go ramping and tramping up and down like children. Their conversation was rubber stamp conversation—'Oh, yeah?' and that sort of thing. Nothing was said.

"Any French boy of eighteen that you talk to—not a student necessarily, but a garage mechanic or a business man—can talk about reparations or the economic situation in Europe. They are intelligent. The have thought about it, listened to their elders, discussed it. They don't think it's the bunk. They have an opinion one way or another. They think. They've been taught to think.

"It's important that we stop wise-cracking, that we stop being a nation of Jimmie Walkers, and realize the world is falling to bits. Not that it matters. I think it would be a good thing if the whole thing would go back to the primeval ooze and start from scratch. We certainly haven't made a good thing of it."

BIRTHDAY GREETINGS

To Dr. Thomas C. Hontz, professor emeritus of mathematics, we wish to extend heartiest greetings on his seventy-eighth birthday, just passed. Dr. Hontz has served Susquehanna long and faithfully and we wish that he will observe many more birthday anniversaries.

WELCOME PARENTS

On next Saturday we are to be the proud hosts and hostesses of our parents who have been invited by the college to spend the day with us. The administration has sent out invitations to all mothers and dads. A banquet has been planned in their honor. All the fraternities will entertain them at their houses. In the afternoon the mothers and dads will watch the football game between Haverford and Susquehanna and in the evening there will be the first Interfraternity Dance in the history of the school.

All arrangements have been made with the intent to please those whom we should make a special effort to please. It is an excellent idea and a fine opportunity for our parents to learn what we are doing and we want to see them all happy on Saturday.

Why can't you have your parents as visitors this week-end? If it is at all possible for mother and dad to get here, make sure that they come. The college has invited them and perhaps they are only waiting for your personal invitation. Let's make Saturday a day that mother and dad will remember.

The Editor's Mail

Students, alumni, and friends of THE SUSQUEHANNA will have an opportunity to express their ideas and criticisms in this column. Letters will be published at the discretion of the editorial staff. Just address your letter to the EDITOR or give it to one of the staff members.

Dear Mr. Editor:

Please discontinue sending THE SUSQUEHANNA to me. There is very little of interest to me on its pages. I never was interested in FOOTBALL nor should any one else who loves God and Humanity and Peace rather than War. I like baseball and saw a number of your games. I like basket ball, but FOOTBALL should be outlawed in Christian America. And that is all you emphasize in your paper every week. FOOTBALL.

I'm loyal to S. U. always, but not to her FOOTBALL program.

I'd like to discuss it with you some time.

Yours truly,

M. C. D.

"Our Five and Ten"

(Maybe Fifteen)

By WOULD B. HISTORIAN

WITHOUT a doubt the column head is rather vague in its meaning. In order to explain this indefinite marking we shall say that this column is one of journalistic history in Susquehanna covering the period of five, ten, and fifteen years ago. The "Susquehanna" is not a modern improvement on the campus (although it has progressed with the times), since the library has complete records for twenty years. With this as an explanation paragraph let us start in with the little, big, and interesting features of the college edition of:

1926—Editor-in-Chief, Harold A. Swank.

1926—Business Manager, G. Franklin Stover.

1921—Editor-in-Chief, David Stumpefle.

1921—Business Manager, David D. Dagle.

1916—Editor-in-Chief, Earl Mohney.

October 5, 1926

The men and women of S. U. have the "booster drive" off to a fine start with an elaborate chapel service at which time Senator Charles Steele presented his claim to raise $125,000 to build the Alumni Memorial Library for our campus. Dr. Woodruff, member of our present faculty, delivered an address, the essence of which can be drawn up in (1) S. U. is democratic, (2) S. U. is an adult institution, (3) S. U. is growing, it is not a static university, (4) Patriotism of the university is expressed by the students in the past and in the present. The staff wonders about the future—How about 1931?

In '26 the Frosh had a successful "get-away"—last year the Class of '34 had a "run-away" and this year the Class of '35 had a "soc-away". Don't feel blue—even in '26 the "Little Crusaders" were dropping football games by "close scores" to Drexel and Swarthmore.

In an editorial the staff pleaded with the University faculty for a Dean of Men. Their efforts were not in vain. Their prayers were answered in a man who capably fills this position—Dr. Dunkelberger.

A member of the Class of '26 was heard to say: "No girl can make a monkey out of me—I don't believe in Evolution." (Is this clever wisecracker married by now?)

Back in the dim days of '26 the "Three best Sellers" on the campus were: (1) Three Weeks, (2) Cuneiform Assyrian Inscriptions, (3) We Won't Tell. From the indefiniteness of the name on the third volume it is possible that it was H. G. Wells, Outline of History—only they didn't want to seem too studious.

October 4, 1921

The Inter-Fraternity Council has just been organized and the fraternities of the campus are all agog over the possibilities of the merger. Bond and Key and Epsilon Sigma took the initiative in the matter and the Constitution was drawn up. A printing of that constitution appears on the front page of that edition and it covered approximately half of the column. If the By-Laws of the Council were to be printed now—Oh well, look at your "Handbook." The printer ran out of "ethers" for Epsilon Sigma is spelled thus in two issues: Epsilon Eigma.

S. U. is in real competition now for they have held Lehigh University to a 22-0 score. (Good Boys—you're better men than we are, Alumni.) The Football captain in '21 was Harry Sweeney and the Manager was Edmund Koch Ritter.

Fall Tennis matches are unusual, but the scores are not unusual because Bucknell "took home the bacon." A 6-0 decision.

"Tie-Up Day" is a good old tradition gone wrong. In '21 the Junior and Senior classes were judges and therefore the Freshmen won. Tough luck Sophs!

At this time the Seminary had a special column in the "Susquehanna." (Why doesn't the present staff hear more from the "Fighting Parsons"?)

Ten years ago the Susquehanna Association voted down a salary of twelve dollars a year for the Editor of the paper.

Will the Susquehanna lose its prestige as a college medium? In '21 it was a three sheet paper—now it is only two. The "depression" hits everyone.

October 3, 1916

The Crusaders have really drained the cup of defeat for Colgate has trampled over them with a 34-0 defeat. (Sounds as though the Delaware game on Saturday was a success.)

The captain in this game was Cassler. That issue states that the team made a good showing but they were playing out of their class.

Atash the Freshmen beat the Sophomores in the Annual Tie-Up. This time the score was 11-3.

"Professor Edgar R. Wingard is called to S. U. to serve as Coach for all sports. He was a grad. of Susquehanna in 1902 and has exceptional ability as a football mentor. His record shows many championships with large universities of the West, East and South. He installed a new system for the playing of football which promises to be successful. (This season happens to be one of the most successful in Susquehanna history.)"

We Can't All Do It

When Irvin S. Cobb was 27, he came to New York. He then had a wife and a sick child to support. For two weeks he made daily visits to every newspaper in the big city, but there seemed to be no job in sight. His patience at an end, Cobb wrote a letter to the editors, assuring them in no uncertain terms that he was the world's best newspaper man. The letter read as follows:

"This is positively your last chance. I have grown weary of studying the wallpaper design in your ante-room. A modest appreciation of my own worth forbids me doing business with your head office any longer. Unless you grab me right away, I will go elsewhere and leave your paper flat on its back right here in the middle of a hard summer, and your whole life hereafter will be one vast surging regret. The line forms on the right; applications considered in the order in which they are received; triflers and professional flirts save stamps. Write, wire or call at the above address."

Next day Cobb had four jobs to choose from—

Stoddard, "Luck, Your Silent Partner."

S. U. PEPYS

"We won't disturb the boys tonight," decided the returning grid warriors as they crept into the building Saturday night. Or was it Sunday morning?

On well, 27-0 wasn't so bad. Down town the reports Saturday night ranged from 34-0 as high as 47-0, at which figure this humble writer hastily retreated before it could get any worse.

Things we'd like to know (about the Freshmen): Where do the Freshmen go at night?

Investigation for several hours both Friday and Saturday nights disclosed the fact that out of a total number of three (male) observed in the streets of Selinsgrove, two were returning from a hasty trip to the post-office.

Why do they go to bed at ten o'clock every night, and get up around five in the morning? We know that it's an ideal system, but we never heard of anyone actually doing it before.

Why are the Frosh co-eds so high minded? Perhaps they'd better start wearing dinks.

A physiology prof, having finished his lecture, was asking for questions.

The smart lad asked, "Why does a girl always close her eyes when she kisses a man?"

The professor pondered a moment, regarding the youth intently, and finally inquired: "Is that your personal experience?"

The s. l. nodded seriously, upon which the prof replied promptly, "Well, I can easily see why you're in class!"

Moral—You can't win!

It's a wonder the mean old high school wouldn't schedule a game on University Field last Saturday. What did they expect us to do all afternoon?

And there was no World Series game. How the boys did catch up on their sleep!

The officials at Allegheny last spring during tracks meets wore tuxedos while officiating. Can't figure that one out, unless they were getting jealous of the big handsome athletes. May we recommend Eugene hats for women's hockey this fall?

Last Tuesday, Dr. Wilson delivered an interesting lecture on the chameleon, and its disappearance as an ornament on millinery dress. (For the benefit of those who don't read Ripley's column, the chameleon was a small lizard which the Victorian ladies carried about as a pet.)

Then Ruth Bergstresser upset the dance, and on Thursday Dr. Wilson was forced to lecture on the return of the chameleon.

Ray Watkins, the town bully, had better let the Frosh alone and start practicing the cheers himself. Only three more days into your leather-lunged cohorts go into action, Ray.

Never mind, Mr. Editor. Some day I may think of something funny, or bum enough money to get a copy of "College Humor." Until then, the best way would probably be potassium cyanide.

Seibert Hall Echoes

It's pretty bad when some of our Freshmen mistake the Frofs on our campus for students.

It's not only the Freshmen who have made this mistake, however. During Freshman Week one of the senior girls welcomed Miss Grove as a Freshman.

We have heard that one of the boys after a study of the windows in Seibert Hall one evening decided that the girls do nothing but hold ball sessions. He must have been reading books or living in Hassinger Hall.

Freshman girls are not allowed dates on the campus during the first semester. But have you noticed the timid little boys coming from home with letters of introduction?

There is a new expression in the dormitory. For information consult Camerer, Sheriff or Reece.

MUSICAL SERVICE HELD IN SUNDAY VESPERS

Vesper service in charge of Edith Frankfield was a musical service. There was an organ solo by Virginia Moody, and a vocal solo by Beryl Weyman, accompanied by Mr. Caruth and Isabella Horn.

Passages of the Scripture, illustrated by the Master's magnanimity, were read by the leader.

INTERCOLLEGIATE BULLETIN

Pittsburgh (IP).—Henry S. Pritchett, president of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, warned colleges in his annual report that continued exploitation of college football as a money-making game, would lead to taxation by the government.

Bucknell Grad Crashes Films
Thomas F. MacLeod, Bucknell '31, has been employed by Warner Brothers in making the moving picture "The Spirit of Notre Dame," soon to be released. He has also had parts in "Local Boy Makes Good" with Joe E. Brown, and as a medical student in the film version of Sinclair Lewis' "Arrowsmith."

Yale Locks at Harvard
Although Harvard continues to use Yale locks on the doors of her buildings the name "Yale" must not appear on the locks. The university has made a contract with the makers of Yale locks which specifies that the name will be omitted.

Did you think that Pennsylvania had the most colleges within her borders of any state in the Union? Well, you're wrong. Ohio heads the list with forty-one. New York has forty, and Pennsylvania ranks third with thirty-eight.

In the state prison at San Quentin, California, there are 3,000 convicts enrolled as extension students of the University of California, without charge from that institution.

Blames Colleges for Depression
South Hadley, Mass. (IP).—Dr. Walter M. Kotschnig, in an address at Mount Holyoke College here recently said that he believed the unemployment situation could be blamed on the colleges for their failure to cope with vital economic problems.

He Doesn't Like Us Either
Ocean Grove, N. J. (IP).—The present generation is "cynical, scoffing, and self-willed" Reverend Walter A. May, of Concordia Theological Seminary, St. Louis, said here in an address before a Luther Day celebration audience.

FACULTY ROW

The faculty of the Conservatory of Music recently gave a Kitchen Shower for Professor and Mrs. Frederick C. Stevens at their residence on Front street, Selingrove.

Friday evening, October 2, President Smith and Lewis Fox attended the Central Area Y. M. C. A. meeting at Harrisburg. The purpose of this meeting was to plan the work of the organization for the coming year.

At the climax of the Sunbury Reformed Church loyalty program, Sunday evening, October 4, the men who were in charge of the meeting, were very fortunate in securing the services of Dr. Smith, who delivered a very appropriate address.

Vacations

President Smith spent three weeks of his summer vacation very profitably in New York City. He attended Columbia University, taking courses appropriate to college administration. During two of those three weeks Dr. Smith stayed at the International House near Grant's Tomb on the beautiful Riverside Drive.

A fourth week President Smith and family spent in the beautiful Shenandoah Valley. While there, they visited the University of Virginia, established by Thomas Jefferson, and also Jefferson's old home, Monticello.

As the guest of Senator Charles Steele, President Smith had a very enjoyable fishing trip to Lake Huron and the St. Lawrence River. He was well satisfied with his catch of fish, which included bass, lake perch, and pickerel.

Dr. A. William Ahl, after teaching Ethics, Evidence, and Bible in the summer school, vacationed for several weeks at Lake Erie. The Ahl family thoroughly enjoyed the outdoor life and the aquatic sports, some of which were bathing, fishing and boating.

Later they visited at Detroit, Michigan, and Lake Huron. On their return home they came by way of Canada and Niagara Falls.

To Miss Corbin goes the distinction of being the "champion traveler" of the faculty this summer. She toured the entire United States and parts of Old Mexico and Canada, covering in all 12,700 miles. She swam in both the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans. Our English instructor was impressed by the Pacific coast and the west coast cities, especially Seattle and Portland. She commented admiringly on the Neon lighting in Seattle and a green skyscraper she saw in San Francisco. She chose the Lincoln Highway route to the Pacific Coast and came home through Salt Lake City, Denver and St. Louis. Accompanying her on the trip was Miriam Keim, of the class of '31.

How Cruel

There is the absent-minded professor who stepped on his wife and kissed the starter, patted his car on the head and drove his children to school.

Miss Corbin Begins Dramatic Society Tryouts For '31

At the first meeting of the dramatic association try-outs were held in order to give the coaches an opportunity to hear the voices of the members and also to ascertain the various dramatic abilities of the students.

The club is open to anyone on the campus who is interested in dramatics, make-up, or costuming. The meetings are very informal and very interesting. At different seasons of the year plays will be given which will enable everyone to be in at least one. The first play to be presented will be Dunsany's, "The Golden Doom." The characters for the play have not as yet been announced. Miss Clara Corbin will be the coach for this play. The upperclassmen who have seen the three one-act plays which were presented last year and were coached by Miss Corbin will agree that they were well worth seeing.

The students, we're sure, will be interested to know that these plays are produced without any admittance charge.

Dubois Lad Receives First Alumni Award

It has been announced by the authorities of Susquehanna University that the Alumni Scholarship Fund Award first went to Erie I. Shobert, Jr., of DuBois, Pa.

Erie has enrolled in the Science Department of this university. He is working for a Bachelor of Science degree. Biology is his major, and teaching is his goal.

This scholarship fund was started by the class of 1930. The classes of 1931 and 1934 increased it by donating gifts with which the interest on this sum is now large enough to offer it as a scholarship to worthy applicants.

In the DuBois high school Erie was quite active. He was a member of the National Honor Society, an active worker in musical organizations, vice president of the French Club, president of the Biology Club, and a participant in dramatics, the year-book staff, and athletics. He graduated from high school in 1931.

Compinsky Trio to Open Star Course

A bill of exceptional appeal has been arranged for the University's Star Course this season by Professor Sheldon.

The Compinsky Trio will open the season on Tuesday, October 20. This trio is one of the best of the Russian trios. All their music is played from memory. This number will be followed on November 17 by Will Durant, the internationally known author of the Story of Philosophy.

Count von Luckner, Germany's outstanding hero of the World War, will be the attraction on March 9.

Susquehanna Women Attend Conferences

Have you ever attended a Y. W. C. A. conference? After hearing Janet Leitzell and Betty Wardrop describe their experiences at Forest Park Y. W. Camp this summer, every girl surely must have longed to share such pleasures. The conference was attended by about six hundred students, professors, and outstanding representatives from foreign countries, such as: Mr. W. Breit, from Holland; Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Hromadka, from Czechoslovakia; Mr. Hugh Martin, from Great Britain; Mr. G. I. Scholten, from Holland, and Mr. Feumi Uekuri, from Japan.

Each evening a brilliant speaker addressed the conference, among these were Kirby Page, editor of "The World Tomorrow"; C. I. Potyn, from Holland; A. Philips Randolph, executive secretary of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters from New York, and Reinhold Neibulr from the Union Theological Seminary, New York City.

Esther Geisel and Flora Ellmore attended a Y. W. conference at Penn State over the week-end. They were taken to a cabin up in the mountains and entertained there by the Y. W. Cabinet of State College.

Mrs. Seaman, paid secretary of the Y. W. at State, was the chaperone, and she led all the meetings. "What, on a college campus, benefits the college girls?" was a topic discussed at an evening meeting.

Y. W.'s of different colleges were discussed. It was discovered that S. U. had overcome most of all of the prevalent problems, except the one concerning the day students. Other schools have day student cabinets and they join in with the others in their meetings, but S. U. had overlooked that important matter until the present.

"The Ideal Susquehanna Lady" will be discussed at the meeting Thursday evening, October 8, 1931. Flora Ellmore will be the leader.

West Milton Pastor Sailing for Scotland

The Reverend Harold Ditzler, of West Milton, pastor of the Buffalo Valley charge of the Reformed Church, sailed about October 1st for Scotland, where he will spend two years in special study, in a large seminary at Edinburgh. He preached his final sermon as pastor of the church September 26.

A Few Words of Sympathy

We are sorry to announce that we have just received word of the death of Helen R. Ohl, of Ardmore, Pa. We all express our sympathy to the bereaved family.

Graduate Secretary at Y. M. C. A.

The last issue of the "Gettysburg College" weekly paper at Gettysburg, College, contains a picture of Paul Hoover, '29, who is acting as part-time secretary in the Y. M. C. A. building while attending Gettysburg Theological Seminary. Mr. Hoover is working to coordinate and strengthen religious life on the campus. The program for the year includes direct personal work among the students, the organization of a Bible-study group, completion of the Y. M. C. A. cabin in South Mountains, the holding of religious retreats open to all members of the student body, and the participation in State and National Y. M. C. A. conferences.

Walter Traub Pastor Largest Lutheran Church in America

Reverend Walter H. Traub, D.D., '10, '13, recently resigned as pastor of Christ Lutheran Church at York, Pa., to take up his new duties in the third largest Protestant Congregation in the United States.

The pastorate which Rev. Traub will fill is Kountze Memorial Lutheran Church at Omaha, Neb., where he began his duties on September 20. He served for nine years at York and was the first pastor of that church to resign.

At present there are 4,572 members

O. D. S. Sorority Treat New Girls to Picnic

There must have been a lot of good little girls in Seibert Hall this past week, for all of their prayers for nice weather were answered. The gods were in harmony with Omega Delta Sigma, to make the first outdoor party for the new girls a success.

Large busses took the girls over the country roads to "Shady Rest," a cottage owned by the sorority's "Uncle Bob." A welcoming committee and a big fire in the outdoor stove greeted the girls as they arrived. The early arrivals played "truth or take the consequences" while waiting for the others and a lot of truth came out in that.

As soon as all were assembled, they were sent on a treasure hunt. The treasure was little slips of paper with numbers and there were exchanged for mysterious packages. Prizes were given in the peanut scramble and other contests.

As usual, the refreshments were a big feature. They consisted of hamburgers with relish, pickles, baked potatoes, doughnuts, and candied apples.

Just at dusk when every one was comfortably filled, a star cast presented a blood curdling western romance. The war dance of the Indians would have frightened more timid souls, but the girls were all very brave and took much delight in this masterful presentation of life on the plains when the redskins were at large.

Always when it is dark and there is a fire, people break into song. Many excellent voices were discovered among the Freshmen. They seemed very anxious to learn the good old S. U. songs that aren't found in the hand book.

It was a rather tired crowd that piled into the bus to come home, but when you are all worn out, the chances are that you have had a glorious time. The new girls said that they did.

Auchmuty Elected Pres. Of Intra-mural Board

The intra-mural board held its first meeting of the year Monday night, September 28, in the office of Professor Grossman. Officers for the coming year were elected as follows: President, Jack Auchmuty; vice president, Charles Stroup; secretary, Walter Metzger.

The main feature of the evening was the appointing of managers to arrange the schedules for the autumn inter-class sports. William Reiger was put in charge of the inter-class football, William Hutchinson in charge of soccer, Robert McGeehan in charge of tennis.

listed on the books of the Nebraska Church to which Rev. Traub goes, and "The Lutheran" says: "Once almost a dead congregation, the Kountze Memorial Church has grown until it is now the largest Lutheran church in America and the largest English speaking Lutheran congregation in the world."

Death

Reverend J. C. Pasold, '93, native of Sunbury and a number of years a prominent Lutheran minister, died August 31 in the Geisinger Hospital following several years of ill health. Funeral services were held from the Lutheran Church in Millburg, Pa., with the Rev. Dr. W. M. Reaick, '94, in charge.

The deceased entered the Lutheran ministry in 1283, serving charges at McConnellburg, Williamstown, Dushore, and Minersville. Rev. Pasold was well known throughout the region and was a prominent figure in Lutheran circles.

Church Anniversary

The Lutheran Church of the Reformation at Baltimore, Md., celebrated its forty-first anniversary on Sunday. The pastor of this church is Reverend J. Luther Hoffman, D.D., a Susquehanna graduate. During this time the membership of the church has increased from 750 members to 1,993.

Is Pastor at Williamsburg

Reverend V. D. Naugle, '18, '21, '24, is pastor of the Lutheran Church in Williamsburg, Pa. He has been at this place for the last five years and is the twenty-fourth pastor in the church. Reverend Naugle is the father of Haze Naugle, a member of the class of '35.

Large Number Enrolled in Bible School

There was an enrollment of 245 in the vacation Bible school conducted by Trinity Church in Lehighton, Pa. Ten teachers had charge of this school. Their pastor is the Reverend Thomas Atkinson, '23.

College Symphony Elects Officers

Professor W. D. Hemphill, conductor of the Susquehanna University symphony, reports that there are prospects for an excellent organization this year.

At the second meeting on last Thursday evening there were about thirty musicians present for rehearsal. The officers elected for the ensuing year were Andrew Kozak, president; Diana Lidas, secretary; Frank Bernardi, treasurer; William Caruth, librarian; and Robert Clark and Kenneth Bleyler, stage managers.

The sections of the orchestra seem fairly well balanced this year. There will be about sixteen violins, one viola, two cellos, and a string bass in the string section. The brass will be almost complete but the reeds will be weak and insufficient to balance the brass. The organ will again be used as a part of the ensemble.

GRADUAL DECREASE NOTED IN SUMMER SCHOOL ATTENDANCE

the Danville State Hospital; Dr. Henry Klowmower, of the Department of Public Instruction; Tom Skehill, of New York City, gave the students valuable information on their respective subjects. The summer school music students also entertained the students in a full-length concert.

A very interesting feature of the statistics for the term is shown in the ages of the summer school students. The range of ages for the summer school students is from sixty-two to seventeen years with a median age of twenty-four years. The greatest number of students classed under one age were twenty-two under the twenty-five mark.

Eighty-five per cent. of the students attending the summer school session are preparing for the teaching profession. This percentage goes on record as comparing favorably with eighty per cent. in 1929 and seventy-eight per cent. in 1930.

Northumberland county was the home of the greatest number of S. U. students this summer with a total of fifty-eight while Luzerne county managed to rate second by placing fifty in our institution, and Snyder county was still lower with only forty-two students in the session.

Both President Smith and Dean Dunkelberger have shown their satisfaction of the 1931 summer session in their reports to the Board of Directors.

uation from the seminary in 1916. As an index of his ability and work, we note that he accepted his first charge in 1916, the same year in which he was ordained.

He served a Port Royal congregation until 1920 when he was called to a Dubois charge. Since 1925, he has filled the pulpit at St. John's Lutheran Church at Northumberland and at the Commencement exercises in June Susquehanna conferred upon him the degree of Doctor of Divinity.

In 1915 he was elected to the secretaryship of the alumni association and served for two terms. He again filled the same office from 1920 to 1927, which speaks for his popularity among the alumni of the university.

400 Parents Visit Campus Saturday

Pres. G. Morris Smith is Toastmaster at Third Annual Banquet for Mothers and Fathers

Nearly four hundred parents were on Susquehanna's campus on Saturday to take part in the third annual Parents' Day program. This year's occasion may be considered as the most successful, since it was marked by a glorious victory on the football field, and by the cooperation of the weather man who performed admirably, helped by the fact that Parents' Day was held two weeks earlier than it was last year.

The guests began arriving in the morning, and those who were making it their first trip here lost no time in visiting the various buildings and making acquaintances, while the old timers hastened to renew those of previous years. Son and daughter produced "the room-mate" and also his or her parents and soon had everybody acquainted.

About high noon all roads seemed to be leading to the Horton Dining Hall, and a few minutes later the mothers and dads were contentedly partaking of the dinner held in their honor. President G. Morris Smith acted in the capacity of toastmaster, and formally welcomed all the parents. Following this Mr. Spigelmyer and Professor Russel W. Gilbert addressed the gathering in turn. Mr. Spigelmyer is the father of Herbert Spigelmyer, a senior at Susquehanna.

At two o'clock the scene of activity was transferred to University Field, where Mom 'n Pop vied with the off-springs in their enthusiasm at the home team's brilliant performance. As if in tribute to the parents, Susquehanna's grid warriors trampled on a much heavier team with a zest and enthusiasm that was too much for Haverford, and stirred many a fond memory in the heart of the father glad.

After the game, the Y. W. C. A. girls gave an informal tea to all the parents in the Seibert Hall social rooms, and further opportunities for acquaintance between faculty and family were provided.

The reluctant exodus began with the approach of evening, except for those who remained over Sunday, many of whom had come from distant localities and several states.

Questions for Debate Presented to Society

Resolved That Capitalism as a System of Economic Organization is Unsound, Leads List

The debating club held its meeting Thursday evening, October 8, in the G. A. building. A debate on the question: "Resolved that all the nations of the world should adopt a policy of free trade" was given and the Oregon Plan was used. The first speaker for the affirmative was John Kindsvatter. The first speaker for the negative was Samuel Brosius. Mr. Kindsvatter was cross-examined by Mr. Brosius. Mr. Brosius was cross-examined by Edwin Clapper. The summary for the negative was given by Joseph Malmou. The affirmative summary was given by Edwin Clapper. There was to have been an audience decision, but because of a meeting the girls had to leave and Miss Corbin presided as judge.

Miss Corbin and Joseph related their experiences of Saturday in Harrisburg. The questions to be debated, from which the club has the choice of selecting one, are as follows:

Teams Our Opponents Will Play Saturday

Juniata vs. Gettysburg, at Gettysburg.
Washington vs. Haverford, at Haverford.
P. M. C. vs. Albright, at Albright.

GOLF INSTRUCTION

In response to a demand for golf instruction, a course has been introduced in the Physical Education under the direction of Coach Ullery. A number of Juniors (men) have elected this activity and are reporting at periods designated below:

Monday and Wednesday at 9:10-10:10
Any student desiring to receive golf instruction is invited to one of these periods. No charge for instruction. No college credit except for those Junior men who have enrolled for the course through the office.

"Joe" Winters and Bride Tour West

Well-Known S. U. Athlete is Married at Pittsburgh to Miss Dorothy James

Josiah Winters, former Susquehanna University star athlete and ex-member of the Class of '31, was married to Miss Dorothy James, of Pittsburgh, on October 1 at the "Smoky City."

While on the university campus "Joe" was a member of the Phi Mu Delta fraternity and the Varsity "S" Club. He played varsity guard on the football team for three seasons, "shined" at a guard post on the basketball court, and tossed the discus for Prof. Grossman's track team.

Mrs. Winters trained as nurse at the Sewickley Valley hospital and has been serving in that capacity for the past two years.

At the present time, bride and groom are making a honeymoon tour of the western states. They will reside at Selinsgrove upon their return, since "Joe" is employed at the State Colony.

Wilson, Corbin Guide Dramatic Activities

The Dramatic Club, sponsored by Miss Corbin and Doctor Wilson, is busy designing new scenery for the two one-act plays, both of which are to be presented either October 26 or 29. The first play to be presented is "The Golden Dream," by Dunsany. It is being directed by Miss Corbin. The characters for this play are:

King—Gerald Schlegel.
Chamberlain—Joseph Malmou.
Chief Prophet—George Kinney.
First Prophet—John Kindsvatter.
Second Prophet—Lewis Fox.
First Sentry—Albert Meyers.
Second Sentry—George Truckenmiller.
Little Boy—Jean Kelchner.
Little Girl—Mary Ellringham.
Spie—William Morrow, Albin Zimlich, Quinto Gonta.
Stranger—William Whiteley.

Practice for this play will begin this week on Monday, from four to six, in G. A. 300.

The second play, which will be directed by Doctor Wilson, is "The Seven Women," by Barry. The characters for this play have not been selected as yet. They will be announced at a later date. Both these plays are outstanding and the students are really getting something worthwhile by being able to see them at no cost whatever.

Many of Class '31 Have Secured Jobs

Survey Shows 52% Have Been Placed Despite Period of Depression; Teachers Lead List

A general survey of the activity of the graduates of the class of 1931 has revealed that approximately 52% of them have been able to secure positions, despite the present period of depression. The largest number of these have found positions in the teaching profession. A smaller part has entered the business world and a few have entered graduate schools, but only one of the entire class has entered into the bonds of matrimony.

Teaching
Twenty-nine graduates will assume their pedagogic duties in schools in all parts of Pennsylvania. They are Signe Alford, Roaring Springs, Pa.; Wilbur Berger, Coaldale, Pa.; Irene Brouse, Northumberland, Pa.; Sally Buckley, Upper Darby, Pa.; Helen Culp, Shamokin Dam, Pa.; Edythe Espenshade, Pottstown, Pa.; Alton Garman, Sunbury, Pa.; Daniel Graham, Shanksville, Pa.; Paul Haines, McClure, Pa.; Sara Haines, Center Hall, Pa.; Randolph Harvey, Coaldale, Pa.; Ruth Jacobs, Kresgeville, Pa.; Miriam Keim, Warwick, Pa.; Ariene Laudenslager, Northumberland, Pa.; Martha Laudenslager, Selinsgrove, Pa.; Dorothy Leisher, Port Royal, Pa.; Anna Losch, Lancaster, Pa.; Howard Lukehart, Dubois, Pa.; Ruth Maurey, Newport, Pa.; Ida Schweitzer, West Hazleton, Pa.; Raymond Scott, McAllisterville, Pa.; Corinda Sell, Altoona, Pa.; Russel Yoas, Red Lion, Pa.; Alma Bowersox, Reading, Pa.; Margaret Hoffmeister, Ford City, Pa.; Harold Kimmel, Lebanon, Pa.; Reno Knouse, Bluefield, W. Va.; Ethel Augst, New Cumberland, Pa.; Lois Brungart, Dauphin, Pa.; Robert Wilson, Waymart, Pa.; Glen Clark, Downingtown, Pa.

Enter Graduate Schools
Thirteen members of the class of '31 are taking graduate work. Ralph Lohr and Herbert Schmidt have entered the Susquehanna Seminary. Paul Hartline has entered Mount Airy Seminary. Warren Wolf, Gettysburg Seminary; Wilson Sieber, Westminster Theological Seminary, Phila., Pa.; Walter Foulkrod, Temple Law School, Phila., Pa.; Clifford Johnston and William Herman, Dickinson Law School, Carlisle, Pa.; Lawrence Fisher and Byrce Meadmore, Jefferson Medical School, Phila., Pa.; Ira Sassaman, Cornell University, William Welby, Harvard Law School, Nancy Hamlin, Business College; William Gelmett, Temple Medical School, Phila., Pa.

Other Occupations
Vernon Blough is an assistant in the gym office of Susquehanna University. Paul Freed is a musical director in Wildwood, New Jersey. Sara Rhoads is an assistant Librarian in Pitt Junior College, Johnstown, Pa. George Moser is selling insurance and Alvin Barber is working in New York City in the offices of Child's Restaurant Corp.

"The Alumnus" Makes Initial Appearance

S. U. Graduates Will Receive Alumni Publication Each Month; L. D. Grossman is Editor

The first edition of the "Susquehanna Alumnus" made its appearance during the latter part of last week. "The Alumnus" is a new journalistic effort and is intended for Susquehanna alumni. The paper will be published monthly, with the exception of July and August, and is under the management of Luther D. Grossman, executive secretary of the Alumni Association and physical director of Susquehanna.

President G. Morris Smith's letter in the first issue read as follows: "As a journalistic effort, it is our latest child. But it is well-born, having behind it the thought and planning of the Alumni Association for a number of years. We have been eagerly waiting for the time when an official publication from the college campus could be sent to every alumnus. That time (Concluded on page 4.)

CRUSADERS TREAT PARENTS TO 18-0 VICTORY OVER HAVERFORD

Meyers Scores in First Two Minutes of Play; Martinec, Fisher Score in Second Half of Game; S. U. is Outpunted

"Little Caesar" Meyers, who played the best game of his college football career on Saturday. Within a minute of the first whistle he had gone over the white line for Susquehanna's first touchdown in the 1931 season. This is the second season that he has scored the first touchdown for the Crusaders.

New Dietitian Pleases University Students

At last, teachers and students have acquainted themselves with each other. Enthusiasm, interest, and friendship is demonstrated out of the class as well as in it. There is one of the faculty, however, whom few acutely know and, yet she plays a very important part in the life of the student. She is our dietitian Mrs. Anna Humphreys, a graduate of Mechanics Institute, Rochester, New York. Indispensable to the young man as well as to the young woman are "eats." Mrs. Humphreys is to be duly commended upon the excellent, tasty, and substantial nourishment which she spreads. It is no light work preparing three meals each day for such a large family. To Mrs. Humphreys are extended our hearty and warm congratulations on her great success in satisfying our growing appetites.

Professional Musicians Will Meet at Bucknell

On Tuesday evening a meeting of the Professional Musicians of Snyder and Northumberland counties will be held in the new dining room of Bucknell University. Doctor Hogan will be the speaker of the evening. Doctor Claude Rosenberg, State supervisor of music is the organizer of this organization. The faculty of the Conservatory of Music of Susquehanna University are members of this musical organization, and will attend this meeting.

Faculty Tennis Matches Near Close

The Faculty Tennis Tournament has been rapidly progressing and, as we now look into the final matches, we find a match to be played by Professors Linebaugh and Seidel. The winner of this match will play Professor Reitz for first place. However, another tournament will be started in which every person will have a chance to play everyone else. This will bring about more matches and give everyone a better chance to win.

The Susquehanna football team rose to the occasion last Saturday afternoon when it treated the gathering of parents to a brilliant 18-0 victory over Haverford College.

Although the Susquehanna team was outweighed in both the line and backfield, Haverford was completely outplayed by its lighter but speedier opponents. The visitors, with such players as the 272-pound Captain Fields and 195-pound Schramm, were strong at the center of the line, but could not cope with dashes around end and off tackle by Meyers, Martinec, and Rishel.

As impressive as the Crusaders were on the offense, they were equally so on the defense. Haverford held the ball within striking distance several times but was always repulsed. An off-tackle play in which Battey carried the ball was the only play in which the visitors succeeded in making any worth while gains. Other plays at the Orange and Maroon line or any form of aerial attack was completely checked.

The only advantage that Haverford held over the Ulierymen was in punting. Martinec's kicks averaged the same yardage as that of the Haverford punter, but the visitors were decidedly more successful in running the punts back. It was due to this fact that Haverford held the ball well in Susquehanna territory during the second and third quarters and forced the Crusaders to play a defensive brand of ball.

The flashy work of Meyers who undoubtedly played the best game of his college career in the first few minutes of the game Saturday seemed to put new life into every other member of the team and made the eleven look like an entirely different one from the one that opened its season two weeks ago at Delaware.

Meyers Demoralized the Haverford Team when the game had progressed but a few minutes by his thirty-yard dash off right tackle for a touchdown.

The other two scores by the Orange and Maroon were equally spectacular. During the last quarter on a reverse play Martinec took the ball, slipped through left tackle and ran to the (Concluded on page 4.)

'Weede' Meyer Made Big Hit with Dancers

Interfrat Dance Proves to be Great Success. Band is the Best That Ever Played on Campus

Twelve o'clock found the Alumni Gymnasium in an uproar on Saturday night because at last the Inter-Fraternity Dance had not only become a reality, but it had also "passed into the past."

Concluding the Parents' Day activities, the Inter-Fraternity Group held what is at present considered the one dance of the year. "Weede" Meyer and his Virginians really made the dance one of the "gone but not forgotten" events of the campus. His band is composed of musicians that have made a study of dance rhythm and have played so consistently and well that they have become nationally famous. Every member of the band can sing equally as well as he can play. Original number from the band as a whole, special numbers, hot numbers, smooth numbers, and individual playing all combined to make "Weede's" repertoire the best possible.

The crowd of approximately one hundred couples was exceptionally pleased with the complete affair. A (Concluded on page 4.)

FOOTBALL VERSUS PUBLICATIONS

Think of football for a moment as a game of war rather than a matching of wits and skill. Football is often very severely criticized because many educated people consider it an atrocious, brutal attack of one group of men upon another. If this is the case, why should any show of sportsmanship be made in the game, such as was noticeable in the Parents' Day encounter? Both teams were entirely gentlemanly in their playing and as a result very few penalties were given. Football has many advantages, of which the major one has definitely to bear on the character building and life work of any young man. Any boys that can be incensed over a football game and still play the game squarely and fairly after receiving injury after injury is a person that will finally be able to withstand the rebuffs of American living and citizenship today without becoming an under-dog. He is prepared for hard knocks and consequently expects them from the world.

Therefore, from the occurrence of this fine sportsmanship and preparation, it is almost imperative and it is of vital importance that the games thus played should receive attention in the school publications. The alumni are more than anxious to find out what is continually going on athletically at their Alma Mater and, consequently, the school paper feels justified in reporting these contests as fully as possible. At various times it has been thought that the sport news was becoming too prominent a feature of our columns, but a recent survey shows that during the past two editions there have only been five articles of any import concerning football. This is an index which points out the fact that the Susquehanna publications are not spending too much time and space on the team.

TO THE INTERFRAT DANCE COMMITTEE

Nothing but the best of comment can go to the dance committee for the manner in which it conducted the first Interfrat Dance. No one who attended can honestly say he didn't have a good time, for even the fraternity man who doesn't dance could have stood in the balcony and split himself laughing at the capers of "Weede" and his musicians. Perhaps, the football victory in the afternoon put everyone into the right spirit, but whatever it might have been we would like to see more of such spirit among the fraternities. The success of the affair warrants its being made an annual function on the campus.

HOW ABOUT SOME NOISE?

Well, Susquehanna won last Saturday, but we don't think that the cheering of the crowd in the stands had anything to do with the victory whatever. We can't think of any time that the cheering was any weaker except perhaps last Parents' Day. Why is it that we don't want to yell when our parents are here? Or is it somebody else that keeps us from giving the best of support?

We fail to see why the students should not join in the organized cheering under the direction of the cheer leaders. They will yell and shriek if one of the team catches a pass out of the air and runs fifty yards for a touchdown. But when the cheerleaders ask for an "SU-SU-SUS," they forget to cheer.

Let's have every college student behind the team the rest of the year. First, BE THERE AT THE START OF THE GAME, and when you are there, then yell like—everything.

BIRTHDAY GREETINGS

To the following members of the faculty: Mrs. I. M. Sheldon, and Miss Mary Nesbit of the Conservatory of Music, and Mr. E. K. Rumberger of the Educational Department, who, during the past week, have celebrated their birthdays, THE SUSQUEHANNA wishes to extend heartiest greetings and congratulations.

S. U. PEPYS

The solution for Saturday's pleasant surprise: So many of us offered alibis or other excuses for the team to Mom and Pop before the game that the boys got mad and decided to show us how much we knew about it.

This column thinks that we should have the week off to celebrate . . . A day then, perhaps . . . Aw! . . . Well, how about eight o'clock class and chapel?

Our contribution for BONERS (heard in Bible):
Dr. Ahl: What was one of the sins of Cain?
Stude: He went and got a wife.

Here's a good one. Harvard does not allow either "women or dogs" in its dormitories. (Chuckle, chuckle.)

High spots of Saturday's game:
Johnny Meyer's running back to retrieve his chewing gum . . . Cessation of combat while Jack Auchmuty changed shoes twice crack from grandstand about taking precautions for the dance . . . Further delay caused by loss of referee's whistle . . . Ice-wagon Fisher's 50-yard trek to goal line, clocked in 17.9 seconds, by courtesy of Muvva watch . . . Rolling of pop bottles under the grandstand seats.

Freshman Logue passes his spare time in reading the dictionary. We recently found him deeply engrossed in the possibilities of "rubunduc" . . . Another Fresh boasts that his home town is unique. Possibly the word is derived from the Latin UNUS and EQUUS meaning one-horse.

Co-eds at the University of Missouri may talk to men on the street for more than three minutes . . . That's nothing. At Susquehanna couples must carry a pocket compass about to determine on which portions of the campus they may or may not tread after old Sol goes down.

After three weeks of school have passed, our efficient snooper has just discovered that there is a course being given here under the tongue-twisting title of Eurhythmics.

"Weede" Meyer, assisted by his orchestra, played a great kick Saturday night . . . The name of this song is "Dinah" . . . Occasionally one or two couples would dance for variety . . . If the boys were lucky enough to know when each dance ended, they changed partners at the right time.

So Diogenes blew out his lantern.
R. V. NERTZ.

"Our Five and Ten"

(Maybe Fifteen)

BY WOULD B. HISTORIAN

October 13, 1936

"Crusaders defeat strong Drexel eleven 21-0. Coach Morgan is pleased with showing. Two of the three touchdowns made were scored by completed forward passes. During the first half neither team was able to do any damage, but during intermission Morgan instilled into the boys' some of his contagious vigour and they placed the ball across the 'white line' in five minutes after the second half began."

(That note from the '26 edition sounds like a city sporting page, but maybe they paid their sport editor in those days. Sporting supplements often come high!)

"A class chairman is in charge of the Endowment Campaign. The students are pledged and required to pay their pledge after graduation as their part in the $450,000 building and endowment fund campaign. The chairmen are as follows: Seminary, Ira Wilson Kepner; Seniors, William M. Duncan; Juniors, William Lee Vorlage; Sophomores, J. Stanley Smith; Freshman, John F. McHugh. Dr. Kretschmann addressed the 'Y' Cabinets on 'Endowments and Achievements' for the benefit of the Campaign."

October 11, 1931

"The first home football game of the season was a draw with Mt. St. Mary's. The final score was 0-0, a real tie-royal. Crusaders managed to place ball in scoring position twice and the Mary's team never endangered our goal."

(That first home game was almost as successful as ours on Saturday.)

Fraternity Row

Kappa Delta Phi

Quite a few alumnae spent a few hours in Seibert Hall this week-end. Wilma Walker, Alma Bowersox, Sue Thomas and Lios Brungart.

Phi Mu Delta

Charles Kroeck was a visitor at the Fraternity House for several days. Randolph Harvey and Raymond Scott were week-end visitors.

Phi Mu Delta entertained a number of parents at a buffet supper on Saturday, following the game, and at a dinner on Sunday. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ballentine, Mr. and Mrs. Carolan, Mr. and Mrs. Fenstermacher with their youngest son, Mr. and Mrs. Foltz, Mr. and Mrs. Fox, and Mr. and Mrs. Olsen.

Jack Auchmuty was elected President of the Chapter at the last meeting of the Fraternity.

Epsilon Sigma

Charles Shoemaker, '29, of Wilkes-Barre, and John Senko, '31, of Haxton, were visitors at the house over the week-end and attended the first annual Inter-fraternity Dance.

Daniel McKelvey was elected by the active members to serve on the Inter-fraternity Council in place of Russel Sprout, who resigned from his position on the council.

Addison Pohle, '27, of Altoona, and Frank Ramsey, '30, of Hollidaysburg, were visitors at the house on October 3.

Phi Lambda Theta

The annual Parents' Day brought many of our parents to spend a delightful week-end with us.

Among our alumni visitors over the week-end were Paul Haines, Sam Cartwright, Norman Brought, and Hector Eckel.

Bond and Key

Bond and Key was the host to some thirty parents and friends on Saturday evening.

Several of the alumni returned for the celebrations over the week-end. Alvin Barber, '31, is spending part of his vacation in Sells Grove and vicinity. "Al" is affiliated with the Childs' Restaurant Corporation through their offices in New York City.

Cliff Johnston, editor-in-chief, Susquehanna '31, and Bill Herman '31, left Dickinson Law School to attend the hop at the Alumni Gym.

Henry Carichart '28, and H. B. Graham spent the week-end here. The other guests at the house were Harold Staller, "Danny" Graham '31, Howard Lukehart '31, Carlton Shaffer '32, and H. B. Ramer '22, who is athletic coach at Coaldale High School.

Seibert Hall Echoes

Seibert Hall inmates spent many an hour cleaning, i. e. housecleaning their rooms for mothers' inspection.

The girls are still talking about the dance Saturday night—"Mother, it's me."

And there was nothing "lousy" about the trained fies act.

Speaking of that "extra-something," said one of our well-known Frosh, Weede Meyer had "T."

Both Amelia Krapf and Dot Hutter have turned over a new?? leaf.

If it keeps getting colder, it won't be long 'fore room-mates will be taking turns at getting up in an icy room to lower the windows.

Some of the Freshmen girls were ready for the dance at seven o'clock—they'll learn—in time.

AMUSEMENTS

The Stanley presents an excellent week of bookings for the theatre going this coming week.

Tonight will be the last chance to see Maurice Chevalier in "The Smiling Lieutenant."

Adolph Menjou, the best dressed man of the screen, will take the leading role in the great stage play "The Great Lover" on Wednesday evening.

Another treat is in store for everyone one Thursday and Friday evenings when the lovely of the screen, Charles Farrell and Janet Gaynor, will play in "Merely Mary Anne."

On Saturday evening Gary Cooper will star in "I Take This Woman," Carole Lombard will play opposite him.

FACULTY ROW

Dr. Smith Attends Inauguration

Last week President spent several days at Allegheny and Grove City colleges. He attended the inauguration of the president at Allegheny and was present at the dedication of several new buildings at Grove City College.

Sunday morning, Dr. Smith and family left for Buffalo, N. Y., where they expect to visit for a few days.

Miss Clara Corbin gave a talk on China at the Missionary meeting of the St. John M. E. Church, Sunbury, on Monday evening. Her appreciative audience kept her speaking for an hour and a half upon various phases of Chinese life, ranging from dress to drama.

Vacations

Dr. Charles Leese was probably the busiest person among the faculty during the past summer. As soon as he had finished teaching at the summer session, he spent his vacation by taking a few weeks off for intensive study. His study, however, was happily interrupted by the arrival of a baby boy in the Leese family. The rest of Dr. Leese's summer was spent in commuting between his home and the hospital, and in teaching his brand-new son some of the principles of business administration.

Early in September, Dr. George Fisher and Mrs. Fisher left for Ocean Grove, New Jersey. Preceding Dr. Fisher's vacation was a busy period of teaching in the summer school. Dr. Fisher enjoyed very much a camp meeting of the M. E. church which was in progress in Ocean Grove during his stay there. Donald "Gypsey" Smith, the much heralded preacher from England, was the principal speaker at this meeting. The extraordinary quality of Ocean Grove, especially on Sunday, impressed Dr. Fisher exceedingly.

Professor George Wood attended the summer course at Columbia University. There, in the interest of the book which he is writing, he took courses relative to banking methods. After completing these courses, he spent a few days in Buffalo, New York, his old home. From Buffalo he went to Muskegon, Mich. While there he gathered data and statistics for his book, which will be published. Dr. Wood is very enthusiastic concerning the scenery, climate, and people of Michigan.

Band Makes Debut In Haverford Game

Professor Elrose L. Allison, director of the Susquehanna University band, reports that there are prospects for an excellent organization on the campus this year.

At the meeting last Tuesday evening, the following officers were elected for the year: Ray Minich, president; Harold Rowe, vice president; John Ballentine, secretary; William Caruth and Paul Zimmerman, stage managers; and Robert Clark and Howard Neely, librarians.

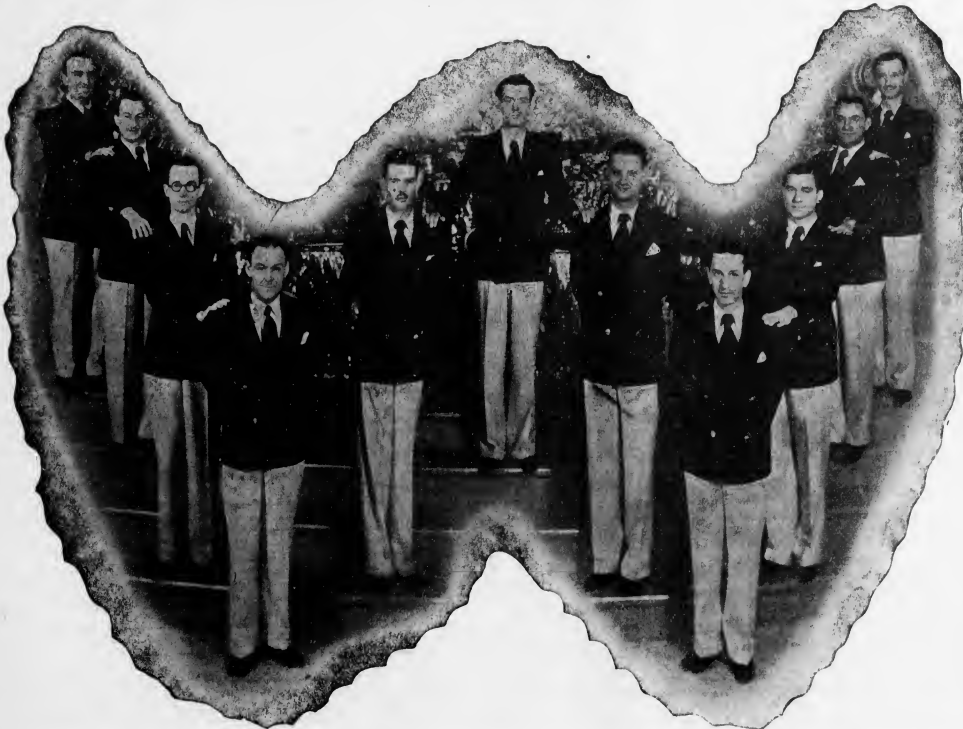

The band began the year by playing at the first home game of football on Parents' Day, Saturday. What a picturesque display the members of this organization made on the football field in their band uniforms. And it was due to these same members that the cheering, singing, and pep was at its best during the exciting game.

New Girls Are Guests Of S. A. I. Sorority

The depression that is at present sweeping the country is for the most part tragic, but like everything else it has its brighter side too. The girls of Sigma Alpha Iota tried to prove on Friday evening by giving a poverty party in honor of the new girls of Seibert Hall.

The invitations were written on scraps of brown writing paper, and the girls were asked to wear old clothes. Everyone met on Seibert Hall steps at 4 o'clock and hiked to a pleasant spot along Haverford Creek. There the girls were kept busy playing games, and hunting prizes, until they were asked to form a bread line. Then one by one as they were in order they were required to do stunts, sing a song, or say a speech. When they had done this they were served with chili con carne, rolls, pickles, potato chips, and apple pie, which they ate seated around the fire. After a few songs, everyone hiked back to school in time for the pep meeting.

Ulerites Will Meet Alfred on Saturday

With one victory and one loss to its credit Susquehanna will play its third football game of the season Saturday night on the Merrill Field at Alfred University. It is the first and only night game that the Crusaders will engage in this season.

It was against the Alfred team that the Orange and Maroon played its only night game last year. At that time Susquehanna went down to a 7-0 defeat. Strangely, however, the Ulerites outplayed the New York State team and made twenty-six first downs to their opponents' three. Alfred made its score in the first few minutes of play when Steinman skirted end for a fifty-two yard run and the touchdown. It made its other two first downs during this quarter and then was held in complete check the rest of the game. Susquehanna threatened several times to score, but seemed to lack the punch.

In the contest last Saturday the Crusaders displayed a real scoring punch and played heads-up football, taking advantage of every break that was given them. If the team continues to play the same way this week it will give Alfred, a team that is reported strong this season, a great battle.

The Susquehanna team was by no means perfect against Haverford, and Coach Ulerly and Assistant Coach Snell will spend another busy week straightening out faults. However, the eleven which took the field last Saturday worked so well together that the same team will probably start against Alfred.

Sophs Defeat Seniors To Gain Soccer Lead

Who will win the inter-class soccer championship? We do not know and furthermore it would not be safe to pick a winner at this stage of the battle. Right now the Sophs are leading with one win and no losses. The Seniors seem to have had a bad start by losing to the Frosh and Sophs, but they came back and defeated the Juniors who had defeated the Frosh 10-0. The Juniors and Frosh are tied for second place but the Juniors look as if they might cause the other teams a lot of trouble. And as for the Frosh, you never can tell.

Week's Results

Seniors 2, Frosh 6.
Seniors 2, Juniors 1.
Seniors 1, Sophs 3.
Juniors 10, Frosh 0.
Standing of the Teams
Sophs	1,000
Juniors	500

Kappa Delts Hostesses At Farewell Party

Kappa Delta Phi room was the scene of gay festivity on Friday evening from nine to ten-thirty, when Kappa Delta Phi girls entertained at a pajama party in honor of Miss Evelyn Allison who is leaving on October twenty-third for a year's study in France.

Other guests were: Miss Grove, Miss Bickerstaff, and Miss Armagast. Music was furnished by the radio, and dancing and cards were enjoyed, after which a delightful luncheon was served. The girls presented Miss Allison with a leather bound "Bon Voyage" book.

Junior Crusader Movement Started

The Junior Crusader movement, which was started by university officials several years ago with the boys and girls of the Selingrove Public Schools, is being carried on again this season.

During the past week, membership cards were issued to the grade children which entitled the kiddies to admission to all athletic events held on University Field. The object of the movement is to develop the spirit of chivalry, which means truthfulness, courage, courtesy, and loyalty.

Upon receipt of the card, the children promised to occupy the seats reserved for them, to stand up and cheer for Susquehanna when asked to do so, to protect the property of the university and of the players, and to display sportsmanship at all times.

Y. W. C. A. Holds Fireside Meeting

A glowing, sparkling fire met the girls as they assembled in Seibert Hall parlors for the Y. W. hour. The lights were all out, and cushions and chairs were drawn in a circle around the cheerful fireplace.

The leader was Flora Elmore. "The Ideal Susquehanna Lady" was discussed in open forum: A lady should be well-mannered, thoughtful, kind, considerate, pleasant, and helpful at all times.

The meeting opened with quiet music played by Erdene Elmore. It was closed with a friendship circle as "taps" were played.

Musical Fraternity Meets at Bucknell

Professors Stevens and Sheldon, and Doctor Williams, members of the faculty of Susquehanna University, attended a meeting of the Sinfonia or Phi Mu Alpha National Fraternity at Bucknell University. Professor Sheldon gave a talk on the founding of Sinfonia and its early activities. Sinfonia has grown from a small organization to a national fraternity of some seventy chapters of the leading conservatories, colleges, and universities of the United States. Professor Sheldon is a charter member of the Alpha chapter of the New England Conservatory of Boston. Doctor Williams is an honorary member of the Alpha Zeta chapter at Penn State, and Professor Stevens is a member of the Beta Gamma chapter at Columbia University.

Thirty Typewriters For Journalists

To show the extent to which newspaper publication is carried out in some of the larger schools, just look at this. The Brown and White of Lehigh University states that several improvements greeted the men on the staff of the Brown and White when they published their first issue last Sunday. Thirty new typewriters, lower typewriting tables and additional electric lights will make the work of the staff easier this year.

The Brown and White is published twice each week and the editor is Carl F. Hudl.

Jones was walking down the lane with his country girls. A cow and a calf beside the fence were rubbing noses in bovine affection.

"Look," said Jones, "isn't that wonderful? It makes me feel like doing just the same thing."
"Go ahead if you want to," said the farmer's daughter. "The cow belongs to father."

1. Resolved that capitalism as a system of economic organization is unsound in principle.

2. Resolved that the Johnson Act be so amended as to allow an Asiatic quota.

3. Resolved that war debts be cancelled. (This question is to be worded any way the teams desire.)

4. Resolved that athletic scholarships be discontinued in all American colleges.

5. Resolved that the best interest of the United States demand that definite steps be taken looking to decentralization of Federal authority.

Miss Corbin was on the committee to select the questions, and she said that it was quite a problem for the committee to select debatable questions.

During the debate Thursday evening, several heated discussions were in force relative to material on the question.

There was a meeting of the Judge Committee composed of Miss Corbin, Ruth Bergstresser, Samuel Brosius, and William Morrow, after the debating club adjourned. Divisions of the surrounding country were made and it is hoped that judges will be secured.

number of parents were to be found in the group also; some dancing, and others content merely to see their sons and daughters enjoying an evening of entertainment. Each of the fraternities was responsible for a corner of the gymnasium and for this reason the decorations and facilities were ample for all needs. It is unnecessary to explain that, from the unity shown in this affair, many more will be held; it is hoped that the Inter-Fraternity Dance will become an annual function.

With all the aforementioned praise going to the orchestra, it seems only proper that we should remember the Committee who worked long and faithfully in producing the dance as it was culminated on Saturday evening. W. F. Wilks served very well as Chairman of the entire Committee; Andrew Kosak and Herbert Rummell were responsible for the fine tunes and "red hot rhythm"; Arthur Winmark very capably took personal charge of the decorating; and Laird Gemberling directed the selection and preparation of the programs.

The committee has decided to inform us on the finances of the affair, but all that they will say now is: "Boys, it was a financial success, too."

With the completion of this article, the Inter-Fraternity Dance will be out of the social calendar until 1932. So, good-bye until the next season rolls around.

is happily here. Last June at our commencement meeting, a large alumni program was authorized, including a full-time assistant secretary, as well as an alumni paper, carrying to our graduates and students all over this country and in foreign lands, news of the campus and of the forces at work in the building of a stronger and finer Susquehanna University."

twelve yard line, where he was downed. Several plays later he went over for the score. Immediately after the kick off, Fisher snared a forward pass that was intended for a Haverford end and dashed fifty yards through a broken field for the third touchdown.

The feature of the game was the splendid offensive work of Rishel, Martinec and Meyers. However, the extra line play of Captain Adams and Hanna could not be overlooked. For Haverford Battey was outstanding on the offense and Bancroft on the defense.

The Game In Detail

Haverford received the kickoff on its thirty-yard line. A Haverford back recovered a poor pass from center on his own two-yard line. The visitors punted to their forty-yard line. Rishel went to the thirty-yard line for a first down. Meyers slanted off tackle for thirty yards and a touchdown. Haverford received the kickoff and worked the ball to the Susquehanna ten-yard line, but was held. Just as the quarter ended, Extrom recovered a fumble on the Susquehanna thirty-two yard line.

Three exchanges of kicks gave Haverford the ball on the Crusader thirty-six yard line. A first down took it to the twenty-five yard line. Two incomplete passes gave Susquehanna the ball. Meyers circled end for fifteen yards, but here the half ended.

Second Half

Susquehanna received the kick off. Haverford took the ball to the Susquehanna eighteen-yard line but was held. Haverford fumbled a Susquehanna punt and Adams recovered the ball on the Haverford forty-five yard line. Meyers made a nice run back of a punt as the quarter ended.

Susquehanna, after several exchanges of punts, received the ball and Rishel went for a first down. On a reverse play, Martinec ran forty yards to the twelve-yard line and then scored. Fields ran the kickoff back to the forty-yard line. Fisher intercepted a pass in midfield and sprinted for the touchdown. Haverford received the kickoff and made several first downs before the game ended. The lineup:

Haverford	Susquehanna
Foley	L. E.	Adams

Great Home-Coming Celebration Oct. 24

Two Football Games, Tea and Dances Included in Saturday Program to Entertain Alumni

FACULTY EXPRESS WELCOME

Invitations have been issued to all alumni of Susquehanna University for our annual Homecoming Day. The usual colorful display of the students combined with that of the faithful men and women of other years will greet any visitor on the campus. For a number of years this festival day has been one of outstanding prominence on the social calendar, because of the intense interest shown by the former students, as well as by those still attending. As the name implies, the day is specially prepared for alumni and ex-pupils of the university. Remember, Saturday, October 24th.

This year the Athletic Association will present Hamilton College versus our own Crusaders in one of the best football competitions of the year. Hamilton College is a far famed liberal arts institution, and it is proud of its popular and famous alumni; one of the greatest is Elihu Root. The present prophets on the campus have been quoted as giving the home team big odds against their opponents, and everyone backs up the statement of these favored few; consequently, the Alumni should return to the school through their own choice and help the boys over the second victory of the year. The staff takes this medium of placing their invitation.

Not only will the clash of two varsity teams make the day happy; but the annual Frosh-Soph battle at 12:30 is bound to bring together two strong organizations. The Class of '34 went undefeated in its schedule last year and the Class of '35 is showing strength in meeting all opponents. Folks, it will be a great, "friendly-enemy" game.

Teas are becoming more popular on the campus and the girls are planning another for the Homecoming visitors. The Parents' Day Tea was a great success and all the parents were pleased with reception given them by their daughters; the Alumni will find out that they are welcome to see their old acquaintances in Selbert Hall—especially the girls.

The Faculty of the University have expressed their wish to the staff that their welcome be made formal. Again you find even tho you received your degree from S. U. and have passed out into the cold, cold world there is still a warm spot in Susquehanna where you may forget all your troubles and worries for at least one week-end. The songs will again take up the evening and by means of "Old Lady Gossip" we have found out that some of the best rhythm makers of the state will be at the Houses to greet their old Brothers.

S. U. Athletes Attend Merion Club Match

Miss Reeder Supervises Trip; All American Team Defeats Scottish
Hockey Stars at Haverford

Nine Susquehanna athletes, with Miss Reeder, attended the international hockey game in which the All-American eleven defeated the Scottish team by the close score, 4-3, Oct. 17. This is the first time that the American team was victorious in the great English sport.

Fifteen thousand spectators witnessed the game, which marked the beginning of an extensive tour throughout the country. The Clan MacGregor Pipe Band from Frankfort paraded on the field in kilts regalia which is the custom in Scotland when big hockey games are the attraction.

The S. U. hockey stars were much impressed by the first real hockey game they witnessed. The perfect passing and the speed of the game gave them a thrill. Excellent teamwork was displayed by both elevens.

Members of the Girls' Athletic Association who made the trip to the Merion Cricket Club, Haverford, were Lucille Lehman, Harriet Reese, Barbara Jones, Pauline Crow, Edith Frankenstein, Thelma Grebs, Margaret Pitt, Martha Cresser, Frances Hubler and Miss Reeder. Sara Shalh, a Susquehanna graduate, also was a member of the party.

LIBRARY CLOSED

The library will close at 8 P. M. this evening, Oct. 20, for the first Star Course number. This hour will be observed for all following Star Course numbers.

O. D. S. to Present Barry's "Holiday"

Plot Features New York Aristocracy;
All Cast Members of Previous Experience on S. U. Stage

The campus usually looks forward to the first three-act play of the season, and this year Omega Delta Sigma will present "Holiday," by Philip Barry, on November 12.

Philip Barry is one of the most successful modern American writers. His first play produced in 1923 was "You and I," which ran for a season in New York and another season on the road. Among his latest plays are "White Wings," "Hotel Universe," "Tomorrow" and "Holiday."

"Holiday" not only enjoyed success on the stage, but it was also well received as a motion picture. It is a story of New York aristocracy. The setting is the home of Edward Seton, a millionaire, who as a typical big business man rules his family, but at the same time is ruled by the conventions of society. The one daughter has views much like her fathers; the other daughter rebels against her narrow life and the son is going to the dogs. Johnny Case is an outsider who wants to enjoy life while he is young and work when he is old. The Crans and the Potters typify two very different kinds of marriage couples. This play has some of the cleverest lines ever spoken on our stage. It is the sort of thing one remembers.

All members of the cast have appeared in plays here before and are all known to do excellent amateur work. This play will be no exception. The cast is as follows:

Edward Seton	Merle Hubbard
Ned Seton	Jack Petry
Julia Seton	Mary Esther Potter
Linda Seton	Edna Williamson
Johnny Case	Luke Rhoads
Seton Crum	Andrew Kosak
Laura Crum	Muriel Camerer
Nick Potter	Lee Fairchild
Susan Potter	Janet Leitzel
Perkins	Ruth Plummer
Mary	Ruth Bergstresser
Della	Virginia Andrews

Dickinson Host to I. N. A. Convention

Excellent Program Planned for Nov.
6-7; To Present Awards at Formal Banquet Saturday Night

The Fall Convention of the Inter-collegiate Newspaper Association, of which The Susquehanna is a member, will open in Memorial Hall at Dickinson College, Carlisle, Friday afternoon, November 6th. Registration will take place in the Dickinsonian Newspaper Office from twelve to two o'clock. Work has been received from the president of the Association, Raymond B. Counsellor, of Dickinson College, that an excellent program is being planned.

The first meeting of the Association will take place on Friday afternoon. The Dickinsonian will be the host paper of the convention and entertain the representatives of the various papers. Friday evening the representatives of the Editorial Staffs and Business Staffs will meet separately and have a round table discussion of mutual problems. Saturday morning, November 7th, the second meeting of the separate groups will take place at nine o'clock in Memorial Hall. In the afternoon at two o'clock, plans are under way for the convention to see the Dickinson-Gettysburg Home-Coming Football Game.

The climax of the conference will come in the evening when at the Formal Banquet held in the Molly Pitcher Hotel the News and the Editorial Clubs will be awarded. Each paper is allowed two official delegates and as many others as want to attend. The official delegates have not been chosen as yet.

Andrew Kosak, editor-in-chief, and Lee M. Fairchild, Business Manager, attended the spring convention of the Intercollegiate Association, which was held at Brooklyn, New York. The host paper at that time was The Polytech of Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute.

S. U. Will Sponsor N. B. C. Broadcast

National Hook-Up Endeavors to Interpret to the American Public Benefits of Liberal Arts Colleges

President G. Morris Smith has recently announced that Susquehanna University will join the popular movement for the benefit of all Liberal Arts Colleges in the United States, sponsored through radio broadcasts with the cooperation of the National Broadcasting Company and Associated stations.

At the present time the enterprise consists of nine geographical divisions, with a regional director and a number of broadcasting stations in each.

Susquehanna will be listed in Division II with President George L. Omwake of Ursinus College serving as regional director. This division will embrace the following states: Pennsylvania, Delaware, New Jersey, Maryland, New York and the District of Columbia, with the following broadcasting stations as their representative stations: WRC, WEA, WGY, WBE, WLIT, WFI, and WCBE.

A national broadcast on November 14th will represent a concerted effort to interpret to the American public the aims, achievements and needs of the liberal arts college and to enlist the sympathetic cooperation and support of the people in the enhancement of the services these colleges are rendering.

It will afford Susquehanna and many other Liberal Arts Colleges an exceptional opportunity to present its own specific achievements and needs to its own immediate public. This will be done by means of a local program presented in connection with and against the background of the national program headed by President Hoover, supported by collateral activities both before and after the broadcast. The underlying purpose of the national broadcast is to focus attention upon the individual college and this is to be accomplished successfully through the vigorous cooperation of President G. Morris Smith and his associates.

The National Broadcast of American Liberal Arts Colleges on November 14th, headed by President Hoover will also include many other noted speakers, such as John H. Finley, Robert L. Kelly, Mrs. Thomas J. Preston, Jr., and A. N. Ward.

Compinsky Trio to Be Heard Tonight

Trio Performed Before King, Queen and Royal Family of England.
Play All Work From Memory

This evening, Tuesday, October 20, the Compinsky Trio will open our Star Course season. The members of the Trio are: Sara Compinsky, pianist; Manuel Compinsky, violinist; Alex Compinsky, cellist.

The Compinskys were born in Russia, but when very young they settled in England, and London has been their home until their coming to the United States.

Under the guidance of their father, a brilliant musician and pedagogue, they began to study music at a very early age, and as soon as they were able to play, he began their ensemble playing. Later Manuel studied with Emile Sauret and Leopold Auer. Upon the death of Emile Sauret he succeeded to the senior violin professorship at the Trinity College of Music, which professorship he retained until his departure for America. Alex studied first with Ludwig Lebell, a pupil of David Popper, and later with Felix Salmond. Sara studied with Benno Schonberger, a pupil of Leschetitzky.

The Trio, well known in England, has been honored by performing before King George, Queen Mary and members of the Royal family.

They are acclaimed in the United States as the most striking trio of recent seasons.

All works are performed entirely from memory. This is a most unusual feat.

HALLOWEEN PARTY

Plans are now being made by the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. of the university for a Halloween Party, which is to be held in the Alumni Gymnasium Saturday evening, Oct. 31. All students of the university are invited to attend the party.

President G. M. Smith Has Busy Week. Talks At County Institute

While in Buffalo, New York, last week, President Smith sought important business men to encourage prospective students of Susquehanna. He also visited the principal of the Park School, a preparatory institution, which is patronized by the children of Buffalo. Here too, his efforts were for the interests of Susquehanna University.

Friday morning, October 15, President Smith addressed a gathering of one hundred and sixty teachers of Snyder county who were meeting in the Annual Institute at Middleburg, Pa. The subject of his address was: "Is Public School Education Worth What It Costs." By a number of comparisons it was shown that the money spent for public school education is than that spent by the American people upon either insurance, luxuries, building construction or automobiles. It was shown further that the importance of money spent on humanity far outweighs that which is spent for material things.

Staff Is Chosen by Editor of Lanthorn

Jay Worthington Spends Week-End at Philadelphia in Preparation of Work on College Annual

Completion of the editorial staff for the 1933 Lanthorn, annual Junior publication at Susquehanna University, was announced last week. The art theme, under the supervision of William Royer, is already under way, and the major part of the photography will be taken care of by the end of next week. Following this, individual assignments will be given so that the work may progress as rapidly as possible.

The staff hopes to have the Lanthorn ready for distribution by the third week in May, as it was last year. The contracts for this year, which were signed last spring, are with the Clark Printing House, Lotz Photo-Engraving Company, and the Zamsky Studio, all of which firms are located in Philadelphia.

Jay Worthington, editor-in-chief, spent the week-end in Philadelphia, visiting each of these firms, arranging schedules and gathering general information concerning the mechanical details of the book. At the Clark Printing House he was shown about the various departments by Mr. W. H. Corson, who has handled the Lanthorn for several years. Here he was advised of many details which go towards the efficiency of a well-equipped firm. These included a device which assured a full surface for a photograph by measuring the width of the "cut" or woodblock to a thousandth of an inch, and another by which the same could be shaved, to the desired width. This device makes it impossible for the printer to spoil a well photographed and properly engraved plate.

The editorial staff, subject to minor changes and additions, is as follows: Editor-in-chief, Jay Worthington; Art editor, William Royer; assistant editors, Barbara Jones, William Swann; statistician, Estelle Pearl; athletic editor, J. Paul Edwards; assistant athletic editor, Diane Lixias; associate editors, Esther Geisel, Byron Haire, Joseph Malmon, Emma Orlando, Samuel Pascoe, Adeline Wingard.

Susquehanna Students Escape in Auto Crash

While on their way to attend classes at Susquehanna University on Friday morning, Elizabeth Phillips and her brother Henry L., escaped with slight scratches and bruises when their Buick sedan overturned at Hummel's Wharf.

At a point near the T. J. Purdy home, the car skidded on the wet highway, clipped several posts, struck a telephone pole, and knocked over a mail box before overturning.

The injured were taken to the Purdy home where Dr. H. F. Straub, of Selingsrove, attended them. Miss Phillips was found to be suffering from an injured hip as well as from extreme shock and nervousness, while her brother escaped with minor cuts and bruises.

William G. Phillips, of Selingsrove, an uncle of the two students, arrived on the scene shortly after the accident and took them to their home at Sunbury.

Orange and Maroon Lose Game 26 to 12

Alfred Team Comes Back in Second Half After Trailing S. U. 12-0 to Win in Saturday Night Game

WEATHER MAN PLAYS HAVOC

After trailing by the score of 12-0 in the first half a strong Alfred team came back in the second period of play and defeated Susquehanna by the score of 26-12 under the flood lights of the Alfred Field last Saturday night.

Taking the ball up and down the field under sleet, snow and rain and playing a mass mud ankle deep the contest was fought under anything but good conditions. Only the most conservative lines of football play were resorted to and as a result not one forward pass was attempted and few end runs were made. Punts were made only when they had to in order that Susquehanna or Alfred might get out of danger.

The Crusaders struck hard and fast early in the game. After kicking off to Alfred, Susquehanna took a return kick on the 40-yard line and with consistent line plunging took the ball up the field, where Myers finally carried the ball over for the touchdown. Before the quarter ended Susquehanna again got possession of the ball and took it up the field on another march and Martin took it across for the Crusaders.

The second half, however, found Susquehanna a changed team. Sitting fifteen minutes between halves in an ice cold dressing room, the Ullerymen came on the field in the second period of play chilled to the bone and consequently minus the pep which was in them when the game started. Poor football and numerous fumbles resulted.

Alfred, on the other hand, who had changed into dry uniforms, took advantage of every break and worked their way to victory by a decisive score. The contest was an exciting one in the viewpoint of the home team and much enthusiasm was aroused when Alfred was able to tie the score and then break into the lead. Since footing was so insecure no long runs or spectacular plays featured the game.

H. K. Gregory Dies at New Castle Home

Graduate of Missionary Institute Became Prominent Lawyer and Church Layman

Harry Knight Gregory, native of Selingsrove, and graduate of Missionary Institute in the class of 1886, died at his late residence in New Castle, October 4.

Mr. Gregory was born December 4, 1865, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Gregory, his father having been for many years connected with the First National Bank of Selingsrove. His mother, Mrs. Anna Knight Gregory, of Selingsrove, is the only Real Daughter of the American Revolution living in Pennsylvania and one of the five living in the United States.

After graduating from Missionary Institute, he taught school at Grassy Point, N. Y., for several years. Returning to his native town, he read law in the office of Attorney Charles P. Ulrich, deceased, and was admitted to the bar September 27, 1892. Mr. Gregory then removed to New Castle, where he resided ever since. There he married Miss Cora Smith, a daughter of the acting chief Burgess, who survives. Their children are Harry Knight, Jr., Franklin, and Margaret.

Mr. Gregory achieved a place of prominence not only in his chosen profession, but in his Christian life, having been chancellor of the Erie Diocese of the Protestant Episcopal Church at the time of his death. He also held many important positions in the Masonic Order and Knights Templar.

A New Castle paper paid the following tribute to Mr. Gregory. "In the annals of the Lawrence of the Law Association, the name of Harry K. Gregory ranks with Hazen, Dana and those other legal geniuses who have practiced here for a time and then passed on. As a lawyer he stood for the finest traditions of his profession; as a churchman he carried more than his share of the church burden; as a citizen he believed in his city, his State and his Nation."

ARE WE LIVING AT COLLEGE? DO WE LIVE OUR LIVES?

Charles W. Lawrence, of the Intercollegiate Press, recently penned an editorial which was inspired by the letter of an alumna of a certain college, who in a letter to the alumni magazine of her alma mater, protesting a new rule allowing women to smoke at that college, says: "I am very sure many of the alumni of ——— College are dismayed at some of the recent changes at ———."

Mr. Lawrence writes, "I have no doubt the lady is right. Many alumni of that particular college are dismayed that the institution has so raised its standard of scholarship that it no longer dominates its particular football conference as it once did. Many are dismayed that she no longer threatens fire and brimstone to those who refuse to accept the tenets of Puritan theology. Many are dismayed that young men and women at that college now are allowed to live the normal social life which they will have to live after graduation."

Perhaps Mr. Lawrence is right when he says that "college alumni are as a group lacking in any conception of what is the purpose of a college." We, however, would like to disagree with him. The alumni had a purpose for going to college and their purpose was as much right as ours even though ours may have changed slightly. Without a doubt the only possible purpose of a college of liberal arts is to train young minds to search out truth in hidden corners and bring it to light as best they can, both for their own welfare and for that of their fellow beings. Indeed with Mr. Lawrence we believe that this purpose certainly can not be accomplished by a college that "occupies itself with the routine of a home for the protection of weak characters." Of course, all are not strong but that is no reason why all should be taken as weak and unable to handle problems which they will have to meet some day after the alma mater has relinquished her grasp upon them.

The lady graduate in her letter suggests that because her alma mater now allows its co-eds the privilege of deciding for themselves a matter of conduct which they will have to decide for themselves on or after the day of graduation anyway, the college "is drifting with the tide and losing her heritage."

If the purpose of the college of today is to be accomplished, then this college is "one of the high-minded colleges which allow individuals of all creeds and all economic and political theories to stand on their platforms and express convictions openly and honestly." If parents have not seen to the training of their children that by the time they are of college age they can choose for themselves what is right and what is wrong, then the college can never expect to do it, and furthermore its duty is not such.

The college that gives the student an opportunity to settle his own problems is one of the happy colleges which has an administration actively intent on stimulating the students to tackle in their own way at least some of the world's more perplexing problems, ethical, political, and economic.

If this is considered "drifting with the tide" then we can say with Mr. Lawrence that the tide is heading in the right direction, and our colleges are finally lifting themselves from the class of protective finishing schools for gentle young men and women to a plane of intellectual endeavor which finds it far more important that students should have minds—and souls—of their own.

WHAT, NEW PAPER?

Perhaps the readers have noticed that the grade of paper used by the printer in The Susquehanna has been changed. An excellent reason is the one which has been used many times during the past two or three years, and that is The Depression. It may be true, but we have even a better one.

It has been the desire of the Intercollegiate Newspaper Association to have uniformity in the grade of paper and also in the size of the columns of the various member papers of the association. We were only trying to carry out the plans of the association when we changed to the different paper and as our attempt is to publish a newspaper, why should we not use the grade of paper that is used by newspapers everywhere?

THE LAST STAND

Next Saturday there will take place the only meeting of the Sophomore and Freshman Classes in the annual Sophomore-Freshman football classic. This event, which occurs each Homecoming Day, is the remaining vestige of a once active list of interclass conflicts. Although these battles did give the campus a spirit of hilarity, they at least created a class spirit which was evident throughout the school and was carried to the intercollegiate contests.

We can easily contrast the activities of former years, when excitement ran high in the preparation for these inter-class conflicts. Class meetings, pep talks, smokers, and elaborate preparations kept the interest at a high pitch. Today class spirit seems doomed to a slow death, not only on Susquehanna's campus, but at other institutions.

The class rushes are a memory to some and a thing unheard of to others. The banquet season is no more and with it goes the class spirit. Freshmen walk around with their hands in their pockets and smoke on the campus whenever and wherever they desire to do so. The council which once had the fear and the obedience of every Freshman now is only a weak and insignificant and unheeded body.

With the words of others we may say, "It is a sad state when we become so sophisticated that we look with disdain upon any demonstration of class spirit as childish and below our level. But we evidently prefer to go through our four years in a colorless, uninspired manner."

S. U. PEPYS

Things at Susquehanna were a little slow last week, (at least that's a good alibi) so let's take some peeps at other campuses. . . .

One student at Alabama left that institution because he couldn't find a barber that cut his hair to suit him. Maybe it was the pro's who were displeased with his cuts! . . . After November 1, no one will be permitted to sleep in the library at Juniata. Don't laugh. You may be the next. . . . Found—a good use for Eugene hats. At St. Benedict's College, they adorn the knobs of freshmen, with purple and white plumes to display the college colors. . . . The task of choosing the best looking and the best dressed girl at Duke University falls to the editor of the college paper. How about it, Kozak? Feel like committing suicide? . . . Varsity letters at George Washington U. are 8 inches high and 12 inches wide. Brute Bishop should go there; he could get a sweater free, and have enough left over to make a pair of socks. . . .

Haverford's sports columnist remarked last week that if Susquehanna's field had been only 80 yards long, the score might have been different. Possibly, but at least Haverford's kicker wouldn't have landed so many punts on our 5-yard line. . . .

This column's only comment on Saturday's game is that S. U. could stand some wet weather equipment. Instead of saving up for a rainy day perhaps it would be wiser to be prepared for one. . . .

And the games should be nearer home, so Joe Maimon can get up for dinner the next day. . . .

Have you read "Finding Romance in the Kitchen," by Hugu Brann Injure?

The open season for Freshman dating will begin tonight with the Compinsky Trio firing the first shot. . . . And now the time has come to find out how your new roommate's tux fits. . . .

Winter should soon be here, bringing with it thicker magazine ads, and thinner breakfast attendance. . . .

Difficult decision No. 1999—Should the football man make out a program for the dance Saturday night?

Hey frosh! How about letting the town and alumni know we're having a football game Saturday? Consult the class of '34 for expert information on the subject. . . .

Well, I see they've got my padded cell swept out, and anyway, I need the sleep. Watch for the all-campus football team selection next week.

CLUB DEBATED ON CAPITALISM

The Debating Club held its meeting in G. A. October 15, at 8:30 p. m. The question, "Resolved that Capitalism as a System of Economic Organization is Unsound in Principle," was discussed by every member of the debating club. Several vehement arguments arose, but the meeting adjourned with friendly feelings among the members.

the professors usually are prepared with memorandum calendars.)

October 18, 1931

"A crippled Crusader line managed to put a good scrap and held the strong Colgate team to a 21-6 victory."

(We might try it this year, but Colgate would be taking a long chance.)

"The Lanthorn Staff has reported the publication is proceeding rapidly."

(The staff of '33 is well under way in their work also; thus these two years compare favorably.)

"Dr. Houtz has just served his 36th year on the faculty, and has made himself the member of the faculty serving Susquehanna the longest."

"Some wise-cracker said: 'George Washington got married so that he could be father of his country.'"

(Perhaps some of our instructors got married this summer to start another Revival of Learning.)

October 24, 1916

"Fordham's mighty eleven crushed the Crusaders under a 47-0 defeat. The passing attack caused three-fourths of the scoring. S. U. men were outweighed thirty to thirty-five pounds."

"Two students of the school have opened a Jigger Shop—their advertisement on another page of this edition) Crossland and Shoaf Proprietors."

(Malasy is conforming with the wishes of these two ex-students and satisfying the desires of the men in Hassinger.)

First Smoker: "How about a cigar-ette?"

2nd Ditto: "Want me to smoke it for you?"

First Smoker: "Yeh, how are you fixed for spittin'?"

(This sounds like the present only they forget that a match and a finger t. offick off the ashes are yet needed.)

Closing with the memorable words of Homer:

"Thus he spoke—unto the end."

ALUMNI NOTES

Don't Forget Homecoming Day!

Alumni are reminded that this Saturday is homecoming day, and a large return of graduates is hoped for. Our team will play Hamilton on the University Field and needs your support. If you haven't already made arrangements to attend, please do so.

Graduate Is Coach at College

H. F. Sweeney, '23, is occupying the position of coach in the West Liberty College, West Liberty, West Virginia. He writes us that his football and basketball teams finished their last seasons undefeated.

Marriage

Flora K. Hull, '27, and F. Wilbur Longenecker were married at Center Hall on May 2, 1931. Mrs. Longenecker taught in Everett, Pa., since her graduation from Susquehanna.

The couple are living at La Vale Inn, Cumberland, Md. Mr. Longenecker is manager of the inn. They will spend the winter season in Miami, Florida.

Is Pastor at Zellenople

M. M. Ailbeck, '94, '97, '19, is pastor of the English Lutheran church at Zellenople, Pa. He has been at this place since July, 1919, making the second longest pastorate at this church in eight years.

Dr. Ailbeck is much interested in the work of "The Susquehanna." He was closely identified with the publication while a student and has been a constant subscriber since his graduation.

Death of Minister

Word has just been received of the death of the Reverend Roland E. Christ in 1929. Rev. Christ was born at New Florence, Pa., in 1877. He attended the Missionary Institute with the class of 1894, the last class before the institution became Susquehanna University. He was probably the youngest member of the class, being then only seventeen years old. He then attended Wittenberg College, receiving the degree of A. B. in 1896. After that he attended the Auburn Theological Seminary, from which he entered the Presbyterian ministry in 1899.

His first parish was Welsh Run, near Chambersburg. Subsequently he served parishes at Aiglen, Pa., Pleasantville, N. J., Long Valley, N. J., Montgomery, Pa., and Wilmington, Ohio. In the spring of 1929 he moved to Hicksville, Ohio, at which place he died in July of the same year.

It is a notable fact that Rev. Christ is the third of a class of twenty-three to die within thirty-seven years. The class of 1894 was the largest class ever to attend Missionary Institute.

Aren't You Interested?

Several weeks ago an article was published, informing the alumni that we wished to run a column under the heading "Susquehanna As It Once Was." We can do this only if some of our graduates write and tell us about the Susquehanna they attended. Aren't you interested or don't you think the idea is a good one? Why not give us your opinion?

Number of Graduates Contributors to Book

We have noticed a number of Susquehanna graduates among the list of contributors to "Sermons for the Moment." This book will be published some time this month. All the articles are on the gospels of the church year, and are the work of sixty-four well known Lutheran clergymen. The book is edited by the Reverend Frederick A. Bowers, D.D., pastor of St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church at Richmond Hill, New York City.

Our graduates who have contributed are the Rev. T. Bruce Birch of Wittenberg College, Rev. A. Allan Chamberlin of Lebanon, Rev. Chalmers E. Frontz, of Albany, Rev. H. D. Hoover, of Gettysburg Seminary, Rev. Wm. F. Sunday, of Brooklyn, and Dr. Traub, of Omaha, Neb.

Dr. Kretschmann, of the Susquehanna seminary faculty, is also among the contributors.

Child Born

A daughter has been born to Mr. and Mrs. Warren M. Stone, of Warren, Pa. Mrs. Stone was formerly Miss Dorothy Allison, '19, the daughter of Professor H. A. Allison, of our faculty. She was a teacher of Latin in the Warren schools before her marriage.

Mr. Stone is an attorney in partnership with his father.

The child will be named Elaine.

Graduate and Ex-Student in France

Miss Evelyn Allison, '20, will leave this Friday for France, where she will study at the University of Sorbonne. Miss Allison recently studied at the University of Grenoble in France, and has now obtained another leave of absence to further her study.

Miss Adeline Strouse, one of Susquehanna's ex-students, left about a month ago for Chateau-Thierry, where she is teaching English and studying French.

Marriage

During the summer months, Harold A. Smaltz, '29, was married to Miss Charlotte Highes, of Scranton. Mr. Smaltz is a teacher in the high school at White Haven, Pa.

Death of Aged Graduate

S. Ammon Fisher, of Selinsgrove, died on September 28 after having been in failing health since last October. He was aged 76 years.

Mr. Fisher was practically a lifelong resident of Selinsgrove and attended Susquehanna University and taught school for a time. For the past three years he was taking care of the Legion Hall on Walnut street.

Fraternity Row

Sigma Sigma Delta. "Mim" Keim was welcomed to Seibert Hall Friday. "Mim" was president of Sigma Sigma Delta last year.

Phi Mu Delta

Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe North were the guests of the Fraternity at dinner Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. George T. Kerber, Mrs. Mellon and Miss Mellon, relatives of Dr. A. H. Wilson, were the guests of the Fraternity on Sunday.

Glenroy Bishop spent the week-end in Altoona.

John Kindsvatter visited Gettysburg Seminary over the week-end.

Greaves, Sunday, Metzger, Fenstermacher, Blough, Hoffman, Olson, Danks, Wilks, and Stroup attended the Alfred game Saturday night.

Arthur Gelnett, Raymond Scott, Theodore Kemmerer, and Franklin Stover visited the Fraternity House during the week-end.

"Pop" Sunday entertained several guests at the house on October 10.

Phi Lambda Theta

John Fisher and Maurand Swartz were taken in as active members last

Wednesday night immediately preceding the regular meeting.

Brothers Green and Minnich spent a delightful week-end at the latter's home at Loyville.

The climax of the week-end's activities was reached with the discovery of Jimmie Bonsall's reticence. He had visitors Sunday, including his parents.

Bond and Key

The fraternity house was rather lonely this week-end. Six of the club members made the football trip to Alfred. "Holly" Muir, Lou Legacy, Robert Hartman, Donald Steele, and Jerry Mayes all were at their homes over the week-end.

Kappa Delta Phi

Alma and Bessie Long, alumnae, visited Seibert Hall Saturday.

K. D. P. "Rescues" New Girls

Starting at 4 o'clock last Friday afternoon, Kappa Delta Phi girls entertained all new girls in the form of a rescue party.

The girls hiked from Seibert Hall to a point down the river about three miles. A delicious lunch was served, ghost stories were enjoyed and games played.

When it became nightfall, they were rescued by a huge truck and they rode back to Seibert in "Trucky" style.

College-trained engineers revisit the athletic field

ON more than a hundred floodlighted fields, football is being played and practiced in the evening hours, before larger audiences than ever before—with fewer injuries and in better conformity with classroom duties.

This constructive revolution in athletics is largely the work of college-trained engineers— young men personally familiar with the needs of college and school. They are dedicating the technical experience gained in the General Electric Test Department to the practical service of undergraduate athletics—designing and installing floodlighting equipment for virtually every sport—football, baseball, hockey, tennis, and track.

Other college men in the General Electric organization have specialized in street-lighting and floodlighting projects, or in the electrical equipment of industries and mines or of immense power stations; some are designing and applying electric apparatus to propel ocean liners and locomotives. All are engaged in the planning, production, or distribution of G-E products and so are performing a work of national betterment and creating for themselves recognized spheres of personal influence.

Y.W.C.A. Presents Mrs. W. M. Allison as First On List of Speakers

In an effort to broaden the life of the girls at Susquehanna, the Y. W. C. A. this year is bringing people outside of our campus to speak. Mrs. W. M. Allison, president of the North Branch Conference and wife of Rev. Allison, of Mt. Carmel, was the first of these speakers to appear.

Mrs. Allison was entertained at dinner with a special "Y" table consisting of the advisors and some of the cabinet. At 7:30 she spoke to the girls in the social room. Her subject was "High Standards," but she did not bring a sermon condemning the younger generation; rather she sympathized with the girls and the situations which they were facing. Her solution was to maintain standards so that no matter what we were called upon to face we could acquit ourselves in a Christian manner. She stressed the influence of the home and spoke to the future home builders of the great importance of building the right kind of home. The story of David was used to make impressive the fact that temptation has always existed, but a strong character will not yield.

The charming personality of Mrs. Allison and the impressive way in which she spoke made many of the girls linger at the close of the hour to speak with her. She was one of the most delightful visitors that the Y. W. C. A. has brought to the campus.

Rev. H. C. Bergstresser, of Hazleton, will bring a message for the girls, November 10.

S. U. GRAD SPEAKER AT ROTARY CLUB MEETING

George "Jack" Spald, graduate of Susquehanna University in the class of '29 and of the Government Art Schools at Texas, was the splendid speaker at the Rotary Club meeting on October 9.

He talked at length regarding his experiences in aviation, told in detail of the army schools, and in descriptions of the various planes, especially those of the army bombers, on which he specialized, were highly appreciated. While in Texas, he was stationed at Kelly and Brooks Fields.

FROSH HURT IN SUNBURY TUSSLE
William Reger, of Summerville, New Jersey, had the misfortune to break his collar-bone in the Frosh-Sunbury football game, here last Monday. Mr. Reger is the president of the Freshman Class and plays a wicked game of football at the guard position. He will be lost to the Frosh in the annual Sophomore-Freshman game and this will greatly weaken their defense.

NOTICE EVERYONE

The photographer from the Zamsky Studio, Philadelphia, will be on the campus during the week beginning Monday, October 26, to take all individual and group pictures for the 1933 Lanthorn, annual publication of the Junior Class.

Arrangements will be similar to those of last year, with a few variations. Every student whose picture is to appear in the Lanthorn will be charged a fee of one dollar at the time of the sitting. Old students who might prefer to use the same picture taken last year must also pay this fee if they wish to have their picture in the book.

However, for the convenience of the student this year, four different sittings will be taken, providing a larger selection. A representative will call later with all the profits for selection, and in addition bring one 7x5 finished photograph, complete with frame, on approval. These will be sold, with no restriction as to number, at two dollars each. Last year, pictures with these specifications sold for fifteen dollars a half dozen, or $2.50 apiece without the frame.

Appointments for individual sittings will be arranged at the end of this week. Since approximately sixty individual sittings must be held each day, it is necessary that every student cooperate and try to have his or her picture taken as early in the week as is possible.

Frats Prepare For Home-Coming Dances

The various fraternities have booked their dance orchestras for the Home-Coming Dance to be held next Saturday, October 24th. Paul Zimmerman and his musicians will supply the rhythm at the Phi Mu Delta House. The band has been on the campus before and was well liked by all who heard it. At the Epsilon Sigma Club, Art Wendell and His Hotel Altamont Orchestra from Hazleton will make the music for the dancers.

Jimmie DeAngelis and His Dance Orchestra from Hershey Park will be heard by the Bond and Key Strutters at their club home, on Saturday night.

The boys at the Phi Lambda Theta fraternity will enjoy the tunes of Don Hower and his Will Pen Orchestra.

FACULTY ROW

President Smith delivered an address to the members of the Evangelical Church at McClure, Pa. Sunday evening, October 17.

During the last week our Latin professor has been taking most of his meals at the college dining hall. The reason for this, we learn, is that Mrs. Tucker is visiting with relatives in North Carolina.

Grossman Attends Meeting
Professor Luther D. Grossman, Director of Physical Education at Susquehanna University, attended a committee meeting of the Middle Atlantic Collegiate Athletic Conference at the Penn Harris Hotel in Harrisburg, last Thursday evening.

Professor Grossman is chairman of the committee on Revision of Constitution and adoption of a Code for that organization. The other members of the committee are Dean T. H. Brown, of Haverford College, and C. E. Billheimer, of Gettysburg College.

Seibert Hall Echoes

Seibert Hall had little other than an echo this week-end. More than fifty girls left the dormitory for all or part of the week-end. Most of them seemed to be celebrating "Home Going Day." There was one consolation: the week-end party on the campus was very select.

It was so dull that one freshman went to bed at six o'clock Saturday evening. A visitor helped to relieve the monotony. She was Marian Miller, of Mansfield State Teachers College, and spent the week-end with Esther Giesel.

Hamilton Here Saturday For Home-Coming Tilt

The homecoming day football game with Hamilton here this Saturday afternoon should be a special treat to the alumni since Susquehanna will meet one of its toughest rivals of the season. In fact it will undoubtedly be the strongest machine the Crusaders will encounter on its own campus. The kick off will take place promptly at two o'clock.

So far this season Susquehanna has a record of one victory and two defeats. The contest last week was expected to be an excellent pointer as to the possible strength of the two teams this Saturday, but considering the conditions under which the game with Alfred was played it can mean nothing.

Several weeks ago Alfred played Hamilton and the contest resulted in a 7-6 victory for Hamilton. Susquehanna fans figured that the Alfred game last Saturday would give an excellent idea as to the possible outcome of the contest this week-end. But, the 26-12 victory of Alfred as it was scored means nothing except as was known before that Hamilton will be a hard team to beat.

Although his men did nothing startling due to the mud in the game with Alfred Coach Ullery will probably start practically the same eleven he did last week. That is the same team that did so well in the splendid victory over Haverford under good conditions.

Y. M. C. A. DEPUTATION TEAM CONDUCTS SERVICE

Sunday evening four members of the Young Men's Christian Association attended the Young People's meeting of the First Presbyterian Church at Sunbury. The men who went to Sunbury were Lewis Fox, Harold Rowe, George Davis, and William Morrow. The theme of the service which was conducted by these men was "To God Through Christ." This is the first work done by the deputation this term and it is hoped that the Y. M. C. A. will have many opportunities to help in such work during the year.

MUSIC STUDENTS FORM ORGANIZATION

An election of officers for the Conservatory Students' Organization was held last Wednesday afternoon in the Conservatory. The results are as follows: Ray Minich, '32, president; Arline Kanuyck, '32, vice president; Margaret Williams, '34, secretary; Frances Stambaugh, '33, treasurer, and William Caruth, '35, monitor.

CRUSADERS DROP HOMECOMING BATTLE TO HAMILTON, 18 - 7

Locals Outplayed by New Yorkers, Although Meyers, Hanna, Etxorm and Auchmuty Did Outstanding Work

Outplayed through most of the game Susquehanna went down before a stronger and heavier Hamilton College football machine by the score of 18-7 last Saturday afternoon on our own gridiron.

Only at certain periods of play during the game did the Crusaders outplay their rivals from upper New York State. That was the latter part of the first quarter and the first few minutes of the second quarter when the only touchdown was made. During that time played inspired football and outdid their opponents. Taking the ball on its own 25-yard line, with a series of line plays, end runs and passes, first down after first down was made until the pigskin finally rested on the 4-yard marker, where Meyers slid off tackle for the score and Sprout kicked the extra point.

After that the Orange and Maroon seemed to lose its pep and never did get going again. Hamilton took the offensive with its heavy line crushing Scoble and its speedy open field running quarterback, Olliganinen.

Hamilton tallied its touchdown during the second quarter in much the same manner that Susquehanna did by rushing its way down the field. Susquehanna, although its back was against the wall the entire time, managed to hold its slender one point lead during the third quarter.

Hamilton finally broke loose in the last quarter with two touchdowns of a more sensational nature. Olliganinen winged a pass 30 yards to the lanky Captain Fisher, who fell over the final chalk line. In a desperate attempt to score Susquehanna then took to the air. (Concluded on Page 4)

Homecoming Dances Attract Big Crowds

Alumni Show Spirit of Youth in Evening Dance; Faculty Guests Are Entertained at Club Houses

Saturday evening marked the opening of the regular fraternity dance program. Following the grand initiation of the Inter-Fraternity Ball two weeks ago the Homecoming dance was indeed rather quiet, but nevertheless pleasing to the alumni and actives. Each House had a dance in honor of all the boys that came home to visit over the weekend.

The Bond and Key Club presented Jimmy DeAngellis and entertainers deluxe, and the crowd was delighted with the city style they presented. Phi Mu Delta had Paul Zimmerman and His Band featuring a boy crooner. Epsilon Sigma offered the guests Art Wendel and His Hotel Altamont Orchestra, and Phi Lambda Theta enjoyed the rhythm offered by Don Hower and his William Penn Orchestra.

Our Faculty was well represented as guests at the different dances. Phi Lambda was honored by the presence of Dr. George Dunkelberger, Mr. Rumberger, Mr. and Mrs. Stevens, and Mr. and Mrs. Reitz. Epsilon Sigma was host to Dr. and Mrs. George Seidel, Dr. and Mrs. A. William Ahl, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Houtz, and Dr. and Mrs. T. W. Kretschmann. Guests at the Phi Mu Delta house were Dr. and Mrs. C. Morris Smith, Dr. and Mrs. Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Brungart, Dr. Dunkelberger, Doctor Wilson, Professor and Mrs. Grossman, and Miss Naomi Hade. The faculty members entertained at the Bond and Key Club were Dr. and Mrs. Charles Leese, Dr. and Mrs. P. J. Ovebro, Dr. F. G. Williams and Mother, Miss Naomi Hade, Miss Emily Swettman, Miss Belle Strother.

The groups at all the dances expressed themselves as being entertained royally and were delighted with the conduct shown throughout. Many of (Concluded on Page 4)

Compinsky Artists Open Star Course

Most Striking Trio of Recent Seasons
Entertains Appreciative Audience
Tuesday Evening; Family Trio

On Tuesday evening, October 20, the Compinsky Trio opened our Star Course party by giving a concert of chamber music in Seibert Chapel. This Trio is one of the best of the Russian trios, having performed before King George, Queen Mary and other members of the Royal family.

The group consisted of two brothers and a sister—Manuel Compinsky, violin; Alex, violinello, and Sara, piano. The Trio was exceedingly well balanced as to volume of tone, and played with remarkable unanimity of dynamics and nuance. Their ensemble was perfect and was the most outstanding thing for it made the music sound as if only one person were playing instead of three. They gave very artistic interpretations, striving always to portray the expressed intentions of the composer. The music was of the chamber-music type and portrayed the love of the beautiful.

The Compinsky Trio introduced a new novelty in their concert in that the players of the stringed instruments played the entire concert from memory. This is a thing almost unheard of in a chamber-music concert.

The Compinsky Trio are acclaimed in the United States as the most striking trio of recent seasons.

The program, which had variety, unity, an effective arrangement, and which was adaptable to the very appreciative audience, is as follows:

1. Finale from Trio in E flat, Op. 40.—Brahms; Andante from Trio in B flat, Op. 99.—Schubert; Scherzo from Trio in C minor, Op. 66.—Mendelssohn; Scherzo and Finale, Trio in D minor—Arensky.
2. Piano Solos—Prelude in D flat—Chopin; Dance of the Gnomes—Liszt; Waltz in E minor—Chopin.
3. Finale from Trio in A minor (Horn Trio)—Aschkaowsky; Finale from Trio in F sharp minor—Franck.

Business Staff for Lantern Chosen

Selon Dockey Issues List of Co-Workers in Advertising Campaign For Annual. Student Help Needed

Appointment of the members of the business staff for the 1933 Lantern was completed last week by Selon Dockey, business manager of this year's annual.

This group will begin work immediately to raise money, additional to the assessment, which is indispensable in the publishing of the book. Since this consists largely of advertising, students can help the staff and consequently themselves by mentioning Susquehanna when making purchases in nearby vicinities, particularly Selinsgrove and Sunbury.

Mr. Dockey has announced the following staff: Advertising manager, Laird Gembling; assistant business manager, Bruce Worthington; assistants on the advertising staff, Marianne Walborn, Fred Carl, John Schoffstall and Donald Steele.

DEBATING CLUB DISCUSSES ATHLETIC SCHOLARSHIPS

"Resolved that athletic scholarships be discontinued in all American colleges" was the debatable question discussed at the meeting of the debate club, October 22, 1931. Everyone of the members participated eagerly in the discussion and all the points of both the negative and the affirmative sides were brought out.

The question for next week's meeting will be "Resolved that the best interest of the United States demand that definite steps be taken looking to decentralization of Federal authority."

Miss Evelyn Allison Schools In France

French Professor To Study in the University of Sorbonne, Sails from New York October 23

Miss Evelyn Allison, Professor of French at Susquehanna during the year of 1930, sailed from New York City, October 23, on the S. S. Westerland for Paris, France.

Miss Allison has been granted a year's leave of absence by the University and will spend the time abroad in study at the University of Sorbonne, Paris, France. Docking at Havre, Miss Allison will go directly to Paris in order to be present at the opening of the term in the first week of November.

Miss Allison has done a considerable amount of graduate work in French since her graduation from Susquehanna in 1920. Having received her Master's degree from Columbia University, Miss Allison has studied at the French Institute at Penn State and the University of Grenoble, Grenoble, France.

During the various vacations of the school year Miss Allison expects to travel through several European countries. The school term at Sorbonne closes in July, and Miss Allison is planning to return from abroad the latter part of the month, and will resume her duties as Professor of French at the opening of the 1932-33 session of Susquehanna.

"Bob" Sala Suffers Operation on Leg

Nature of Fracture Causes Necessity of Fastening Silver Plate to Bone.
Rests More Easily

Another operation upon the fractured leg of Robert Sala was found necessary last week at the Mary M. Packer Hospital in Sunbury, retarding the progress of healing which had been unusually slow up to this time.

Due to the peculiar nature of the break, which is just above the knee, a silver plate had to be fastened to the bone. During the latter part of the week, following this operation, Sala's condition seemed to improve a bit more speedily.

From time to time, students have been over to see Bob, since he received his injury in a soccer scrimmage on University Field several weeks ago. The calling hours are from two to three o'clock in the afternoon, and from seven to eight in the evening, and it wouldn't be a bad idea if more students would call more frequently.

Plans for Hallowe'en Masquerade Complete

The entertainment committee of the Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A. announces that the plans for the Hallowe'en Party, which is to be given Saturday night, Oct. 31, by these associations are progressing daily. The committee is striving to make the party this year the best that has yet been given.

The festivities will begin at 8 o'clock. In so far as possible the party will be a masquerade. All members of the university are asked to be present. All old students will remember that last Hallowe'en at the party every one present had three hours of real fun. Let's all turn out to the party Saturday evening and have a good time.

Don't forget to make your appointment with the Lantern photographer.

NOTICE
If you haven't made an appointment to have your picture taken for the Lantern, please do so as soon as possible. Individual pictures will be taken all this week, between the hours of 9 to 12 in the morning, and 1 to 4 in the afternoon.

The charge of one dollar must be paid at the time of the sitting. Although it is not absolutely necessary to have an appointment, it assures your time of sitting and makes it easier for the staff. Appointments for women may be made with Miss Barbara Jones at Seibert Hall, or the men with Jay Worthington at 47 Hassinger Hall. Announcement for group pictures will be announced in chapel and posted on the bulletin boards.

ATTITUDE OF AUTHORITIES IS SEEN AS CAUSE OF OUTBURSTS

Freshmen Wild as Fruits of Their Labors Go to Ashes at Hands of Town Pranksters. Yearlings Forced to Remove Mess

Indignation, which had been smoldering in the student body for several weeks, because of the strict regulations prevalent, culminated in a mighty outburst of riot last week as the collegians went best, sneering at the town and their own campus in retaliation for the attitude of the borough and college authorities.

The campaign of rebellion, which continued for nearly two days, was opened by members of the Freshman class about three o'clock Friday morning. After working for two days and two nights collecting wood for the bonfire that was to be set off at the pep meeting Friday night, the yearlings leaped from their beds soon after midnight Thursday, while protestous shadows danced on the scarlet-hued walls of their rooms, to find that some skunk-minded moron had deliberately and maliciously touched off the huge pile. With the roaring flames leaping high into the heavens, men students began to pour forth from the nearby fraternity houses and dormitories like a horde of savages. As the flaming pyre reached its height, the local fire company arrived to find that they had been duped by panicky residents for the second year in a row.

The Frosh, stung to see the fruits of their labors going up in smoke, immediately formed plans of vengeance and at three o'clock in the morning dared citizens peered from their windows to see the yearlings swarming through the streets with brooms and barrels of white-wash, smearing doors, windows, and sidewalks impartially with reckless abandon and frenzy. During this tour, the marauders were greeted ed on one occasion with a load of buckshot, and on another by having the windshield of their commandeered car shattered by stones from the hands of an accurate female hurler.

However, their enthusiasm soon brought President Smith and Dr. Williams on the scene, who forced the miscreants to undo their work in order to placate the wrathful inhabitants of the town. The students who dared walk the streets of Selinsgrove on the following morning received many a hostile glare from these irate merchants.

Peace seemed about to be restored, when suddenly it was announced that the entire body of Freshman men were declared "campused" by action of the administration without referring the matter to the student council. Upperclassmen resented this move, and Saturday morning found the campus copiously decorated in many colors, a lantern riding triumphantly from the top of the flagpole, and the janitor corps diligently scrubbing in their impromptu roles.

During this melee the night watchman was attacked and considerably shaken up. The matter was again immediately reported to President Smith, who sent members of the student council to investigate, but to no avail. The adventurers had vanished into the night and the buildings were wrapped in quiet slumber.

Although a bit disappointed at the quick action of the scouring squad, the collegians were evidently satisfied that vengeance had been accomplished and were soon occupied with the many activities of homecoming day.

Amateur Productions Show Dramatic Skill

The plays presented by the Dramatic Club Monday evening were very well received by the people who attended. "The Golden Doom" by Dunsany, was not based so much on plot as it was on atmosphere and setting. This play was coached by Miss Clara Corbin and was a product of careful preparation and thought not only as to character selection, but also to the scenery and setting. "The Seven Women," which was given under the direction of Doctor Arthur Wilson, depicts a woman in seven different moods. It is based on character and plot rather than on setting. The great event in the history contrast and received the approval of the entire audience.

Trio Member Made Honorary to S. A. I.

Miss Sara Compinsky, Noted Musician, Is Taken Into Campus Society After Star Course Entertainment

On Tuesday evening, October 20, following the Star Course, the Sigma Omega chapter of Sigma Alpha Iota had the great honor of initiating Miss Sara Compinsky as a National Honorary member of the fraternity. This marks the great event in the history of Sigma Omega. Miss Compinsky is widely known for her musical ability, as the trio has traveled widely in Europe, performing before many noted people, among whom were King George and Queen Mary of England. Miss Compinsky is a distinguished soloist as well as an accompanist of marked ability, and Sigma Alpha Iota is doubly honored and indebted as this is the first musical fraternity membership she has accepted in America.

MRS. DODSON ATTENDS LIBRARY CONVENTION

Mrs. Martha S. Dodson attended the State Library convention held annually at Pittsburgh from October 20 to 23. There were authors from all over the state attending the convention. The purpose of the convention is to compare the progress and methods made in library fields, and also to receive new ideas for the advancement of library work.

Many Grads Return for Homecoming Day

Alumni Witness "Crusaders" Third Defeat of Season at Hamilton; Attend Social Gatherings

Homecoming Day has passed into the annals of Susquehanna history with all its pleasures marking defeats and victories alike. Saturday was an ideal holiday with few threats from Pluvius and plenty of warm sunshine.

Friday evening the members of graduating classes of the past began to greet their friends on the campus. Selinsgrove and Seibert Hall were equally well treated by the male portion of the returning student body. A tense atmosphere seemed prevalent everywhere not only because of the coming game with Hamilton, but also on account of the pleasant surprises that Saturday would bring forth.

Using a time worn expression, "Saturday morning broke bright and clear" with nothing to mar its beauty except the art of some peculiar phenomena and the brief scandal of a tussle in the dark. Before the sun had long been up students were on their way to clear up the remaining examinations of the first six weeks period; but following this the fun of the day began properly. At twelve o'clock dinner was served in Horton Dining Hall and the different Fraternity Houses and it was also spacious about that the kitchen in Seibert Hall served four breakfasts to the different societies of the institution. Immediately following the dinner a large crowd gathered on the lower football grid to see the mighty Sophomore team crush the highly touted Freshman machine under a 10-0 score. The only defeat of the day was the Hamilton game when the Little Crusaders found themselves fighting against the odds of a "phantom." The Hamilton fullback was more than a threat, he was a plunger that gained at will through our line. He alone with the fine playing of the ends was responsible for our defeat.

EDITORIAL

The events of the past few days have brought to light several things worthy of consideration and comment. The events themselves we can both praise and decry.

Once again the unfortunate attitude toward Susquehanna of those townspeople who do not have the interest of the college at heart has been given expression. The situation is certainly not a happy one and seemingly hopeless for the present attitudes are ones of long standing. The value of the college to Selingroves is fact to those interested in S. U., but there are still some who are not convinced and from all indications never will be. The conduct and general attitude of all the Susquehanna students toward the town is exceptionally good and can be compared most favorably with the behavior and feeling of students in other college towns. Complete cooperation and understanding between the town and the college is something we all hope for and desire. We feel that the students are going more than half way and we look for the townspeople to follow suit.

To say that the men of the school are happy is to put it mildly. For the past three or four years they have been waiting for the time when the "Name only" reign of the Men's Student Council would end and the Administration recognize the value and usefulness of this student-chosen group as a directing and cooperative power and force on our campus. This long awaited time has come, for the Administration has recognized the authority of the Student Council and in so doing has amassed for itself a goodly number of shares in the corporation of student good will. The campus placed upon the Freshmen was about to become a boiling pot and did lead directly to the unhappy incidents of Friday night. The Administration, realizing its mistake and not afraid to admit it, summoned the Student Council and placed the entire matter in its hands. The step was a most important one. One which will not be regretted. One which deserves only praise.

The class of '35 has left no doubt in our minds about the fact that they are here to put Susquehanna on the map. The spirit they have shown deserves to be commended. Like all else, enthusiasm is apt to do damage when it is misdirected and gets beyond control. The unfavorable results of Thursday night could easily have been avoided had there existed a proper guiding and directing influence. Heretofore no such influence has existed but now that the Student Council has been given the authority to regulate student activity, supervision of pre- and post-game enthusiasm will be possible.

TO THOMAS A. EDISON

The Susquehanna, as the voice of the students, joins with thousands of old and young, great and humble, in paying homage and tribute to the great American inventor, Thomas A. Edison, who died last Sunday morning, October 18th. The college joined with many other organizations to lower its flag at half mast to pay tribute to the father of the electric light bulb.

At the proclamation of acting Governor Wolber of New Jersey all the electric lights in the state—in homes, in streets and factories—were extinguished at 7 p. m. for one minute as a reminder of what life would have been without Mr. Edison's great invention.

The entire world suffers an irreparable loss in the passing of one of its most distinguished leaders in the scientific world. His genius may belong to the United States, but his glory belongs to the whole world. His death marks an era in the progress of civilization.

Announcing the all-campus football team selections for 1931, chosen for no good reason at all:

Left end—Lewis Fox, captain. Phontom Phoxil alias the Flighting Parson, a veteran of four years, carries off the much coveted honor of explaining this year's powerful aggregation of supermen.

Left tackle—Ray Watkins. The town bully crashes through again. A lusty voice and a tricky pair of dogs have again landed the rip-smortin' Selsins-grove lad on the 'varsity.

Left guard—Pete Kowalcik. After warming the bench for two years the Shamokin wildcat finally makes the grade. Besides, every team must have a name to give sports writers the wiles and send radio announcers into convulsions.

Center—Byron Hafer. The dauntless Milton Mauler was a unanimous choice for center. We figure if he can't force his way through the line, he should be able to talk his way through it.

Right guard—Kenneth James. The girls just insisted that we have Kenneth on the team.

Right tackle—George Kenny. Marathon George was too busy working in Shorty Farling's Emporium last year to make the team, but this year he is given the edge over Don Dorsett, who made a strong bid with his new head-gear.

Right end—Lewis Standiford Legacy. Because has such a swell name. Besides, the co-eds will be simply curdled about his curly hair. Quarterback—Samuel Pascoe. Pride of the anthracites, Peerless Pierpoint, the Coalfield Terror, sweeps aside all opposition for the signal barker's post, with three year's experience at Reichley's, the Stanley, Seibert Hall, and others.

Left half—Willie Stahlman. Mainly so we can have the Boy Scout Band on our games. Also an exceptional performer on windy days.

Right half—Joe Maimon. Great triple threat man, with his left hand, educated toe, and agile tongue. S. U. will always remember Joe's immortal words, "Take to the air, boys!"

Fullback—Mike Rachunis—Suppliants Jimmy Brubaker by virtue of experience gained at Alabama this summer where he picked up some new big words. Known as the Galloping Ghost from Glen Lyon.

Substitutes for these scintillating satellites are Whirlwind Eddy Clapper, Sherlock D. T. McKelvey, Penthouse Dively, and Charlie Lauver, the Flying Dutchman, also known as Carlos Magnus Imperator Rex.

Head coach will be Barnabe Blough, with four year's varsity experience himself, assisted by Whitey Shilling and Ralph Benoni Oil Lohr, also former veterans.

And now don't you boys waste any time looking for me, because I'm taking the first train West.

We have heard that . . . Squirrel Kleckner is working on a new paint-reformer for sidewalks . . . the merchants in town washed their windows in honor of Homecoming . . . the night watchman is thinking of getting a job in Chicago . . . the Stanley was re-decorated recently . . . somebody burned our bon-fire.

We also hear that the football team is trying to schedule games in which only the first half is played.

Oh well, we can't lose this week; we're playing Open. Freshman Zimmerman says he thinks Pending has a good team, too.

We don't wish to seem nasty (note editorial "we") but it seems that the grandstand, judging by the results given when Bud Hostetter led the "locomotive" on Saturday. Not just the volume, but the style in which the cheer was given. A good cheer leader is not marked by hysterical ranting and leaping around, but by his ability to bring out a clean cut cadence and rhythm.

Dr. F. G. Williams Tours

Another vacationer in Canada this summer was Dr. Franklin G. Williams, head of the Mathematics Department. Together with his mother and daughter he motored to the New England states and after spending some time there, continued into Canada. Their first visits in Canada were at Montreal and Quebec. At St. Anne de Beaupre they had the pleasure of seeing one of the four cycloramas of the Holy Land which are in existence today.

From Quebec the party crossed the famous new Quebec bridge over the St. Lawrence. Their next route took them along the Riviere du Loup, a section of country noted for its marvelous scenery, into New Brunswick. Here they made stops at Fredericton, Moncton, and St. John.

Next, the Williams party crossed the Northumberland strait to Prince Edward Island, making Charlottetown their headquarters. They visited the famed fox farms and beaches and noted the sandy clay soil, birch trees, and high agricultural characteristic of this country.

Finally they came down into Nova Scotia, Cape Breton Island, Halifax, the Evangeline country, and then from Yarmouth by boat to Boston. The variegated Canadian scenery and the many points of legendary and practical interest made Dr. Williams' vacation one that he will long remember.

"Our Five and Ten" (Maybe Fifteen)

By WOULD B. HISTORIAN

October 26, 1926

"Sophomores defeat Freshmen in Annual Homecoming tilt by 7-0 score. The Sophomore passing attack seemed to frighten the first year men, except when they were back on their own goal line. The score was made in the third quarter, when the Sophs slipped over a fluky forward pass."

The Sophomore-Freshman game this year was quite different because the Frosh seemed frightened most of the time, or perhaps they were merely thinking of how nice it would be if they should win and be allowed to take customs off for the rest of the day.

"The Little Crusaders" had a successful season this year for they fought out a 14-0 victory over a strong Juniata team."

This is a good thing for the present football team. It shows about in two weeks they will meet the strong Indian Eleven, who are too sure of themselves. Let's hope we can make them humble.

"The first star course number of the year by a New York pianist and an opera soprano was very entertaining and educational."

The All-American Selections of '26 Ends—Tubes of Colgate, Plains of Texas; Guards—Ship of State, Chimes of Westminster; Tackles—Lock of Yale, River of Susquehanna; Center—Bank of Wabash; Quarter—Trees of Lebanon Valley; Halfbacks—Dummy of Albright, Gates of Temple; Fullback—Fountain of Penn. Substitute Tackle—Battle of Gettysburg.

Notice will be found in S. U. Pepys to a similar effect. Read them over and compare notes.

It seems that through lack of time, lack of space, or disappearance of copies, combined with too much Homecoming Cheer we will be unable to furnish any concise and interesting material on copies from '21 and '16.

The writer is off on another archeological expedition so look forward to next week for a little news on many pieces of nonsense and chatter.

The Editor's Mail

Dear Mr. Editor:

Some time ago an editorial appeared in The Susquehanna lamenting the fact that class traditions were a thing of the past. This week-end proved that Homecoming Day traditions had also joined the ranks of the has-beens.

Some try in all sincerity to uphold that which was an established custom long before they came to the campus, but it seems to be impossible, not through any fault of their own but through others who dash it all to nothing.

This is true especially in little things and if the little things which really mean a lot are disregarded, why attempt to do anything about the bigger things?

A tradition is meaningless if it is not respected by everyone those to whom it is vital and those to whom it should not matter. Perhaps it is the purpose of those who will not be courteous, to make these things valueless.

A STUDENT.

S. U. ORANGE KEY SOCIETY ELECTS OFFICERS

The Susquehanna Orange Key Society met in the Alumni Gymnasium recently and elected the following officers: President, Merle Hubbard; vice president, Fred Wilks, and secretary, John Hassey.

The Orange Key Society was formed last year and its members consist of managers, assistant managers and sub-assistant managers of all varsity sports.

The society assists in the direction of the sports and furnishes all entertainment for visiting teams on the campus.

Epsilon Sigma

Seventeen alumni members of the Epsilon Sigma fraternity were welcomed on Homecoming Day by the active members. Many of the alumni attended the Hamilton-Susquehanna game in the afternoon and the dance at the chapter house in the evening.

The alumni members returning to the campus included the following: Elwood A. Adams, chemist for the P. P. & L. at Hazleton; Rev. Andrew H. Beahm, of Trevorton; William W. Bonney, graduate student at the University of Pennsylvania Medical School; Theodore R. Cameron, of Millertown; Joseph E. Popeano, of Port Clinton, Ohio; Ralph Cephas Gramley, of Forty Fort; Reno S. Knouse, instructor in the Commercial Department of Bluefield College, at Bluefield, West Virginia; Rev. Louis S. Leshar, of Milheim; Robert W. Mitchell, instructor of science in the Myerstown High School; Benjamin T. Moyer, of Sunbury; Frank L. McCormick, of Allenwood; Frank D. Paris, of Freeland; Frank E. Ramsey, instructor of English in the Hollidaysburg High School; John P. Senko, of Hazleton; Charles L. Shoemaker, of Wilkes-Barre; Rev. Miles R. Smeltz, of Catawissa; and Seiber E. Troutman, graduate student at Dickinson College Law School.

Phi Mu Delta

The Fraternity was glad to welcome back to the school and to the House the following alumni: Albert Gawinske, Robert Hostetter, Luther Kurtz, George Beam, Wilbur Berger, Fred Norton, Ernest Rano, John McHugh, Donald Wormley, Lester Shaeffer, Harry Shaeffer, Walter Herring, Lloyd Bedford, Richard Scharfe, Theodore Kemmeyer, Franklin Stover, Raymond Scott, Charles Krock, Arthur Gelnett.

Brothers Rice and Fleck of Phi Epsilon Chapter at Penn State visited the House over the week-end.

Phi Lambda Theta

The active personnel of Phi Lambda Theta were the host to many of their Alumni over the week-end.

Among the guests at the Homecoming Dance were Ray Shelter, of Downingtown; J. Harold Kimmell, of the Commercial Department, of Lebanon High School; Harold Gelnett and S. Walter Foulkrod, of Temple University; Harold A. Smaltz, principal of White Haven High School; Vincent Jones, of Centraira; Stewart Schrack, Science Instructor in the Hopbottom High School; Norman Broughton, of Lewisburg; Paul Haines, Mathematics Instructor in the Moore High School, and Paul Zimmerman, of Milheim.

Bond and Key

Many old members and some of their friends were the guests of the Bond and Key Club over the week-end.

The group included Hubert Ooke, Archie Swanner, "Bill" Riden, "Sam" Poust, Russell Yoas, Carlton Shaffer, "Bill" Brubaker, Clifford Johnson, William Herman, Alvin Barber, Donald Leshar, "Ski" Glenn, Hugh Hanford, "Ace" Hudkins, "Charlie" Hamlin, Robert Donnell, Clarence Derr, Burton Goodyear, James Blain Pierce, Dr. James Davis, Frank Green, and "Denny" Graham.

Sigma Sigma Delta

Sigma Sigma Delta welcomed home the following alumni on Saturday: Katherine Boyer, Anna Losch, Sara Haines, Edith Erdley, Twila Grebs, Dorothy Strine, Mary Eastep, Nancy Lechore, Corinda Sell and Mary Schure.

On Saturday evening they met and elected officers for the coming year: President, Corinda Sell; vice president, Dorothy Strine; secretary, Anna Losch; treasurer, Sara Haines. Upon adjournment of the business meeting a light luncheon was served by the actives.

AMUSEMENTS

Again the Stanley Theatre issues an appealing program of talks to the student.

Lionel Barrymore and Kay Francis will take the leading roles in the production, "Golly Hands," this evening. On Thursday and Friday evenings The Four Marx Brothers, the funniest comedy team in the talkies, will give the audience an evening of fun in the presentation, "Monkey Business."

Another western talkie is booked for Saturday evening when Hoot Gibson will star in "Clearing the Range."

Next Monday Paramount will feature William Boyd, Lillian Tashman, and Regis Toomey in a detective classic, "Murder by the Clock."

Attend the Halloween party.

ALUMNI NOTES

Committee Named for Susquehanna Alumni Day

Committee for the seventy-fourth Alumni Day at Susquehanna University was announced by the president of the Alumni Association, William T. Decker. It is as follows: Chairman, Dr. George Fisher, Selinsgrove; G. Franklin Stover, State College; Rev. Russell F. Auman, Scarsdale, N. Y.; Dr. Leon Messner, Selinsgrove; Mr. Raymond Klimentist, Mt. Carmel; Prof. Elrose L. Allison, Selinsgrove; Frank R. Krivlin, Harrisburg; Miss Gladys W. Buntly, Johnstown; Russell Shilling, Selinsgrove; Mrs. Margaret Benner Burns, Selinsgrove; Rev. Wm. R. Schwirian, Montgomery.

Plan Alumni Game

Early preparations are being made for the annual Alumni basketball game at S. U. Wm. T. Decker, 21, president of the General Alumni Association, at a recent council meeting announced his committee for the annual "show": Chairman, Luke Rhoads, 29, Sherman Good, 28; and John Auten, 28.

Graduate Honored in Delaware

Reverend Park W. Huntington, '17, '21, '26, '28, was recently elected and installed commander of the Laurence Roberts Post No. 21, American Legion of Wilmington. He is now pastor of St. Stephen's Evangelical Lutheran Church, and had served as chaplain of the Legion post of which he now is commander. He also served as chaplain of the Jersey Shore post from 1921 to 1925 and now holds the rank of Captain Chaplain, Delaware National Guard, 198th Coast Artillery, Anti-craft with the distinction of being the only National Guard chaplain in the State of Delaware.

Marriage

Miss Elizabeth F. Wetzel, daughter of Mrs. Basil G. Wetzel, Middleburg postmistress, became the bride of Henry E. Wingard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wingard, of Coburn. Both Mr. and Mrs. Wingard are graduates of Middleburg high school and the bride also studied at the Susquehanna Conservatory of Music. Mr. Wingard is at present a senior at Carnegie Tech. The newly weds will reside at Coburn.

A daughter, Mary Ellen, was born to Rev. and Mrs. G. A. Sands, of Central Ridge, New York, on August 13, 1931. The father, who is a graduate of the class of '26 from this college and the class of '29 from the seminary, is pastor of Bethany Lutheran Church of Central Bridge. The infant, the first to be born in the parsonage since the new church was built in 1906, was baptized by Rev. Sand on October 4, at the Holy Communion service.

Miss Zelda Newman '29, is a member of the teaching staff in the Commercial Department of the Lincoln High School, Elwood City, Penna.

Another alumnus, George Herrold, '25, is head of the Science Department of the Lincoln High School.

NEW GIRLS ENTERED AT MILL TO-D BY S. S. D.

There was moonlight riding time. Where one could laugh and play and dine. Down by the old mill stream.

This really happened on Friday evening when Sigma Sigma Delta was hostess to the new girls. At 5 o'clock the merry crowd climbed into a huge truck which arrived in front of Seibert Hall, and singing as they went, rode to Remminger's Mill. Upon their arrival their fun began immediately with a peanut hunt. Other games were played and refreshments served.

The girls then gathered around a fire where they watched a witch stirring the contents of a huge cauldron and listened to her prophecy for the future of each of the girls.

Taken to a secluded spot, the group heard a ghost story and were then conducted through the old, dark, tumble-down mill. Girls who remained outside told of the screams they heard coming from the building during this trip.

Time was short and the girls found it necessary to once more climb into the truck and ride back to Seibert Hall.

JUNIORS WIN INTER-CLASS SOCCER CHAMPIONSHIP

There were many upsets in the Inter-Class Soccer League last week, when the Juniors defeated the Sophs and Seniors to take first place for the first half.

The second half started Monday, October 26, with a game between the Juniors and Frosh. More interest should be taken in these games to help your favorite team win.

MARIE MILLER LEADS

Y. W. C. A. MEETING

"Christ Comes to the Village" was the subject of the Y. W. C. A. meeting, led by Marie Miller on Thursday evening, October 22, 1931.

The different places where Christ goes and the types of people with whom He comes in contact; such as Africa, India, and sections in the extreme north where the Eskimos live, were brought into the discussion.

VESPERS CONDUCTED BY

Y. W. C. A. FACULTY MEMBERS

Vespers were in charge of the faculty advisors of the Y. W. C. A.: Miss Hade, Mrs. Kretschmann and Miss Reeder. The Scriptures were read and prayer offered by Miss Hade. Both Mrs. Kretschmann and Miss Hade spoke on "Grace." Katherine Bittner played an organ solo. The program was most interesting and was enjoyed by all who attended.

MISS MARY ANN JARFAST TO RETURN TO ALUMNAE

Nine of Omea Della Stima's alumnae returned in time for the annual breakfast held in their honor at eighty-six Saturday morning in the social room.

It was a very happy crowd that rose early for this opportunity to enjoy a bit and reminisce while they enjoyed a breakfast of papineau, omelette, bacon, rolls, coffee cake and coffee prepared by their undergraduate sorority sisters.

After the breakfast the alumnae held a meeting in the sorority room.

Those attending were Ethel Weikert, Blanche Stauffer, Ruth Steele, Gertrude Walker, Margery Phillips, Gertrude Fisher, Mrs. Graydon Ranck, Miss Dorothy Reeder and Mrs. Gemmerling.

Signe Alford, Helen Carter and Virginia Uish arrived in the afternoon.

Sophs Crush Frosh Grid Stars 19 to 0

Annual Sophomore-Freshman Contest
Is One-Sided Affair. Yearlings
Held to No First Downs

The Sophomores completely outplayed the Frosh in the annual Homecoming tilt and won by the score of 19-0. The Sophomores had control of the entire game, making seven first downs to the Frosh's none. The Sophomore line held like a stone wall, with McMullen, Naugle, and Bozinsky breaking through, time after time, to smash down plays which held the Frosh backfield in check the entire game. Consistent gains by Kapic, Krear, and Grove, along with a beautiful thirty-yard pass from Krear to Bozinsky laid the way for a Sophomore victory.

First Quarter

The Frosh kicked-off to the Sophs 30 yard line and the ball was returned to the 40. On the second play the Sophs fumbled and the Frosh recovered, but on the first play the ball got away from the Frosh backfield man and he was thrown for a thirty yard loss. On the next play the ball rolled back of the goal line where Tomblin picked it up and in an attempt to get rid of it, he threw it out of bounds on the 1 yard line. The Sophs took the ball on the 1 yard line, where Oberdorf picked up his teammate's fumble and plunged across the line for the first score.

Second Quarter

The Sophs gathered their first downs with runs by Kapic and Krear. An exchange of punts gave the Sophs possession of the ball on their own 40 yard line when the half ended.

Third Quarter

After an exchange of punts, Naugle recovered a Frosh fumble on the Frosh 15 yard line. Two runs by Krear advanced the ball to the 1 yard line, where Kapic took it across for the second touchdown. A pass from Bozinsky to Morrow was good for the extra point.

Fourth Quarter

The Frosh intercepted a pass on their own 20 yard line and immediately punted to the Sophs 40 yard line, where Krear returned the ball for twenty yards. A pass from Krear to Bozinsky scored the last touchdown. The game ended with the Frosh in possession of the ball near the center of the field.

Starting line-up:

Sophs	Frosh
Johnson	R. E. Chiodo
Muir	R. T. Zimmerman
McMullen	B. G. Abbott
Reeder	C. Shobert
Naugle	L. G. Crellen
Carl	L. T. Barnes
Bozinsky	L. E. Shriner
Morrow	Q. B. Tomblin
Grove	R. H. Anderson
Oberdorf	L. H. B. Jones
Kapic	F. B. Logue

Touchdowns: Oberdorf, Kapic, and Bozinsky.

JANET LEITZEL ATTAINED VOTING AGE ON THURSDAY

The baby's old enough to vote! It's the Leitzel baby that we have reference to and she celebrated it with due hilarity Thursday.

Thursday was a very special sort of day, for it marked the anniversary of the entrance to the world of one of the best known girls on the campus. Janet Leitzel is now all of twenty-one. The day was marked by the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Leitzel with a carload of food that was enjoyed when twenty-five guests gathered in the social room.

An hour or so was passed in playing children's game and many declared that they had a much fun since they were away. After being all tired and having just several pounds, refreshments were served. The yellow plates, yellow napkins, sandwiches, potato chips, cheese wafers, and individual birthday cakes with little yellow rosebuds and candles, announced to everyone that it was a birthday. Many did not know just what the celebration meant until then.

Janet received many lovely gifts, conspicuous among them being additions to her large elephant collection.

K. D. P. ALUMNAE ATE ENTERTAINED AT BREAKFAST

At 9:30 o'clock on Saturday morning a gay crowd of Kappa Delta Phi alumnae congregated in the alcove of Horton Dining Hall to partake of a luscious breakfast and to renew old acquaintances.

The following girls were back: Alma Bowersox, Inez Sarver, Beatrice DeWitt, Ida Schwab, Lena Baird, Mary Weaver, Hannah Pittner, Isabelle Slotterback, Wilma Walker, Rebecca Foster, Ruth Beck, Florence Trombetta, Naomi Fogle, Marian Eyer, and Mary Hutchings.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

Thursday afternoon four members of the local Y attended the meeting of the Northern District of the Central State Area Y. M. C. A. at Williamsport. The men who represented Susquehanna were: Lee M. Fairchild, Herbert Hohman, Lewis R. Fox, and Robert Clarke. These together with delegates from Dickinson Seminary and Bloomsburg and Lock Haven Teachers' College brought the total attendance to twenty-five. Kermit Stover, District Chairman, presided and Leo Kohl of the State office, led the discussions. The subjects considered were those pertaining to the general program of the Y. M. C. A. and had as their purpose the exchange of ideas and the suggestion of ways and means to do more effective work on the college campus. A vocal trio relieved the monotony of business at intervals throughout the afternoon. At the conclusion of the discussions the delegates adjourned for dinner at the Village Tea Room. Inspirational talks were given by Mr. Samuel Long, of Williamsport, and Prof. L. J. Ulmer, of Lock Haven. Dr. A. William Ahl transported the local group to and from the meeting.

SPANISH CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS FOR YEAR

The Spanish Club held its initial meeting of the year last Monday night in the basement of Hassinger Hall. New officers were elected and at once took up their duties. The new officers are: Thelma Crebs, president; Dorothea Meyer, vice president; Martha Gessner, treasurer; Edward Bozinsky, secretary.

HOMECOMING DANCES ATTRACT BIG CROWDS

regalia and "Drum Major Dorsett" is at last "dolled up" in a plume befitting the position that he holds. Another feature of the game was Hostetter's cheer that reverberated all around the campus. Old cheer leaders seem to get responses.

The Hamilton victory was soon forgotten in the evening's pleasures. Fraternity Dances started at eight o'clock with their rhythm and the crowds of alumni and actives poured into the various houses with the girls of their choice. Happiness and dancing ruled the hours that followed until at last the old clock on the mantle piece struck the solemn hour of twelve.

CRUSADERS DROP HOMECOMING BATTLE TO HAMILTON, 18 TO 7

but Scobie immediately intercepted a pass and galloped 20 yards for a touchdown.

Scobie and Ollikainen were without a doubt the high lights of the game. As far as the Orange and Maroon cause was concerned Hanna did outstanding work. This Freshman fullback has been improving steadily with each contest. In the line Auchmuty and Extrom did creditable work.

The Game In Detail
Myers kicked off to the Hamilton 20-yard line. Hamilton punted back. Scobie intercepted a pass on the Susquehanna 15-yard line. Scobie went through center for a first down. Susquehanna gained the ball on downs on its own 35-yard line and punted. Extrom threw a Hamilton back for a loss and the visitors punted to the Susquehanna 25-yard line. Hanna, Myers, and Martinec went through for a first down. A pass to Hanna gained 15 yards. Hanna hit the line for a first down and placed the ball on the Hamilton 37-yard line as the quarter ended.

Myers circled right end for 12 yards. Sprout pived his way 8 yards at center. Hanna was downed on the 4-yard line. Myers went over for the touchdown and Sprout kicked the extra point from placement. Susquehanna kicked off to the Hamilton 30-yard line. A pass to Kingsley was good for 23 yards. Another first down and another pass to Kingsley placed the ball on the Susquehanna 9-yard line. Jones with two plunges scored. Kingsley failed in the try for the extra point.

Second Half

Hanna took the kickoff. A poor punt gave Hamilton the ball in midfield. Hanna knocked a pass down for the last down at the 35-yard line. Myers went through tackle for 10 yards and then Susquehanna punted. Three first downs put Hamilton on the 10-yard line. The Crusaders held for downs and punted to the 33-yard line. Hamilton tried for a field goal, but failed. Rishel dashed around left end as the quarter ended.

Susquehanna punted to midfield. Scobie hammered the line for 15 yards. A long pass, Ollikainen to Fisher, for 30 yards, gave Hamilton a touchdown. The try for extra point failed. Susquehanna received the kickoff and after several exchanges of kicks gained the ball on their own 20 yard line. Scobie intercepted a pass and ran for a score. Again the try for point failed. Susquehanna received the kickoff. Martinec made a first down and then punted. The lineup:

Hamilton	Susquehanna

Pull of the College Holds in Depression

Country's Hopes for the Future Rest on Education. Parents Determined to Send Children to College

The New York Times states in one of its most recent articles that despite the depression fall enrollments are staying up. The depression has furnished a measuring rod for gauging how largely education in general and higher education in particular represents the country's hopes for the future.

Lessons of the Depression

It may be a different type of education that will emerge when the depression ends. An outstanding fact which has been observed since the beginning of the depression is that education is still at its peak. Parents are determined to have their sons and daughters go to college. Perhaps the alternative is between loafing and studying since employment is not available or else there is an increased determination to give the younger generations better tools for the hard competition of the future. Present indications show that the number of students entering college this year have not decreased but increased.

In the Large Cities

Columbia University and Hunter and City Colleges have larger enrollments while New York University is about holding its own with perhaps a slight loss in total, but an increase in the (Concluded on page 4)

Staff Delegation to Attend Convention

Delegates have been selected from the "Susquehanna" Staff to attend the I. N. A. Convention held at Dickinson College Friday and Saturday, November 5-6.

Editor Andrew Kozak and Penn Divly of the Editorial Staff and Business Manager Lee Fairchild of the Business Staff will leave Friday for the convention in order to get valuable material for the benefit of the administration of the paper.

This district convention includes many of our surrounding schools and their staffs. The entertainment arranged by the students at Dickinson will give the delegates a pleasant time during recreation hours, and the list of speakers is so noteworthy that surely the benefit derived from the meetings will be well worthwhile the effort expended.

During the absence of the editor News Editor Laird Gemberling will edit the issue next week.

PHI MU DELTA TAKES QUALITY POINT HONORS LAST SEMESTER

Official report from the office of the registrar states that the Phi Mu Delta fraternity ranks first in the scholastic rating for the second semester of 1930-31 under the new method of rating recently adopted by the administration.

The new method which is average of quality points earned by the student, supplants the old method of percentage. A grade of A gives the student three quality points, a grade of B gives two, while the grade of C is worth only one quality mark. The grade of D, although it is a passing grade, gives no quality points and doesn't count as credit work toward a major in any subject.

The average quality points of the various fraternities for last semester is as follows: Phi Mu Delta 1.67, Epsilon Sigma 1.44, Phi Lambda Theta 1.38 and Bond and Key 1.31. Thirty-five men were included on the Bond and Key list, thirty-four on the Phi Mu list, Epsilon Sigma's calculation was based on twenty men while Phi Lambda Theta had seventeen men from which to get their rating.

Selon Dockey holds the record of fraternity men and his own fraternity, Epsilon Sigma, with fifty points for last semester. "Andy" Kozak and William Royer each lead in the Bond and Key list with forty-seven tallies and are tied for second honors among all fraternities men. Lewis Fox leads the honor fraternity with forty-five marks and Arthur Wilmarth captains the Phi Lambda Theta point getters with forty-three.

The quality point system does not necessarily mean the highest grade. One member carrying sixteen hours may get forty-eight quality points while at the same time another member carrying seventeen hours may get fifty, yet have a lower percentage average.

Rev. T. W. Kretschmann, Ph.D., professor of the Hebrew Old Testament and of Practical Theology, read a paper on "The Dangers of Humanism." He has been a member of S. U.'s faculty since 1924.

Rev. Russell J. Crouse, of Shamokin Dam, who was graduated from the S. U. Seminary in 1931, conducted the devotional services in the afternoon.

Rev. Dallas C. Baer, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church in Selinsgrove, was elected president of the conference. Rev. Baer is a graduate of S. U.

Rev. J. B. Knisley, D.D., an alumnus of Su. U. of Northumberland, talked on "How the Ministers View Church Publicity."

Dr. G. Morris Smith, president of Susquehanna University, was among those present at the conference.

Rev. H. A. F. Kern, D.D., opened the morning service with devotions.

Rev. H. C. Bergstresser, of Hazleton, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church there, was also present. He is a graduate of the Seminary at Susquehanna.

STUDENTS TO PRESENT FIRST EVENING RECITAL
This evening, November 3, at 8:15 p. m., the students of the Conservatory of Music will give their first evening recital in Seibert Chapel. Those Juniors and Seniors who are majoring in either piano, voice, violin, or organ, will take part. The University Orchestra will assist on the program. A very fine program, which will consist of works of some of the great masters, Mozart, Chopin, Schubert, Bach, MacDowell and Paderewski, has been arranged for the evening.

Quarter Century Club Claims Six

Over Twenty-Five Years of Service to S. U. Given by Six Men of Present Faculty

In consideration of twenty-five years of service on the faculty at Susquehanna University membership is granted to the "Quarter Century Club." Six of the members of the present faculty have received membership because of their active, faithful service for over twenty-five years. The total number of years for these six men is 210 years of loyal service in placing and raising to new heights the educational and social standards of Susquehanna.

The oldest in the service of the school is Dr. Thomas Calvin Houtz, who in reality should head this line of honored men. He has a total of forty-seven years in his credit. Many years ago he served as Professor of Mathematics and Astronomy and today holds the coveted chair of Professor Emeritus of Mathematics and Astronomy.

Undoubtedly Dr. John Irvin Woodruff should be rated second because of his forty years of unflinching, loyal service to the men and women passing through the university. Dr. Woodruff graduated from the Missionary Institute in 1888 and began his work again on our campus in 1923 when he became Professor of Latin, English and Rhetoric. In 1904 he dropped his work in the Latin and English Department and served as Acting President of the college until 1904. He sponsored several educational measures during his terms in the Pennsylvania Legislature in 1919 and 1920. At the present time he is Professor of Philosophy and Director of Extension Work.

Twins in service are unusual, but we have them. Dr. Herbert A. Allison and Dr. George E. Fisher have served thirty-five years. They were both "Freshmen" on the faculty in 1906. Dr. Fisher entered upon his work at that time as Professor of Natural Sciences, but he received consideration and at present is Head of the Science Department in collaboration with a number of other instructors. Dr. Allison began his teaching with the Greek Department and the French Department, but at present he has been shifted to the Professorship of the History and Political Science Departments.

Again we have two men who have both served the University for the same number of years. Dr. Franklin P. Manhart and Professor Edwin Monroe Brungart have completed their twenty-seventh year of teaching at Susquehanna. Dr. Manhart became Professor of Church History and Systematic Theology in 1904 and preceding this he was appointed Superintendent and President of Susquehanna University from 1893 to 1895. He has served as Dean of the School of Theology for practically his entire stay at the University. Professor Brungart served as Principal of Susquehanna Academy until 1914 and since that time he has held various professorships on the campus. His entire time of service dates from 1904.

It is of interest to note that three of these men are graduates of the Missionary Institute, the mother of our present University. These men are Dr. Woodruff, Dr. Fisher and Dr. Manhart.

In closing it seems only fitting that these men should be honored in the "George Washington" of Susquehanna. They stood by her through "thick and thin."

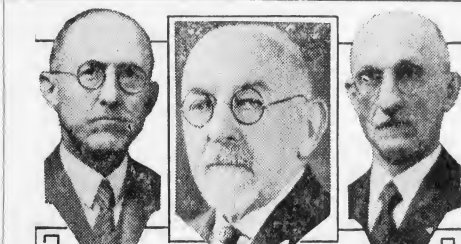

Inter-Frat Council Will Enforce Laws

Constitution to be Strictly Enforced; Rushing of Frosh Will Start on December First

The members of the Inter-Fraternity Council decided at a special meeting, which was held during the past week at the Epsilon Sigma House, that the by-laws concerning the rushing and entertaining of Freshmen at the various fraternity houses will be strictly enforced.

As a matter of fact, the constitution and by-laws will be strictly interpreted and all violations will be brought before the governing body and penalties will be imposed as stated in the constitution of the council.

For the enlightenment of the Freshmen and the transfer students the following (Concluded on page 4)

Athletic Directress Suffers Broken Foot

While Conducting Class in Gym, Miss Reeder Slips, Cracking Arch, Patient Hobbles About on Crutches

A most unfortunate accident occurred Thursday, when Miss Dorothy Reeder, instructor in physical education for women, injured her right foot while directing a class in eurythmics in the Alumni Gymnasium.

Miss Reeder was conducting her class in the Gymnasium as usual and in demonstrating leaps she slipped on the floor which has been treacherous since the inter-fraternity dance held three weeks ago. It was the first time that Miss Reeder had anything like this happen in her work and it was entirely due to the condition of the floor.

A local doctor X-rayed the foot and found both the arch and a long bone at the side of the foot to be broken. The patient suffered greatly the first twenty-four hours, but after that she had relief. Saturday the foot was placed in a cast and Miss Reeder is able to get around with the use of crutches. It is quite a contrast to see her stand on the side lines of the soccer field, where once she was most active in her blue suit.

The sympathy of the entire campus goes to Miss Reeder and it is the hope of all that it will mend just as rapidly and painlessly as possible.

FREE GERMAN TOUR OFFERED TO STUDENTS

The Deutscher Studentenschaft, national student organization of Germany, has extended an invitation of the National Student Federation of America to send two German speaking American students on a six weeks speaking tour of German Colleges and Universities during the months of January and February, 1932. Their entire expenses will be paid by the Deutscher Studentenschaft. There is also a possibility that these two students will be invited to visit the universities of Holland as well as the Scandinavian countries.

The National Student Federation will select the two American students on a competition basis and details for the contest will appear in this paper shortly. This invitation is a spontaneous desire on the part of German students for a better understanding between students of the two countries, and marks the first attempt of its kind. The success and general approval of the German debating team brought to America by the Federation last winter has opened the way for a visit to Germany this year.

O. D. TO STAGE BARRY'S RECENT NEW YORK SUCCESS

Susquehanna is abreast of the times in many things, dramatics being no exception. When Omega Delta Sigma selected its play it did not choose to revive an old number, but rather selected one that had just enjoyed a New York success and was being used by dramatic clubs in the larger colleges.

"Holidays" was the Senior class play at West Chester last year. From an article in the "Swarthmore Phoenix," we quote—"Holidays, Philip Barry's celebrated three act comedy has been chosen by the Little Theatre Club for presentation as its fall production in the Clothier Memorial on Friday evening, November 6." It is also being produced by a dramatic club in Utica, N. Y., with students from Hamilton College taking part.

Crusader - Indian Classic Saturday

Both Teams in Best of Condition, S. U. Will Lose Captain Adams Due to Bad Ankle

The classic football game and the game that means just about everything in the hearts of Susquehanna rosters will take place this Saturday afternoon when the Little Juniata College is hunting to battle Juniata College in their annual gridiron engagement.

To the Orange and Maroon Juniata is the most important contest on the schedule. It is the game that makes the Susquehanna season a success or not. Being a contest between traditional rivals the result of the game can never be prophesied. It is a battle in which two inspired eleven are matched and all previous scores or statistics of any kind are worthless in determining its outcome.

As far as having the teams in shape both the Susquehanna and Juniata coaches should have their eleven in the best of condition as neither school had a game scheduled last Saturday. However, in spite of the open date, Coach Ullery received a setback early last week when Captain Bill Adams injured his ankle and will probably be out of the line-up for the Juniata game. It goes to show that the Crusaders will be a serious blow to the Crusaders if he can not play, as Adams has been playing the most consistent football of anybody on the squad. His work at taking out the opposing backfield in (Concluded on page 4)

Lanthon Proofs Expected in Week

Proofs of the pictures taken by the Zamsky Studio for the Lanthon last week are expected to be returned for selection within ten days.

At this time all individual proofs will be given out for a few days on approval, and also one 7x9 finished photograph, complete with a leather frame. The latter will be sold at two dollars each. When the studio representative arrives to take orders, all proofs must be returned promptly. At this time other sizes and prices will be quoted.

During the week that the photographer was here, pictures were of approximately 260 students, 42 members of the faculty and administration, and 40 groups and organizations.

The Lanthon is greatly indebted to those individuals and groups whose splendid cooperation made a difficult task comparatively easy. The only group which did not appear was the University Band. Consequently, this picture will not appear in the yearbook at the Lanthon's expense.

wealth and social standing. But he refuses to "make good" with her father, preferring to enjoy life as a holiday and an independent venture in happiness. Because of this the two separate, but at the end the girl's sister realizing that the young man is right and her family wrong, confesses that she is in love with him and agrees to go away and marry him. The play is marked by the modern witty dialogue that distinguishes the work of Philip Barry.

THE LOCAL PRODUCTION
The O. D. S. plays are always characterized by the excellent settings. This year they will again have something new. The committee is already at work planning scenery for the two different scenes that will be presented. These girls are known for doing excellent work along this line and their audience will not be disappointed.

FRESHMEN HAZING

A dictionary definition of "hazing" is, "harassment by abusive or ridiculous treatment." In hundreds of institutions of higher learning in our fair land this hazing constitutes a large part of the activity of the first two classes. Through extensive research and hours of interviews, the author is at last in a position to expound on the major issue of college life, hazing.

Hazing has its advantages, advantages which no sane minded American citizen dares gainsay.

There is on every college campus a group of Sophomores whose wisdom so far exceeds that of their professors that study for them is absolutely ridiculous. Here the little Freshman becomes extremely useful. If a second year man can be inventing new processes of ridiculousness for the Freshman, it will naturally keep his great mind clear and amazingly develop his intellectual powers.

In most colleges one can find a few misguided Freshmen who thought that college was a place where one could study and learn—in fact a few even hold to this idea after they have been in college for some time. Here the Sophomore can show the Freshman the error of his ways. By graciously interrupting the study of the Frosh, and by taking him on various occasions for little pleasure jaunts, the Soph can render himself, his protegee, and the Alma Mater a genuine service.

Then, too, the Freshmen should remember that hazers must have some assnagement for the feeling of mortification that still hangs to them from the preceding year. If they do this, they will realize at once that they should take their harassment willingly and even gratefully.

Another great purpose of the second year activities is to give the first year men an excuse to pass what they receive on to the ones who will come immediately after them. Thus a beautiful state of barbarism will continue to exist, and the magnificent principle of "an eye for an eye, and a tooth for the suggestion" will be upheld gloriously for ever and aye.

EDITOR'S NOTE

The column entitled "The Editor's Mail," has been started to give the student an opportunity to state his views and ideas of what is going on and about the campus. We feel certain that the student has ideas that he believes are good and worthy and this is his chance to express them.

DO WE APPRECIATE OUR GIRLS?

Three elections have been held to decide what should be done concerning the Proposed Amendments of Regulations Governing the Awarding of Insignia to Girls. Out of these three elections there have not been sufficient members of the Association present to come to any decision. Another election will be held on Thursday morning, November 5, and everyone be sure to bring your identification cards. No ballot will be issued to you unless you have the card.

Let everyone turn out. The girls athletics are just as important as those governed by the men's rulings and require the same skill. Don't we appreciate what the girls athletic activities mean on the campus? Come out of this lethargy that you have let yourself slip into. Come out and vote yes or no. It is your privilege—it must be definitely decided this week.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY

The staff wishes to offer their "many happy returns of the day" to Professor E. M. Brungart, who was one year older after Halloween. October 31 was his natal day.

DO YOU BELONG?

"Phi Beta Kappa" has given notice of membership to the Susquehanna and have turned in names of 88 active members. This is not quite as many as were posted in membership last year in this "honorary fraternity" but indeed it still shows that the society still holds more members than any other society on the campus. This should not be; Susquehanna is democratic and no reason can be given why one society, especially a society of this kind, should monopolize one fourth of our college students. (1-15 have it, but it's not halitosis).

This club presents bids every six weeks while any other society is permitted to bid only once a semester. It offers no advantages whatsoever except a lot of infamous publicity. We wish to warn the Freshman to be wily in accepting this call to membership and advise all old members in good and regular standing to drop their names from the roll within the next six weeks for the end will soon be.

Forgetting the deception of the above paragraphs let us honestly say: "There will be a six weeks list next time, but my name will not be there." School isn't a country club with a few classes thrown in for pastime. Better prepare for semester exams now by preparing daily.

S. U. PEPYS

The administration has a subtle way of reminding some of us when six weeks of school have passed. Even the parents are sometimes informed of this occasion. . . . We welcome to the Six-footers' Club: Jack Auchmuty, Herb Spigelmyer, Witkop, Carmichael, Schoffstall, and Jim Suter.

Of 750 girls entering Hunter College this year, a questionnaire revealed, only one definitely plans to marry.

Well, that's one way of telling the world that they're still in circulation for the highest bidders. Not so dumb. . . .

Things were beginning to lag at the Halloween Party when out of the night came Deacon Edwards and Whoop-de-do Perty to start a barn dance. . . . Nobody seemed to know what to do. . . . Edith Frankfield received a prize for having the best witch's costume. . . . Only it was supposed to be a Spanish dancer's. . . . Jerry Schlegel was inducted into the Royal Order of Rose-Petalers. . . . Pierpont Pascoe remained in the background until the barn dance started. . . . Ruddy Valley Gelneit (and his colleagues) brought down the house with his breath-taking ragtime. Jon Suter was unable to be among those present.

"Pinky" the Lantern photographer, departed from Seibert Hall at noon on Saturday, leaving a trail of shattered hearts behind. . . .

In answer to numerous requests, we are sorry to announce that there will be no all-faculty football team this year. There were too many veterans married this year, and their wives won't let them play.

Watch out, boys. Don't get scalped Saturday—R. V. Nertz.

"Our Five and Ten" (Maybe Fifteen)

By WOULD B. HISTORIAN

November 2, 1926

"Varsity makes it two in a row, by downing Upsala, 19-0. The team has won three out of the last four games played. Susquehanna's full strength was not used in annexing this victory. The star of the game was Johnny Auten (remember him?) Groce and Eastwood were the passing and receiving ends of the combination."

Perhaps this was an exceptional season, and it certainly is good for sore eyes. The present student body would like to see that in print this season.

November 1, 1921

(Here is the exact opposite) "Orange and Maroon Outclassed by West Point Gridiron Warriors. One satisfaction, a young terror by the name of Sweeney dashed 40 yards for the home team. S. U.'s appearance at the military school on the Hudson was greeted by a 53-0 score, but it was a spectacular game, even though it was not close."

If the "Little Crusaders" were to attempt to play football with the present Army team it would not be the "Mule" backfield that received the broken necks. . . .

"L. N. A. Convention was held at Bucknell. Many interesting journalistic highlights speak to representatives from different school papers."

The present staff has picked its representative "embryonic yellow shell artists" to represent it at the fall convention at Dickinson next week. Maybe this column will improve then?

October 30, 1916

"Susquehanna men gave the Carlisle Indians their first defeat of the season. Indians were calmed by the wards of Director Wingard here on Saturday in a brilliant game, 12-0."

We cannot compare notes on this game because the Crusaders don't play them this year.

FACULTY ROW

Books Are Summer Pals

Dr. Harold Follmer vacationed by doing some quite intensive reading. In fact he read the whole summer through. For some time he did his reading at a lodge in Center county. However, we do have his statement that he saw every local baseball game that he could possibly attend.

Dr. H. Allison Visits Maine

The Dr. Hertert Allison family had a very pleasant vacation in Maine, Massachusetts and Canada. Dr. and Mrs. Allison and our former Freshman instructor, Miss Evelyn Allison, motored to Boston. There they were joined by the son and brother, Samuel Allison. From Boston they drove to Old Orchard, Me. Here they saw Post and Gatty and their crippled plane, the "Winnie Mae." Then the party continued through the Maine woods and into Canada, Quebec being their destination. Dr. Allison thoroughly enjoyed the quaint French atmosphere of the old city, and the many shrines, queer churches and chapels were of intense interest to the vacationers. They noted that few of the natives spoke English, French being the popular tongue. On one occasion Dr. Allison was in danger of being financially ruined when youthful beggars crowded the automobile while the party was driving through the Petite Rue Sous-Le-Cap supposedly the narrowest street in North America.

Attends Linguist Institute

Dr. Robert Tucker spent six weeks of his summer vacation in New York City. Most of his time was spent at Linguistic Institute. Because of the extreme heat in the Great City, Dr. and Mrs. Tucker are able to say that they had a very "hot" time.

Phi Mu Delta

Mr. Richard T. Lassiter, Alumni Secretary of Phi Mu Delta National Fraternity, visited the local chapter for several days during the week.

Dr. and Mrs. Paul Z. Strodach were guests of the Fraternity at dinner on Sunday. Dr. Strodach is Book Editor of the United Lutheran Publication House at Philadelphia and a prominent writer on Church Liturgy.

Kappa Delta Give Halloween Tea

Kappa Delta Phi girls were hostesses Friday afternoon when they gave a Halloween tea in honor of their honoraries. Following the guests' arrival, Miss Alice Bickerstaff, assistant librarian; Miss Agnes Grove, French instructor, and Miss Thelma Armstrong, business ad. instructor, became initiated into honorary membership.

New acquaintances were made and old ones renewed, while tea was served. Mary Weaverling poured.

Sales Talk

There's an antique shop in Fifth Ave., we are told, run by an old fellow who gets rid of a lot of objects d'art by coldbloodedly making up stories about them. A middle aged lady pecking about his shop, picked up an old ink well. "That inkwell Madam," said the storekeeper, "belonged to Napoleon and he used it whilst on St. Helena to write his diary. It came to my possession through my father, who was a personal friend of the Little Corporal." The woman was excitedly pleased when he was prevailed upon to part with the inkwell for $25. Shortly after this transaction, a gentleman found an identical inkwell somewhere around the littered shop and asked the price. The proprietor gave him the same song and dance and then, much to his confusion, observed that the woman purchaser had not left the store. She came rushing up, "I heard everything you said," she cried excitedly. "I'll take that one too. It would be interesting to have both of them.—Readers Digest.

What Most College Boys Want

Most undergraduates come out of an atmosphere of business and wish a breeding which is consonant with it. They do not wish learning. They wish only a certain freshening of their faculties for the miscellaneous contacts of life, a general acquaintance with what men are doing and saying in their own generation, a certain facility in handling themselves and in getting on with their fellows. They are much more interested in the incidental associations of college life than in the main intellectual occupations of the place. They want to be made men of, not scholars; and the life led at college is as serviceable for that as any of the tasks set in the classroom. If they want what the formal teaching offers them at all, it is for some definite and practical purpose connected with the calling they expect to follow, the business they expect to engage in.—Woodrow Wilson.

INTERCOLLEGIATE BULLETIN

The co-eds are on the warpath at Hiram College, Ohio. When they demanded $300 from the student budget for the college Y. W. C. A. at a student assembly recently, the men students set up a unanimous howl. Now the women threaten that if the money is not obtained, they will take steps to insure the election of a woman president at the next student election.

Students at the University of Maryland are fined $3 every time they cut a class.

A sophomore at Texas A. & M. College decided to test the respect of Freshmen for their betters. Securing some red paint for blood, he stretched himself out in front of a group of approaching yearlings to observe their reaction. The frosh stepped disdainfully over the prostrate body, proceeded to the second story window of a nearby building, and then reviled the still reclining soph with a deluge of cold, very wet water.

A lie detector, or Polygraph, has been invented by Dr. Leonarde Keeler of the scientific crime detection laboratories at Northwestern University.

As a test for this instrument Dr. Keeler took an experienced card player with the customary poker face, and asked him to select a certain card out of ten, replying "No" to all questions as to whether it was the card he had chosen.

When he said "No" to the card he had chosen, the polygraph jumped. Dr. Keeler selected the card, and repeated the question. The polygraph gave even a worse jump.

"I fear you were lying," said Dr. Keeler.

"I was," said the subject. And the polygraph didn't jump that time.

Seibert Hall Echoes

As an example of a cool headed co-ed we submit Helen Hall, who on Monday when there was a fire near the dormitory answered the telephone to be asked by a Sunbury paper, "Is there a fire there?" The very calmly answered "Just a minute and I'll see."

Seibert Hall was quite excited about the Halloween party, and queer figures were seen in various rooms a day or so before. Oh well, we were all Freshmen at one time.

The visiting football man seen with Betty Wardrop last week was not the interest she used to have on that campus. He was just his roommate.

Hearty S. U. Spirit Is Emblem of Letter

Spirit of Susquehanna Alumnus as Revealed in Personal Letter Deserves Praise

School spirit during his college years and since his graduation of one of our alumni has been so outstanding that a short resume of the activities of our alumnus is only fitting for us to present to the reader of the weekly publication of the student body of the college. Perhaps the best possible method of expressing our appreciation is to give our story in the words of the man himself as he expressed them to a friend.

"I am an alumnus of the theological department of S. U. I first saw the campus on All Fools' Day, April 1, 1895. I went up from Washington, D. C., to have the faculty go over me and decide if the institution could do anything with me for a chap like myself. They told me to come. On Easter Monday, April 15, I arrived with a very young wife to become a resident of studentville. I later became the Mayor of Studentville. I was graduated June, 1898.

"In that distant day Gustavus Adolphus Hall was the fine new building, a year old, I believe, with dear old Selinsgrove Hall standing proudly nearby in the memory of the noble men who had taught and studied within its walls. We carried our water from the old pump just outside of Selinsgrove Hall, into the trough where many an old timer was ducked.

"It is with profound gratitude to God for His blessing upon the institution that we have seen the steady progress of the school until today she has become what you so well know her to be.

"I hope and pray that every alumnus will realize the priceless service the school has given him. I hope and pray that every undergraduate will realize the sublime sacrifice that has made the institution possible for the splendid opportunities of the present—sacrifice of professors and patrons. If the student pays promptly and gladly his bill, he will pay perhaps two-thirds of the actual cost of his care and instruction, to say nothing of the incalculable wealth that comes from the sweat and the tears of those who have labored for and with the school in the days and years long gone.

"I wish that every alumnus would put the school into his budget. To do so will pay him and the institution.

"In July, 1906, Dr. Aikens, of blessed memory, called at my parsonage in Northumberland, and asked for $100. I told him that I did not have so much money for any other domestic or general, but I offered him $2 per month until I gave a hundred, if he thought that would help. He thought so. From that time on I wrote the first check each month for Susquehanna and when the four years and two months were up I had the habit so that I kept up the monthly remittance for four years, and two months longer, giving $200. Then as a missionary pastor in Berwick, with a good-sized family and small income, I asked to be excused.

"Later I became the field secretary of Susquehanna and for three years I lugged a stereopticon from Dan to Beersheba to advertise the school, look up students, and find what money I could. I did not find much money, but I more than paid my expenses. My plan was to establish a supporting clientele for the school with monthly contributions from alumni and patrons. I had what I called the Christmas Club, each member giving $1 per month. To this I belonged and paid my dollar monthly for the three years with the rest of the members.

"In the campaign of 1920 I subscribed as a pastor in Cumberland, Md., $100 and had a credit of $139 when the campaign of 1927 was on. I then subscribed $125. Having paid steadily my $2 per month, at this time I am still in debt to the school $5, but November and December with $1 in January will see me out. My gift is a trifle, but it has been steady.

"I feel that I can absolutely assure any alumnus who will try this plan for a year or two a joy that will make him very rich in the beautiful memory of sharing in the work of our beloved S. U. Puckin says that we should make for ourselves 'nests of pleasant thoughts.' Among my pleasant thoughts none is more pleasant than the three years spent at S. U. as a student and another three years as a field secretary, with my little monthly gift to mark my appreciation of all that was done for me by my beloved instructors and a host of unknown benefactors of the school that lay behind them.

"My remittance of course is but a friendly gesture. It is just an earnest token of what I would love to do. I would like to give thousands, but not being able to do that, I give my pennies. Some one has said that it is no sin to dream of automobiles if you do not fail to push your wheelbarrow."

The letter closes with the announcement of an inclosed check for a subscription to "The Susquehanna."

"Y" Cabinets Present Hallow'en Party

Saturday night, the night when goblins are out and the witches ride on their brooms, we found Alumni Gymnasium decorated up with corn shocks and floor lamps. At eight o'clock the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. presented their annual Hallow'en party for the benefit of the college students. Numbers of the students who attended were dressed up as nobly as possible and some as cleverly as one can imagine. The boy to receive first prize for clever dressing was Lee Fairchild, and the honor girl's costume was found on Miss Isabelle Horn.

Immediately after the awarding of the prizes the rhythm makers from down town began their music and naturally the party had to loosen up. Rudy Gehrett and His Collegians furnished the music.

A number of the Faculty members were there to enjoy the party with their students. A goodly number of students were there at different intervals throughout the evening. Like all Hallow'en parties, cider, doughnuts, and candy were on sale. The evening was socially a success, according to the people who attended and the evening was also a financial success according to the Y. M. and Y. W.

BURNING FURNITURE DRAWS LARGE CROWD

Burning covers and furniture were the cause of a fire alarm which drew the fire fighters and a good sized crowd to the north side of Seibert Hall about 2:30 on Monday afternoon. A small Ford truck, something of the type that "Amos and Andy" could boast of, was halted in its journey up the cemetery hill when its owner realized that his load of furniture had caught fire. Some keen observer had seen the calamity even before its owner had realized it and telephoned the fire company.

Throwing off the burning articles the driver almost extinguished the flames before the fire truck arrived. Although only a few minutes had passed since the blowing of the alarm a fair sized crowd of students and towns people had arrived on the scene much disappointed, yet feeling at ease that there was no cause for alarm.

Arts Colleges Will be Honored by N. B. C.

Founders Day Program, November 14
Will Feature Guest Speakers.
Mixed Chorus to Sing

Founders Day, November 14, will be the culmination of nation-wide activity At nine p. m. Eastern Standard Time the broadcast of the National Broadcasting Company, in collaboration with the Liberal Arts Colleges Association will be received by radio at Seibert Hall Chapel. This program is to benefit the arts colleges of the United States and will feature President Hoover.

At eight p. m. the University will put on a Founders Day Program with Professor H. D. Hoover, Instructor of Practical Theology at Gettysburg Seminary, as guest speaker. His address will be on the subject of "The Church Affiliated to the Liberal Arts Colleges." Another feature of the program will be singing by the University Choral Society of Mixed Voices.

The receiving radio equipment will be placed in the Chapel through the beneficence of Mr. Plummer, the local radio dealer. The idea of combining the two programs is to give the audience a chance to be the recipients of the value of both speakers.

SENIORS WIN INTER-CLASS HOCKEY CHAMPIONSHIP

Playing their last game of hockey at Susquehanna the Senior Class team took the championship from the nearest competitors, the Juniors, Thursday afternoon, Oct. 22. The close score, 2-0, shows that it was a very hard fought game. There was brilliant stick work on both sides. Gessner made the two goals for the Seniors, fed by that matchless trio of halfbacks—Leese, Lehman and Crebs. For the losers Jones and Walborn made a threatening forward line. Good defensive playing on both sides helped in keeping out many goals.

The standing of teams in Interclass Hockey is as follows:

	W	L	Pct.
Seniors	6	0	1.000
Juniors	4	2	.667
Sophs.	2	4	.333
Frosh.	0	6	.000

With the closing of hockey season the girls are beginning practice for a round of interclass soccer games which begins with a game between the Juniors and Sophs. Monday, Nov. 2.

DR. JOHN I. WOODRUFF REAPPOINTED TO BOARD

Dr. John I. Woodruff, of Susquehanna Heights, has been reappointed to the board of trustees of the Selinsgrove State Colony for Epileptics. Dr. Woodruff is professor of Philosophy and director of Extension work of Susquehanna University. He was graduated from Missionary Institute in 1898 and has since attended Bucknell University for his Master's Degree, and Wittenberg and Waynesburg Colleges for his Litt.D. He acted as president of Susquehanna from 1901 to 1904. He served as a member of the Pennsylvania Legislature in sessions of 1919 and 1929, during that time he sponsored important educational measures. He is also a lecturer on Educational subjects. Dr. Woodruff has been a member of the faculty of Susquehanna University since 1892.

S. U. BAND MAY ATTEND JUNIATA GAME SATURDAY

Plans are under way to take the band along on the trip to Juniata next Saturday. This is the first time in two years that the band has had an opportunity to follow the team and the campus hope to see them on parade between halves. Nothing definite has been decided, but Professor Allison is trying to make suitable arrangements on their bi-annual pilgrimage. The students and the team would like to see the band at more games in foreign territory, so give the band your support.

AUCHMUTY

In Jack Auchmuty Coach Ullery has one of the mainstays of the Susquehanna line this year. This is Jack's fourth year with the team and up to this season he has always played guard. This year, however, he has been playing both tackle and guard, being shifted to the position his services have been needed the most. Jack's home town is Tamaqua but he is a graduate of Staunton Military Academy, where he played football. He is a member of the Phi Mu Delta fraternity.

SPIGELMYER

Spigelmyer, although he had been on the squad since his Freshman year, did not get his chance till last season. However, when he did get it he played end and has held that position ever since. Herby has not played a poor game this season. His best exhibition so far was against Haverford, where he was matched against a man weighing 272 pounds and outplayed him. Spigelmyer is a hard hitting third baseman on the baseball team and is able to put up a good game of basketball. His home town is Dubois. He is a member of the Bond and Key Club here.

WITKOP

Another Senior who has been with the Susquehanna squad four years is Dutch Witkop. He started out as a backfield man, but last year broke into the regular lineup as a guard. Witkop is not large, but makes up for that with his hard speedy playing. This season Dutch has been playing both the guard and tackle positions. He is a member of Phi Mu Delta and hails from Buffalo, where he starred on the gridiron in his high school days.

number of full-time students.
In the far west the story is about the same. The University of Texas has found, however, that the depression has bitten conspicuously into its enrollment. Duke University on the other hand, is flourishing.

New York University
There is also the determination of the students themselves to get an education. New York University has set an unusual pace for themselves along this line. Many signs show the increase in the seriousness with which students are taking their work. Almost everywhere the percentage of students doing outside work has risen, and many who normally took jobs only during the summer are now seeking winter work as well. In innumerable small ways, too, students are economizing. At Michigan hair cuts were being made to do for a longer period. Fraternities were combining in their dances to cut down expenses, students were participating more in group entertainments and less in individual parties and—heyday of heydays—the purchase of textbooks were increasing. Professions are attracting more than their expected share. A complete change of mind is heralded by a number of educators in a position to see the type of courses to which the adult mind responds today.

America's New Outlook
Dr. Johnson says that heretofore the inner consciousness for too many people has been a frozen asset. Americans have restricted their mental activity to the outer mind and have been ashamed of any reference to their inner feelings. It is the inner mind which really directs mind. It is the self which ought to have full play in the individual.

A more general understanding of contemporary life too must be brought to the student in the college—that in the opinion of some of the leading observers of education is one of the chief lessons education should learn from the depression.

BOOK SHELF

"As good as kill a man as kill a good book. He that kills a book kills reason itself," states the immortal Milton in his Areopagitica. Reading the most excellent literature with the view of improving not merely the artistic appreciation, but of commanding a sympathetic understanding from such reading is of inestimable value to the individual. In this modern age, everyone may afford the best reading, since public libraries have been instituted for the general reader. In our own Susquehanna library, we have untold treasures of both ancient and modern literature waiting to be discovered.

On the fiction shelf, one may find: Finch's Fortune, Mazo de La Roche. Via Crucis, F. Marion Crawford. Shadows of the Rock, Willa Cather. King Noanet, F. J. Stimson. Brass Check, Upton Sinclair. Goose-step, Upton Sinclair. The Golden Dog, William Kirby. Reference books:

Anthropology of Modern Philosophy, Robinson.
Essentials of Histology, Schafer.
Fundamentals of Philosophy, Gametsfelder and Evans.
Commercial Education in Secondary Schools, Kitson.
The Changing Educational World, Burich.
History:
The Epic of America, Adams.
Red Bread, Maurice Hindus—"a sparkling dialogue of the Russian peasant."

The Challenge of Russia, Eddy.
After 2,000 Years, G. Lowes Dickinson—Just suppose Plato returned to the world today.

These are mere suggestions. The Library is your opportunity to receive culture, insight, and human understanding. Make use of the opportunity and you will never regret it.

WOMEN ATHLETES RECEIVE AWARDS

The Women's Athletic Club held their monthly meeting Monday evening in the girls' gym. Letters and numerals were awarded by Miss Reeder to those girls who attained 500 or 250 points in interclass sports during the past year.

Plans were discussed for the exhibition game to be played at Sunbury, for which two varsity squads were chosen. A trip to Juniata to see the football game there Saturday was also considered.

A letter was read from the United States Field Hockey Association stating that Susquehanna could become an allied member of that organization.

The following new members were initiated: Pauline Crow, Blanche Savidge, Daisy Reese, Virginia Andrews, Ruth Brewster, Edith Frankfield, Jean Kehlner, Ludlow Nichols, Grace Herold, Flora Elmore and Enza Wilson.

GIRLS' SOCCER SCHEDULE

The following schedule of girls' soccer games will be played off this week under the management of Thelma Keyser:

Mon., Nov. 2, Sophs. vs. Jrs. 4:10 P.M.
Tues., Nov. 3, Sophs. vs. Frosh. 3:10 P.M.
Wed., Nov. 4, Sophs. vs. Frosh. 3:10 P.M.

Y. W. PROGRAM FEATURES STUDENT CHALK TALKS

Olive Forcey had charge of the Y. W. hours Thursday evening, Oct. 29. Her program was in the form of a chalk talk. This was something entirely new to the campus. She revealed in her drawings "Merry Hearts and Merry Faces." Surprise endings to her work featured. It is hoped that this illustrative type of entertainment will be continued by those students who are talented in such a way.

INTER-FRAT COUNCIL WILL ENFORCE LAWS

Following excerpt is published from the by-laws of the council: Section 5. No rushing shall begin before December 1st. Rushing shall consist of entertaining the prospect at the chapter house, or in any way in which the fraternity man bears the expense.

In the past, the above-stated by-law has been a bone of contention and has been flagrantly broken by the active members of the various fraternities. Since this ban will be lifted within a month, every fraternity man on the campus should observe and respect the decree. This article was written with the intention of saving the fraternities from further embarrassment and to enlighten the male members of the class of '35.

CRUSADERS - INDIANS CLASSIC SATURDAY

ference has been especially noteworthy.

Adams Hurt
With the exception of Adams the rest of the Susquehanna squad seems to be in good condition. Coach Ullery has put his charges through several scrimmages during the last two weeks and in that time the regulars have been especially snappy in their work and seemed to walk through the seconds with ease. The practices during the rest of this week will be of the lightest nature.

Susquehanna will meet in Juniata Saturday a veteran team and one of the strongest eleven that the rival school has ever produced. With the exception of Andrews, Juniata will have a star backfield that has played together for the last three years. The loss of Andrews this season does not seem to have weakened the Huntingdon boys a bit. Their record is very impressive. They defeated such teams as Gettysburg and Westminster by scores of 6-0 and 14-0 and have lost to schools such as Dickinson and Muhlenberg by close scores.

During the last two years Juniata has gained victories over Susquehanna. Last year the Crusaders lost the game here as part of a homecoming day celebration by a 13-7 score. In 1929 the Orange and Maroon lost at Juniata 12-0. Previous to that Susquehanna was victorious seven successive times.

INTERCOLLEGIATE NEWSPAPER ASSN. CONVENED AT DICKINSON NOV. 6 AND 7

Twenty Papers Represented from Leading Colleges. Mr. F. F. Shedd Outstanding Speaker of Convention

Friday and Saturday, November 6 and 7, were actively prominent on the Dickinson campus, Carlisle, Penna., because of the sessions of the Intercollegiate Newspaper Association convention, which met there. Some twenty schools have been active during the past year in the Association, and twenty-one of these schools had their papers represented at the convention. Fifty delegates were present at the sessions.

Officers of the Association for this year are: President, Raymond B. Councillor, Dickinson College; vice president, Lester M. Gates, George Washington; secretary-treasurer, Winfield C. Cook, Dickinson College; executive secretary, Reese L. Sewell, George Washington. These officers have served faithfully during the past year and during the present period have been more than valuable to us.

In the evening a formal banquet was served to the convention at the Molly Pitcher Hotel, at which time the awards were made for the present year. "The Pitt Weekly" received the news award, the "Brown and White" of Lehigh, was awarded the editorial cup for the coming year. Presentation of the awards was made by Mr. E. J. Steagole, editor of the Harrisburg Telegraph and Mr. Allen Thompson, editor of the Carlisle Sentinel. Mr. Fred Fuller Shedd, editor of the Philadelphia Bulletin, was the main speaker of the evening. He told the members why the college man was absolutely needed on the staffs of the press today. The college graduate has learned to think, therefore, he is needed, because the editor of a paper has little or no time to coach or teach a reporter how to think. Mr. Shedd is president of the American Association of Editors, and is a strong supporter of the journalistic school plan. He is deeply involved in the plan of bringing the (Concluded on Page 4)

S. U. Band Has Successful Trip

Mayor Keim Greets and Fetes Members at Lewistown. Concert Given at Rialto Theater

One of the most successful trips that the Susquehanna University Band has ever made since its organization four years ago took place last week-end, when the entire unit, under the direction of Professor Elrose Allison, made the trip to Juniata by way of Lewistown.

Leaving Selingrove about nine-thirty on Saturday morning, the band arrived in Lewistown shortly before noon, where Mayor Keim of the city greeted the members and paraded with them through the streets. The band seemed to be at its best for it presented a splendid sight of an organization, functioning to perfection. As host to all the members of the band Mayor Keim had planned a banquet for them at Shurley's. After the dinner the Mayor gave a short but touching speech, extending to the boys the welcome and best wishes of the city.

Immediately after dinner the band left for Huntingdon to play at the Susquehanna-Juniata football game. Once there the martial airs increased the pep and enthusiasm which were prevalent everywhere. At the end of the first half of the game the band came on the field and after marching up and down several times formed the "S" before the Susquehanna stand.

On the return trip, the band had two engagements to meet at Lewistown. At eight o'clock the members gathered at Kaufmann's music store, whose proprietors have always been Susquehanna enthusiasts, and gave a short program of six numbers to the busy Saturday evening shoppers. At nine-fifteen they appeared in the Rialto Theater for a short concert at the end of the first showing of the feature picture. After playing to a very appreciative audience, the whole band stayed to see the talkie.

Much credit is due to Director Allison and those men of Lewistown for making the trip so successful and pleasant.

Wedding Bells for S. U. Students

Wingard-Vought Nuptials to Continue Study at Their Respective Schools. Both Well Known on S. U. Campus

The surprise wedding of Miss Adeline Phillips Wingard, Susquehanna University student, to Horace W. Vought, of Sunbury, took place last Monday afternoon at the Lutheran parsonage in Greencastle and was performed by the pastor, Dr. William S. Ulrich, uncle of the bride, whose wife gave her niece in marriage.

Mrs. Vought is the adopted daughter of Mrs. Edgar R. Wingard, of West Walnut street, Selingrove, and is now a Junior at Susquehanna, where she will continue her studies. She is well-known on the campus, having taken leading roles in the Choral Club Concerts and the May Day pageant. She also has given excellent readings on various occasions. The bride's only attendants were Miss Sara Ulrich, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Ulrich, and Miss Sara Diffenderfer, both students at Wilson College, Chambersburg.

Mr. Vought is a senior in the Law School of the University of Pennsylvania, having graduated from Dickinson College in 1929 and the Sunbury high school in 1925. He attended Susquehanna University during the term of 1925-26 and then transferred to Dickinson. While on the local campus, he was a member of the Epsilon Sigma Fraternity. He will continue his law work at the University of Pennsylvania.

Outstanding Program Given by Students at Their Initial Recital

A splendid, appreciative audience attended the first Students' Evening Recital on Tuesday evening, November 3, in Seibert Chapel. The evening of music was presented by the students of the various departments of music in the Conservatory of Music, and by the University Orchestra. Those students who participated showed marked ability in the field of music that they have chosen and aided in making the evening an enjoyable one.

The program follows:

Orchestra—Minuetto gioioso, Mozart the University Orchestra.
Piano—Nocturne, Op. 27, No. 1, Chopin—Mr. Robert McNally, Sunbury, Pa.
Piano—Valse, LeVetitski—Miss Margaret Ide, Easton, Pa.

Song—Margaret at the Spinning Wheel, Schubert—Miss Irene Mengel, Freeburg, Pa.

Piano—Romance, LaForge—Mr. Charles Coleman, Beavertown, Pa.

Piano—Witches Dance, MacDowell—Miss Beatrice Mozely, Selingrove.

Song—Alleluia, Shurtz—Miss Mary Hummel, Northumberland, Pa.

Violin—Der Sohn der Hilde, Keeler-Bels—Mr. B. Ray Mich, Loyville, Pa.

Song—"My Heart Ever Faithful," J. S. Bach—Miss Beryl Wyman, Cardiff, Md.

Piano—Clair de Lune, Debussy—Mrs. Florence Lenhart.

Organ—Dedication ("Thru the Looking Glass"), D. Taylor—Miss Virginia Moody, Selingrove, Pa.

Piano—Impromptu, Op. 51, Chopin—Miss Mildred Lyon, Sunbury, Pa.

Piano—"Were I a Bird," Henselt—Miss Margaret Markle, Millheim, Pa.

Song—Parla, Arditi—Miss Anna Leinbach, Carlisle, Pa.

Aria—"Adieu, Forets" (Jeanne d'Arc), Tchaikowski—Mrs. Margaret Benner Burns, Selingrove, Pa.

Piano—Barcarole, Spross—Miss Isabel Wagner, Salisbury, Pa.

Piano—Cacovienne fantastique, Paderevski—Miss Virginia Moody, Selingrove, Pa.

November 20—The Roxy Male Quartet, presented by Sigma Alpha Iota.

DR. WILL DURANT

World Known Author On Star Course Bill

Dr. Will Durant is a Former Columbia Instructor, a Versatile Writer and An Enthusiastic Lecturer

On Tuesday evening, November 17th, Will Durant, internationally known author and lecturer, will be the attraction of the second Star Course bill presented at Seibert Chapel Hall, this season.

Will Durant first became prominent for his work when teaching at Columbia University. Men and women who studied under him there still talk of the exhilarating influence of his enthusiasm and his scholarship. They had never suspected that philosophy could be so intelligible, so absorbing, and so fruitfully related to the actual problems of life.

Among the many lectures which Dr. Durant was asked to give outside the University was one on "Spinoza," at the great community center, Labor Temple, maintained by the Presbyterian Church in New York City. This address led to the formation of two classes under his guidance, which met at Labor Temple for forty weeks in the year, with an approximate attendance of a thousand persons a week for the next eight years.

From these courses came Labor Temple School, an institution which has won a place for itself in the educational life of the metropolis. Its annual dinners have become the intellectual gathering place of such speakers as John Dewey, Harry Emerson Fosdick, and Hendrik Van Loon.

Dr. Durant's vogue in New York takes his listeners back to the Middle Ages, when people used to walk a hundred miles to hear great teachers of philosophy. He has given several complete courses for the Kansas City University Extension and his audiences there in 1920 grew from 450 at the first lecture to 850 at the fourth. In 1923 he delivered forty addresses in thirty-five days in Kansas City, nearly all in the same hall, and drew an average attendance of 860 persons.

He has attracted overflow audiences in nearly every large city and State in the Union. These audiences have been surprised to find that as the recital evening drew near.

Margaret Ide Undergoes Cyst Operation

This past week Margaret Ide, a Junior in the conservatory of music, was forced to discontinue her studies temporarily and submit to an operation.

Thursday afternoon Mr. Ide took Margaret to her home and on Friday she was removed to the Osteopathic Hospital, 48th and Spruce streets, Philadelphia, where she was operated upon Saturday morning, for a cyst on her spine. Her condition will require her to remain at the hospital about one week, and she will then go to her home, 1556 Ferry street, Easton, to recuperate before returning to school. She probably will not return before the Thanksgiving holiday.

Miss Ide suffered a great deal before she left school and it is the sincere wish of the campus that she will soon be relieved of her pain. It is a return of a similar condition she suffered last year.

Students to Receive Treat in "Holiday"

Mary Esther Potter and Luke Rhoads Will Take Leads in Drama Presented By O. D. S. Miss Reeder in Charge

Susquehanna University students will be given a real dramatic treat when Omega Delta Sigma presents "Holiday," by Philip Barry, in Seibert Hall Chapel at eight-fifteen Thursday evening.

The Literary Digest speaks of Philip Barry as one of the three American dramatists. Other critics say of him that he is the modern writer who uses the cleverest dialogue.

The Cast

Every member of the cast is experienced. Edna Williamson will never be forgotten as the princess in "Once There Was a Princess" and again in the "Swan" while in "Clarence" she played the young girl "Holiday" gives her an unusual opportunity to act. She is the society girl who is in revolt against the conventions that prevent her from living. She struggles for a time and then breaks away from the family.

Mary Esther Potter appeared on the college stage last year for the first time as the mother of the prince. In this play she is a society girl who is perfectly satisfied with her life as she leads it, but she falls in love with a man who wants to enjoy life instead of settling down and she is forced to choose between a rather uncertain future with this man and the security of her father's millions.

Janet Lettitz in "Holiday" takes a role quite different from those she has played the past few years. In direct contrast to Miss Lettitz, is (Concluded on Page 4)

Petty Stars for Juniata, and Van Nuy Shows Unusual Ability for S. U. Largest Score in Nine Years

The Susquehanna Crusaders put up a bold defense against a superior Juniata eleven, but to no avail, as they were downed by the Indians 26-2 before a large homecoming crowd at Huntingdon on Saturday.

It can not be said that the Orange and Maroon warriors did not put forth their best efforts, because they did in spite of the fact that the stronger Juniata eleven piled up the largest score there in nine years of football rivalry between the two institutions.

The Indians went on the warpath within the first two minutes of play and Hartly broke loose from the Susquehanna defense and dashed 35 yards for a touchdown. The Orange and Maroon defense tightened and Juniata did not cross the goal line the rest of the half. However, the home team did score twice in the nine years of football rivalry between the two institutions.

In all Juniata scored three touchdowns in the second half. The first came in the third quarter, when Petty dashed 22 yards. Another came in the same period when Hartley intercepted a Susquehanna pass on his 35-yard line. Gains by Petty and Reminger placed the ball on the 3-yard strip and Cook took it across. The final touchdown came in the last quarter when Light took a pass from Reminger in a spectacular manner.

Van Nuy was undoubtedly the star for the Susquehanna cause, and it was indirectly through him that the Orange (Concluded on Page 4)

Coincident with the American Liberal Arts College National Broadcast, Susquehanna will observe the seventy-fourth anniversary of her founding on November 14th.

The national broadcast, which will be headed by President Hoover, represents a concerted effort to interpret to the American public the aims, achievements and needs of the liberal arts college and to enlist the sympathetic cooperation and support of the people in the enhancement of the services these colleges are rendering.

Prior to the broadcast a special program will be held on Susquehanna's campus in Seibert Hall Chapel. The Rev. H. D. Hoover, D.D., former President of Carthage College and an Alumnus of Susquehanna will speak on "The Church Affiliated with Liberal Arts Colleges."

Since her establishment in 1858 (as Missionary Institute) Susquehanna University has played an important part in education. During her earlier history she rendered a peculiar and splendid service to men preparing for the ministry. When, in 1894 the curricula was changed, offering a full four years college course to her students, Susquehanna entered into an enlarged field of service, preparing her students not only for the ministry, but also for the pursuit of law, medicine, teaching, business, etc.

Over Two Thousand Alumni In the seventy-fourth year of her history over two thousand men and women have been awarded degrees in the various departments at Susquehanna. In addition hundreds of men and women have secured a partial academic training without graduating.

A survey of the occupations and professions of the graduates of 101 colleges and universities in the United States discloses the fact that Susquehanna was one of the 17 institutions included in (Concluded on Page 4)

Red Cross to Launch Annual Enrollment

Event Will Signalize Fiftieth Year of Successful Work. Spirit of Helpfulness World Wide

The annual enrollment of members which the American Red Cross will launch on Armistice Day, November 11, this year signalizes the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of that organization.

Anniversaries, particularly fiftieth anniversaries, whether of individuals or organizations, offer two temptations. One is to look back and the second is to look forward. The Red Cross, being at the half-way mark, so to speak, found that its ranks and the roll of its leaders could produce those able to do both.

The views of Dr. Livingston Farrand, president of Cornell, are distinctly in point here, because not only has he looked forward, but he has borne in mind how closely the future of all things now with us is allied with the forward-looking generation now in the country's educational institutions.

After detailing the trials of the post-war period, Dr. Farrand said, "with which he was closely identified in his years of association with the Red Cross and which he likened to the problems confronting it today, he told, not long ago, an audience of Red Cross leaders and representatives from all over the nation:

"I have to do, year in and year out, with American youth, and I hear a great many aspersions cast, particularly by the older generation, which never speaks the language of youth, upon the qualities of the present generation. Take my word for it, the present generation of youth is infinitely better than your and my generation. It is the best we have known."

"It is free from the misconceptions and prejudices and hypocrisies in which you and I were bred without protest on our part; and now there is tendency to see clearly and, if we can inspire that group with this spirit which (Concluded on Page 4)

ARMISTICE DAY

Memory carries us back to the one hundred and thirty-eight faithful men on the roster of Susquehanna's Student Army Training Corps, who responded so nobly to the martial call issued by our late President Woodrow Wilson, more than fourteen years ago.

At that time, the world reverberated with the ringing cadence of marching men and loyal Susquehannians incited by the fever and passion of war sprang to arms. They marched, they fought, they bled, and they died, offering the supreme sacrifice because of their devotion to the nation they loved. In common parlance, they fought to make the world safe for democracy by freeing it from the impending shackles of military autocracy.

The content of history must not be a museum of wax figures but the vital, living forbear of events to come when wars shall be no more. Until recent years, the United States allowed materialistic philosophy to veil any hope of world wide peace.

Since the signing of the Armistice on that memorable day in November, thirteen years ago, a constant effort has been made to establish permanent peace thruout the universe. At the time of writing, two powers in the Far East are on the threshold of war, the results of which cannot be determined until a future date. In our opinion permanent peace cannot be realized until all nations establish a cooperative friendship.

Near the entrance to our campus stands a memorial which was erected and dedicated by the Class of 1916 to the honor and memory of those men of Susquehanna University who answered the call of their country in the World War.

When we pass by this memorial, tomorrow, let us pause a few moments in reverence to those brave souls, who gave their last measure of devotion and also to commemorate Armistice Day in a fitting and proper spirit.

JOIN THE RED CROSS

November eleventh until November twenty-sixth will mark the Fiftieth Anniversary Roll Call of the American Red Cross. This organization is one of the most helpful of its kind in the world. The brave and humanitarian services of this worthy organization are too numerous for one to overlook. Every one recalls how steadfastly the Red Cross aided the sufferers during the Mississippi flood; how they gave their services to the needy during the drought; how they brought relief to thousands of thousands of suffering and needy everywhere.

One cannot perform a worthier deed than subscribe to the approaching Roll Call and become a member of one of the most outstanding institutions for the relief of humanity.

Last year the student body and the faculty of Susquehanna responded strongly and nobly. We feel that they will again unite with the rest of the world in making the fiftieth drive of the Red Cross a bigger success than it has ever been.

TO OUR ADELINE

Our fondest hopes we must resign
 And sing no more "Sweet Adeline,"

For she's eloped
 With Horace Vought
 And left us in despair to pine.

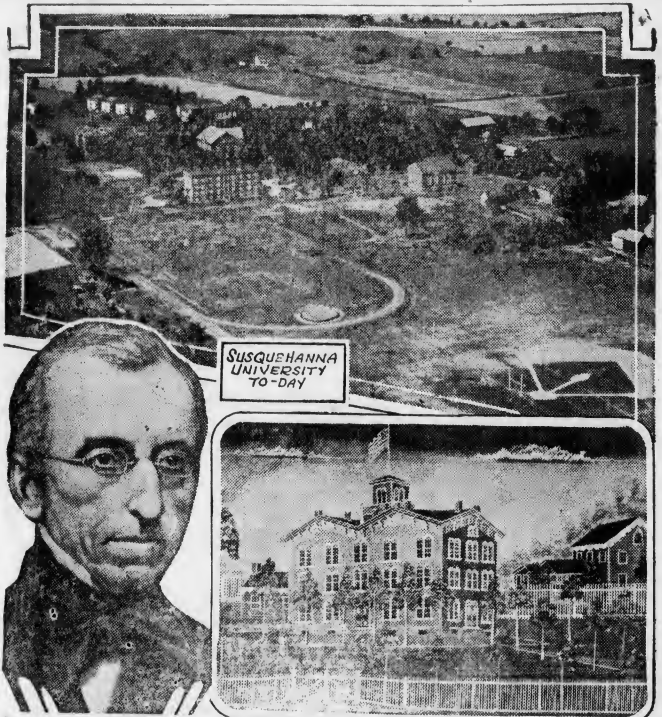

Ah, Adeline, who could conceive
 That you would thus your friends bereave!

We never thought
 That you in aught
 Would us so naughtily deceive!

'Tis duped we were yet 'tis our boast,
 We'll give you both a hearty toast;

Three rousing cheers
 For happy years

And joy unto the uttermost! William Evans

Death of Graduate

Miss Marjory Hummel, daughter of Mrs. Anna Eby Hummel, of Los Angeles, California, died as the result of a nervous breakdown, Friday of last week.

Miss Hummel was born in Northumberland thirty-eight years ago, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hummel. After her father's death the mother and daughter removed to Pittsburgh.

Miss Hummel attended the public schools of Northumberland, Susquehanna University, Syracuse School of Dramatic Art and was a graduate of the King's School of Oratory, Pittsburgh. For a number of years she taught dramatic art but was at the time of her death employed as a clerk in a Los Angeles bank.

Death

Word was received here of the death of James K. Davis, of Los Angeles, California, a native of Selinsgrove. Mr. Davis died at his California home Thursday of last week following a long illness. However, at the time of his death he was sitting in his chair talking to his wife.

Mr. Davis attended the local public schools, Susquehanna University, State College, and Swarthmore College.

Church Progressing

The Reverend James H. Goss, '21, '24, '25, is pastor of St. Peter's Lutheran Church in York, Pa. On Sunday, Oct. 18, the Sunday school of this congregation held their Annual Sunday School Rally Day service, which was opened with a half-hour orchestra concert by a 21-piece orchestra under the direction of Rev. Goss. The attendance at the Rally Day service was 884, and the offering for the day was $3,680.66. Since Rev. Goss has been the pastor of this congregation they erected one of the most modern Sunday School and Church buildings in the city at a cost of $103,000.

Anniversary of Church

The First Lutheran Church of Milford is celebrating the 125th anniversary of the erection of its first church building and the 25th anniversary of the pastorate of Rev. W. M. Rearick, D.D., '94, '97, '19. Dr. Rearick is secretary of the Susquehanna Synod and president of the board of directors of Susquehanna University.

At a Fellowship service the chief address was made by the Rev. John Wagner, D.D., of Haddeton, the president of the Synod.

The Milford church is one of the stronger and influential congregations of the Synod.

Marriage

Prof. Harry I. Frymire, '19, '20, and Miss Anna M. Slear, both of Shamokin Dam, were married in St. Matthew's Lutheran Church at that place by the pastor, the Rev. Russel J. Crouse, '28, '31.

Prof. Frymire is principal of the schools of Shamokin Dam. He is widely known throughout this section and is prominent in the Masonic fraternity.

DR. THOMPSON, GRADUATE OF S. U., DIES IN WEST

Dr. Henry Merrill Thompson, native of Selinsgrove, and graduate of Susquehanna University in the class of 1903, died at his home in San Francisco, Calif., October 19 at the age of fifty-two years. He was not only among the leading eye specialists of that California city, but of the entire Southwest. The Thompson brothers, Doctors Henry and William, are recognized as specialists in eye, nose, and throat, from Pueblo, Colorado, to San Francisco, maintaining professional offices in both cities.

Dr. Thompson was the son of the late John C. and Anna Willard Thompson and was born on the Isle of Que, November 7, 1879. He attended the grade schools of Selinsgrove and later worked his way thru the Philadelphia School of Pharmacy. After graduating from Susquehanna he worked his way thru Jefferson Medical College, receiving his degree in 1908.

He later became head surgeon of St. Mary's Hospital at Pueblo, Colo., afterwards taking post-graduate work in the leading hospitals of this nation, Austria, and England, specializing in ailments of the eye, ear, nose and throat.

Surviving the deceased man are his widow, Mary Cordelia Schure Thompson; his son, Cochran Thompson; his step-mother, Mrs. Clara Thompson, of Selinsgrove, and his half-sister and brother, Mrs. Mary T. Penny, of Selinsgrove, and Dr. William Thompson, of Pueblo, Colorado.

Doctor Thompson was a self-made man, who in spite of the handicap of a delicate constitution always reached his goal, which was ever for the betterment not only of himself, but of all with whom he came in contact.

Dr. Claude Buss, S. U. Grad, Is Promoted

According to press dispatches from Washington, D. C., Dr. Claude A. Buss, who received his master of arts degree from Susquehanna in 1924 and has been in China for more than two years past, as vice consul for the United States, received a promotion effective November 1, and is no longer located in Peking.

Six weeks ago with the Chinese Nationalists bitterly assailing Japanese officials for alleged acts of imperialism and with reports of Americans slain in Manchuria, the Sunbury man was in the midst of the international strife and his parents were anxious concerning his safety, since they had received no word from him for over a month. A week later his parents received a reassuring letter.

Dr. Buss has been studying for the examinations which he passed successfully, thereby winning his promotion. He has been in the Orient two years and three months, and has spent most of his time in Peking. It is believed he is now at Tsikhar, in Manchuria, where the Chinese and Japanese are having trouble at the present time.

Washington to be Last Home Game

Susquehanna will engage in its last home football game of the season this Saturday afternoon when it meets Washington College. As has been the custom, the final game is also part of the Founders' Day program.

The record of Washington so far this season has been impressive, so that if statistics of previous games this season mean anything the Orange and Maroon will be favored to win.

However, things are not quite as rosy as they might seem. Susquehanna just played its hardest game of the season last Saturday with Juniata and it is hard to tell just how much this will lower the chances of the Crusaders.

The Orange and Maroon was without the services of Captain Adams last week and will probably be without them again this Saturday. This in itself will be a very serious setback, as Adams' service at taking out the opposing interference this season has been invaluable. Very few end runs around his side of the line have been made this year.

The lineup that the Crusaders have used this season has been constantly changing, so that it would be hard to name a tentative lineup for the Washington game. Coach Ullery has finally selected a satisfactory backfield, but he is still dissatisfied with his line.

FORMER FACULTY MEMBER INSTALLED AT NANTICOKE

On Wednesday evening of last week Reverend H. A. P. Kern, D.D., former Professor of German at Susquehanna University, and recently appointed pastor of St. John's German-English Lutheran Church at Nanticoke, was installed to that charge with elaborate services in the church auditorium with Reverend August Fischer, of Scranton, officiating. Immediately following the installation a reception was held for Reverend Kern and his family in the Sunday school parlors, at which more than three hundred persons were present. An entertaining program, arranged by the installation and reception committee, was given at this reception.

WOMEN'S AUXILIARY PLANS BENEFIT MOVIE

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of Susquehanna University was held in Seibert Hall, Saturday, November 7. The program, in charge of Mrs. E. E. Sheldon, consisted of the following numbers: Piano solo, Miss Elizabeth Moyer; vocal solo, Professor F. C. Stevens; piano solo, Miss Esther Thurston, and a piano-organ number, Miss Frances Stambaugh and Professor P. M. Linebaugh.

It was decided during the business session that a benefit movie would be held in December. The tickets will be ready for sale at the next meeting of the Auxiliary, December 5.

Miss Ruth Herman, vice president, was in charge of the meeting.

VISITING LECTURER

Mr. Beaumont Bruestle of the University of Pennsylvania, delivered an informal lecture to students of Miss Hade's class in the drama, last Saturday morning, on the subject of four significant American dramatists: Rachel Crothers, Eugene O'Neill, Philip Barry, and Lynn Riggs.

CORRECTION

Last week in The Susquehanna there appeared an article stating that Selon Dockey led the list of fraternity men in the number of quality points earned by any one man. We are sorry to state that the statement was an incorrect one, but was based upon the report that was received from the office.

In an examination of its records the office found that Lee Meyer Fairchild has the highest number of quality points for last semester's work, or a total of fifty-one quality points. This makes Selon Dockey the holder of second honors. Andrew Kosak and William Rover tied for third, Lewis Fox fourth highest, and Arthur Wilmarth fifth highest.

AMUSEMENTS

Monday, November 9, Nancy Carroll in Paramount's presentation of "Personal Maid."

Tuesday, November 10, Pathe will feature Helen Twelvethrees in "A Woman of Experience."

Wednesday, November 11, Jack Holt will take the leading role in "Fifty Fathoms Deep."

Thursday, November 12, Wheeler and Woolsey in R. K. O.'s "Caught Plastered."

Friday, November 13, Warner Brothers will star Barbara Stanwyck in the production, "Night Nurse."

Saturday, November 14, Bill Boyd will take the leading role in Pathe's talkie, "Big Gamble."

Miss Allison Arrives in French Capital

According to a cablegram received by Dr. and Mrs. Herbert A. Allison, Miss Evelyn Allison, who will spend some time studying abroad, landed at Havre, France, on Monday, Nov. 2. After a four hours' train ride she arrived in Paris.

The voyage was uneventful, according to the brief message. Miss Allison is a graduate of the class of '20.

Recent Graduate Married

Announcement was made by Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Whiteley, of Selinsgrove, of the marriage of their daughter, Miss Anice Whiteley, to Anthony L. Lupas, student in a law school of Washington, D. C. The wedding occurred two weeks ago, in a Lutheran Church at Washington. The couple will live in Washington until Mr. Lupas' graduation in his law course, which he expects to complete in June, 1932.

The bride was graduated from the local high school in the class of 1929. Mr. Lupas is from Plains and was graduated from Susquehanna in 1931 and immediately entered upon the study of law.

Fine Rally Day Record

Rally Day in St. Matthew's Lutheran Sunday school at Shamokin Dam was a thing of history in the church records. The services were attended by 190 persons and a splendid offering of $490.46 was received.

The young pastor, the Reverend Russell J. Crouse, a recent graduate of Susquehanna's collegiate department and the theological seminary, is most successful in his parish.

The Reverend Dr. Franklin P. Manhart, former teacher of the pastor, former pastor of the church and dean of the Theological Seminary, was one of the main speakers. Dr. Manhart was a graduate of Missionary Institute in the class of '75.

Automobile Damaged

The Ford sedan of Mrs. Leon Moyer, of Middletown, was badly damaged on the Susquehanna Trail, north of Liverpool, when it was sideswiped by a and Maroon made its two points in the last period of the game. He gave the crowd some real thrills when he took the ball down the field to the 5-yard line with large gains off tackle. Here Susquehanna tried to go through the center of the Juniata line for the touchdown, but were held for downs. Given, in attempting to punt out of danger was forced to step over the safety zone line and Susquehanna was given the two points for a safety.

Another feature of the game was the fine punting of Martinec. His exhibition against the well punning of Hartly was fine.

Muriel Camerer, who is the typical society matron who thinks that there is only one way to live and she is living that way.

The maids are played by Ruth Plummer, Ruth Bergstresser and Virginia Andrews.

Men in the Play

Luke Rhoads, who has been the hero of so many E. U. plays, again takes the lead. He is an outsider who falls in love with a wealthy society woman, but refuses to conform to her mode of living. He makes his choice between this woman and a dull life in an office and a chance to live his life and enjoy himself while he is young.

Big Business is represented by Merle Hubbard, who also played the part of the father in "Miss Lulu Bett." The rich man's son is played by Jack Petty, who has not taken part in a play on the campus before, although he was outstanding in the Glee Club and participated in Dramatics in Salisbury.

Lee Fairchild and Andrew Kozak are a contrast. Lee is the carefree young man who is enjoying life while "Andy" is the business and society man.

Miss Reeder Directs

Miss Reeder, who scored big market success with her first play, "Miss Lulu Bett," last year, is coaching this play. Her courses at Columbia this past summer included some work in dramatics and she has brought the newest ideas back to the campus. Under her supervision a finished play will be presented Thursday evening.

The misfortune Miss Reeder suffered a little more than a week ago has not prevented her from attending rehearsals and she is going on with the work. It is also a pleasure to state that her foot is mending very well and the doctor's last report was favorable.

Susquehanna Renders Unique Service

If Susquehanna's scope of activities was limited to the regular academic year her contribution in education would indeed be outstanding. However, today various groups are afforded opportunities for educational and cultural advancement during the year.

For twenty-five years Susquehanna has enabled teachers in active service to engage in study in the Summer Session. In fact Susquehanna was a pioneer in this field. Later when the call was issued for extension programs to enable teachers to study during the winter months while engaged in active teaching, Susquehanna again responded and for a number of years has conducted a well organized program of extension work.

Interesting has been the establishment of Camp Susquehanna. The camp for boys is now planning its program for the 1932 season which will again be conducted on Susquehanna's campus.

Sponsored by men of the Lutheran Church in central Pennsylvania and directed by alert and capable leaders, Camp Susquehanna has come to occupy a prominent place in the lives of many boys. Approximately one hundred campers are in attendance each year. The annual camping season extends from Commencement to the opening of the Summer Session.

With the close of the Summer Session, the preliminary work coincident with the opening of the annual United Lutheran Summer Assembly is started. Each year several hundred persons, members of Lutheran churches throughout central Pennsylvania, gather on Susquehanna's campus for two weeks period to enjoy the fellowship, inspiration and recreation afforded them by these Assembly programs.

Unique and in fact far reaching is the contribution Susquehanna is making each year in the lives of the hundreds of individuals who enjoy the opportunities she presents to them not only during the academic year, but thru the Summer session, Camp Susquehanna and the United Lutheran Summer Assembly.

To establish a seat of learning to aid a peculiar and somewhat limited group of persons, was the impelling motive that prompted Benjamin Kurtz to found Missionary Institute in 1858. Seventy-four years after—in 1931 Susquehanna graduates in all parts of the world, former campers at Camp Susquehanna, men and women whose lives have been enriched by attendance at the Summer Assembly pay fitting tribute to Benjamin Kurtz, preacher, author, scholar and leader—the founder of Susquehanna University.

has made the Red Cross what it is, there is no doubt as to the future.

"I do not look for any great, new, dramatic development in the program of the Red Cross. I don't think it needs it. The superb readiness which has developed during these last ten years in the face of emergent catastrophe, the readiness to act, and not only the readiness to act but the ability to act effectively—no one can doubt that in the face of national peril, should it arise, the Red Cross would be again the expression of a patriotic spirit which has the finest thing that was aroused by the trial through which we passed in 1917."

Inasmuch as the Red Cross is asking a larger enrollment of members for the coming year, it is relevant also to give a brief picture of the organization of the present. The most striking feature, perhaps, is the fact that it is responsible for both emergency service and a program of year-round useful activities, both of which functions must continue without interruption.

It is, for example, now conducting drought relief in certain northwestern states, where, except for the magnitude of the general situation, its operations would rank as a major effort of its career. The northwest drought project is only dwarfed by the fact that the Red Cross is just emerging from a year in which, besides giving drought relief in 23 states, it extended disaster aid in 52 calamities scattered through 38 states.

While carrying this burden of drought relief, the Red Cross continued to maintain such normal services as the country required of both national and local organizations. In the normal program of the Red Cross work, there are many points at which it has developed a mutually valuable association with the educational world and those in it, students and faculties.

Through its Junior Red Cross organization, numbering more than 7,000,000 members in lower school ages, it works in harmony with teachers and pupils. Certain of its instruction courses are standard and given credit in a number of educational institutions, both intermediate and university rank; in other cases these phases of Red Cross activity have made a part of the program more informally.

Then there is the international side of the Red Cross movement which must, both at present and in the future, hold interest for all Americans. At the close of the World War, in the course of peace-time adjustment, there was created the League of Red Cross societies, through American leadership, and a sponsorship which has continued in the post-war years. Through the League there has developed a growing international relationship in the Red Cross field.

Thus, today, the Red Cross in rounding its first fifty years, is putting into practical effect that spirit of helpfulness at home and abroad in which it had its inception.

INTERCOLLEGIATE NEWSPAPER ASSN. CONVENTION AT DICKINSON

practical and theoretical divisions of newspaper work closer and closer together. This editor is one of outstanding importance and the member papers represented all feel themselves indebted to this supporter of the college journalist.

Delegates from our own campus were Andrew Kozak and Penn Divilly, both of the Editorial Staff. The newest addition to the membership of the Association was the "Pitt Weekly" of the University of Pittsburgh, which is very valuable to the Association. Large school papers such as the "Weekly" bring up and hold up the standards of the Association.

The first session of the convention was held in Old West in charge of President Counsellor. The address of welcome was extended to the convention by a very attractive feminine journalist, Miss Esther F. Chambers, editor of "The Dickinsonian." Mr. Morton B. Rutsky, representative of the Collegiate Special Advertising Agency, addressed the delegates on advertising in collegiate journals. The theme of his discussion was "What Can We Do to Make Our Journals More Valuable to the Advertisers?" His speech contained many interesting and extremely important gleanings for the papers. Business sessions took up the remainder of the afternoon period. Evening sessions were also wholly of a business nature except for a very intriguing address by John R. Hood, Director of the Bureau of Publication, of Pennsylvania, who gave to us much of the value of a political writer both through experience and through training. Six papers were given by different members of college staffs on the multiplicity of problems which have arisen since the last session of the convention in New York. Finally the last business session was held at 9 o'clock Saturday morning, under the supervision of President Counsellor, where many introspective as well as objective problems were discussed. Mr. Kozak was a member of the committee deciding on a standardization of member papers.

Entertainment was not only prolific but also of an extremely high nature. Accommodations for the delegates were made at the Molly Pitcher Hotel in the city. A Friday afternoon swim at the new Dickinson gymnasium was open to all men representatives. Sigma Chi Fraternity held a smoker for the entire convention following the evening session and gave the delegates their first chance to become better acquainted. Saturday afternoon everyone saw the Dickinson football team hold a strong Gettysburg opponent to a 0-0 tie; a great game, and a cold day.

All representatives expressed themselves as having found this week-end convention, over Dickinson's Homecoming Day, the most valuable and most entertaining one yet held.

O. D. S. Play Scores Real "Holiday" Hit

Miss Reeder Directs Barry's Drama;
Edna Williamson Tops Excellent
Cast; Petry, Rhoads Effective

Holidays may come and go, but one that should remain long in the storehouse of Susquehanna's memories was produced in the form of Philip Barry's three-act comedy by that name on Thursday evening last, by the Omega Delta Sigma Sorority at Seibert Hall. Excellently handled in every respect, "Holiday" may well hold a prominent position on the ever growing list of successful dramatic productions by campus organizations.

Modern and democratic throughout, "Holiday" tumbles the Great God Money from the lofty pedestal upon which it has been placed by the average American, and ridicules the traditional conventions upheld by the scions of wealth and so-called social standing.

A well-directed cast, highly entertaining and competent, sought in vain to keep pace with the brilliant performance of Miss Edna Williamson, in the role of Linda Seton. This spirited young lady dominated nearly every scene in which she appeared, and completely captured the hearts of her audience with her rendition of the rebellious daughter, a part which naturally commanded sympathy and interest, but was particularly enhanced by her interpretation.

Opposite Miss Williamson, in the male lead, Luke Rhoads performed splendidly in what was probably the (Concluded on Page 4)

E-town to be Host to Y. M. Conference

Dec. 4, 5, 6, Outstanding Speakers Will Be Heard at the Student-Faculty
Conference. Delegates from "Y"

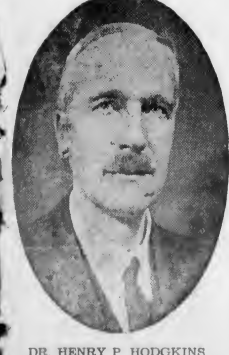

The annual Y. M. C. A. student-faculty conference will be held this year at Elizabethtown College, Elizabethtown, December 4, 5, and 6th. Arrangements are being made to make the conference the best that has yet been held in this area of the State.

Several outstanding speakers have been secured to address the conference. Dr. Peter K. Emmons of Scranton, Presbyterian pastor of the largest church in that city, will open the conference. Dr. Emmons is well received by college audiences because of his clear and forceful delivery and his keen sense of humor. The program committee has also secured the services of Dr. Henry T. Hodgkins, the noted Quaker leader whose books have had a great circulation. Dr. Hodgkins now head of the Willingford Center. Mr. Jesse R. Wilson, general secretary of the Student Volunteer Movement will speak at the conference on Saturday evening.

The Y. M. C. A. feels that there is a great need for deepening the spiritual powers of its members and of the student bodies of our State. It is to meet this need among the officers and the members as well as the student body that the conference is being held.

In addition to the addresses provision has been made to discuss the practical implication of religion for every day life on the campus. To this end additional leaders will attend the conference, including leading educators and "Pop" C. S. Klehner, well known in athletic circles.

It is expected that the conference will be well attended. To enable more delegates to attend, every effort has been made to cut the cost of the conference for the individual delegate. A prize will be given the organization sending the largest number of delegates to the (Concluded on Page 4)

"Dover Road" Will be Presented by K. D. P. Sorority in December

Kappa Delta Phi will present to the public A. A. Milne's three-act comedy "The Dover Road," on Friday, December 11, 1931.

This laugh-provoking play introduces to you the character of Mr. Latimer, a wealthy, eccentric Englishman, whose hobby it is to prevent eloping couples from making marriages based only on the flimsy of imagination, moonlight, and a false illusion of love. "The Road to Dover" is the main-traveled highway for London elopers like our own roads to Elkton and Gettysburg.

A. A. Milne has written a score of successful plays, including "The Truth About Blazes," "The Romantic Age," and "Mr. Pim Passes By." "The Dover Road" is one of his most entertaining and mirthful comedies of situation, which shows most amusingly the importance of the little details of polite living.

The cast of characters is as follows:
Dominic George Hoss
Latimer John Ballentine
Leonard Arthur Wilmarth
Anne Ruth Nelson
Eustacia Mary Weaverling
Nicholas Robert Hartman
The play is being coached under the able direction of Dr. Arthur Herman Wilson.

DEBATE CLUB RAPIDLY ROUNDS INTO SHAPE

A debate on the question, "Resolved that the best interests of the United States demand that definite steps be taken looking to a decentralization of federal authority" was put on extemporaneously. The first speaker for the affirmative was Regis Keller; for the negative Joseph Maimon. The second affirmative was Freda Stevens, negative Samuel Brosius. The last speaker for the affirmative was Edwin Clapper; negative William Morrow. The judges were Eleanor Brown, Hazel Nangle, and Ruth Bergstresser. The main speeches were seven minutes long, while the rebuttals were three, with the exception of the last speakers who were given five minutes. The former order was maintained. The negative side won.

The University Library will be closed after eight o'clock Tuesday evening, November 17. This exception is on account of the Star Course Lecture by Dr. Will Durant.

Sorority Dances to Be In Gym Saturday

Johnny Diehl and Orchestra from Carlisle to Supply Music for Inter-Sorority Dance

Not to be outdone by the fraternities in their Inter-Fraternity Ball some time ago, the girls have planned to hold their Inter-Sorority Dance this coming Saturday. Because of the lack of space at any of the fraternity houses, the Alumni Gymnasium will be used for the dance.

The girls have succeeded in getting "Johnny Diehl and His Orchestra" from Carlisle, Pennsylvania, to furnish the music. According to word received from the Council the dance will be informal.

Everybody has been looking forward to the Inter-Sorority Dance since the Fraternity Ball because the Ball was such a success this year and, if you remember, the girls were the very best of hostesses last year in their dance. The girls seem to add that extra something to their affairs that the men in their different nations seem to lack. Maybe it is because the women have intuition and tact. We will call it that at any rate.

Chaperons for this dance will be Professor and Mrs. F. C. Stevens, Professor and Mrs. W. D. Hemphill, Dr. A. H. Wilson, Miss Bickerstaff, Miss Swettman, Dr. and Mrs. Seidel, Mr. and Mrs. Reltz, Dr. Williams, and Mrs. Williams. As is the custom at all dances on the campus the opening number will be played at 8 o'clock and the final number closes the dancing at the hour of midnight.

NOTICE

All individual pictures and proofs for the Lantern must be returned by the end of this week. A representative from the Zamsky Studio will be at Seibert Hall on Thursday, November 19, until Saturday, to take orders for those who wish to purchase pictures for private use. It is important that all pictures and proofs be returned at this time, as they are the property of the Zamsky Studio. Any person not returning proofs will not have his picture in the Lantern, and those pictures not returned must be paid for.

Group pictures are in the hands of the various heads or officers of the different organizations for observation. It is desirable that these be returned by Thursday evening.

S. U. Celebrates Founders' Day

Dr. H. D. Hoover, ex-President of Susquehanna, Delivers Memorial Address. Mixed Chorus Sings

Founders' Day was brought to a culmination by an appropriate program rendered in the Seibert Hall Chapel Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. The program consisted of musical features presented by the Mixed Chorus of the University and a splendid address by one of our alumni, and ex-president, Dr. H. D. Hoover.

The selections sung by the Mixed Chorus were Gounod's "Sanctus," a very beautiful, classical bit of harmony, and "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring," by Bach.

Dr. Hoover, at present a member of the faculty at Gettysburg Seminary, presented a memorial address to the founders of this institution. He took us back to the period when the conception was first made and brought us up through the period when the founders decided on a trip to Germany for some more or less classical literature valuable to the Missionary Institute at that time. Then he pictures the life in the Missionary Institute at the time of his student days here and contrasted them with the time he returned as a faculty member and again with the period that he was president of the University. His final point was a contrast between the Greek and Gothic architecture found in a certain period of life. He gave a contrast of how we at Susquehanna can compare the college with such principles as this architecture involves.

Susquehanna's Past and Present Review

First Edition of "Susquehanna" 1891, "Lantern" Follows in 1896. Football Oldest Sport on Campus.

The trend of thought of this week's edition makes it only natural that we should spend some time on the founding of those things which are dear to every loyal son and daughter of S. U. Many organizations on our campus have indeed an historic background and a few of the date back to the period of the Missionary Institute, which was the progenitor of the present University.

The University was founded in 1858 under the name of the Missionary Institute. Selinsgrove Hall, the first building was dedicated during this year, through the beneficence of the people of the town of Selinsgrove. The next building enterprise was Gustavus Adolphus Hall, which was built in 1894. In '97 the Laboratory found its place on the campus for the use of the students. Seibert Memorial Hall was dedicated to the use of the girl students in 1902 with due ceremonies befitting the use of the co-eds. The Alumni Gymnasium was the next addition to the rapidly growing campus and 1903 this building was dedicated to the students for the improvement of their health and sport.

The Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. both have been part of the students' religious life in the early years, for in 1886 the boys founded their "Y" and, following their endeavors, the girls began their work in 1902.

In the field of sports football seems to be the first sport of the student, for in October, 1892, the first intercollegiate football match was held by Susquehanna men. Baseball was the second sport and was inaugurated in 1898. Athletics waned until 1901 when Track brought back a little of the sports feeling. Basketball followed up in 1902 and from then on until the World War athletics prospered at S. U.

The editorial field was not slighted. In 1891 the first "Susquehanna" appeared, and five years later we had the first "Lantern," proving the endeavors of the students at the University.

It may be of interest to some of the Alumni to review a list of the Editors-in-Chief during a period of the Susquehanna endeavor.

S. A. I. to Present Roxy Male Quartet

Quartet Gave Seventy-Five Concerts Through Twenty-Four States. Members Famous Soloists

One of the most exciting musical events of the season will be the concert to be given by the Roxy Male Quartet at Seibert Hall, Friday, Nov. 20 at 8:15 p. m. This is one of a series of concerts arranged through the cooperation of Sigma Alpha Iota Sorority, and the National Music League, a non-profit-making organization of which Mrs. O. T. H. Kahn is president.

Since the opening of the Roxy Theatre in New York City several years ago, this has been the official quartet of the "Gang." Before this they were known as the Crittenden Male Quartet, and founded by Reinald Werrenrath, and achieved fame for their concert tours throughout the country as well as for their unusually popular phonograph records.

ROXY MALE QUARTET

Early in 1931, this Quartet was with the Roxy "Gang" for the national tour of that organization, giving seventy-five concerts in twenty-four States, and scored a great personal success. Ernest Schumann-Heink, who was who a member of the "Gang" for this tour, wrote to the members of the Roxy Male Quartet shortly after her return: "Your Quartet is the best I have ever heard. Each member is a perfect artist and has a wonderful voice. Your Quartet would be my choice as assisting artists for my programs."

The members of the Quartet are John Young and Richard Miller, tenors; Norman Wiley, baritone, and Frederic Thomas, basso. Each is a native American and has received all his musical education in this country. Besides their work with the Quartet all have had notable appearances as soloists in oratorio and other important music productions under distinguished conductors.

For years this Quartet has been on outstanding concert courses, and is particularly well known for its special programs for colleges and other important educational institutions, including the series arranged each year by the universities of Kansas.

The accompanist of the Roxy Male Quartet is Miriam Deering Lloyd, a graduate of Syracuse University, who will play several piano solos.

PHI KAPPA

On Friday evening last the Phi Kappa Philhellenic Society met in Room 205 G. A. to begin their work for the coming year. The club was entertained by several very detailed reports on Greek life and literature, which is the main purpose of the club. A short business session was held to begin the new year in the proper order. A few changes are under consideration for the constitution.

WILL CAPONE REIGN?

The French reign of terror did not cause as much unfavorable comment and criticism as this gang freedom and prolixity that the country at large is suffering from. Wholesale murder, cheap liquor, and drugs all have flooded the country because of this terrorism. Al Capone is the medium of parance this world over so his name shall become the object of this discussion.

A recent observation of college students showed startling facts. Only one out of every one hundred college students picked at random from our larger universities showed sufficient interest in the economic relation of the unbecoming situation to give it any thought whatsoever. Very few of the students tested could give at any length a plan that would relate the causes with the results that are hampering our law-abiding influences today.

From this it seems apparent that our college students are becoming "Jazz Fanalized"—rather discouraging, isn't it? But as long as we of the university class fail to see the need of studying this barbarism, how can we expect the uneducated class of people that never had scholastic opportunities to keep the legal and enforcement program of the country moving in perfect order? Surely no one with any economic background of any sort would swallow the Laissez Faire theory "hook, line and sinker," without contemplating the result. Imagine allowing this condition of gang rule to govern our country for the next generation without putting our hand in the dough. The Fairchild theorem calls for inactivity and that is what the college group of today seems to plan for its civilization.

Some less educated people say, "Let wholesale slaughter continue between gangs—they are only killing their own kind." Experiences of the last several months point to some very different observations. The bandit barbarian is no longer satisfied with killing his degraded opponent, and the innocent onlooker but he must become an infant murderer. Along the street the bandit runs amuck in the fastest machines that the United States automotive industry can produce. He slaughters our citizens, our children and our police force with the best firearms that the scientists and manufacturers can place on the market. He bribes our officials and lulls our civilization into a false sense of patriotism by gifts to charitable institutions for aged, broken down beer barons, drug addicts, hoarse jazz crooners, and dilapidated saxophone fiends. Yet the student cause fails to look about the country sufficiently, drawn up in its narrow edifice of education, to see the havoc rendered to its own cause. We are in college not to learn to live, earn a living and denounce grammatical errors, but we are living, we are a part of this mechanism that was founded in freedom and peace by these heroic founders who gave everything to surround their cause with justification for the coming generations.

A person or organization that harbors a criminal is guilty of a crime against civilization. Nominally we are not classed as criminals, but we protect the principle by our indifferent attitude; and by our narrowminded, self-sufficient qualities.

Counting fingers against college credits has become the favorite indoor sport of the self-centered college man and woman, and while we compare notes of fallen countries the barbaric criminal gives us a giant leap and thumbs his nose at the coming generation. We shall know the political institutions of Rome, the literary efforts of Greece, the statistics of Wall Street, but the bomb on our very doorstep escapes our upturned eyes. Look down and around, view the havoc of black listed Rome, think of the fallen Caesar and his cohorts and their think of America, Pennsylvania, Snyder County, and your home community. Negligence, omission, and egotism based on personal independence once caused this country to be thrust into a civil strife and today we are allowing the wholesale slaughter of civilians by a group of vandals who make their parasitical living by sucking and drawing the very life blood from our independence as a nation. Are we becoming soft?

"RICE"

Are we sufficiently glib to accept the new conditions arising over the Manchurian problem without any discussion or thought? Lack of thought was the prime reason for the World War. Give consideration to the fact that the Chinese-Japanese argument is over a little piece of land, as small in size as a large state in the United States. Arms have been gotten from unknown sources for invalid promises. The United States is still paying the European war debt because she gave munitions, arms, and food to the fighting countries in the early part of the past war period. A certain way of prohibiting this argument from becoming a world problem is the refusal of monetary, food, and munition aid by the non-interested parties. Any country that tries to get a favorable balance of trade by sending material aid to these warring parties is guilty of prolonging the conflict and endangering the future of the non-warring peoples. Trading seems to be the "bone of contention" between the two countries and a policy of "dumping" (that is to allow foreign-made goods to be placed on the market below cost of production) forced by American or English interests should not be allowed during the period of struggle. We should at the present time not be worried over the outcome of the misunderstanding, because the peoples of the world have had sufficient strife to realize what disastrous effects a war would have during this period of "high-pressure inventing."

Naturally the precedence set by any international problem calls for a great deal of propaganda, and the newspaper readers of the world demand it. We, of the reading public, are reading a great deal of hypocrisy because we are of the sought-for peace. The Manchurian problem does not need war as a mode of settlement; what it needs is a democratic and philosophical, as well as a diplomatic organization.

A Sure Sign

"So you think the man next door is a magazine writer?" inquired Mr. Pert. "Yes," replied Mrs. Pert confidently. "The mailman stops there with large envelopes every day."

Business Note

A storekeeper, puzzled just how to dispose of several secondhand suits, hit upon the idea of displaying them in the window with this placard: "Very Much Worn."

S. U. PEPYS

Please, gentle reader, pronounce the caption of this column as "Sue Pepys" not as in Pepesdott. Sadly lacking in significance 'tho' it may be, we really mean well. Of course, those who have not been exposed to the literature may not be acquainted with Samuel Pepys, the old gossip connoisseur, but we intended Sue (contracted to Su for obvious reasons) to be a sort of Susquehanna counterpart to the old rascal, and by pronouncing it as "peeps" (not as in dyspeptic, although you may feel that way when reading it) to connote a snooting quality. Ah, well! The best laid plans of men and mice . . .

And while we're on the subject, we might remark that R. V. Nertz is Sue's ghost writer, social secretary, or what have you, and if you can't figure that one out, it's either time you stopped reading this stuff, or that this inane scribbler turned on the gas instead of the hot air.

Are we insulted! A Philadelphia paper remarked that Washington College had not won a game yet this year, and then predicted a victory over Susquehanna! Besides, we did win one game.

Honest Johnny Schoffstall offers this as the best on himself yet: "It was the last quarter; the battle was fast and furious. Suddenly came a mixup in which (we fear) blows were struck. Two men came trotting off the field. The coach strided up and down, fuming, 'Judge Presler, how haven't any men left.' 'Schoffstall! Go in at guard!'"

Last week, this column predicted a mighty boom in corduroys in the near future. Unfortunately, for the prophet, we were neglected (or perhaps ignored) last week, but we still stick to our story. Yes, in browns, grays, tans, yellows, whites, and—perhaps even a la Hollis Muir, who is at present in a class by himself.

Many are the eccentricities and objects of interest to be found inside the walls of a stupid-looking dormitory. Here are a few from the sancta sanctorum of Hassinger:

Room 17—Shades of Eddie Bollinger: an alarm clock which, instead of shattering blinding sleep with a malicious clamor, brings the patron of Morpheus into consciousness to the soothing tune of "Auld Lang Syne." Very nice, if effective. Room 29: a supply of 6-penny spikes (1/4-inch to the non-craftsman minded) always on hand to prove to Freshmen that Frank Malasky can really bend them into a symmetrical U without the help of a sledge-hammer. Room 29: a device (not yet patented) for closing the window in the morning while in snug retreat beneath the covers. . . . And now, ahem . . . about Seibert Hall . . .

D. Edgar Hutchinson, co-inventor of the window-lowering device, also arranges entertainment programs for the boys in his spare time. By special permission, we here present excerpts from one of his programs:

FACULTY ROW

On Thursday evening Mrs. Bertha L. Rodgers took her church choir to Danville to hear Dr. Sykes, who is a good authority on church music.

Dr. Sykes has for twenty-eight years given his very best thought to artistic singing in the Lutheran Service. He conducts church choirs at Lancaster, Norristown and Philadelphia and teaches sacred music at the Reformed Theological Seminary at Lancaster. Mt. Pleasant College has honored him with a degree of Doctor of Music. His endeavor to elevate the standard of music, both organ and choir in the church. He possesses an academic degree of Fellow of American Guild of Organists.

In his lecture he brought out many interesting and important facts. He said that the choir should be the leaders. A choir master must consider the congregation. A choir should not be trained without this due consideration. Dr. Sykes approves very highly of unison singing. In his lecture he dealt a great deal with the phonetics of singing.

After concluding his lecture, Dr. Sykes played two organ compositions one of which was entitled "Adoration" and was composed by Dr. Sykes.

In a recent letter which he received from his Alma Mater, Dr. Franklin G. Williams has been honored by a request of the president to represent Middlebury College of Vermont at the reception of the new President of Bucknell University, which was given on Friday, November 13th.

On Friday Evening, Dr. Wilson was guest speaker following the dinner and meeting of the Rotare Club of Selingrove. Dr. Wilson said, "What the American Traveler Sees in Europe," was formed of selected impressions concerning European people, politics, and customs.

Miss Mary Nesbit, a member of the Conservatory faculty, recently entertained the Seniors of the Public School Music course at dinner and bridge. Those present were: Ray Minch, Anna Leinbach, Katherine Blumer, Beryl Weyman, Dorothy Puckey, Anna Dunkelberger, Margaret Markel and Isabelle Wagner.

We Love Our Teachers—

Do, We Do.

Till another issue comes out we will find some of our faculty members another year older, but we will not expose anything that should not become public property. We give to these faculty members our best wishes and many happy returns of the day.

November 2—Miss Thelma E. Armogast.

November 17—Bertha L. Rodgers.

November 23—Frederick C. Stevens.

November 24—John I. Woodruff.

We notice that two of these are from the conservatory and both of them are voice teachers, while the other two are from the business department and the philosophy department respectively.

Fraternity Row

Phi Mu Delta
 Randolph Harvey and Raymond Scott stopped in at the house during the week-end.

Friends and relatives who visited the Fraternity during the week-end were Mr. and Mrs. Herman Fenstermaker and son Theodore, Mr. S. P. Cox, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Gregory, Mr. Willis Gregory, Miss Sara Gregory, Mr. and Mrs. Burke Harvey, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fox and son Francis.

S. A. I. Notes

Sigma Alpha Iota is happy to report the improved condition of one of their members, Miss Margaret Ide. She expects to leave the hospital Sunday and return to our campus Thursday or Friday of this week.

Wednesday night, November 18, Sigma Alpha Iota will have the pleasure of adding to the list of their patronesses one who is new to our campus. Mrs. F. W. Seudder. It is evident that Mrs. Seudder is interested in the musical activities of the campus, as she is a member of the Choral Club and Combined Chorus.

THURSDAY EVENING

Y. W. C. A. MEETING

The Y. W. meeting in charge of Beatrice Gentzler was held in the social rooms at 10 o'clock Thursday evening. It was opened with a piano solo by Esther Thurston. "Beautiful Saviour" was sung by the members. Psalm 81:1-9 verses were read and prayer offered. "In the Hour of Trial" was also sung. Frances Stambaugh rendered a vocal solo, accompanied by Margaret Williams. The comparison of the two greatest oratorio composers, Heindel and Bach, was discussed by Arlene Kanyuk. Beryl Weyman sang a solo. The meeting closed with the song "Now the Day Is Over."

FRENCH CLUB

The Cercle Français held its monthly meeting last evening in the Social room of Seibert Hall. Some French songs were sung by the members, after which a short play was presented. The play was the first act of "Le Voyage de Monsieur Perrichon." The characters for the play were: Monsieur Perrichon, Jay Worthington; Madame Perrichon, Margaret Fink; Henrietta, Janet Leitze; Daniel, Earl Shobert; Armand, Harold Rowe; Marjorin, Marlin Bottlinger; Le Facteur, Edward Clapper; Le Controleur, Albert Meyer. The play was presented very capably.

The acting of Jay Worthington will be remembered as being very fitting for the role he played as the father of Janet Leitze. The play was coached by Miss Grove. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC RECEIVES A VICTROLA

The Conservatory of Music was treated to a surprise this week by the appearance of an electric victrola for music appreciation class demonstrations. We desire to publicly thank Professor John Kanyuk, Glen Lyon, Pa., for this gift.

PRE-THEOLOGICAL

Last Thursday evening the Pre-Theological Club held its first meeting of the year at the home of its sponsor, Dr. A. William Ahl. The meeting was used to renew the business of the club and arrange suitable preparations for the coming year. Mrs. Ahl furnished the members with a delightful lunch before they returned to their rooms for a few hours of study.

Seibert Hall Echoes

Speaking of the Juniata game, quite a number of Seibert's fair Co-eds were present.

It seems that Diane Lidasas was an inspiration for the head cheer leader.

Freda Stephens was right on hand with that "do or die" S. U. spirit.

Ask Amelia Krapf why the Clarinet section of the band was unusually good.

Corinda Sell, Edith Erdly, Katherine Boyer, Sara Hains and Twila Crebs, alumnae, were right there to help cheer for old S. U.

What is there about Emmy Orlando's room that attracts all the prowling creatures?

It must be great to be a Freshman and get all thrilled when he smiled at me in church and I smiled back.

Or a Sophomore whose dates are from 6 to 10:30.

CRUSADERS CRUSH WASHINGTON 25-0

Six Men Play Last Home Game at S. U.

Eight Freshmen Get Into Game and Show Promise for Coming Year. Meyers Out With Injury

Susquehanna's valiant Crusaders, exhibiting that fighting spirit for which they are noted, completely outplayed Washington College Saturday afternoon in the final home game of the season. Tearing down their opponent's defense and fighting every inch of the way, they piled up a total of twenty-five points, the highest score since the first game of the 1930 season.

Realizing that they faced opponents in their class and had to put up a superior showing in order to take the final home game of the season, the Crusaders fought with a resistance and strength which was superior to any previous game this season, through the help of six seniors, Captain Adams, Auchmuty, Spigelmyer, Sprout, Witkop and Rummel, who romped on the home field for the last time.

The strong running attack of the Orange and Maroon backs, featuring strong off-tackle and end runs, was responsible for Susquehanna's great showing. When the running attack was checked, the Crusaders opened up on their aerial attack with almost equal results.

During the final period, which was the only division in which the Crusaders failed to score, nearly every member of the squad saw service, a total of twenty-six men entering the fray.

Besides being an important day for the seniors, it was also one for the freshmen. Eight first-year men saw action for the first time in the starting lineup. Wasilewski, who played his second game at quarterback, was the big ground-gainer and was consistently aided by Martinec, Hanna and Sprout.

Acting Captain Jack Auchmuty and John Extrom put up the best battle for the Crusaders on the line. For Washington, Gamber stood out on the defense with Reinhold and Girailis starting on the offense.

Susquehanna registered the first touchdown in about the first five minutes of play, when Wasilewski, Sprout, and Hanna marched the ball into Washington territory. With the ball resting on Washington's 2-yard line, Hanna, with a fine burst of speed, drove the ball across the final line.

The second Susquehanna touchdown in the first period came after another drive by the Crusaders from their own 45-yard line. Wasilewski made 10 yards, and line backs by Sprout and Hanna put the ball on Washington's 35-yard line. Wasilewski made another five yards and Martinec placed the ball on the 5-yard line, where Wasilewski took the ball across on two plays.

The only time Washington came close to Susquehanna's goal was when large gains by Reinhold and Girailis pushed the ball deep into Susquehanna's territory, but the Orange and Maroon defense tightened and held on the one-foot line. Susquehanna immediately took the ball and Van Nuy made a 30-yard run, which was the longest sprint of the game. Consistent gains by Van Nuy and Martinec placed the ball into Washington territory and then a beautifully thrown pass by Wasilewski to Hanna placed the ball on the 10-yard line. Wasilewski made a short stab at the line and Van Nuy carried it for the line and on the next play, Hanna made the extra point on a line buck.

The final touchdown came early in the second half after Auchmuty recovered a fumbled punt on the off five 30-yard line. Wasilewski tore off five yards and on the next play Russ Sprout slice through a tackle for 25 yards, scoring the last touchdown of the game and his last score on University Field.

RISHEL

Rishel, a former Selingsrove High School football star, entered Susquehanna last fall and before the football season was half over he was playing in most of the games. This season he was put in as a regular backfield man from the beginning. Rishel is a fine ball carrier and his specialty is off tackle plays. He is a member of the Bond and Key fraternity.

GIRLS LETTERS AWARDED

The awarding of letters and numerals which were earned last year in girls' interclass sports was made this week by Miss Dorothy Reeder. This was delayed until the Athletic Association should pass on several amendments relative to the awarding of letters and numerals.

Those who received awards were: Letters; Crow, Lehman, Crebs, Cameron, Jones, Lidzas, Moody, Geisel, Andrews, Bergstresser, Frankenfield, Buckley, Maury, Sarver, Keim, Shue, Fink, Gessner, Leese, Sheriff, Savidge, Nichols; Numerals; Krapi, Walborn, H. Crusaders Have Last Match With P. M. C.

The Susquehanna football eleven will embark for the Pennsylvania Military Academy, where it will play its final grid game of the season Saturday afternoon.

After its crushing defeat over Washington College Saturday afternoon on University Field the Orange and Maroon will go to the military school a stronger and more inspired eleven. The team will be strengthened by return of Captain Bill Adams and Rishel to the lineup, as both should be recovered sufficiently from their injuries by that time to start the contest.

The only major casualty will then be Myers, who will be out for the rest of the season. Summing up the performance of Myers this season show there is no one that can take his place, but Coach Ullery, however, has some backfield material that can give very creditable exhibitions as was demonstrated in the game last Saturday.

The Crusaders will need their strongest combination possible as P. M. C., who in the past has never shown any weakness on the gridiron, again comes forth with a powerful eleven this season. The scores it has made against some of the leading Pennsylvania football elevens this season is very significant.

The records of some past games between Susquehanna and P. M. C. are as follows:

1930—Susquehanna 35, P. M. C. 0.
1929—Susquehanna 6, P. M. C. 0.
1924—P. M. C. 31, Susquehanna 0.
1923—P. M. C. 7, Susquehanna 0.
1922—P. M. C. 20, Susquehanna 0.
1921—P. M. C. 12, Susquehanna 6.
1920—Susquehanna 26, P. M. C. 20.
1919—P. M. C. 12, Susquehanna 6.
1918—P. M. C. 24, Susquehanna 13.

Senior Girls Win From Pickup Team

Not content with the interclass championship the senior team challenged any pick up team on the campus to play a game of hockey. The game was played Friday afternoon. It was very fast, both teams being evenly matched. The seniors scored two goals in the second half, whereas the pick ups failed to score. The lineup was as follows:

Seniors	Pickup
Herold	R. W. Frankenfield
Williamson	R. L. Walborn (c)
Gessner	C. F. Jones
Sheriff	L. I. Moody
Fink	L. W. Messner
Leese	R. H. Diehl
Lehman	C. H. Geisel
Crebs (c)	L. H. Lidzas
Cameron	R. F. Pearl
Wilson	L. F. Ellmore
Miller	G. Crow

Referee—Luke Rhoads.
Goals—Sheriff, Leese.

George Kenney Wins Annual Class Run

Sophomore Runs Three and Half Mile Course in 20:12 To Beat Other Contenders. Very Good Race

In the exceptionally fine time of 20:12 George Kenney of the Sophomore class won the annual cross country run which took place last Saturday afternoon between the halves of the Washington-Susquehanna football game. Jay Worthington of the Junior class and Paul Bishop of the Senior class also ran good races and came in second and third respectively not many yards behind Kenney.

The time made by Kenney over the three and a half mile course was much better than was expected and compares closely to the record time made by Heim in 1929. Kenney averaged five and a half minutes to each mile, which is very good time when the distance and nature of the course is taken into consideration.

SPROUT

Sprout's services to the team are not of the spectacular kind, but his style of play is necessary and invaluable to any football team. It is Sprout who is a fine interference runner and a player who can be depended upon to carry the ball a few yards when a small gain is needed. Sprout can also boast of an educated toe. He is especially deadly at kicking extra points. Sprout hails from Picture Rocks, and is a member of the Epsilon Sigma Fraternity here.

Dr. Durant Speaker Here This Evening

Author, Teacher and Journalist, Combined Into One Man, A Headliner on Our Star Course

Students and faculty members of the University will be privileged to hear one of the most prominent writers, journalists, and lecturers ever to be presented on a Star Course ticket. This evening at 8:15 Dr. Will Durant will deliver an address of interest to every man on the campus and the co-eds will also be interested in many things that he may have to say.

Men and women who have studied under him in his course in Philosophy at Columbia University are very often more than willing to tell of his exhilarating personality and enthusiasm in scholarship. He makes his lectures so intelligible, so absorbing, and so related to human endeavor in solving the problems of everyday life that his address is one of mutual value to every person.

The students have been asking for something that they have not developed liking for and here is that rare privilege. A large number of the students should attend this number because it is so valuable to a liberal arts education. Remember, 8:15 this evening.

FACULTY MEMBERS ARE GUESTS AT BUCKNELL

Four members of Susquehanna's faculty were present at the inauguration of Dr. Homer Price Rainey, the sixth president of Bucknell University. Those present at the ceremonies were President and Mrs. G. Morris Smith, Dr. Franklin G. Williams, Dr. George Fisher and Dr. J. I. Woodruff.

The ceremony was a very impressive one with more than 111 universities and colleges from throughout the nation. Following the inauguration a luncheon was served for more than 300 persons at the women's dining hall. Addresses were made by Dr. James L. McConaughy, Dr. Everett C. Herrick, Dr. Milton G. Evans, and other of the faculty.

Tea was served in the dining room from four to six o'clock in the afternoon.

Friday evening a reception was tendered to Dr. Rainey at the same place. More than 300 persons gathered to formally greet him, as the sixth president of Bucknell University.

STUDENTS GIVE BLOOD TO SAVE MISS BARILLI

Maurice Shaffer, a member of the senior class, was the first to undergo a blood transfusion at the Geisinger Hospital on Friday, November 13th in an effort to save the life of Adeline Barilli, a former student of Susquehanna University, and a resident of Rolling Green.

Maurice Shaffer was one of the six students at the college whose blood has been tested and had been found to comply with the necessary requirements for transfusion. The other five students who may be called upon at any time are William Reger, Paul Zimmerman, Wesley Welland, John Shoemaker, and Hollis Muir. Fifteen students in all were willing to sacrifice their blood to aid Miss Barilli and made a trip to the hospital to undergo blood tests. They were Timothy Barnes, Joseph Malmoin, George Truckenmiller, Thomas Crellin, Frank Malasky, Robert Reeder, Albin Zimlik, Daniel McMullen and Joseph Kapic.

WHAT'S WRONG WITH FOOTBALL? ASK US

"What's Wrong With Football?" is the subject for a prize essay contest being conducted by the "Psychology Magazine" for undergraduates in American colleges and universities.

Many questions should be considered in the essay. Can the objectionable features of the game be eliminated and the glorious part retained? Does football tend to distract the students from their scholastic program? Must the sport be scrapped because of improper handling in many colleges? These are some of the many problems presented.

Prizes of $250, $100, and $50 are offered for the best solutions. The manuscripts must be five to ten pages in length and are to be postmarked not later than December 15. Inquiries are to be addressed to the Football Editor, "Psychology Magazine," 101 W. 34th St., New York City.

The judges are Dr. T. M. Putnam, dean of undergraduates, University of California; Heywood Brown, columnist, and Robert C. Zippke, coach at the University of Illinois.

MEN OF FACULTY TO BE GUESTS AT INFORMAL TEA

On Thursday afternoon, November 18th, from four to five o'clock the men of Susquehanna's faculty staff will be the guests at the Women's Faculty Club at the Belmont hotel to be given in "Room 100."

The Women's Williams will be the hostesses, assisted by Mrs. E. E. Sheldon, Mrs. W. B. Taylor, Mrs. Charles Lewis, Mrs. George Dunkelberger, and Mrs. Phil Overbo.

PITTSBURGH-SUSQUEHANNA BANQUET AT FORT PITT

On Friday evening, November 13, the Pittsburgh-Susquehanna Alumni Association met at the Fort Pitt Hotel, Pittsburgh, in their annual banquet, with thirty-eight members present. Mr. A. G. Gawinske of the class of 1908 was the chairman and Miss Helen R. Dehoff of the class of 1929, the secretary. A fine spirit of congeniality and goodwill prevailed during the banquet.

Robert Hostetter of the class of 1929 was the cheer leader and in consequence the meeting was continually enlivened by rousing cheers and rahi rahi rahi for Susquehanna.

Reverend Charles D. Russell proved again his great ability as a toastmaster and leader of the group. His remarks proved brimful of humor and his wit-ticisms kept the group in the finest spirit during the entire evening. Dr. Philip W. R. Mullen brought greetings from Gettysburg College. Reverend Henry H. Bagger brought greetings from Muhlenberg College, and Reverend G. E. Sawyer brought the greetings from Wittenberg College. Telegrams of goodwill to the Alumni from President Smith and Reverend Charles Teufel were read. Mr. S. Bruce Burkhardt spoke on the significance of the 25th anniversary of the Pittsburgh-Susquehanna Alumni Association. Short addresses were made by Mr. Andrew Rensko, Mr. H. A. Heintzelman, Dr. Glasgow, and by Robert Hostetter. The latter particularly emphasized the need of more extensive advertising for the small Liberal Arts College and of patterning after business concerns.

The guest speaker of the evening was Dean Dunkelberger of Susquehanna. He spoke at some length of the contributions, the function, and future of the small church-affiliated Liberal Arts College. He stressed in particular the place of Susquehanna in the civic, educational, and religious life of the people today, her policy for the future, and what Alumni are in a position to do to make the institution increasingly stable and efficient. In 1933 Susquehanna will celebrate her seventy-fifth anniversary, at which time her Alumni and friends will return to the campus for a period of general rejoicing over the achievements of their Alma Mater.

At the close of the banquet, Dean Dunkelberger was presented with a check as a contribution from the Pittsburgh Alumni to the University to aid in carrying on the work of the institution. It was particularly heartening to be made co-sponsor of the faith and confidence of these Pittsburgh Alumni through a unanimous vote to hand over to Susquehanna at her diamond jubilee a check at least three times the size of the one turned over at the banquet on Friday evening. The Pittsburgh Alumni are alive and wide-awake to the needs and interests of Susquehanna.

The officers chosen for next year are: President, A. G. Gawinske. Secretary, Mrs. George Cassler. Treasurer, Rev. Willard D. Albbeck. Reporter, Rev. Myron F. Cole. Cheer Leader, Robert Hostetter.

"FRESHMAN SUPERSTITIONS"

We do not believe that superstitions play a large part in college life and activities, but a recent investigation made of the male part of the Freshman class have given us some very interesting results and some viewpoint of the thinking motives of our new students. The next edition will bring to light varied interests, because we intend to check the superstitions of our Freshman co-eds. Beware, girls, don't throw any salt over your left shoulder or break more than one mirror.

The following list of superstitions were found to be held rather highly by a number of our Freshman boys:

1. "When you are with a girl and see a shooting star, make a wish and it will come true."
2. "If you forget something and go back for it always sit down in the room or it will cause bad luck."
3. If you dream of fire a near relative will die."
4. "If you get out of the wrong side of the bed you should crawl back in and get out of the other side if you want your endeavors to be successful that day."
5. "If two persons use the same towel at the same time it is a sign that those two people will quarrel."
6. "If one has rheumatism carry a horsechestnut around and the pain will disappear."
7. "If a baseball team is behind, you can insure victory by going to the line of bats and mixing them up."
8. "If one carries three stones in his hip pocket during a baseball game it will bring good luck."
9. "A pitcher will win the game if he places his glove in the same position on the bench each time he comes off the diamond."
10. "If a pitcher has a winning streak he should never wash his outfit."
11. "If you have freckles, be sure to go out on the first morning of May 'till as the sun is coming up and bathe your face in the dew. 'Till freckles will disappear."
12. "Never wash your dishes twice in one day, or they are the more you will catch."
13. "When butter is served at a meal and it stands on edge a letter will come for you in the next mail."

Do you believe that thirteen is an unlucky number? Be so sure and avoid several superstitions to this list and send them to the editor.

SOPHOMORE AND JUNIORS TO BATTLE FOR HONORS

Regardless of the fact that both the Sophomore and Junior Soccer teams have each lost one game, it is noticeable that the Sophomores have won the second half, because they won four games, while the Juniors won only three. This, however, deadlocks the two teams for the Soccer championship. The Juniors won the first half and the Sophomores won the second half by the favor of the schedule. The Junior Sophomore game will be played to decide the school championship this afternoon at three o'clock.

The standing of the teams for the second half:

Seniors	0	3

A word is due the Freshmen, because it was their defeat of the Junior team that gave the Sophs a chance to again play the Juniors for the School Championship. They held the Juniors the first half of the game to one goal and came back in the second half and made two points to their own credit to defeat this winning team. That is a real upset of the dope.

most difficult part in the cast, demanding a display of personality, attitudes of aggressiveness and respect in correct proportion, and a dramatic appeal, tempered however, with sincerity rather than hysteria.

The unsympathetic role of the proud Julia Seton was truthfully portrayed by Miss Mary Esther Potter, yet with sufficient charm to keep the audience in doubt as to the outcome until the denouement. Similarly, Merle Hubbard enacted the stern father, Edward Seton, who frowned on any procedure not sanctioned by the Seton code of convention.

Delightful comedy sketches were interspersed by the conflicts between the Potters and the Crams, subsidiary contestants in the struggle of freedom over social barriers. Particularly entertaining was the sketch in the attic play room, where the snooty Crams were properly squelched by the Potters and Linda Seton.

Probably the most artistic rendition, excepting only that of Miss Williamson, was, as is so often the case, that of a minor character, Ned Seton. Jack Petry, presented as a novice in campus productions, succeeded admirably in establishing that character as a lovable, whimsical, and good-natured counterpart of his sister Linda. Simple and unaffected at all times, Mr. Petry presented the most true to life characterization on the stage.

The production as a whole showed skillful and able direction. Cues were followed naturally, and also promptly on several occasions when rapid-fire dialogue rendered scenes very effective. The play was directed by Miss Dorothy Welsh Reeder. Similarly, Miss Betty Wardrop should be commended as stage manager, since the settings were important in lending the proper atmosphere, especially that of the play room.

The cast was as follows:

Edward Seton	Merle Hubbard
Julia Seton	Mary Esther Potter
Linda Seton	Edna Williamson
Ned Seton	Jack Petry
Johnny Cram	Luke Rhoads
Seton Cram	Andrew Kosak
Laura Cram	Muriel Cameron
Nick Potter	Lee Fairchild
Susan Potter	Janet Leitzell
Perkins	Ruth Plummer
Mary	Ruth Berkstresser
Delia	Virginia Andrews

E-Town Entertains 150 "Y" Delegates

Largest Attendance in Years at State Convention. Brilliant Addresses and Group Periods Helpful

S. U. WELL REPRESENTED

Elizabethtown College, Elizabethtown, Pennsylvania, was host to one hundred and fifty student and faculty members of the Y. M. C. A. in the Fifth Annual Y. M. C. A. Convention of Pennsylvania convening December 4, 5, and 6, 1931.

A very complete program filled the entire three days of devotion and recreation under the capable direction of the State Student Council, of which Lewis R. Fox, a student at Susquehanna, is president. Christ Reformed Church, Elizabethtown, was convention headquarters, and all of the meetings were held there.

Susquehanna Makes Fine Showing
Susquehanna was well represented at the meeting with a total of thirteen delegates. Dr. George Dunkelberger was chairman of a group on the Vital Religious Qualities of Prayer on Saturday morning, while Lewis Fox presided at the Conference banquet the same evening.

Lee Fairchild, president of the local "Y," was publicity manager for the convention and commendation is due him for the fine way in which he produced the most largely attended convention in years.

Paul R. Hoover, of Gettysburg Seminary, a graduate of our university, led different forums throughout the convention and was chairman for a group of students interested in Religious Education.

A Brilliant Array of Speakers
Students and faculty members were alike delighted with the fine category of religious addresses given during the week-end. Dr. Peter K. Emmons practically took the convention by storm with his daring and faculty men still talk about him in his wonderful address, "Can Jesus Be Made Real Today." Dr. Theodore Herman replaced Dr. Henry T. Hodgkin, in his conference address on account of an unfortunate occurrence which forced Dr. Hodgkin to be placed under medical care at John Hopkins. Dr. Herman is a faculty member at F. and M. Seminary.

Grid Team Wins Two Out of Seven Games

Few Veterans Give Coach Ullery Real Job in Developing Machine. Six Seniors Will Be Lost

A glance at the Susquehanna records for the past football season do not indicate that Susquehanna has had a successful year on the gridiron. However, the season has not in any way been a failure.

As far as the games were concerned, the Crusaders won two and lost five. The two that were won were by decisive scores, while of the five lost in only two of the contests were the Ullerymen downed by decisive scores. All the other games were lost by one or two touchdowns.

When practice started last September comparatively few veterans were back in the fold and Coach Ullery had a real job on his hands developing new material within a very limited time. In fact the team was not really in shape yet when the Delaware game was played. However, by the next Saturday Coach Ullery had his machine in order and an 18-0 victory was scored over Haverford.

Injuries soon followed and again Coach Ullery had to take up the task.

Y. W. C. A. Will Send Xmas Box to Japan

The Y. W. meeting was held in the social room at 10 o'clock on Thursday evening. Isabella Horn was the leader, and she spoke on "Christmas in Japan," and she also told about the relief work for which a box is being sent from Seibert Hall. The meeting was very interesting because of the delightful way in which Isabella recounted incidents with which she was so familiar. Something is always more enjoyable if it is explained from personal knowledge.

THESPIANS IN "THE DOVER ROAD"

Mary Weaverling again takes the lead in the annual production of sorority play. She is capably assisted by George Hess and Robert Hartman, who will play the parts of Dominic and Nicholas respectively in A. A. Milne's production "The Dover Road." Left to right: George Hess, Mary Weaverling, and Robert Hartman.

Association of M. A. Colleges Convenes

Dr. G. Morris Smith Represents S. U. at Meeting of Middle Atlantic Colleges November 27-28

President Smith spent November 27th and 28th in Atlantic City attending the meeting of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools at their 45th annual convention. This association is the regional body which accredits colleges, and it is interesting to know that Susquehanna enjoys the distinction of being on the list of approved colleges of that association.

At this meeting Dr. James N. Rule, Superintendent of Public Instruction of Pennsylvania, delivered an address. Other important speakers were Principal Lewis Perry, of Phillips Exeter Academy, Dean Herbert E. Hawks, of Columbia, Dr. John Lester, of the Hill School, and President David A. Robertson, of Goucher College, Baltimore.

Besides the general meeting, special meetings were held by Deans and Men's advisors, and teachers of modern language, English, mathematics, history and science.

The most interesting feature of the meeting, according to President Smith, was the discussion about new plans for bringing about social situations in both dormitories and curricula that will encourage students to become more and more self educating. The president of Harvard University has said that the object of college should be to place students in such environment, both with respect to professors and dormitories, that has a home-likeness that develops in the student a desire to go forward because he really wants to, and not merely because it is expected of him, as is usually the case. Harvard has already adopted a plan by which this home-likeness is largely possible.

Alumni Open Season With Quintet Friday

Grads Will Have Strong Team to Face Ullerymen in First Basket Ball Tussle on December 11

Basketball, the favorite of winter sports, will get under way here Friday night when Susquehanna opens its season against an Alumni quintet.

For several seasons now it has been the custom to open the season with the Alumni and the game has never been taken very seriously. However, things will be different this year. The graduates are expecting to put a strong team on the floor. Such stars as Glenn, captain of last year's quintet, Rhodes, Rogowicz, Goode, Snyder and others will probably be on hand.

Coach Ullery has a real task upon his hands this season, as he has to reorganize and get a team in condition within a week's time. Glenn, who was easily the outstanding player on the quintet last season, will not be wearing an Orange and Maroon uniform this year's team, did not return to school this season.

As a nucleus for this year's combination Coach Ullery will have Captain Rummell, who can fill the positions of either forward or guard, McGeehan, who proved himself a stellar guard last season, and Palmer or Dreibell, both of whom have jumped center for Susquehanna teams. Others who were on the squad last year and are out for the team again are Kappa Schlegel and Worthington. Several Freshmen look like very promising candidates.

Dr. Lillian Fisher '12, to Read Paper to Historical Society

Dr. Fisher is Recognized Authority on Latin American History. Teaches at Oklahoma College

Susquehanna University will be represented on the program of the American Historical Association, which meets at Minneapolis, Minnesota, December 28, 29 and 30. Dr. Lillian E. Fisher, '12, will read a paper on Latin American History. Dr. Fisher is a recognized authority in this field. She is the author of a book on Viceroyal Administration in the Spanish-American Colonies and is engaged in the preparation of a book on Foundations of Mexican Independence. She is head of the history department of Oklahoma College for Women, located at Chickasha. Miss Fisher is a native of Selingrove.

Registrar Forms New Record Card

Academic Rating Scale and Record Card Will Aid in Recommending Students for Positions

In the effort to obtain and keep a better and more complete record of the student and his activities while upon the campus, the Registrar's office has instituted this last semester a new Academic Record Card and Rating Scale. The card has a complete record of all of the activities in which the student has participated during his college career.

There has been but one main purpose behind the efforts of the office in compiling this record of the student and that is to be of specific help in the recommendation for various positions which will demand reference from the University.

The Academic Record Card will contain such information as student's name and address, the major and minor subjects in the student's curriculum, and the score, rank, and name of any and all Intelligence and Aptitude tests which the student has taken.

In one corner of the card is placed an identification photograph of the student. A list of all extra-curricular activities for the four years is also included and any positions that a person might have held in any one of the organizations of the college, social or otherwise.

Each year's record of the number of semester hours carried, the quality points earned, and the person's rank in his class is indicated so that a comparison of the student's activity for each year can be readily seen and used for reference to any one desiring such information.

PRE-MED STUDENTS TO TAKE TESTS ON ELEVENTH

The Pre-Medical students in the Senior class of Susquehanna will take the Association of American Medical College aptitude tests next Friday.

This test is sent to all colleges who have a Pre-Medical course and is given to every student who expects to apply for entrance to a medical college in the fall of 1932. The examination is given but once a year and has been adopted by the Association as one of the normal requirements for admission.

Phi Mu Captures Frat Court Title

Keen Competition Witnessed in League. Phi Mu Wins Two Contests By One Point

Phi Mu Delta walked away with the inter-fraternity league which was completed last week by winning three games and losing none. However, in doing so it was forced to win two contests by one point scores.

Susquehanna Faculty Club Turns Campus Club

At a meeting of the Faculty Club, held at Seibert Hall on Thursday afternoon, November 19, it was decided by the members of the organization to adopt the name of Campus Club as a substitute for the title Faculty Club. It was felt that the new name would be more appropriate since a large number of the members of the club are the wives of faculty members and executives of the college.

As stated in the printed programs which were mailed to the members, the purpose of the Campus Club is to promote acquaintanceship and sociability among the women of the faculty and the wives of the faculty members of Susquehanna University. The men of the faculty were most cordially invited to join the members of the Campus Club in this social hour.

The next meeting of the Campus Club will be a faculty dinner at the Homestead Tea Room in Sunbury on December 19th with Mrs. G. Morris Smith as the presiding hostess.

"The Dover Road" is Annual K. D. P. Play On Thursday Night

Production Has No Leading Role; Watch for the "Steal," Weaverling, Nelson, Ballentine in Good Roles

Kappa Delta Phi will present A. A. Milne's play, "The Dover Road," on Thursday evening, December 10 at 8:15, in the Seibert Hall auditorium. Please take notice that the play is to be given on Thursday, December 10, and not, as formerly announced, on Friday, December 11.

"The Dover Road" is an absurd comedy in three acts, produced for the first time on any stage at the Bijou Theatre, New York City, in December, 1921. Since that time, the drama has been a perennial success, and the present performance, on December 10, comes as its tenth birthday.

In story, the play concerns the wealthy, eccentric, Mr. Latimer, who has a home on the Dover Road—that highway between London and Dover which elopers travel on their way to France and the Riviera. It is Mr. Latimer's hobby to bring eloping couples into his house by the simple expedient of bribing their chauffeurs to halt their cars at his house on the pretext of motor trouble. Mr. Latimer is entertaining two such couples during the course of the play and endeavoring to show them that their false infatuation is apt to be a fatuous falsification of true love, and an unsteady basis upon which to found a marriage. The complications which arise from his methods of proving his point will make you laugh many, many times.

Ten years have had no effect upon the play. It is still as modern in spirit and as sophisticatedly funny as it was on the day of its debut. There is nothing quite like it. It is totally different.

"The play really has no leading role in it, and any one of five people has the opportunity to steal the play from the others. The cast will interest you."

Mary Weaverling needs no introduction to student at Susquehanna who attend the plays. With preparation in the School of Drama at Carnegie, Miss Weaverling brings to our campus plays an assured, thespian savoir-faire.

Office Issues 2nd Semester Schedule

January 11-12-13-14 Given as Dates for Registration. Payment of Fees to Take Place February 2nd

Official copies of the schedule for next semester have been posted in G. A. Hassinger, and Seibert Hall. A copy has also been sent to each of the Fraternity Houses. Registration for the second semester will be held during the week of January 11-14 inclusive. A late registration fee will be charged to all persons failing to register on the days indicated.

Students are requested to report at the Registrar's Office in the following order: January 11, seniors may report at any time from 8:30 a. m. to 5 p. m.; on January 12 Juniors may report at the same time; on January 13 Sophomores, and on January 14 Freshmen.

All students may obtain their registration cards and may consult Miss (Concluded on page 4)

Selon Dockey Is Football Manager

Selon Dockey, of Shamokin Dam, was elected manager of the 1932 football team of Susquehanna University at a recent meeting of the electing committee of the athletic association.

Dockey entered Susquehanna University from Selingrove High School and is a Junior in the Commercial Education Department. He is a member of the Epsilon Sigma fraternity and is one of the student representatives on the athletic board.

Besides taking high honors in his class and fraternity last year, he is the business manager of the "Lantern" and advertising manager of "The Susquehanna." He has always been known for his versatility and earnestness in his studies and managerial activities, since his arrival on the campus in the fall of 1929.

FRATERNITY COMPETITION

Last Wednesday brought to a close another basketball series among the various fraternities on the campus. The rivalry was as strong as ever and competition was very keen, but we feel that the best spirit of three or four years was evident among the players as well as the spectators at each game. Only at the first game of the series was there any booring or ill feeling expressed and we really think that this can be attributed to the new men on the campus.

When old jealousies can be forgotten and a new spirit of cooperation and enthusiasm be displayed, social organizations on the campus will flourish and everyone will be the happier for it.

WHERE'S THE COOPERATION?

Quite some time ago a request was made of each student by the Registrar of the University to fill out a data sheet which included all the activities in which the student has participated thus far in his college career. Mimeographed sheets which had designated space for listing each various activity were given individually to every student with the request that they be filled out immediately and returned to the Registrar. Perhaps it was the fact that the student felt that the administration knew enough about him that he failed to fulfill the request.

At the present time, only about sixty per cent of the entire student body has cooperated in the move which is intended to aid the student. It was only after much work that a suitable card was printed which when filled could give to any one so desiring, all the information about a student's activity and work each semester. The office felt that such a record would greatly aid the student's chances for obtaining positions at the end of his college career.

The Record Card and Rating Scale is so arranged so that at any time a quick and accurate reply can be given. Not only are the extra-curricular activities listed but the student's rank in his class each year, the number of quality points he has earned yearly, the number of hours he has carried each semester—in fact every bit of information that any employer or school board would desire can be found on the card.

We feel that it is a bit of ingratitude on the part of many students that they have failed to cooperate. Especially are the seniors deserving of a reprimand, for it is they who will benefit the soonest. Perhaps that old adage "Procrastination—" still holds and some of the students have just forgotten.

For their own benefit we suggest that students go to the Registrar and give her the information that she desires.

ALUMNI NOTES

Marriage

Leslie E. Croft, '27, was united in marriage to Miss Mary B. Insold of Altoona on June 10, 1931. Mr. Croft is teaching science in the Bedford High School and is employed as a draftsman for the State Highway Department during the summer. He is also a member of the Pennsylvania Academy of Sciences.

Birth

The Reverend and Mrs. Marlin M. Enders announce the birth of a daughter on October 26.
 Reverend Enders, '25, is pastor of the St. Mark's Lutheran Church at Nescopek. Mrs. Enders was formerly Miss Elsie Nace and was graduated in '27.

Changes Position

Reverend Harvey M. Erb, '24, formerly pastor of St. Mark's English Evangelical Lutheran Church in Pittsburgh, has recently transferred to the pastorate of Zion's Evangelical Lutheran Church at Renovo.

Reverend Erb took post-graduate work last year in the Western Theological Seminary at Pittsburgh. While in Pittsburgh he served as secretary of the Pittsburgh-Susquehanna Alumni Association and also as secretary of the United Lutheran Ministerial Association of Pittsburgh.

Reverend Erb is a member of the World Fellowship Club and one of the organizers of the Phi Beta Rho fraternity, now nationalized.

Anniversary

The St. Matthew's Lutheran Church at Williamsport is another church whose anniversary of the organization of the congregation was recently celebrated. Reverend I. S. Sassaman, '09, is the pastor of the congregation.

Daniel Smith, Jr., member of the board of directors of Susquehanna University, addressed the adult and the young people's departments of the Sunday school. Rev. Morris F. Good, '18, of Kulpmont, a former pastor, delivered the anniversary sermon at the morning service. The Reverend J. E. Law, '23, of the Redeemer Lutheran Church, addressed the Luther League in the evening. Rev. Robert H. Bannen, '87, pastor of Messiah's Lutheran Church, also addressed the congregation.

Harold Y. Fisher, '20, is employed by the State as a chemist in the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

Susquehanna Well Represented at Kane High School

There are four of Susquehanna's graduates teaching in the Kane High School. Miss Martha Dilling is teaching bookkeeping, law, Junior Business Training, Salesmanship and Business Arithmetic; Glennis H. Rickert is principal of the school; Willis W. Pratt is teaching civics and typing and is assistant coach; Lynne Rameer is teaching math and history.

Teaching in New York State

Word has been received from Ted E. Ebberts that he is teaching in the commercial department and is assistant coach in Ogdensburg, New York.

S. U. PEPYS

Having exhausted Thanksgiving experiences during the past week, the topic of conversation for the next ten days will be about the coming Christmas vacation. . . . The way the majority of students worry about their vacations it's a wonder they don't stay home instead of coming to college. . . . And the second theme of importance seems to be arranging a schedule for sleeping mornings, escaping chapel, and lengthening week-ends. . . . When these details are all satisfactorily arranged, they can sometimes go to classes for a week without complaining.

Signs of winter: Prof. Grossman's board track. . . . Decrease in breakfast attendance. . . . Truckenmiller's bear-skin (the coat we mean) . . . the boys getting shooed out of the gym because the girls are playing basketball. . . . and . . . Oh well, why go on!

We couldn't pass over the absent-minded professor who approached his son in class one morning and said, "Good morning, Henry. . . . How is your father this morning?"

And then there was another prof, not so dumb, who said to his class "It's not the heat; it's the stupidity," as he passed out the examination marks.

A kiss, according to one of our fair co-eds, is the contraction of the orbicular muscles in immediate juxtaposition. Well, of course, I don't know anything about it, but I wouldn't be a bit surprised.

"I prefer blondes," maintains Freshman Oscar Flich, "because I'm tired of squeezing blackheads."

No, these aren't original, but they'd be a lot worse if they were.

Your reporter has heard that Ted Stuhlmiller, at a birthday celebration which was tendered him last Sunday, received from one of his friends a diminutive kewpie doll on which was written the motto: "DAISIES WON'T TELL." Figure it out, boy. Figure it out. Or ask Ted.

Did you know that varsity basketball practice is being held in secret this year? If you don't believe it, try trying past A.S. Managers Samual Pascoe and Willie Ahl, head bouncers.

And now, boys and girls, R. V. Netiz is going to inflict upon you his first attempt at poetry. Ever since childhood (that would be about six weeks ago) our beloved scribe has felt the urge to dash off a few verses, and now alas, behold the result:

ODE TO A NIGHT WATCHMAN
 Flash, flash, flash—
 On all our benches dark and neat,
 Flash, flash, flash—
 As on your creeps, careful feet
 You peer and peer, then peer some more.
 Just what, we ponder, are you looking for?
 Flash, flash, flash—
 Every corner, crook, and cranny,
 Flash, flash, flash—
 Can't you see you get one's nanny?
 Where you'll end it's hard to tell.
 Perhaps, as some do say, 'twill be in——Ballyhoo.

Maybe you don't like it. Well, who's arguing.

R. V. NETIZ.

"To what do you attribute your great ease?" asked the city visitor of Grandpa Eben Hoskins.
 "I can't say yit," answered Grandpa cautiously. "They several o' them testimonial fellers a-dickin' in me."

HERBERT RUMMEL

Captain "Herb" Rummel will lead the 1931-32 Susquehanna basketball team on the floor Friday night in its opening game of the season. Rummel has been a most aggressive forward on the Orange and Maroon team for the last two years, but because of his ability as a guard may be shifted to that open position this season. "Herb" also plays football, is a member of the Bond and Key fraternity, and is active in a number of campus activities.

President Wm. Hutchins, of Borea College, who is chairman of the commissioners on Message and Purpose of the Y. M. C. A. of the country, has invited President Smith to the meeting of the commissions to be held in Buffalo, New York, January 9th and 10th. The purpose of this meeting will be to grapple earnestly with the problem of how to make life in all of its areas more and more responsive to Christian ideals.

SOPHOMORES CLINCH SOCCER CHAMPIONSHIP

The powerful Sophomore soccer team, winner of the second half, clinched the inter-class soccer league, by defeating the Juniors, winner of the first half, 4-3, in the play-off game on November 17.

This game finished the season's soccer schedule and the teams rest after their contests have been put away for another year. The Soccer Championship for the year goes to the Sophomore team. The Junior team was right at the top till the finish and deserve congratulations for the fighting team which they placed on the field.

Local S. A. I. Chapter Successfully Stages Roxy Male Quartet

Judging by the size and enthusiasm of the audience, the Roxy Male Quartet scored a big success at Susquehanna. The Quartet showed excellent taste in the selection of their numbers, varying their program to suit everyone's likes. As for encores they were extremely generous. They were accompanied by Miriam Deering Lloyd.

Sigma Alpha Iota went to a great deal of expense and worked unceasingly for the cooperation of everyone to make their presentation one to be remembered. Sigma Omega feels very fortunate in being able to secure this widely known group of men, especially considering that previous to this concert here they have had no open nights for the past two weeks and are planning on a full program for the holidays.

WOMEN'S ATHLETIC CLUB DISCUSSES BASKETBALL

The Women's Athletic Club held its monthly meeting in the social room. Barbara Jones led a discussion on basketball. Its history, rules and methods of coaching were considered. The following new members were initiated: Pearl, Plummer, Phillips, Savidge, Wilson.

The fall schedule of girls' athletics, composed of class hockey, soccer and speedball, has closed. The following winter schedule has been announced by Miss Reeder:

Freshman—Mat work, elementary clogging.

Sophomore—Danish gymnastics, advanced clogging.

Junior—Advanced mat work, games, advanced clogging and rhythm.

In addition there will be class basketball, volleyball and the indoor track meet.

THANKSGIVING DINNER HELD BY DAY STUDENTS

Thirty-two day students of Susquehanna University enjoyed their annual Thanksgiving dinner on November 24th at Seibert Hall. The Freshmen students in the group furnished the entertainment which consisted of numerous stunts for the upperclass girls.

Miss Nellie Shue, of Sunbury, and Miss Martha Laudenslager, of Selingsgrove, graduates in the class of '31, were special guests of the day students.

Miss Thelma Crebs, of Selingsgrove, R. D. past president, acted as the hostess. New Officers were elected at the function and they are as follows: Miss Mary Suffel, president; Miss Myrtle Messner, vice president and Miss Mildred Griesemer, secretary-treasurer.

S. U. DEBATE CLUB PLANS ACTIVITIES FOR SEASON

Regular weekly meeting of the Susquehanna Debate Club was held last Thursday night, as the debaters continue to prepare for the intercollegiate debating season, when the team will meet some of the debate teams in this section.

The question debated last night was, resolved, "That Capitalism as a System of Economic Organization is Unsound in Principle." The affirmative side of the question was supported by Kindsavter, Kifer and Clapper. The negative was composed of Maimon, Brosius and Morrow.

Miss Corbin, coach of debate, commented on the various speeches in the trial debate and announced to the club that the varsity team will be selected within the next two weeks.

The Susquehanna women are planning a schedule, but will not debate on a definite question like the men. At the present time they are assisting Miss Corbin in coaching and arranging the assignments on the men's team.

Y. W. C. A. TO HOLD WEEKLY MEETING ON WEDNESDAY

This week the Y. W. C. A. will hold its weekly meeting Wednesday evening at 10 o'clock, instead of Thursday evening, so as not to conflict with the play.

Our program this year has been arranged so that each month there will be one speaker who is not a student. The first two speakers were from outside the campus, and this month we are having one of the advisors, Miss Naomi K. Hade has consented to address the girls and her topic will be "What Is Religion."

What's in a Name
"So your name's William Smith," said the teacher, to assure herself of the fact, "but your mother's name is Brown?"
"Yes, Miss Judson," said William.
"You see, she married again and I didn't."

S. A. I. Notes

At four o'clock Sunday afternoon, Sigma Alpha Iota held a memorial service for their late National President, Hazel Ritchey, who died in the spring—shortly after visiting Sigma Omega chapter. This day has been set aside by the National Executive Board as a memorial day throughout all the chapters. Those attending this service are only members, pledges and patronesses of the Fraternity.

Sigma Alpha Iota wishes to thank their patronesses and all who aided in sponsoring the concert Friday night.

We feel honored to have as a new patroness Mrs. W. Scudder.

Bond and Key

Clifford Johnston, '31, and William Herman '31 were guests at the club over the week-end. Susquehanna's campus seems to be an ideal place for these two alumni to break the monotony of the Law School at Dickinson College.

Touring the country seems to have become a popular sport for Sunday afternoons. "Bill" Adams, John Meyers, Herbert Spigelmeyer, William Swann, and Merle Hubbard visited State College Sunday afternoon and evening.

Bond and Key has become the proud possessor of a new suite of furniture.

Epsilon Sigma

Daniel S. McMullen and Joseph E. Kapic were initiated into the chapter as active members on November 19th. Frank D. Paris, '31, of Freeland, was a visitor at the house before the Thanksgiving vacation.

Phi Lambda Theta

S. Walter Poulkroff, '31, Paul Haines, '31, and Stuart Schrack, '30, were callers at the fraternity over the week-end.

Richard Krear spent the week-end at Lock Haven. We wonder why?

S. U. WOMEN ARE GUESTS AT DINNER PARTY

The girls who took part in the pageant given at the College Church the evening of November 22, were entertained at dinner Saturday evening by Mrs. Kretschmann and Mrs. Wood.

The dinner party was held at the Kretschmann home, Susquehanna Heights, and was attended by eight girls from the University, Mrs. Wood and Mrs. Kretschmann have a reputation for being delightful hostesses and this was no exception. The girls think that it was the nicest little affair held on the campus this year.

AMUSEMENTS

Tuesday, December 8—Fox will present Sally O'Neil in "The Brat."

Wednesday, December 9—Warner Oland and Anna May Wong will have the leading roles in Paramount's presentation of "The Daughter of the Dragon."

Thursday, December 10—Constance Bennett will be the star in the talkie, "Common Clay," which is taken from the novel of the same name.

Friday, December 11—One of the best known actors to the American public, Will Rogers, will take the main part in Fox's talkie, "Young as You Feel."

Saturday, December 12—Buck Jones will give the theater goer an excellent western talkie when he takes the lead in "Branded," a Columbia Artists production.

Monday, December 14—R. K. O. will star the famous Wheeler and Dorothy Lee in "Too Many Cooks."

"Our Five and Ten" (Maybe Fifteen)

By WOULD B. HISTORIAN

November 9, 1926

"To date the intensive endowment fund drive has totaled $7,375 with the Freshman class leading with $2,800."

This principle suggests that, although the students of the University sometimes complain, they are willing to do their utmost to aid in the work of the institution.

"A powerful P. M. C. team swamps the Varsity in the annual Homecoming game, 20-7."

This score carries little portent of what this year's score will be. With all the encouragement of the students the team should turn in a victory against the "Little Cadets."

"Our co-eds call the bluff of the men students concerning school spirit."

The girls prove conclusively in this article that they have more school spirit than the men. That is still rather prevalent in '31. Come on fellows—let's show some S. U. spirit!

November 8, 1921

"Thiel Collegians Trim S. U. Warriors 12-0. Inefficiency of officials greatly handicapped Susquehanna team in play with Western Lunerans."

This policy of the paper shows very little college paper spirit. Excuses are acceptable, but alibis are never in good newspaper form, especially when individuals are knocked.

A live wire pun cut from the 1921 issue, "If Plato could shilly could Aristotle."

In 1931 it would be "If Bill can why can't Shoemaker?"

"Conversation between G. A. and Selingsgrove Hall:
Auman—'Ho, Keller! James says that you're to go to bed.'
Keller—'You tell James to go to aw—Hanover'."

At present if any such warnings were needed it would be necessary to tell the "younger James" to find slumber.

"Among the resolutions of the Pre-Theologians it was finally decided to eliminate the telling of immoral stories and the use of profane language on the campus."

A resolution like that would not be bad for the present pre-ministerial students.

INTERCOLLEGIATE BULLETIN

"A Dog's Tale" is the name to be given to two new scholarships at Williams College. They will be supported by the sale of first editions of Mark Twain's pamphlet story by that name, presented to the college by an alumnus.

Four-weeks-old beards were being stroked last week by a staunch band of Hobart College men, who swore early in the season to refrain from the use of the razor until their football team had won a victory.

The team lost its fourth game this year to Kenyon, 26-7, this game marked Hobart's 24th consecutive defeat.

Fun is the most important thing in college according to the advice given to Freshmen by a professor at Northwestern University.

The ideal girl, according to answers on a Freshman questionnaire at Princeton, must have brains, beauty, personality, sense of humor, dancing ability, money, a soft voice, and the ability to neck on a par with Greta Garbo, Marlene Dietrich, and Joan Crawford.

Well, Webster defines "ideal" as "unreal, existing in imagination only," so maybe the Princeton boys are right. At that they sure have a powerful imagination.

"Good Foke and a Lot of Fun"

Six freshmen at Lehigh captured the Soph president, painted him with mercurchrome, and left him out in the country to walk home. The victim then commented, "It proves that the freshmen are showing a little spirit. I took it as a good joke and a lot of fun."

Muhlenberg has a new society called the S. A. O. J. I. M. G. A. M. C. If you're interested, it is "The Supreme Archaic Order of Junior Independent Mustache Growers Association of Muhlenberg College."

No Win, No Date

Co-eds at Boston University threatened to stop all communication or dating with members of the football team if they did not win an approaching game.

Love, dumbness, and faculty intelligence are named as the three outstanding factors in the widespread flunking of college Freshmen.

It seems that the third might be changed to faculty decisions, and then the other two would be unnecessary.

Tide and Tied

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., tells the following incident:

"I sat one night over my Shakespeare when a sentence popped up that puzzled me. I said to my father, who was sitting nearby: 'Father, what is the meaning of this quotation, "There is a tide in the affairs of men which, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune"? What kind of tide would that be?'"

"Tied down to business, Son!" said Father."

Knew Jim

Col. George Harvey moved into his new home at Deal, N. J., and engaged Jim Harvey to run his farm. When he went back into the hills to register as a voter, the chairman of the registration board seemed rather doubtful of the citizen's stranger.

He mused: "Harvey? Deal? Do you know Jim Harvey over there?"

"Yes," said the Colonel, solemnly. "I work for him."

"Oh, do ye? That's all right, then. You can vote."

Dinner-Meeting Held by Susquehanna Club

Dr. Morris Smith, President of S. U., Gives Address of Welcome With Dr. Vander Wall as Speaker

An interesting program presented in connection with the In-and-Out Susquehanna Valley Music Club was held on Tuesday evening, December 1, in Selbert Hall at Susquehanna University. The Music Club is composed of faculty members from Bucknell and Susquehanna University Conservatories of Music, and also music teachers and music supervisors in the public schools of this district. Miss Katherine Reed, Supervisor of Music in Sunbury High School, and a graduate of Susquehanna University's Conservatory, is president of the club.

Dinner was served to the members of the club in Horton Memorial Dining Hall, after which a very enjoyable program was given in Selbert Chapel.

The first number on the program was a string quartet composed by Professor Hemphill, and Messrs. Caruth, Clark, and Shober. They played the Presto Movement in G minor from Mozart.

Dr. Morris Smith, President of Susquehanna University, welcomed the members of the Music Club. In his short address of welcome Dr. Smith stated that there were two apostles of music, they being the apostle of proportion and the apostle of beauty. According to Dr. Smith more proportion and more beauty is needed in our daily life. Every campus is blessed when it has these two apostles.

Professor Stevens, teacher of voice in the Conservatory, sang a vocal solo, "Aris from Manon." The chorus with Mrs. Bertha Rodgers, contralto soloist, sang "Song of Man," by Kountz.

The Susquehanna University Conservatory procured Doctor William Vander Wall, of Columbia University, as speaker of the evening. He is a member of the Pennsylvania Department of Welfare and Bureau of Mental Health. He is the only musician who is a member of the International Congress of Criminology and American Bureau of Psychiatry, and is the first one in the world who has made music a part of prison correction. He addressed the club on the subject, "The Significance of Music and Personality Development." He left with us the impression that music teachers should appeal to the pupils thru the emotional rather than the physical, and that music teachers should lead the pupils to an appreciation for music rather than having it imposed upon them.

Shaffer and Wieland Give Blood Donation

Miss Adeline Barilli, of Hummel's Wharf, underwent a serious operation at Geisinger Memorial Hospital, Danville, Wednesday, November 18th. Due to the condition of her blood it was necessary that a double transfusion be made; one before the operation and one immediately following.

Sixteen students from the Susquehanna student body received blood tests and several of the number were found to have the required type of blood. Two of these were Morris Shaffer and Wesley Wieland. Shaffer was called to the hospital as donor for the initial transfusion Friday, November 13th. Following the operation on Wednesday following Wesley Wieland was called for the final donation. Both men are to be complimented for the fine spirit shown in this situation and it is worthy of note that Miss Barilli was at one time a student at our University.

S. U. AUXILIARY HOLDS XMAS MEETING SATURDAY

The Ladies Auxiliary of Susquehanna University held their Christmas meeting in Selbert Hall Saturday afternoon.

The program held in the chapel was in charge of Miss Hode. The Ladies Choral Club of the University sang Christmas Carols. Mrs. Bertha Rodgers favored the club with several vocal solos. Mrs. Dodson read the theme of the "Y" Christmas play to be presented this year.

Mrs. Luther Grossman was chairman of the social committee and this committee entertained the women very well in the social room after the program.

MRS. G. M. SMITH TO BE HOSTESS AT DINNER PARTY

The Campus Club, which has been formed from the Women's Faculty Club, will hold a formal dinner party at the Homestead Tea Room in Sunbury, Wednesday, December 9, at seven o'clock. Mrs. G. Morris Smith will be the hostess.

Dr. Ovrebo to Talk at Honor Science Meeting

The Honor Science Club, which is one of the most interesting clubs on the campus, will hold its monthly meeting December eighth in the Steele Science Hall.

Professor Paul Ovrebo will be the speaker and his address will have to do with some experiments in Physics. Professor Ovrebo is an interesting speaker and a man who knows his subject.

All active members and new students in science are invited and urged to attend.

"THE DOVER ROAD" IS ANNUAL K. D. P. PLAY ON THURSDAY NIGHT

Ruth Nelson is new to play-goers on the campus, but has the experience of high school dramas to her credit. Most sympathetic is her portrayal of Anne, the girl who has run away from the cloistered atmosphere of her father's home.

The other girls in the play are Diana Lizard and Dorothy Hutter, the maids, and Harriet Leese as one member of a third romantic couple.

John Ballentine, long active in high school and college dramas, takes the part of Mr. Latimer, the gracious host.

Robert Hartman and Arthur Wilmarth, also old stages in college plays, are the gentlemen who inspire (or are inspired for) the elcments.

George Hess as Dominic, the major domo of Mr. Latimer's household, steps for the first time upon the stage at Susquehanna and gives us a most polished portrayal.

The other men in the cast are Jack Auehmuth and Dutch Witkop, who are footmen and whose purpose it is to arouse your risibilities, and Reed Speer, who, with Harriet Leese, presents the other member of that third romantic couple.

Scenery, lighting effects, stage business, and a significant reading of lines combine to give you a pleasurable performance in the production of this play under the supervision of Dr. Arthur Herman Wilson.

Very short waits between acts are promised, and music will at those times entertain you delightfully.

E-TOWN ENTERTAINS 150 "Y" DELEGATES

Convention Assemblage

All delegates to the convention were taken care of by the fine committee of social life functioning at E-town. The students resided at private homes for very small fees, showing the spirit of the townspeople in Annnville. Various recreation periods were provided for those attending and it was also noted that the banquets were those jolly affairs so prepared by the college man.

Lebanon Valley College won the distinction of having the largest number of delegates at the convention, a grand total of 19. Susquehanna and Gettysburg tied for second honors with thirteen delegates. The grand convention assemblage total was 154 Y. M. C. A. enthusiasts from colleges scattered over all of Pennsylvania.

The faculty members attending from our campus were Dr. G. Morris Smith, Dr. A. William Ahl, and Dr. George F. Dunkelberger. This group all helped to get student representatives to the convention by the use of their cars.

"Dover Road," Milne Comedy, Presented by Kappa Delta Phi

Servant Roles Nearly Stole Scenes in Well-Known Play.
Novel Situations Entertaining and Skillfully Managed

DR. ARTHUR H. WILSON DIRECTS

Trial marriage, conveniently irresponsible, was the novel situation presented in "The Dover Road," an A. A. Milne comedy staged by Kappa Delta Phi Society and directed by Dr. Arthur H. Wilson Thursday evening last at Seibert Hall. An eccentric bachelor, various eloping couples, and a corps of pompous servants combined to make this well known play a succession of mirth provoking scenes.

The success of the production was due more to the situation and "gags" rather than to the lines themselves. The mere appearance of Jack Archmuth and Harold Witkop as pugilistic footmen in green funky costumes, with heads erect, chests expanded, and elbows aimed forcibly to the rear, drew a gale of laughter at every entrance. Similarly, George Hess presented a towering spectacle of austere domination as he ordered about his subordinates and supplemented his master's remarks with significant emphasis to discouraging contradiction. A particularly amusing sketch was enacted by Arthur Wilmarth who, with a "day's growth" of beard and a severe cold, was forced to shave in the parlor.

The versatile Mary Weavering added another excellent performance to her successful list by enacting a new type in the character of Eustasia, a sympathetic and whimpering female who cannot resist falling in love with sick men and nursing them back to health, and usually beyond.

Nineteen Men Given Varsity "S" Friday

Dr. J. I. Woodruff and Dr. George Fisher Given Awards as First Coaches.
Five Men Awarded Numerals

Presentation of the 1931 grid letters aroused unusual interest in the chapel exercises last Friday morning, December 11. The reason for this additional interest was due to the very novel introduction of a new letter at the University. Two members of our faculty, Dr. John I. Woodruff, and Dr. George E. Fisher were presented with the Varsity football insignia in commemoration of their valuable work in starting football in our college many years ago.

In 1892 Dr. Woodruff introduced football at Susquehanna and gathered together some boys from the Missionary Institute about him and taught them the fundamentals of the leading college sport. Dr. Woodruff acted three roles, coach, manager, and player. This regime lasted from '92 until '96, when Dr. George Fisher became coach and played the first scheduled season, which resulted in two ties and as many defeats.

During the forty years of football history Susquehanna has made tremendous steps in inaugurating this sport as a wholesome game for the male students. Regardless of their age and classes, the two professors, Dr. Woodruff and Dr. Fisher, have kept their affiliations close to the boys on the gridiron.

In this assembly 19 letters were (Concluded on Page 3)

Dr. Geo. A. Fisher VanCamp Specialist

Susquehanna Grad Honored by American Association for Advancement of Scientific Research

Once again the spotlight of high achievement shines on one of Susquehanna's sons, Dr. George A. Fisher, director of the research and control laboratories of the VanCamp Company, of Indianapolis, Indiana, has been selected a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. To this society only persons of outstanding character, ability, and distinctive achievement in the field of science are given the honor of membership.

Dr. George A. Fisher was born near Kantz on October 4, 1890, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Fisher. He entered the Selinsgrove public schools and was graduated in 1907. He then attended Susquehanna University and studied chemistry under our own Dr. George E. Fisher.

From Susquehanna George A. Fisher entered Medico-Chi. Philadelphia, now merged with the University of Pennsylvania, where he was graduated in 1912. He then taught chemistry in the schools of North Girard for two years, after which he applied for a position with the VanCamp Company, and founded their laboratories.

In 1922 Susquehanna University conferred the degree of Doctor of Commercial Chemistry upon George A. Fisher.

Dr. George A. Fisher is married to Mary Keiser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Keiser, of Selinsgrove. Their family consists of four children, one daughter, Mrs. Chesteen B. Kendall, of Saginaw, Mich., and three sons, George, Richard and John, all living at home and attending school.

In a late issue of The Indianapolis Star, we find the following feature story of Susquehanna's distinguished son, "O. K.—G. A. F." Five mystic initials.

The "O.K." is like the green light in the traffic lane. "All right. Proceed."

And the "G. A. F." stands for George A. Fisher.

"O. K.—G. A. F." also stands as a guarantee that the canned product meets the most exacting scientific requirements as to purity, quality, and uniformly high standard of manufacture.

DON'T FORGET

Early morning Communion will be held by the Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A. at Trinity Lutheran Church at 6 a. m. on Friday, December 18, 1931. Dr. Sadtler and Dr. Kretschmann will assist Rev. Brier. Last year the attendance was so encouraging that we hope it will be even better this year.

Prof. Whyte Speaks to the Campus Club

Member of Bucknell English Department Delights Audience. Sixty-Five Attend Xmas Dinner

Professor James P. Whyte, a member of the English Department at Bucknell, was the guest speaker at the Christmas dinner of the Campus Club, held at the Homestead Tea Room last Wednesday evening.

Professor Whyte, a Scotchman, delighted the faculty with his witty defense of the attributes usually connected with a Scot. He recounted numerous jokes told to illustrate his theory that Americans invent these stories which are usually untrue. His personality, lively wit, and banter won him the admiration and delight of his audience.

The Campus Club included the Faculty men in their Christmas celebration, which made it truly a Campus affair. Sixty-six members were present. Mrs. Paul Overbo, as Chairman, presided and introduced the speaker. President Smith extended the season's greeting and enlivened the occasion by several remarks. Carols were sung by the group under the direction of Professor Allison with Professor Linebaugh at the piano.

The tables were decorated with Christmas candles and large bowls of white chrysanthemums as centerpieces. Mrs. Smith was the hostess of the dinner and is to be congratulated on the completeness of arrangements and the gay atmosphere of this annual celebration.

Language Clubs Merge In Xmas Celebrations

Something new in the way of language club meetings was introduced last evening when the French, German and Spanish Clubs assembled at Seibert Hall for a combined Christmas Celebration. Each club contributed several numbers on the program of entertainment, in their respective languages, following which a general social period was held and refreshments served.

The idea proved very popular and was well attended. The three clubs, French, German, and Spanish were in charge of Miss Grove, Professor Gilbert, and Miss Irving, respectively.

The program began with each club singing a song in its particular language. The remainder of the program was as follows:

"Christmas in France," Miss Edna Oshetsky.

Poem on Xmas (in French), Miss Ruth Plummer.

"Christmas in Germany," Miss Ester Geisel.

Poem on Xmas (in German), Mr. John Schoffstall.

"Christmas in Spain," Miss Thelma Crebs.

Dramatization of the story of The Three Wise Men (in Spanish), Miss Aberdeen Phillips, Mr. Hollis Muir, Mr. Albin Zimlicki, Mr. Edward Bozinski.

Duet, Miss Margaret Ide and Miss Kathryn Bittner.

Piano Solo, Miss Frieda Stephens.

"Silent Night," Sung by the French, German, and Spanish Clubs, respectively.

D. SWOPE ADDRESSES WATSONTOWN MASONS

Rev. W. E. "Red" Swope, former Susquehanna University football star and now prominent Lutheran minister at Lebanon, was the speaker at the annual banquet of the Watontown Lodge Free and Accepted Masons, held at the First Lutheran Church at Watontown on December 11th. Rev. Swope was a former pastor of the Watontown Church.

MISS HADE IN CHARGE OF Y. W. C. A. HOUR

Miss Naomi Hade was in charge of the Y. W. C. A. Hour Thursday night. The topic title was "What is Religion?" Religion is vital to girls. She put across in an unusual manner what she had to say. It was real to us. All enjoyed it and were benefited by it. The most outstanding were several fundamental illustrations. She based some of her material on the had taken at the Deans' Conference.

Dr. G. Morris Smith, president of Susquehanna University was the principal speaker at the teachers' institute held in Mt. Carmel on December 11th. Dr. Smith spoke on "Some Lessons from the Masters" at the afternoon session and in the evening his title was "Is Education Worth What It Costs?"

The Susquehanna basketball quintet scored its season with an impressive 42-25 victory over the alumni quintet here last Friday night.

The contest was quite a contrast to the Alumni games of the past few seasons. It turned out to be a real basketball game and at no time did it become rough and tumble or resemble an indoor football game.

The ability of the Alumni to put a strong squad on the floor undoubtedly accounted for the fact that the contest turned out to be an interesting one. The Alumni turned out with a large squad, all the members of which were graduates of the classes of '30 or '31, with the exception of Groce and Haney, who were members of the class of '28.

The most pleasing feature of the entire contest, however, was the Susquehanna prospects for the coming season. If the playing in the game Friday night means anything, Susquehanna will make another good record this season. Although the team is made up of many new faces, Coach Ullery seems to have much promising material with which to work.

Although the alumni put up a great game Friday night the Orange and Maroon ball tossers were never really seriously threatened. The Alumni started the scoring when Rhoades dropped a foul shot through the net. Rummel soon went under the cords to score and after that the lead was never taken.

Success of Frat Dances. Clubs
Enjoy Popular Bands

Concluding the social fraternity functions all after the Christmas vacations the students held the Annual Christmas Dances. These dances under action of the social committees were all formal. Saturday evening, December 12, was the date when the dancers removed their tuxedos from the moth balls and hooked on those "religious" collars.

Mu Alpha chapter of Phi Mu Delta were entertained by the music of Karl Seiter and His Band while Bond and Key danced to the rhythm of Bob Francis, Epsilon Sigma, and Phi Lambda Theta held a joint dance, for which "Ted Brownie's Orchestra" furnished the music.

Each dance had its usual chaperonage through the courtesy of our faculty members. Bond and Key entertained Dr. and Mrs. A. W. Ahl, Professor and Mrs. W. F. S. Scudder, Professor and Mrs. W. Donald Hemphill, Professor and Mrs. E. E. Sheldon, Professor and Mrs. P. M. Linebaugh, Miss Isabelle Strothers, and Miss Naomi Hade. Guests at the Phi Mu Delta Dance were Dr. and Mrs. G. Morris Smith, Dr. and Mrs. Herbert A. Allison, Dr. and Mrs. George E. Fisher, Professor and Mrs. Edwin M. Brungart, Professor and Mrs. Luther D. Grossman, Dr. and Mrs. George N. Wood, Dr. Arthur H. Wilson. Patrons and patronesses at the joint dance of Epsilon Sigma and Phi Lambda Theta (Concluded on Page 4)

HOLIDAY GREETINGS

THE SUSQUEHANNA wishes for its subscribers—students, faculty, alumni and friends a most Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

"BALLYHOO"

Most college students need no introduction to "Ballyhoo," the latest and most sensational humor magazine to appear on the market. Although hardly the thing to bring into a drawing room, "Ballyhoo" possesses several salient features aside from its side-splitting gags which are responsible for its phenomenal rise to nation-wide prominence.

Foremost among these is its violent attack and satire on extravagant advertising. It is a welcome relief to a public weary of billboards and pages splashed with their ridiculous claims and endorsements, such as the pest butting in everywhere with his dinky package of razor blades, and the 20,679 physicians maintaining the absence of irritants.

This characteristic is particularly significant when we recall that advertising is commonly supposed to be the life and soul of a magazine. "No ads, no magazine," wail the editors, yet "Ballyhoo" boldly steps in the opposite direction and has established itself in an amazingly short time as one of the foremost in the humor market today.

"Writers Digest," soon after the appearance of "Ballyhoo," condemned it to an early death. Perhaps they will prove to be correct, but at present "Ballyhoo" is taking the country by storm. "Hullabaloo" is now on sale, and "College Humor" is foaming at the mouth over a number of injustices which they attribute to their rival, and which at least shows their respect for the newcomer. We'll just say "Long live Osear Zilch!"

WHY A DRAMATIC CLUB?

Thursday evening saw the second sorority club dramatic club production on the Susquehanna stage this year. Both of the productions, "Holiday" and "The Doyen Road," deserve praise, for they were well received by the audience. They showed that all who helped to present the evenings of entertainment worked hard and earnestly. Perhaps the desire to produce a better play than any other club on the campus is the reason why each production has been so excellent.

Yet, at the same time, there exists on the campus a dramatic association which is making slow progress. When various organizations are going to give annual productions, the dramatic club can never be a success. Plays are too much hard work for the best actors in the sororities and fraternities to sacrifice their time and energy for their own plays and those of the dramatic club.

We do not say the club is not worth while, but it will never flourish when it must compete against clubs which are competing against themselves.

TO A STUDENT

In the column LETTERS TO THE EDITOR this week is a letter asking the Editor to make the paper more interesting. The student cites an example of too many alumni notes in the last issue of THE SUSQUEHANNA, and especially makes a case of one of the notes. We agree with you completely Mr. or Miss Student. That item was too long and we shall try to avoid such writups. But have you noticed that for the two weeks previous there were no Alumni Notes in THE SUSQUEHANNA?

You would also like to see the sport news "kept off the front page." Did you ever stop to think that we are publishing only a four page paper? What is the biggest extra curricular activity on the campus if it isn't sports? And would you also keep in mind that we are publishing a weekly paper and not a daily, hence you are going to get some news that is not news to you individually. When we must discontinue certain issues of the weekly because the Business Manager is not permitted to publish certain advertisements which would make the publications of these issues possible, and when you would not like to have us increase the subscription price of the paper—then you most assuredly will get "stale" news.

WHAT ABOUT FOOTBALL RULES?

Recently the Intercollegiate Football Rules Committee investigated the forty deaths in football during the fall season in order that a final decision might be made regarding the suggested changes in the present football rules.

Forty deaths merely for sports in one field seems exorbitant, but realizing this fact we must couple them with the present condition arising from swimming during the past summer, which resulted in over a hundred fatalities. There are thousands of men, boys, and children who are playing football each season and forty deaths may seem small when compared with this number.

Naturally, no one wishes to sacrifice young men on the altar of sport through some fault in rulings, but many of these deaths were from weak hearts, and other pre-existent physical weaknesses. The investigation under way will show how many of these fatalities were due to accident and how many were due to faulty rulings.

Even though this research does not affect our Athletic Association at present, it is a national sports problem to be faced by every fan, every coach, and every athletic director. Convictions based on figures point out that the fault does not fall to the rules of football, but to the rules of sportsmanship. Officials can not possibly see every break in the rules, but poor sportsmanship can easily cost many injuries. Illegitimate use of the hands and feet are responsible for fatal injuries to a great extent, and accidental contact is also responsible for some few deaths.

A harsh treatment of this problem may cause a deficient interest in the grid sport, while a deliberate decision on its correction will easily make football a fine, sportsmanlike game for college men, high school boys, and professional enthusiasts.

S. U. PEPYS

Three days, nine or ten classes, one haircut, and a couple of flat tires from today most of us will be lounging contentedly in old "home sweet home" . . . And probably broke . . . With a lot of dirty laundry for Ma . . . And a hard luck story for Pa . . .

That reminds us of the world-touring father who sent a picture post card to his son at college. He wrote: "This is the cliff from which the ancient Spartans used to throw their defective children. Wish you were here.—Dad."

Why should we go off the campus for our entertainers when we have right with us, "Ted Hutehison and his Original Blue and Gold Orchestra." That's a fact, not fiction . . . But Webster defines "original" as "primitive, primary . . . not copied, reproduced, or translated . . . one who is eccentric, in action or character."

Then, we also have Joe Maimon, who hitherto kept his ability to himself, but on Saturday night startled the terpsichorean revellers by crooning "Star Dust," while awe-stricken females gazed on in rapt admiration.

"There's marry a slip twist the collar and garter," said Willie Morrow misnervously, as he crawled out of his tux Saturday night.

A sad short story: Several weeks ago seven well-meaning young men met within one of Hassinger's sancta-sanctorum to organize a bachelors' club. With grave concern they drew up a constitution, wherein the purpose was stated to this effect: ". . . to discourage any relations with members of the opposite sex which might, in the course of human events, become too intimate," and with solemn oaths, affixed their signatures. Their aim was to be virile, manly, to develop will power, and (although not in the constitution) perhaps to save the wear and tear on the peckbook.

Alas! Man is but mortal, and soon, yea even before they could increase their membership, four faithful members had fallen by the wayside. And now, dear readers, the three remaining members sit disconsolately in their club room, looking mournfully at the empty chairs. Such is life.

However, the names of the latter three will be given to co-eds on request, if they send a self-addressed and stamped envelope, and also a photograph with their address and telephone number.

We'd like to see Philo Vance, Sherlock Holmes and Co. solve this problem: A stranger was held up and robbed one evening on Susquehanna's campus. He gave the police the following description: Medium build, brown corduroy trousers with a peculiar diamond shaped emblem on one side, a maroon sweater, and a rather battered felt hat.

Pascoe and Worthington (the younger) are still looking for the person or persons unknown who snickered when they walked into church on Sunday evening.

I suppose a few words of greeting are in order. First of all, conduct yourself over the holidays in a manner that will not reflect on your alma mater. If you must fall in the gutters celebrating, do it on a back street . . . Don't forget that the six weeks report is waiting in papa's hand for your homecoming . . . Keep in mind that the semester exams start soon after you return . . . that you will also have to pay your second semester's bills . . . and now we wish you a very Merry Xmas!

See you next year.

R. V. Neritz.

The Editor's Mail

Dear Editor:

You have asked for criticism of the paper, so here you are. Why don't you make the paper more interesting? There is so much space given to alumni notes. Of course, we are interested in our alumni, but I doubt if even the alumni are interested in how somebody had a rally day service in four paragraphs. We would be very glad to know that he was prospering if it would only take a few sentences to tell us that. If the alumni notes were more condensed, they could include a greater variety, and more space could be given to other things.

Then, as to the sport news. Couldn't it be kept off of the front page? And why all the space given to the line ups, etc., of games that were played weeks before? Those who are really interested, saw the games and those who are not interested certainly aren't going to read all of those articles.

As a whole it is a very good student paper. The columns are very clever.

A STUDENT.

Extrom to Lead S. U. Gridders Next Year

John Extrom was selected to lead the Susquehanna football team on the gridiron next season as a result of an election by the lettermen last Friday night. This marks the fourth successive year that a line-man has been selected to lead the Orange and Maroon. Extrom succeeds Adams, who played end on this year's aggregation.

Extrom has been playing tackle for the past two seasons and with his 212 pounds of weight has been of tremendous value as a line-man. Although his home is now at Kenville, N. J., he originally played with the Emporium High School. Extrom is a member of the Epsilon Sigma Fraternity.

SMITH'S FRESHMEN GET THEIR "BIBLES"

Northampton, Mass.—Smith college's 584 freshmen have been given college "bibles," neat little gilt edged volumes that tell "what Smith is all about." A few of the "hints" are:

"Communism has never been successfully worked out. Wear your own clothes and let others wear theirs.
"Bride is the thief of time.
"Remember you came to Smith, not to Amherst.

"Answer your parents' inquiries about life at Smith. The president hasn't time to fill out questionnaires.

"Don't consider it necessary to diet before your first vacation. Your family will be just as glad to see you if you look familiar."

PRO. GROSSMAN TO ATTEND TWO WEEK-END CONFERENCES

Prof. L. D. Grossman, director of physical education at Susquehanna University, will be a representative to two important meetings next week-end.

On Friday, December 18th he will attend a meeting of the Association for the Selection of Football Officials with representatives from all colleges in the Eastern Pennsylvania and Delaware group.

The representatives at this meeting will arrange a schedule of football officials who will officiate at the different colleges during the 1932 football season. The meeting will be held at the Penn A. C. Club at Philadelphia.

The following day, December 19th, Prof. Grossman will represent Susquehanna at a meeting of the Middle Atlantic States Collegiate Athletic Association, which will be held at the University Club in Philadelphia.

DEBATERS PROLONG CAPITALISM ARGUMENT

The debating club gathered for its usual meeting at 6:45 on Thursday evening, December 10, 1931. The question of Capitalism was again debated with a few changes in the affirmative and negative teams. Those in order of the line-up who debated for the negative side were Morrow, Brosius, and Malin. For the affirmative were Kindsmo, Hartman, and Clapper. Time was 8:40. There were no rebuttals. The speeches were well worked out and the things look now we have optimistic hopes for a successful forensic season.

ROOMER LEAVES WITH CLOTHING

An unusual incident in Selingsgrove was revealed, which occurred in the home of Mrs. Lydia Hall, of West Walnut street, where a roomer made away with several clothes belonging to a student of Susquehanna University.

A young stranger stopped at the Hall home for a room. He was shown one and accepted it, but did not pay anything down. He claimed to be a magazine salesman and was carrying a big pasteboard box, apparently empty.

His room was next to that of a university student, Michael Rachunis. Rachunis was satisfied with the newcomer, except the big box. When Rachunis returned to his room from Florshiem shirt, a tie, and a new pair of Florshiem shoes which had never been worn, were missing. The stranger never appeared again, and failed to pay any room rent for his one-day stay.

CUTS FOR EARLY MORNING SLEEP COSTLY AT LEHIGH

The cost of that class cut for one more hour's sleep in the morning is approximately $3 for arts students, $5.93 for business students, and $5,925.903 for engineers.

Two dollars and twenty-two cents is lost by the student's father who is sucker enough to send his son to college. One dollar and forty-eight cents 's lost by the college who spends $800 for each boy a year out of its endowment fund. The remaining $2.22 are lost by the boy, himself, out of the money he would have earned if he had a job instead of going to college. There is a fallacy here. Who could get a job in these times?

If a student cuts an afternoon class to go to a show it costs him $6.88. From the shows seen by the Brown and White staff, it is estimated that there has been no show in town for the last three years which has been worth even the price of admission of fifteen cents with the exception of the Monday night show over at the Lyric at Allentown and this had an added expense of being a strain on the eyes, and has caused many Lehigh students in the past to obtain glasses.

If an instructor cuts a class he wastes theoretically on the average of $177.99. If he comes to class and gives his lecture, the waste is still $177.00, 99c being a fair value for the lecture. For every minute a student sleeps in class or is late he loses 12c. For every "er" that the instructor utters in his lecture the cost is $1.78. Every joke that a professor makes in class is an absolute waste of $3.45. In fact he ought to be made to pay a fine.

Whenever Dr. Carothers writes a letter to the government the amount of waste the next week in economics classes would feed 237 hunger-stricken Chinese for eight days.

Three years ago Professor Long gave a lecture on this subject to his freshman chemistry classes adding this and the time spent on reading this article, the waste would be enough to build the Boulder Dam, pay for Lehigh's proposed dorms, and buy some poor frosh a new black tie.

THE SHAKESPEARE PLAYERS

Susquehanna University is pleased to present to its students and the public at large the Shakespeare Players, a professional company from New York. They will perform on Wednesday, January 6, in the afternoon at three o'clock the play of "Julius Caesar," and in the evening at eight-fifteen the drama of "Macbeth." The company includes Mr. Hendrickson, Miss Bruce, John C. Hickey, Lavinia Shannon, Louis Lytton, Ruth Prouty, W. J. Hackett, Stanley Copley and Webster Patterson. The Shakespeare Players come to Susquehanna University at Selingsgrove highly recommended by Frederick H. Koch, famous director of the Carolina Playmakers, University of North Carolina, at Chapel Hill.

INTER-COLLEGIATE BALL NOTICE

After a lapse of two years the old custom of an Inter-Collegiate Ball during the holidays will be revived in Harrisburg, on Tuesday, December 29th, in the Madrid Ballroom.

A committee of girls will be selected, one from each leading college and university, throughout Pennsylvania to represent her respective committee.

The dance will be a semi-formal affair in order to please the tastes of everyone concerned.

Students Take Part In Xmas Cantatas

On Sunday evening the choirs under the able direction of two of our faculty members, gave their annual Christmas programs. The programs were very interesting and all-inspiring, and filled the audiences with the Christmas spirit. The choir of St. Luke's Lutheran Church, Sunbury, under the direction of Mrs. Bertha L. Rodgers, member of the Conservatory of Music, sang a cantata entitled "City of God," by Matthews. Those students of Susquehanna University who participated were Misses Wyman, Markle, Leubach, Wagner and Hess, and Messrs. Caruth, Blackwood, and Minich. The choir of Trinity Lutheran Church, directed by Doctor F. G. Williams, sang a number of beautiful Christmas anthems. They were:

While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks by Night—Rogers.
St. Joseph and Mary (Clevenan Carol)—Arr. by Salama.

Planets, Stars and Airs of Space—Bach.

Lo, How a Rose E'er Blooming—Praetorius.

Jesus Christ is Born (Bohemian Carol)—Arr. by Salama.

Sing O Heavens—Tours.

Christmas Song—Arr. by Damrosch.

These students of Susquehanna University who participated were Misses V. Moody, Pifer, Mehling, Ellringham, Myers, Phillips, Martz, Horn, Kanyuk, Plummer and Shively, and Messrs. J. Oberdorf, Jr., Clark, Petry, Edwards, Legacy, Lohr, Shobert, Fox, Spiegelmyer, Stirling, Barnes and Fisher.

"THE LAST OF THESE" TO BE ANNUAL CHRISTMAS PLAY

Immediately after the Christmas dinner which will be served on Thursday evening the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. will present their annual Christmas play in Seibert Chapel Hall.

The play chosen this year is "The Last of These," adapted from a Christmas story by Tolstoy.

Miss Mary Weaverling is enacting the play and the cast is as follows:

The Old Cobbler ... Luke Rhoads
Stephen ... Penn Dively
The Young Woman, Esther Geisel
Her Child ... "Budd" Smith
Gay Young Soldier, Lee Fairchild
Old Apple Vendor ... Marie Miller
Young Bey ... William Morrow
Carol Singer.
Jewish Girl ... Janet Leitzell
Brother and Sister, Jean Kelchner and Etta Munaw.

S. U. Grad Edison's First Meter Man

Dr. Sidney E. Bateman, Thomas A. Edison's first meter man in his Sunbury plant, the world's first three-wire distribution system for electric current, was a visitor in Sunbury en route to his home in California with his wife after an eastern business trip.

Dr. Bateman was graduated from Susquehanna University in the class of 1885, and a member of the Edison pioneers, a group of men associated with the electrical wizard during the early years of his career, has many interesting reminiscences concerning the local work of Edison. The project was fraught with many difficulties, he said, and the experiments were looked upon at the time with considerable apathy.

The doctor collected for Edison his first electric light bill in Sunbury and he was first in many other phases of the local venture back in 1883. It was he who sketched from memory for F. A. Wardlaw, one of the Edison associates, the world's first three wire plant in Sunbury. His drawing was turned over to the Henry Ford museum at Dearborn, Mich. for reproduction.

As a young man Dr. Bateman took up the study of medicine and practiced in Philadelphia and Atlantic City. During the World War, he entered military service and was located at Camp Crane, spending eighteen months in service. Following the armistice he located at Santa Monica, Cal., where he is still located.

Dr. Bateman spent eleven years in the ministry, before finding medicine his real calling. He was a practicing physician in Philadelphia for thirty years.

AMUSEMENTS

This evening the Stanley Theater presents to the "talkie" audience, Ina Claire in "Rebound." It is comedy, including Robert Ames, Myrna Loy, Hedda Hopper, and Ruffalo Williams.

Tomorrow, Wednesday evening, Mae Clark and Kent Douglas will take the leads in "Waterloo Bridge," the biggest dramatic sensation since "All Quiet on the Western Front."

On Thursday evening the Stanley has booked for the theatergoer William Powell in "The Road to Singapore."

On Friday evening each home town theater will probably have booked a special feature for its returning college students.

Death of Graduate

Martin Luther Snyder, for fifty-one years a practicing attorney at the Northumberland county bar, died at his home on November 20, after suffering a physical breakdown from advancing years. For the past week he was in a stupor in which he did not recognize his family. He was 78 years of age.

Descendant of early settlers in Central Pennsylvania, he had a unique career, following the old Pennsylvania Canal as a boy to earn money for his education, teaching school, attending various institutions of learning, and finally studying law, and entering the bar. Only a few attorneys practiced longer than he. In addition to his legal practice he engaged extensively in real estate, and accumulated considerable holdings.

Between the ages of sixteen and twenty-one he taught school several terms at Salem and Winfield. In order to achieve higher education he entered Missionary Institute, now Susquehanna University, later going to Bloomsburg State Normal School, being a member of the Centennial class of 1890, and finally entering Princeton University where he was a classmate of Woodrow Wilson.

Upon his return from Princeton, he was called upon to fill the place of his brother, William Lester Snyder, who had died suddenly at the age of twenty-four years. He filled the position of cashier of the Augusta Bank at Front until he decided to enter the legal profession. He studied under the Hon. Simon P. Wolverton, and was admitted to the bar in 1880, continuing active in his chosen profession until a few years ago, when failing health compelled him to withdraw from his usual activities, although he attended court and took an interest in legal matters until his final sickness.

Harold Ditzler in Germany for Holidays

Reverend Harold E. Ditzler, son of Reverend Irvin Ditzler, of West Milton, and a nephew of D. E. Ditzler, of Selingsgrove, at whose home he resided while attending Susquehanna University, is a student at the Divinity School of the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, and plans to spend the holiday season in Berlin, Germany.

Rev. Ditzler attended Princeton University and Franklin and Marshall Theological Seminary and is now studying for his degree at Edinburgh. He will spend the holidays in Berlin with a classmate from Princeton.

Granted Leave of Absence

Lee E. Boyer, 26, principal of the Tressler Orphans' Home High School, was recently granted leave of absence in order to complete required work for advance degrees in education at Harvard University. His major studies will be of school administration and teaching mathematics. Mrs. Boyer and her little daughter Romaine accompanied him. They will make their home in Cambridge.

Graduate Honored

Another honor recently came to Dr. T. Bruce Birch, 89, professor of philosophy in Wittenberg College, and twenty-five years ago a professor in Susquehanna University.

Dr. Birch has accepted the invitation to contribute to the Dictionary of Medieval Latin. The book is to be published in London, England, compilation began several years ago, and is now going ahead as a project of International scholars.

Dr. Birch last year completed translation of William of Ockham's "De Sacramentis Altaris," which is considered one of the recent monumental contributions of the world's source book.

Fraternity Row

Phi Mu Delta

The Alumni who visited the Fraternity house during the week were Donald Wormley, Ray Scott, Harold Fisher, Paul Hoover.

Warren Wolf, E. R. Walborn and E. G. Goetz, students at Gettysburg Theological Seminary, were guests at lunch Sunday evening.

Rev. John Bishop stopped at the Fraternity house during the week.

Bond and Key

Plans are completed for the formal Christmas dinner party which is to be held on Thursday evening, December 18th, at the club home. Dr. and Mrs. Charles Leese are to be the chaperones. Mr. and Mrs. Jared Mayes and their son, Jared, III, are to be the guests of honor.

Misses Gerude Burgan, of Philadelphia; Mar' Burgan, of Harrisburg; Martha Bens n, of Sunbury; Rheba Decker, of Williamsport, and Elizabeth Bryce, of State College, were guests at the Mid-winter Formal Dance held last Saturday evening.

"Bill" Chesman, of Philadelphia, was the guest of Herbert Rummell over the week-end.

Of the alumni that were back this week Clarence Derr 27, Oliver Swisher 27, William Herman 31, Charlton Shaffer 30, and Clifford Johnston 31, attended the dance Saturday night.

John E. Sanderson 27, who is living at Gettysburg, was a visitor at the club last Tuesday afternoon.

Omega Delta Sigma

On Saturday afternoon Omega Delta Sigma entertained the honorary members of their sorority with a bridge in Seibert Hall. At this time three newcomers, Mrs. Letiz Mrs. George Seidel and Mrs. Russell Gilbert, were initiated into honorary membership.

After the initiation service, held in the sorority room, various card games were played in the social room. There were six tables of bridge, one of five hundred and one of fan tan. The first prize in bridge went to Mrs. Gaugler, of Middleburg, and the second prize was won by Miss Strother.

Refreshments in keeping with the Christmas season were served by the sorority.

A large number of the honoraries attended this affair, held in their honor.

THE MAD HATTER

What makes the hatter mad.

The college halls.

With iced walls,

The campus and the frat

Are full of studies

With varied moods

But not a single hat.

Though bleak the day,

No storms dismay

The hatless college lad,

And thus we see

Quite readily

What makes the hatter mad.

—George E. Phair.

HONORARY CLUBS MEET

Pi Gamma Mu held their Christmas party in Seibert Hall last evening at 6:30. The business meeting was first taken care of and the remaining time was spent in games and other entertainment. Refreshments were served at the end of the program.

Phi Kappa, the honorary Philhellene Society of the campus was entertained at the home of Dr. and Mrs. A. William Ahl last evening. The business meeting began at 8 o'clock and was followed by a delightful social hour and refreshments. A noteworthy instance from the business meeting is the fact that a new constitution was adopted by this group. A number of reports on Greek literature made the program exceptionally interesting.

The Grocer's Compliment

Customer: "Three of those apples you sent me were rotten. I am bringing them back."

Storekeeper: "That's all right, madam. You needn't bring them back. Your word is just as good as the apples."

MODERN GREEKS HOLD MID-WINTER FORMALS

were Dr. and Mrs. George F. Dunkelberger, Professor and Mrs. Fidon K. Rumbarger, Professor and Mrs. Frederick C. Sevens, Professor and Mrs. Russell Gilbert Professor and Mrs. D. Irvin Reitz, Dr. and Mrs. A. William Ahl and Professor and Mrs. John J. Heitz.

According to reports from these presses all of the dances were of a high order and according to that well known phrase, "enjoyed by all." The web-dancing feature of the evening was the fact that the dampness outside was somewhat of a hindrance to the formal wear of the dancers.

on away from the varsity. At half time the Alumni was trailing by a 17-10 score. However, soon after the half started the graduates worked themselves within three points of the lead.

Susquehanna then started the spurt that sent it far into the lead. Van Nuys was especially effective at this stage of the game and tossed through nine points.

It would be hard to pick out an outstanding player for the Susquehanna team during the game. The starting line-up of Rummel, Wasilewski, McGeehan, Palmer and Driebelbis seemed very powerful. Glenn, Rhoades and Shaffer played great games for the Alumni. Summary:

"DOVER ROAD," MILNE COMEDY, PRESENTED BY KAPPA DELTA PHI

Robert Hartman stole many honors in effectively portraying Eustasia's present passion as a dejected, disillusioned, and rather cynical young man who had tasted the sour extracts of matrimonial relations. Ruth Nelson and Arthur Wilmarth formed the other combination of elopers who were representing in the leisure of Mr. Latimer's home before acting in haste.

John Ballentine as Mr. Latimer, again served in the role of host, and deserves much credit for his capable rendition of a long and difficult part containing many long lines of bombastic and tongue-twisting speech. Mr. Latimer was a wealthy bachelor whose preoccupation in life was in discovering a couple about to elope and bringing them to his home on the Dover Road, where he persuaded them to remain, by various means, for at least one week. If they still wished to marry at the expiration of this time, he happily consented, but if otherwise, he obligingly arranged the details. Eustasia turned out to be the wife of Leonard (Art Wilmarth), but there were no reconciliations in the end, thereby carrying out the author's prejudice against hasty marriages.

Although very entertaining on the whole, there were times in the first act when the action was slowed up considerably, from the attempt to represent a dinner scene on the rather limited confines of Seibert Hall's stage capacity. In spite of this, the contortions of Auchmuty, Hess, and their confederates were sufficient to maintain interest throughout.

The levity and general tone of the "Dover Road" provided a pleasant change from the unbroken string of "heavy drama" to which Susquehanna has been exposed for the past two years.

The cast was as follows:

Latimer	John Ballentine
Ann	Ruth Nelson
Leonard	Arthur Wilmarth
Eustasia	Mary Weaverling
Nicholas	Robert Hartman
Dominic	George Hess
First Footman	Jack Auchmuty
Second Footman	Harold Whitkop
First Maid	Diane Ladas
Second Maid	Dorothy Hutter
Third Man	Reed Spear
Third Woman	Harriet Leese

Alumni Office Issues a Directory Bulletin

Graduates Receive Business Reply Cards for Missing Information of Old Susquehanna Students

A directory number of the Susquehanna Bulletin has been published by the Alumni Association for the benefit of all Susquehanna people everywhere. This directory takes a list of over two thousand names of graduates of the Missionary Institute, College, Conservatory, and Seminary. The Alumni Office has been trying for some time to get a check on the many missing names and addresses for their files; and have at last come upon a very desirable way of accomplishing this end.

The front of the directory holds a business reply card for each alumni to fill out, giving his correct address, occupation, and news notes. The back cover of the bulletin holds three business reply cards to send it with the correct address of missing alumni from the office lists. A cooperation with the alumni office in this matter will make the separate alumni associations more useful and strengthen the central power.

Each name in this booklet is followed by the degree, class year, and address, wherever it is known. All the names are listed alphabetically so as to make work with the volume more expedient. The Alumni Office has been working on the formation of this booklet since the first of September, 1931, and it is complete and concise in every detail.

We hope that all students and alumni will cooperate with the office in completing the missing material which is desired.

Phi Lambda Theta National Convention At State College

Dr. Dunkelberger, Local Honorary, Elected to National Board of Trustees. Alpha Entertains

For weeks and months, students from various colleges and universities throughout the country were looking forward to one of the most noteworthy and outstanding events in the collegiate and fraternal field; it was nothing other than the National Convention of Phi Lambda Theta, which was held the Christmas holidays at State College. For years this has been an annual event, and because of its achievements and pre-eminence among college fraternities it has received state wide recognition.

Dr. Dunkelberger, of our own campus, and also an honorary member of the local chapter, was elected to the National Board of Trustees.

After the transaction of all business, the visitors and delegates were entertained by the boys of Alpha Chapter. They made a sight seeing tour of State College and local places of interest.

The local chapter was well represented by Arthur Wilmarth, Kermit Wither, Bert Green, Walter Metzger, and Calvin Naugle.

The boys are all looking forward to the coming convention, which will be held at Beta Chapter, in Manhattan, Kansas.

"WOP" HOFFMAN LAID LOW WITH "HEN" SICKNESS

Warren Hoffman, popular member of the Senior Class at Susquehanna, was out among the students who returned to the campus last week following the holiday recess. "Wop" is ill with the chicken pox at his home in Mt. Carmel.

REGISTRATION

Sophomores and Freshmen should not forget that Wednesday and Thursday, respectively, are their days for registration. All Juniors and Seniors should now have their schedules complete for the second semester.

February 1 is the day that all students must complete their registration by securing their enrollment card at the Registrar's Office and paying the regular fees at the Bursar's Office.

Attends Convention

MARTHA GESSNER

President of S. S. D. Attends Convention

Martha Gessner is Representative of Local Sorority at Northwestern U. Susquehanna Alumni Are Officers

Sigma Sigma Delta, National Open Sorority, held its Second Biannual Convention, December 28 and 29 at Gamma Chapter, located at Northwestern University, Evanston, Illinois. Martha Gessner, local president of the Beta Chapter, represented Susquehanna at the convention. Another feature of the meeting was the election of officers in which Susquehanna girls featured. The girls honored were: Miss Dorothy Goff, 28, National President, and Mary Eastep, 30, First Vice President.

On the evening of December 28, the delegates enjoyed a banquet held at the Medinah Club, which was followed by a Russian opera, "Boris Godounoff," at the largest Opera House in the world, the Chicago Civic Opera House. During a sight seeing tour, the Gamma girls showed the representatives many points of interest in and about Chicago, such as Hull House, Garfield Park Conservatory, New Board of Trade Building, World Fair Ground, Northwestern University, and University of Chicago.

The convention headquarters were: Sigma Sigma Delta Rooms, Willard Hall, Northwestern University. Eta Chapter of Baldwin and Wallace College, will entertain the group in December, 1933.

Miss Gessner states: "The Convention was a big success and it makes a girl feel wonderful to know she has sisters in a city like Chicago."

Frosh Co-ed Escapes Injury in Accident

During the Christmas holidays, Winnie Korte, freshman student at the Conservatory of Music, escaped injury in an automobile collision at the corner of Third and Arch streets, Sunbury.

Winnie was driving her father's car, a Cadillac Sedan, homeward bound with her three brothers, west on Arch street. On approaching the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks at the station, she slowed up and looked in both directions, then proceeded over the tracks and over the street intersection bridge. She had almost cleared the intersection when Joseph Albright, driving a Ford delivery truck south on Third street, collided with the Cadillac, swinging it around so the left rear wheel was against the curb, the car wheeling northward. Glass in the right rear door and the window back of it was shattered. Five spokes on the right rear wheel splintered, running board and fender on right side crushed, rear fender bent against the tire, and the door dented.

S. U. BAND PLAYS FOR COURT BATTLE

The Susquehanna University Band was in full regalia at the Lebanon Valley basketball game on last Friday evening, spurring the basketballers to action. The Director of the organization, Professor Elrose Allison, hopes that the Band will be able to make an appearance at all home games.

The band will start intensive practice to prepare for its spring concert, which is earlier this year than in former years. Because of the fall that usually follows the season on the gridiron some of the members have fallen away from the use of their instruments, but hard rehearsals will soon put the fellows back into shape.

Susquehanna Athlete Confined to Hospital

John Oberdorf, Selensgrove, Prominent Sophomore, Recovering Slowly from Major Operation in Middleburg

John Oberdorf, a local boy, member of the Susquehanna University track team, qualifying in high jumping and in other field events, is convalescing at the Fetter Hospital, Middleburg, Penna. after an operation on his spinal column.

He received an injury to his back during track season while high jumping, but, as it caused him no trouble at the time, neglected it. This fall he suffered from pains somewhat like rheumatism, the diagnosis of local doctors. But an X-ray revealed a growth on the column. During this vacation it was decided that an operation would be necessary and he went to the hospital in Middleburg. The operation was successful, but the return to normal health will require time.

He is a member of the Sophomore class and a member of the Bond and Key fraternity. The staff takes this opportunity of wishing John a speedy recovery and return to his school work.

Varsity Five Will Meet Strong Opposition In Next Two Weeks

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday will find the Susquehanna basketball team taking long hard practices for it will be the only time in which Coach Ullery will be able to work his men for two weeks well scheduled with basketball games.

During the latter part of this week the team will travel to Philadelphia, to meet Temple Pharmacy on Friday night and LaSalle on Saturday. The following Tuesday the team will again travel, this time to Lebanon Valley to engage in a return battle. And, on Friday, Jan. 22, the quintet will engage in the important home game with Juniata.

This week Coach Ullery will turn all his attention to the two contests in Philadelphia. Temple Pharmacy is a team of little known quality and can easily turn out to be a very powerful machine. LaSalle has played several games already and has already proven itself a very strong quintet. Susquehanna defeated this five easily last season, but that with all probability will not be the case this year.

Mrs. Geo. Seidel Sorrows In Death of Her Father

Sorrow came to a member of the faculty with the death of Dr. Edward Hoffmeister, father of Mrs. George Seidel, December 30. Funeral services were held in Baltimore, January 4, with burial in Druid Hill cemetery there.

Dr. Hoffmeister, who has long been regarded as one of the country's most outstanding authorities on dental materia medica died as a result of paralysis, with which he was stricken just a few days before his demise.

The deceased was 61 years old and had been a member of the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery faculty since 1894. He received his preparatory education in private schools in Baltimore. Before entering dentistry he studied at the Baltimore City College, Johns Hopkins University and the University of Baltimore. He was graduated from the first dental school in this country, the Baltimore School of Dental Surgery. In 1894 he received the degree of Doctor of Dental Surgery.

ULLERY AND GROSSMAN ATTEND FOOTBALL MEETING

William W. Ullery, coach of major sports at Susquehanna University, and Luther D. Grossman, director of athletics, attended the conference of the American Football coaches association at the Grand ball room of the Hotel Pennsylvania in New York City on December 29th. The conference was called to consider the football rules for 1932 and the public proceedings of the rules committee.

S. S. D. Entertains Freshman Girls In Formal Rush Dance

The Sigma Sigma Delta formal rush dance, held last Saturday evening in Bond and Key Club house, turned out to be a delightful affair. About forty couples were present, including sorority members, alumnae, new girls, guests, and faculty members. The faculty was represented by Miss Hade, Miss Swettman, Miss Corbin, Dr. Wilson, Prof. Gilbert, Dr. and Mrs. Leese, Dr. and Mrs. Tucker, Dr. Williams and mother. Music was furnished by "The Ambassadors" of Mt. Carmel.

2 Faculty Members Enjoy Xmas Vacation Under Tropical Sun

Miss Belle Strother, and Miss Lucy Irving Tour Cuba, Visiting Those Places Interesting to Students

During the Christmas vacation Miss Belle Strother and Miss Lucy Irving took a trip to Cuba and were very much impressed by the beautiful scenery they saw and were delighted by the marvelous weather they had.

On the way down they stopped at St. Augustine, the oldest city in the world. It was there that Miss Strother drank from the Fountain of Youth. Mabel Fultz remarked that she noticed a decided improvement. They also stopped at Palm Beach, Daytona and Miami. They enjoyed taking a dip in the morning at Miami. They also saw the national Cuban ball game at Miami. It is called Jai-Alai and is played with a long basket-like looking object and a hollow rubber ball. They enjoyed it immensely and thought it very fascinating.

They spent Christmas at Havana, where they took a day trip around the town to the country. They enjoyed seeing the tropical plants and the large poinsettias which were as tall as a person. They also saw a typical Cuban cock fight, and took a moonlight trip around the city, visited the casinos, the cabarets and the beautiful Columbus Cathedral. This is the oldest cathedral in the world and its structure is quite marvelous.

They enjoyed seeing the capitol building, which was just completed last year. They decided that it was much prettier than the one in Washington. There are very gorgeous paintings in the building. Under the dome is a $50,000 diamond, from which all distance is measured.

They stayed at a hotel in Havana in which Spanish was the only language spoken. Miss Strother had quite a difficult time trying to get Miss Irving to translate everything that was said. All the buildings were white. There is a great deal of poverty in Havana, but it is the best lighted and best peccied city there. The University of Havana has been closed for a year because the students were rebelling against the government, so they were able to see quite a few Cuban soldiers.

The population of Havana is 700,000 and there are 70,000 bars there. They evidently don't have any trouble worrying about a repeal of the Volstead Act.

Miss Irving said that she hated to come back and wished that she could spend the rest of her life there. Miss Strothers liked it very much too, but she still prefers her "old Virginia."

Interior Decorators Attack Physics Room

The students taking courses in Physics were ushered into an entirely new class room upon their return to school following the Christmas recess. The class room in the basement of Steele Science Hall is now the most attractive room for class work.

During the summer months a new ceiling was put up and a better lighting system installed. The work over the holidays included two coats of light buff paint to the walls and ceiling and a coat of grey paint on the floor. The blackboards were raised a half foot so as to be of more use in the diagrams and figures issuing from various lectures. The remodeling has given the room a more lively appearance and perhaps will help throw some light on the problems which will come up throughout the various courses.

Lebanon Valley Is Victor Over S. U. Dribblers, 33 - 16

Heller Demoralizes Boys by Dropping 15 Points. McGeehan and Wasilewski Especially Effective for S. U.

In its first regular basketball game of the season the Susquehanna quintet dropped a 33-16 defeat to the veteran Lebanon Valley team last Friday night in the Alumni Gymnasium.

In Lebanon Valley the Orange and Maroon met what in all probability will be its most formidable opponent of the season. The visitors put a team on the floor in which four of its members have been playing together for the past three years. Among them was Heller, the captain and one of the outstanding college players of the east.

Lebanon Valley showed itself a well seasoned asseration from the opening whistle and with a slow breaking attack proceeded to work several perfect block plays. Stewy failed first, where he took a pass from Heller on a block play and sank a shot. Another set play followed and Heller ran one through from in back of the foul line. The visitors continued their relentless attack and it was not until nearly the middle of the second half that Susquehanna was able to do any scoring. Wasilewski intercepted a pass and dribbled down for an easy score. McGeehan took a pass from Rummell and cut through for a pretty goal and then followed up another shot for two points more. Before the half time period was over Dreiblebis also counted from under the basket. The half ended with the score 21-8.

In the second half Susquehanna scored eight more points, while the visitors were only able to turn their total up to 12. However, Referee Shradin allowed the game to become very rough and before the gun was fired to end the contest the game had assumed the proportions of indoor football.

The Crusaders throughout the contest played a much better game defensively than offensively. In spite of the fact that Lebanon Valley ran up 33 points, Heller was the only player able to score consistently under the basket and he ran up 15 points. The attack of the Orange and Maroon seemed very ragged and the passing was especially inaccurate. This being the first game against real opposition possibly had something to do with this.

McGeehan and Wasilewski were the outstanding Susquehanna players. McGeehan was especially effective in picking balls off the Lebanon Valley backboard while Wasilewski was always a menace to the visiting passers.

The score:

A COURSE IN JOURNALISM

The conducting of a class in journalism during the second semester by the Editor-in-Chief of THE SUSQUEHANNA and the Faculty Advisor to the staff will be an attempt to create a higher type of journalism in the college weekly. Thus far no definite time has been set for the meeting of the class.

All members of the Editorial staff will be required to attend, for which they will get credit upon the recommendation of the Editor-in-Chief and the Staff Advisor. All Freshmen candidates who desire to become affiliated with the newspaper must attend. The Editor-in-Chief would like to have the copy of the second semester schedule of all staff members and those interested in the work. Give them to the Editor or drop them into THE SUSQUEHANNA news box in Selinsgrove Hall.

SENIORS AND JOBS

The Journal of Higher Education, in its October issue, reports an interesting study of the attitudes of employers toward college graduates, as made by the personnel officer of Syracuse University, Mr. D. B. Watt.

The following are the chief conclusions reached:

(1) Too many college seniors expect to be sold a job after graduation, rather than attempting to sell themselves to prospective employers.

(2) Employers are seeking the individual for his personal qualities rather than for the training he has received during four years of college.

(3) Universities which develop character, personality, and qualities of leadership in their students are doing a far more important job than those which specialize exclusively in academic training.

Statements like these should be of interest to all seniors as well as all college students. The idea that "specialization" is what the employer seeks in the college graduate is evidently becoming "passé." With prerequisites like these, students who attend institutions which stress the development of character, personality, and the qualities of leadership should feel that they have a decided advantage over the extremely specialized graduate.

Susquehanna University, as a co-educational institution, has always sought to supply the opportunity of a normal, natural development of character, personality, and leadership amid refined and cultural surroundings.

IN SYMPATHY

The past Christmas vacation was a particularly regrettable one for Dr. and Mrs. George Seidel and for William Caruth. The Almighty Power called to Himself the father of Mrs. Seidel, Dr. Edward Hoffmeister, and the father of William Caruth, Mr. Caruth.

THE SUSQUEHANNA joins in extending deepest sympathy to Dr. and Mrs. Seidel and to William Caruth in the bereavement for their lost loved ones.

FOOLS! FOOLS! 100,000,000 FOOLS!

Racketeers cost the citizens of the United States at least five billion dollars a year, causing a situation which presents one of the greatest economic problems of the age, is the contention of Carter Dale in "One Hundred Million Fools," the final article of a series on racketeering published in the February issue of Real Detective Magazine.

Five Billion Dollars is the Difference Between Prosperity and Depression!

Every man who spends a dollars pays an indirect tax to the racketeer. If each citizen only realized that racketeering in any industry hits him directly, no matter how far it is removed from his personal business, he would do something about it. he would.

"The attitude toward law and lawbreaking is a principal reason why racketeering has succeeded to the extent of five billion dollars a year in America," writes Mr. Dale. "Each of us has our own pet laws we break, and with insipid tolerance we stand by and see others break the laws they want to break."

And so we pay tribute to the racketeer.

"Racketeering," concludes Mr. Dale, "in taking this tremendous annual tribute, has sapped from our normal life enough money to put living wages in the pockets of every unemployed family head in the land."

"Money exists in plenty in this country today for all of us to live comfortably and well. As long as such great sums must be shined into racketeer pockets, however, we cannot expect to have our fair share."

"I do not believe I exaggerate when I say we are one hundred million fools; good-hearted, even-tempered, mild natured and well intentioned fools, perhaps—but fools nonetheless."

Dear Editor:

THE BULL IN THE CHINA SHOP

The havoc a bull can cause in a china shop is relative, depending on the manner in which the bull acts. A docile, well trained bull (if any exist) can give peacefully move about in a shop filled with china without breaking a single piece of the rare goods; but (that eternal condition) if the animal rambles from one end of the enclosure to the other, infuriating himself until he becomes mad, the havoc will be general. Not one solid piece of china will survive such an attack.

Following directly:

The knowledge a group of students can secure from a university or similar institution is relative, depending on the attitude which the students take. A wise, well-trained, gentlemanly student (if any exist) can very successfully attain a great deal of systematically arranged knowledge without becoming a hermit; but if the student becomes animalistic, an anarchist to modern principles, raving, and tearing dormitories into complete devastation, there can be only one result. His wisdom is nil and his knowledge becomes a minus quality bounded by his childlike deprecations. In reality he becomes the "bull in the china shop."

Kind indeed would be the circumstances, if this type of student would be of harm to himself only; but rather he becomes a source of hindrance to the more peaceful-minded students. He "wrecks" their rooms, he disturbs the quiet of their study hour, he defers their sleep and finally he destroys their initiative.

Animals, even domesticated ones, are not usually found in a university classroom, or attending college social functions. At the present time, however, our college and studious atmosphere is blemished by a number of these human bulls.

They outdistance the havoc of the "china bull" by continued disorders. Warnings have been given and appear futile at the hands of the Student Council, who seem to be in a state of lethargy. Inaction is a most depressing evil, and ethics teachers us that one evil cannot be eliminated by the application of another.

The policy of this paper is not destructive propaganda, but the time has come for action. We do not expect the expulsion of these lawless ones, but we do demand the complete cooperation of the students (especially those in Hassinger Hall) in correcting these evils by a certain plan of activity arranged by acting Student Council.

Usually we think of the Council as the "student speaking voice," the opinion of the students. Certainly this ungentlemanly destruction is not the will of the student body at large. During other years the Student Council begged for authority and the "dormitory committees" wanted more power. At present this authority has been granted them and they are letting the torch fall.

A weak Student Council reflects weakness on the body who placed them in power, and put them in office. Either the Council and the body are strong, or both are weak. The Council depicts the character of the body—let us be STRONG. The supposed modern parlance is: "Come on, let's do it!"

Our policy is justice and our creed is activity. Will we uphold them?

Yours truly,

A PIECE OF CHINA.

S. U. PEPYS

The college statistician, having nothing better to do over the holidays, has dooped out a record of football scores from the past season, by which he claims Susquehanna had a better team than Southern California, national champions for 1931. Take a look:

Junata 26, Susquehanna 2.
 Juniata 25, Wayneburg 6.
 Wayneburg 7, Penn State 0.
 Penn State 31, Lehigh 0.

I would say about one out of ten!"

The freshman removed his cap respectfully, and entered the room. It was crowded with figures sitting or standing about. For the most part their faces were impassive, but a single motive seemed to be expressed on all of them. One in particular the freshman watched anxiously. He was tall, massive and burly, with a booming voice which he directed curtly at certain individuals from time to time. The freshman started restlessly at each of these instances, knowing that it would soon be his turn. The room seemed to become oppressively hot. A heavy haze of smoke hung heavily all over the room. The minutes seemed like hours, as the big clock ticked on and on. And now the man was coming towards him, his eyes fixed on him, but his harsh face devoid of any emotion. He stopped, and uttered but two words, "You're next."

The freshman sighed, and slid contentedly onto a stool.
 "Make mine a hamburger and a cup of coffee."

All right, I'll quit.
 But remember, there's only 297 shopping days until Xmas! R. V. Nertz.

Seniors and Juniors Secure Victories in Inter-Class Series

After enjoying a wide margin at half time, the Sophomores were forced to take the weak end of the score 31-28 against the Seniors on Tuesday, Jan. 5, in the first game of Susquehanna's inter-class loop.

The second half of the contest was a thrilling one and the lead changed several times. Summary:

Sophomores

MISS REEDER SUFFERS SLIGHT FOOT INJURY

Miss Dorothy Reeder sustained an injury on her right foot again last Saturday, while she was playing basketball. She had recovered entirely from the broken bone in her right foot which she received earlier in the semester and had been exposing herself to rather strenuous exercise.

The injury will probably keep Miss Reeder on crutches for several days, but is not serious.

LADIES AUXILIARY PLAN TO GIVE BENEFIT MOVIE

The Ladies Auxiliary of Susquehanna University held their regular meeting Saturday afternoon. The Presbyterian Quartette of Sunbury, composed of Mrs. Wingard, Mrs. Van Alten, Mr. Raymond Fasold, and Professor Ackley entertained with several quartette selections and song solos.

At the business meeting, which was held in the social room after the program, plans for a benefit movie to be given January fourteenth, were completed. Tickets were distributed, with Mrs. Luther Day Grossman in charge. Refreshments were served with Mrs. John J. Houtz, of that committee.

AMUSEMENTS

The Strand Theater has a very attractive program for the theater goer this week.

Tonight John Boles will take the lead in "Good Sport."

On Wednesday evening the talkie, "High Stakes," will include the stars Mac Murray and Lowell Sherman.

The Women's Auxiliary of Susquehanna University will hold a benefit movie, which stars the popular Tullulah Bankhead in "The Cheat," on Thursday night.

Ronald Coleman will take the lead in "The Unholy Garden" on Friday evening.

"Over the Hill" is the talkie which will bring James Dunn and Sally Eilers on the screen Saturday.

Next Monday Paramount will present Paul Lucas and Dorothy Jordan in "The Beloved Bachelor."

Comedies and news reels will accompany all presentations.

Jay Vees Overwhelm Belwood Y Court Men

The Susquehanna Jay Vee's overwhelmed a Belwood Y. M. C. A. combination in the preliminary game to the Lebanon Valley game by the score of 41-14 last Friday night.

The reserves did not play good basketball, but since the Belwood team did not offer strong opposition the Pace and Maroon was able to sink an over-supply of goals. Summary:

Seibert Hall Echoes

A stigma has been placed on the campus by a senior girl who spent a part of her Christmas vacation in Chicago. It must have been the general lawlessness of the city which tempted her to life some silver from a hotel. Or maybe she wanted it for her hope chest!

Speaking of Hope chests what is this we have heard of "Jo" Pifer concerning a chest of some sort.

Have you seen the Frats pins that came to Seibert Hall after Christmas vacation? And were you told, "It doesn't mean anything?"

Edna Williamson had a profitable Christmas. She brought four jokes back with her. They taste of Pittsburgh.

For particulars as to who in the Freshman class, that is among the men, can dance, see Mary Eltringham.

She catalogued them after Saturday night.

The big question this past week was what did you get from your boy friend for Christmas. In case you are curious many got Christmas cards.

May we suggest that Madeline Steinger have a private phone installed in her room!

Several girls have been receiving phone calls from Middleburg Hospital. I wonder who could be calling whom.

We are very glad to have Emiline Bowman back. We hope that she is fully recovered and will continue with us. She was missed.

TEN GAMES FORM FIRST ROUND OF CLASS BALL

The inter class basketball schedule will be played in two rounds this season. After the season has been completed the winner of the first round will play a three game series with the winner of the second round.

The complete schedule for the first round is as follows:

Jan. 4, Sophs. vs. Seniors.	Jan. 11, Theologs vs. Seniors.
Jan. 7, Frosh vs. Juniors.	Jan. 13, Theologs vs. Frosh.
Jan. 11, Theologs vs. Seniors.	Jan. 14, Sophs. vs. Juniors.
Jan. 13, Theologs vs. Frosh.	Jan. 18, Frosh vs. Seniors.
Jan. 21, Theologs vs. Sophomores.	Feb. 3, Frosh vs. Sophomores.
Feb. 4, Juniors vs. Seniors.	Feb. 8, Juniors vs. Theologs.

Epsilon Sigma

The annual Christmas dinner was held on Thursday evening, December 18th at the chapter house on West Walnut street. Nine guests were entertained to a turkey dinner besides the active members of the fraternity.

Herbert Hohman, president, delivered the address of welcome and responses of appreciation were made by each of the guests, who were: Dr. Harold N. Pollmer, Dr. Theodore W. Kretschmann, Dr. William A. Sadtler, Dr. A. William Ahl, Dr. John I. Woodruff, Dr. Robert W. Tucker, Lewis F. Gembeling, Coach William W. Ullery and assistant Coach Herbert Snell.

S. A. I. News

Hear ye. The pirates of Sigma Alpha Iota were again in charge at the Conservatory on Friday night. Their captives were eleven freshmen girls, Ruth Baird, Alma Meyer, Rose Marie Sent, Edna Elmore, Margaret Kinney, Betty Shippe, Winnie Korte, Ruth Nessel, Elva Winklebich, Dorothy Eastep, and Esther Thurston. At exactly 8 o'clock the captives were taken aboard the ship and in silence commanded to work their way to the main cabin, where they were ordered to entertain the pirates. After each one had succeeded in pleasing their judges, Pirates Wagner and Dunkelberger dragged in a treasure chest among which they dined and fought for the bags of gold in it, which, contrary to pirate custom they divided among the captives.

About this time the pirates brought in the food and mugs of root beer, and when everyone had finished, the crew and captives danced until the captain announced that it was time for the ship to shove off.

Omega Delta Sigma

Omega Delta Sigma held their mid-year election January sixth and elected the following officers to serve through the second semester: Edna Williamson, president; Daisy Reese, vice president; Ruth Plummer, secretary; Aberdeen Phillips, treasurer.

PHI MU DELTA FRATERNITY CONDUCTS VESPER HOUR

Vespers were held Sunday evening at 5:30. Lewis R. Fox was in charge for Phi Mu Delta Fraternity. The hymns "Abide With Me" and "He Leadeth Me" were sung. The scripture reading was taken from Philippians 3:10-2. Miss Virginia Moody played an organ solo. Prayer was offered. Mr. Herbert Schmidt spoke on "A Challenge for the New Year." The ideas emphasized were that with the passing of years there are in general two things which we do—prepare for life now and for life eternal. Today our preparation for life is of the best but we lack determination to live it. This gives us our challenge in the words of Christ, "Follow Me." If we dare to do this during the coming year then we will be making Jesus not just an idea or an ideal, but a reality.

FACULTY ROW

Dr. George E. Fisher attended the Pennsylvania State Education Association convention in Pittsburgh, December 28th, 29th and 30th. Mrs. Fisher, Roscoe and Gertrude Fisher accompanied him to Imperial, Pa., where they, as well as Dr. Fisher, when he was not attending the convention, visited with their daughter and sister.

The convention had various sections. Dr. Fisher, of course, being interested chiefly in the Higher Education Section. President Thomas S. Gates of the University of Pennsylvania. President Ralph Hetzel of Pennsylvania State College, and Chancellor John Bowman of the University of Pittsburgh, delivered addresses at this meeting, the general theme of the addresses being "Certain University Programs in the Commonwealth." All three addresses emphasized the great necessity for training young men and women into the ways of good citizenship. Faculty-controlled, clean athletics were recommended. Dr. Fisher was also greatly interested in the Science Section, especially in the relation of science to citizenship.

It is interesting to know that while Dr. Fisher was attending one of the sessions of the convention, a communist body attempted to invade the meeting and give the educators their story. A vigilant police guard frustrated the attempt, but the communists were so insistent that four of their members were arrested.

SHAKESPEARE PLAYERS CANCELLED ENGAGEMENT

Dr. Arthur H. Wilson, head of the English Department, announced recently that the engagement of James Hendrickson and Claire Bruce and their company of Shakespearean Players had been cancelled by the company.

The Shakespearean Players were to appear in two productions at Seibert Hall on January 6th. No definite word is known, whether negotiations will be made for another engagement.

DR. A. W. AHL ATTENDS PHILOLOGICAL SESSIONS

Dr. A. William Ahl, professor of Greek and Bible at Susquehanna, spent part of his Christmas vacation attending a meeting of the American Philological Association at the University of Richmond in Virginia.

Dr. Ahl is the author of several books dealing with old-world inscriptions interpreted from the modern angle of philological research.

Today we have no such discussions on questions, because the theory of evolution no longer is of vital import; it has faded away from an over-exertion of its power.

More and More Formality

Tails for Evening Wear With Trend Towards Formal Accessories Noted Among Men at Social Affairs.

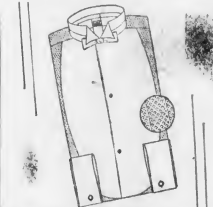

HOLIDAY social festivities have turned the attention of young men everywhere to the subject of evening dress and a review of prevailing styles shows that the trend is toward more and more formality. The movement in this direction, observed as definitely under way about two years ago, has been accelerated until it is, this season, not only the accepted mode but practically the imperative.

The surest barometer is the full dress, or tail, coat. As a style feature, this garment has probably moved faster the last two years than anything made for men in a long, long time. It appeared in increasing numbers last season but this fall and early winter it has become almost unanimous for formal functions. Reports of stylists indicate that the return of women's evening dress to more formality is a been largely responsible for the trend in men's evening cloths.

With the tails, of course, there must follow formality in appurtenances—hat, shoes, shirt, cuff and overcoat. Opera hats are said to be the favorites still for formal evening wear but a growing trend toward silk hats is also reported. The dress pump in patent leather, rather than in dull finish, is growing in favor with the trend towards tail coats.

Styles in dress shirts seem to have settled quite definitely on the two-button shirt in birdseye pique, both ribbed and plain. The single button shirt is occasionally seen at the smarter affairs but by far the majority are two-button. The one-button, however, is popular with the tuxedo. A new wing collar, even smarter than the always smart wing, is worn this season with the tail coat and pique shirt. The collar is slightly higher, 2 to 2½ inches, the opening is slightly narrower and the tabs are more pointed though shorter. The most popular shirt opens in the back, so that the bosom always presents a smarter, smoother appearance and cannot be broken when studs are inserted. The bosom is also longer and more tapering, to slip snugly inside the higher-waisted trousers. Narrow spade, blunt end and square bow ties are equally good in black, for tuxedo, and white, for tails.

Newest dress shirt with (inset) enlarged view of bosom fabric.

Susquehanna Men Lead As

Mentors of Scholastic Sports

Harry F. Sweeney '23, West Liberty S. T. C. Coach and Athletic Director Has Champ Teams in All Major Sports. List Includes Riden '20, Raymer '22, Bolig '26

"AL" SNYDER WINS SOCCER TITLE

During the past football season a group of former Susquehanna athletes guided collegiate and high school gridiron elevens thru successful campaigns as coaches.

In order to enlighten the present student body to the fact that Susquehanna has graduated outstanding men in the field of athletics and in physical education, who are able to teach just as well as coach, we are going to enumerate the records of some of the successful pigskin tutors.

In the intercollegiate world, we have Harry F. Sweeney at West Liberty State Teachers College in West Virginia, who is serving in the capacity of coach and athletic director. Harry's teams have made splendid records in the three major sports, winning fifteen basketball games and twelve baseball contests without sustaining a defeat in either sport. In football his team won seven victories, played a tie game, and suffered a single defeat at the hands of the Fordham "Rams."

At Sunbury High, "Pop" Riden '20 has held the reins for the past five years, with John Auten '28 and Alton Garman '31 joining him as assistants. On Thanksgiving Day "Pop's" team scored a surprising victory over the famed Williamsport High eleven.

Returning to local ward, we find Harold "Pete" Bolig compiling a splendid record as coach at Selinsgrove High School. His teams in five years have won thirty-seven games, tied four, and tasted the bitter cup of defeat five times. They have also amassed 1093 points to their opponents' 139 in the span of five seasons.

In the personage of "Al" Snyder, coach of Middleburg High sports, we have another champion tutor, this time not in football, but in the field of soccer. His team recently won the crown and loving cup of the Central Pennsylvania Soccer League by defeating Millheim, champions of Center county.

The above-mentioned coaches are not the only men who have been graduated from Susquehanna University, that have made good in the realm of sports, but there are many more that have attained a high standing in the coaching field in the state of Pennsylvania and in nearby states.

Conservatory Faculty
Recital January 19th

This evening, Tuesday, January 19, the faculty of the Conservatory of Music will give its annual recital at 8:15 p. m. in Seibert Chapel. The faculty has been practicing very diligently for the past few months in order to make this recital a success. A very interesting and educational program has been arranged. Those taking part are Professor P. M. Linebaugh, organist; Mrs. Bertha L. Rodgers, contralto; Professor W. D. Hemphill, violinist; Professor F. C. Stevens, tenor; Miss Mary K. Pottelger, pianist, and Professor E. L. Allison, accompanist. The program follows:

Choral in A minor, No. 3. C. Franck
Canyon Walls—From "Mountain Sketches"..... Clokey
Professor Linebaugh
Aria—"She Faro"—from "Orfeo", Gluck
"Wie bist du meine Koenigin", Brahms
Mazurka..... Foudrain

Frosh Girls Feted
At Annual Formal

Maimon Appears as a Real "Rudy" to the Straits of Paul Zimmerman. Of Course It's "Star Dust"

Swing your partner to the left! Beg pardon, that was in the good old days, but every one had just as grand a time Saturday night at the Intersorority Rush Dance as they did when Grama was a girl. We even have a sneaking suspicion that our way is best.

Paul Zimmerman has a good band even if they do come late. Perhaps they heard that it was fashionable at Susquehanna. At any rate the man who struggled for an hour with his collar got there in time for the first dance. We liked their selection of music, that is, all except the request number. Who got that brilliant idea anyway?

Every one looked so lovely, that is the girls looked lovely and the men looked so handsome. Did you notice little Susie Jones? I scarcely recognized her floating along in the arms of Joshua Brown. We do think that our campus should be complimented on its excellent taste in formal attire.

Several faculty wives almost became the belles of the Ball. Not to mention the young ladies who teach on the campus.

Joe Maimon always is a big success.

It seems that all of the song birds aren't in the conservatory.

Dancing ceased at twelve with the sweet sentiment of "Good Night Sweetheart" lingering as everyone started toward Seibert Hall where "Good Night Sweetheart" was repeated.

Jay Vee's No Match
For Danville "Y"

Game Was Free Scoring as "Subs" Lose 67-41. Worthington and Kramer Show Up Well

The Junior Varsity quintet suffered its first defeat of the season at the Danville Y. M. C. A. on Friday evening in a fast and free scoring game, 67-41. Although the S. U. reserves found the hoop often enough to win two ordinary games, they were no match in scoring for the Danville team. Werner galloped off with a total of 27 points for the home team during the fracas, and his team mates still found time to add 40 others. Worthington attempted to keep pace with the opposing forward by tallying 20 counters for the Susquehanna cause. Kramer also dropped 5 goals to score 10 points.

BILL AHL SURPRISED
ON 21ST BIRTHDAY

William G. Ahl, of the class of '33, was tendered a surprise dinner and party at his home last evening by his parents, Dr. and Mrs. A. William Ahl, in celebration of his twenty-first birthday, with several of his classmates and friends in attendance.

Punctually at 5:30 the surprise guests trooped in to wish many happy returns dinner prepared by Mrs. Ahl, that is to the guest of honor. A few minutes later they were enjoying a splendid after the extemporaneous host had blown out the twenty-one candles with one mighty puff.

Following the dinner, the men smoked and swapped stories until it was regrettably deemed advisable for all good students to start studying for the exams.

Those invited, besides Mr. Ahl, were Fred Carl, Laird Gembling, John Meyers, George Ober, John Schoff, Donald Steele, William Swann and Jay Worthington.

REGISTRATION
Registrar Miss Emily Sweetman reports that the student body has co-operated splendidly with the new system of registration and that the making of schedules for next semester is almost one hundred per cent complete.

Students should not forget that FEBRUARY FIRST is the day that all students must complete their registration at the offices of the Registrar and the Bursar.

VAN NUYS HIGH SCORER

Canadian Journalist
Denounces Liquor

Warns College Students of Ills Due to Government Control of Liquor. Speaks to 20,000 U. S. Student

Ben H. Spence, noted Canadian journalist, denounced the Canadian systems of liquor control in an address to the students of Susquehanna at the chapel exercises in Seibert Hall, last Friday, declaring that the lax and varied laws of the provinces had resulted in vastly increasing the drink in Canada and added to the ills and the woes of its people.

He warned the people of the United States of the devastating effect of lowering the bars to the liquor traffic predicting that conditions would be vastly worse than they are now.

He was recently representative of a leading Canadian newspaper at Washington and had an exceptional opportunity to observe American affairs. He is also affiliated with the Intercollegiate prohibition association, and has spoken to 20,400 students in his tour of American Universities. He pointed out that Canada has not one but many systems, a provincial system, one for each province.

They are not really systems for liquor control, but for selling liquor. In this connection he pointed out that of the 5235 liquor selling places in Canada, only 693 are owned or controlled by the government. The beer parlors of Canada are typical of the American saloon of the pre-prohibition days.

The only time the government controls liquor is when it is on the shelf in the government store. A person buys liquor from a government store, drinks it where he pleases, and gets mired as he likes, and the officials can say nothing.

He also said that bootlegging is not a product of prohibition, but a carry-over from the old wine day. At one time the bootlegger had two problems, to find a supply, and second to find a customer. With the government supplying the liquor in Canada, now all the bootlegger has to do is to find a customer.

He drew a picture of conditions in this country had it adopted the same system as in Canada. He pointed out that with increased facilities such as provided in Canada increased consumption follows. This is followed by increased ills. He also presented a chart for the different years to prove his point. He finished his address by saying "We have the facilities, the consumption, and the results of liquor in Canada".

Dr. G. Morris Smith, president of Susquehanna University, attended the sessions of the ninth annual convention of the League of Nations Association of the United States at the Bellevue Stratford at Philadelphia on January 15th.

Some of the world's greatest statesmen, educators, and speakers attended the conferences and there discussions were on the present world problems as related to the League of Nations.

Hon. George W. Wickersham presided at the annual dinner of the association which was held on Friday with Mrs. Woodrow Wilson as the guest of honor. The speakers, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University; Raymond B. Fosdick, and Mrs. Ben Hooper spoke for the "League of Nations and World Emergencies."

ELIMINATE VARSITY MEN

At the last Inter-Mural Board meeting last week the Board decided that no varsity men could enter into inter-class competition. The ruling will throw two men out the league, Andrew Kosak member of the senior class, and Richard Fisher of the sophomore class. Kosak will coach the senior class cup contenders.

Susquehanna's Varsity basketballers returned triumphantly from their week-end trip with a 32-27 victory over Temple Pharmacy and a closely contested defeat at the hands of LaSalle, 17-11.

Temple Pharmacy put up a hard struggle on Friday night, but the Crusaders' ability to make their foul shots count enabled them to maintain their early lead until the final whistle. Jedoff, brilliant forward for the Owls, was a constant threat to Coach Ullery's men, running up fifteen points during the encounter. Kapke kept the Orange and Maroon in the running during the encounter. Kapke kept the field goals, until VanNuys entered the game near the end of the period and dropped a brilliant goal and a foul shot to give Susquehanna an 18-14 lead.

The Crusaders' offense clicked better at the beginning of the second half with the diminutive sharpshooter, VanNuys continuing his scoring. A serious Temple rally was forestalled in the closing minutes when Coach Ullery sent McGeehan and Rummel back into the game. The latter quickly dropped two spectacular goals to bring his total up to eight points for the evening.

At LaSalle, the Susquehanna courtmen were forced to bow to a superior team after putting up a stubborn battle for most of the game. The first half was marked by very close guarding on the part of both teams, with McGeehan and Kapke tallying to give the Orange a scant 5-4 lead at half time. Soon after the opening of the second period, however, LaSalle drew steadily away from the Crusaders. A closing rally, started by VanNuys, failed by six points to reach the home team's total of 17. The scoring was very even on both sides.

The box scores:

Susquehanna		Goals	Fouls	Pts.
Rummel, f.	3	2x 3	8
Waslewski, f.	0	1x 1	1
Kapke, f.	4	0x 0	8

Coach Ullery's basketball quintet travels to Lebanon Valley tonight for a return engagement hoping to slice several points off the margin of its previous contest, and possibly turn in a victory. Heller and Stewart, the mauling in the smooth working Valley outfit, are held down. Susquehanna has a chance to turn this much desired trick.

The Crusaders' offensive has improved considerably since the former defeat, and if Captain Rummel, VanNuys, and Kapke continue their sharpshooting at the forward posts, the score may show a reverse. Palmer may be moved from guard up to the pivot post, with Kapke or Waslewski being stationed at the guard post with McGeehan.

Friday night Susquehanna expects to send the Juniata Indians back to Huntington minus a scalp and two. The Indians have practically the same team as last year, and there is no reason why the Crusaders should not repeat their decisive victories of last season. Not that Juniata should prove such an easy victim, however, but the Ullerymen have a combination comparable to that of last year's and should have sufficient motives for adding another mark to the win column.

ON JOINING A FRATERNITY

Soon many members of the Class of 1935 will be offered the opportunity of making an important choice, a choice that will probably have a strong influence upon their welfare during the rest of their college years and for many years after. The selection of a fraternity, a brotherhood to which a man swears undying loyalty and service, is so vital in its bearing upon the future of the individual that it cannot be considered lightly nor without much unbiased deliberation.

It is not so essential that a Freshman become a member as it is important that the proper choice be made. Ask yourself whether the men in the house are your type, whether you will "get along" with all of them, and enjoy their company. Do not decide to go one way just because your one best friend is a member of a certain organization. Remember always that if you make a proper choice, your fraternity life will be a happy and successful one, something to enjoy now and something to look back on with pleasure in later years.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Two more notes have reached the Editor's desk stating the students' view of certain matters. It is indeed with pleasure that we print these thoughts of members of the student body. The fact that some one reads the material on the editorial page is a stimulus to the staff in its effort to present the news of the campus in a truthful and unbiased manner.

A WORD TO THE WISE

Mid-year exams start their devastating effect next Monday at eight o'clock. It seems a useless and superficial effort in the lines of this column to urge the student to hard work. Still, let us say to the procrastinators that there remain but a few days to do some hard cramming, so begin now and you won't have to sleep through your final because you studied 'til the wee hours of morning.

The Editor's Mail

Dear Mr. Editor:

An answer to "The Bull in the China Shop."

It is not my purpose to hide my thoughts and thinly veiled cynicism behind a flock of flowery phrases and alliteration. Perhaps even the words I use will be inappropriate, but I shall make it clear to all.

I sure that the thought behind the words. Granted, I say granted, mind you, as if the average individual could fathom the motives behind the secret workings of the student council, that the action taken by the student council was inspired by a certain "Piece of China" what are all these "Pieces of China" going to do about it? The Student Council is the representative body of the students; certainly if the students are indifferent how can you expect otherwise than that the Council will be indifferent?

The Council is a judicial and representative body, but a system of espionage and thievery can act only on those things brought before it. If all these "Pieces of China" are going to fall for when and present no information upon which the council can act, then I am very sure that your hot air will be wafted with the fuel burned to produce it.

When the student body as a body throws on the rampaging of the "Bull" and the flaunting disregard of customs by the Freshmen, then and only then can their Council function. You furnish us the evidence and we'll furnish the action. And, remember, the exalted position of the Sophomores, (yes, and even of the Juniors and Seniors.) is not enough to prevent them from feeling the "Sting of Cellulose."

Sincerely yours,

A Member of the Student Council and of the Student Body.

Dear Mr. Editor:

In last week's issue of "The Susquehanna" I noticed a letter "to the editor" that was decrying the sad conditions at Hassinger Hall and was very caustic in its remarks concerning the Student Council. At that time I heartily agreed with the writer and was about to send a similar letter. My copy was already in the envelope when by devious sources I heard of some practical actions for the betterment of this situation.

I am glad to hear that the Council has come out of its peaceful lethargy and is attending to those problems, that are so important to it, with boldness. I take this means of congratulating the Council on their rapid acceptance of student wishes.

The time is here, when exams are to be considered and I might further state that already conditions have improved in Hassinger Hall until it has reached a noticeable and commendable improvement.

With regards for "safer and saner" study periods in the future.

Yours truly,

A Similar Piece of China"

S. U. PEPYS

Now has come the time for 98% of those attending our institution to: Make up those back themes Write up those lab experiments Make up those notebooks Hand in those book reports Cram—cram—and cram. The other 2% can thank about the semester vacation.

Famous saying: "I promise to do my own work 500 times."

When asked concerning his opinion of the musical number "Star Dust," Dr. Joseph Maimon, eminent crooner of popular ditties, was said to have replied, "Aw, nerfs!"

But then, we shouldn't pick on any of those doughy members of the Student Council. How quiet the halls of Hassinger have been during the past few nights. Perhaps it's because certain occupants have been studying so hard for the exams, but on the other hand . . . ? ? ?

If we should judge by those meals to which we were exposed over the weekend, the menu for the present week will be soup, soup, soup, and hash. Perhaps we are too harsh. I forgot we were also served with bread and water.

Mr. Albert Meyer, Mr. Jack Auchmuty and Mr. George Tomlin spent the weekend in Philadelphia, experiencing the very delightful diversion of repairing six flat tires.

Willie Morrow has been admitted to the Crutch Club, and now rides to his meals in the official car, operated by that eminent faculty adviser, Dr. Blough.

What with all these dances, physical ed. tests, exams coming on, etc., our maturing Freshmen are learning that college is not always an alternate succession of sleeping and tearing up rooms.

Bill Reger was in such a bad way that he threw the basketball in the Seniors' basket to score two points for his opponents in the Frosh-Senior game last night.

On behalf of the entire student body, this column extends a hearty greeting to our new night watchman, Pap Muffley. By crackey!

Miss Sweetman, that powerful little lady who settles many a destiny in the Registrar's Office, has come to the conclusion that college students spend more time trying to fix a schedule that will outwit the catalogue requirements in some manner, shape, or form, than they do in study.

One of our fair co-ed's has stated that stammering is a result of having been tickled too much in infancy. Is that just some backwoods philosophy, or can it be the result of overindulging in psychology?

Frank Malasky is attempting to quell the report that his man scored 27 points on him in the game at Danville last week. Frank claims that the man scored at least 7 or 8 of the points off Ken Anderson.

Newspaper item: Susquehanna Pharmacy 31, Temple Pharmacy 26. That's irony for you, when we haven't even got an infirmity!

Girls come to college fighting for equal rights with men and all that sort of blah. But they make a "law" prohibiting the men from watching them play interclass basketball.

As Little Caesar might say—you can dish it out, girls, but you can't take it.

Well, this isn't 'getting my back' themese done. It won't be long now! R. V. NERTZ.

SORORITY NOTES

The good old alummae were with us again. Wilma Walker of K. D. P. drove 187 miles to dance at her Alma Mater.

Katherine Morning just couldn't be happy in York when there was a dance on the campus. We are glad that she couldn't.

O. D. S. had the largest representation of Alummi: Ruth Pace, Margery Phillips, Signe Alford, Helen Culp, and Mrs. Graydon Ranck. They are coming back in February, too.

Martha Gessner and Amelia Krapft of S. S. D. attended a dance at Muhlenberg this week-end. Their report was quite enthusiastic.

Seniors Lead Class Basketball League

The result of the past week's basketball games has pushed the Seniors to the front, with the Theologs, Juniors and Sophomores tied for second place. The Seniors defeated the Theologs 37-22; the Sophomores defeated the Juniors 18-17, and the Theologs defeated the Frosh 24-22.

While the Frosh have not as yet won a game, they look very promising and once they get organized will cause much trouble for the other teams.

There is an unusual type of good basketball being played in these inter-class games. Students should come out and cheer their favorite team on to victory.

KAPPA DELTA PHI HOLDS PRISON PARTY

Kappa Delta Phi sorority room was turned into a prison Friday evening. At any rate this sorority was hostess to some fifteen guests.

The prisoners, led by Warden Miller, marched lockstep into the social room and took their assigne places. When all was silent Judge Leese entered, and Court-Crier Nelson opened the session of K. D. P. court.

The first case tried was Lucille Lehman versus Mabel Fultz for alienation of affections of the former's affianced. The speaker for the Jury was Frances Hubler, who sentenced both the plaintiff and the defendant to five years of married life with the honorable fiancé.

The second case proved to be the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania versus Dorothy Hutter. The charge was the violation of the eighteenth amendment, and speeding. Evidence was a bottle of liquid whoopee presented against Dottie. She pleaded guilty and before the case was dismissed the Judge was taken seriously ill. Surgeon Walborn volunteered her services and immediately the patient was operated upon. This was witnessed by the audience through clever shadow tricks. After a few more "shadows" were performed the prisoners marched back to Kappa Delta Phi room, where a bountiful repast was served.

After an hour of dancing and cards, Warden Lidas called the roll and presented each one with a cardboard revolver bearing her cell number, to which they returned in lockstep.

GIRLS BASKETBALL SEASON OPENS

The Senior girls defeated the Sophomores in the opening game of inter-class basketball Tuesday evening. The final score was 40-20. Leese and Lehman were high scorers for the Seniors with 16 and 12 points respectively, while Andrews, for the Sophomores, scored 12 points. Barbara Jones refereed the game.

The Juniors forfeited to the Sophomores Friday evening.

The games which were scheduled for Saturday, but postponed, will be played at the end of the season.

The games scheduled for this week are as follows:

Tuesday, January 19, Jrs. vs. Frosh.
Friday, January 22, Srs. vs. Frosh.
Saturday, January 23, Jrs. vs. Frosh;
Srs. vs. Sops.

Seibert Hall Echoes

Did you hear all that noise Sunday morning about 10 o'clock? It was only a few girls moving furniture from one room to another.

This disturbance was nothing compared to the celebration held after the dance by some girls who just weren't ready to sleep, and couldn't let any one else get any rest.

The spring weather of last week had some of the girls worried. They were afraid that people would begin to fall in love too soon.

It was quite niceable that some of the senior girls get along well with the Freshman boys.

Diann Lizards just loves "Tiger Rag."

There were several guests in the dormitory this week-end to chase away the blues caused by the Sunday afternoon rain.

Did you notice the little girl in lavender who tried to make all of the men at the dance Saturday?

A few of the Freshman girls got all mixed up with their men at the dance. Hope they get it straightened out before the next dance!

Frank Bennardi Is Crutch Club Member

Frank Bennardi, one of Susquehanna's Crutch Club members, will soon be handing in his retirement papers and returning to normal life. The bone in his ankle which was broken about five weeks ago, has been healing steadily and will soon be in condition for use.

O. D. S. WILL TREK TO GREENWICH VILLAGE

Omega Delta Sigma will entertain some of the new girls with a trip to Greenwich Village Thursday, January 21. The party will fly from the Selingsgrove airport to New York City. It is expected that a visit to the Pepper Pot will be interesting and of course instructive in that we will see how the other half spend their evenings. It is likely that the party will encounter any number of artists, poets, writers, singers, dancers or what will you have.

The genial hostesses promise to bring every one back in time to be tucked in bed at the usual hour. And perhaps there will be many stories to be told about what they saw and heard, while away.

WOMEN'S ATHLETIC CLUB

The monthly meeting of the Women's Athletic Club was held Monday night. The girls' interclass basketball schedule was announced. Referees for this week's games were appointed. It was decided that all games should begin at 8:30.

Ludlow Nichols was appointed volley ball manager.

Camerer and Crebs were in charge of the social program.

Clifford Jenkins, travelling secretary of Phi Lambda Theta, had dinner at the local chapter on Thursday evening.

Bond and Key
Numerous alumni were visitors at the club over the week-end. Clifford Johnson '31, William Herman '31, Daniel Graham '31, attended the Intersorority Dance at the Alumni Gym on Saturday evening. Johnston and Herman are finishing their first semester at Dickinson Law School and Daniel Graham is coaching basketball and teaching at Shanksville High School.

Mr. Hugh Davis, Jr., of Bucknell, and Mr. Robert Fosse, head of the English department of Perkiomen Academy, were the guests of George Hess over the week-end.

Donald Leshor, of Yeagertown, and Shaffer, of Williamsport, spent Saturday and Sunday with the boys at the club.

Mr. Brad Buss, nephew of Mrs. C. Snyder and step-brother of Dr. Claude Buss, who is the youngest Consul General in the service of the United States, stopped at the fraternity Sunday afternoon.

FACULTY ROW

Dr. Leese Attends Convention
Doctor Leese of our campus attended the 44th Annual Meeting of the American Economic Association in Washington, D. C., during the Christmas holidays. At this convention the leading economic experts from all over the United States gathered in a three-day session to discuss economic and business problems.

SUNDAY EVE VESPERS

Vespers were in charge of Flora Ellmore. The service opened with a prelude which ended with the soft playing of "Day is Dying the West," while the lights were lowered. The first stanza of the hymn was sung by Ruth Nelson. The discussion was "Is Our Education Useful?" A reading by Mary Weverling followed. A song was sung at the end of which everyone remained standing in meditation while the lights were lowered and "Sweet Hour of Prayer" was softly played. The service ended with the Mizpas Benediction.

Women Greeks Will Pledge Tomorrow

Intensive Rush Season Closed Monday
Morning. Quiet Will Last Till
Wednesday Noon

Eligible rush season for all new girls and freshmen began the first day of the second semester. Previous to that time there was the Inter-sorority Rush dance and individual sorority rush parties. Sorority girls are now allowed to have the new girls and freshmen in their sorority rooms at any time they wish.

It is a rule that no girl is to do any individual rushing before this and no girl is to talk about any sorority matter to them.

Any new girl is allowed to join any sorority she chooses, if the sorority so desires. On Wednesday the girls will put their preferences in a box in Miss Hades office. They will be counted and registered on the sorority lists. The members of the various sororities will be informed at noon who their new pledges will be. From Tuesday after Chapel until Wednesday the new girls will observe a strict silence. They will not be allowed to talk to any sorority girl. This silent period will continue until she has written her preference and place it in the office.

Member of Board Dies Suddenly Feb. 3

Mr. Albert Gawinske, '08, Pittsburgh, Led a Very Active Life in Business Circles. Real Estate Success

HEARTY SUSQUEHANNA BOOSTER

Announcement of the sudden death of Albert G. Gawinske came as a shock to the administration and a host of his friends at Susquehanna. Mr. Gawinske died Wednesday, February 3, in Pittsburgh following a severe illness, which ended in death by his own hands. Mr. Gawinske was graduated from the University in 1908 and took an active interest in all school activities. This interest was manifested in his loyalty to his Alma Mater up to the very time of his death. He was a member of the Board of Directors since 1926, and President of the Pittsburgh Alumni Association; and one of Susquehanna's most ardent supporters, who annually sent a number of students to Susquehanna.

At the time of his death Mr. Gawinske was in the employ of Simon Kirschner Real Estate Company, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. Very active in fraternal organizations, Mr. Gawinske was a member of the Knights of Malta, and the Knights Templar, a member at the Board of Directors of Ziegler Company, and a member of Malta Temple Association. He was also an active member of St. Lukes Lutheran Church, Pittsburgh serving as a councilman for a number of years.

Mr. Gawinske is survived by his daughter, Margaret Louise, and widow, to whom his host of friends extend their deepest sympathy in their bereavement.

Funeral services were held in Pittsburgh on Saturday afternoon, February 6.

S. U. Recruits Six New Students for 2nd Term

Six new students have registered in the University for work during the second semester. Three of these will take work in the Conservatory of Music, while the other three will enter regular college courses.

Miss Laura Heffner, of Centralia, is a transfer student from Cedar Crest College, and enters the Conservatory. Miss Elizabeth Haddacher, of Danville, will also take work in the Conservatory. Miss Mildred McClure, of Port Royal, enters the Conservatory as a transfer student from Bucknell University.

Ralph Rishel, of Northumberland, is taking up work in the Science Department. Donald Wentzel, of Middleburg, entered the Arts Course. William Herman returned to school this semester after one semester at Dickinson Law School. Bill graduated from S. U. in the class of '31 and is returning for post-graduate work; he is a member of Bond and Key Fraternity.

Did the ground hog see his shadow? He did not. This means, according to the old superstitious belief, that fair weather and an early spring will result. If we consider the weather of the few days following February second, perhaps some of us will be inclined to believe that Mr. Ground Hog did not look very closely for his honorable shadow.

And here's another angle. The burrowing prognosticator hasn't helped S. U.'s part-time employment depression, either. It seems that their will not be any ice skating on Professor Grossman's tennis court rink, and naturally, no students could have the opportunity of earning movie-money by helping to prepare the rink for skating.

S. S. D. to Give "The Truth About Blayds"

Play of A. A. Milne is Well Known. Annual Event Will be Directed by Miss Dorothy Reeder

Sigma Sigma Delta, a sorority which has given to the campus during the past four years some of its finest plays, will present "The Truth About Blayds," February 25.

This group began their dramatic venture by giving "Quality Street," by Barrie, the second year they gave "Alice Sit by the Fire," another Barrie play. Last year they presented the Pulitzer Prize Play, "Miss Lulu Bett." With these former successes in mind the campus is justified in looking forward to something very fine in "The Truth About Blayds," by the well known A. A. Milne.

The story center about Oliver Blayds, a great English poet. To show the effect that he has upon other people and especially his own family is the purpose of the play. A surprise awaits everyone in the unique ending.

Members of the cast are not unknown to Susquehanna play goes. Merle Hubbard, who plays the poet, was a success in "Holiday" and "Miss Lulu Bett." Barbara Jones will not be forgotten as Miss Lulu Bett. This will be the first time that Freda Stephens will appear on the stage at Susquehanna, but she is not without dramatic experience. Leonard Olsen, Lee Fairchild, and Jack Petry need no press agent to speak for them.

Miss Dorothy Reeder is coaching the play, and it is certain to equal the work she has done with other plays.

The cast is as follows:
Oliver Blayds, Merle Hubbard.
Isobel Blayds, Barbara Jones.
Marion Blayds-Conway, Freda Stephens.
William Blayds-Conway, Leonard Olsen.
Septima Blayds-Conway, Nan McHugh.

A. L. Royce, Jack Petry.
Parsons, Amelia Kattrip.

Pres. G. Morris Smith Addresses Association of College Women

Bucknell was the host to the Association of American College Women on Monday evening, February 8, at 8:45. Hunt Hall the conference building in which 100 women gathered, including teachers from Susquehanna University.

The subject for discussion at this meeting was "The League of Nations and World Peace." Dr. G. Morris Smith was the guest speaker of the evening and delivered an address conforming with the topic of general discussion. Miss Corbin, member of the English department on our campus, was selected to preside at various group meetings throughout the evening.

Graduates from various graduate institutions in this section are members of this association. The purpose of the group is to set a standard of high ideals for colleges, and especially for college women. Miss Naomi K. Hade, Dean of Women in our University and member of the English department, is vice president of the Association.

Board of Directors Convened Monday

Report of President Shows Fine Condition of Departments. Consider Plans for 75th Anniversary

The Board of Directors of Susquehanna University held their mid-winter meeting at Selinsgrove Monday evening. Dr. G. Morris Smith, President of the University, read his report showing a healthy condition in the several departments of the school.

The reports showed that Susquehanna University conducts four-year courses in Commercial Education, Business Administration, Public School Music, Teacher Training and the standard college courses leading to the A. B. and B. S. degrees. For four years' work in music the Mus. B. degree is given. According to figures from the Registrar's office, vocations for which the students are more particularly preparing are teaching, business, medicine, music, ministry, and law. Chemistry, dentistry, journalism, and secretarial service also are interesting students as life goals. One student contemplates foreign missionary service, and another foreign service in business.

Students come to Susquehanna from thirty-six counties in Pennsylvania, from eight different states and one foreign country.

President Smith reported that a number of Susquehanna's graduates are doing post-graduate work at professional schools.

In a day when the country needs men and women capable of cooperative citizenship of a high order, the need of supporting in a more vigorous fashion the foundations of Christian education as they are to be seen in the Liberal Arts colleges was emphasized by Dr. Smith.

The Directors took steps looking toward plans for the fitting celebration of the 75th anniversary of the founding of Susquehanna University. This anniversary will occur in the fall of 1933.

Straw Vote Taken on Disarmament Ideals

92% of All Ballots Were in Favor of Reducing Armament and 74% Were in Favor of American Adherence to the World Court

POLL TAKEN OF 70 COLLEGES

A nation-wide straw vote on disarmament announced today by the Intercollegiate Disarmament Council from their offices in New York City, reveals 92% of the 24,345 students voting in seventy different colleges in favor of reducing armaments and 63% for the United States setting an example by beginning to disarm without waiting for other nations. Luther Tucker, Yale '31, who is chairman of the Council, said the poll shows one-third of the students favor 100% cut in armaments, provided all nations agree to the same ratio, while one in seven advocate a 100% cut for the United States without regard to other nations. The poll shows a very strong feeling against the compulsory feature of military training in colleges, eighty-one per cent of the students voting on this question being opposed to compulsory drill. On the other hand, only 38 per cent favored eliminating military training from all colleges. Of those voting one-seventh had had military training. Seventy-four per cent of the votes cast supported American adherence to the World Court upon the basis of the Kellogg-Poincaré.

Among the colleges participating in the poll were outstanding institutions in all parts of the country. Yale, Dartmouth, Amherst, Williams, Wellesley, Mt. Holyoke, Radcliffe, Vassar, Barnard, Syracuse, Bucknell, Pittsburgh, Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Rollins, Kansas U., Nebraska, Washburn, Southern Methodist University, Occidental, and many other colleges cooperated in the vote. Student interest in disarmament is also revealed in the high percentage of those voting in many colleges. Eighty-four per cent of the entire student body cast ballots at Amherst, 78% at Yale, 70% at Mount Holyoke.

All types of colleges participated in the poll, but there is little difference in the returns. The extremes are revealed (Continued on Page 4)

Dr. Williams Will be Summer School Head

Due to Dr. Dunkelberger's European Tour, Dr. Williams Will Assume Responsibility. A Man of Wide Educational Experience

Dr. Franklin G. Williams, Head of the Mathematics Department, has been appointed Director of the Susquehanna Summer Session. The change of responsibility is due to Dr. George F. Dunkelberger who has planned an extensive tour of Europe during this summer. Dr. Dunkelberger has held the position of Summer School Director for a number of years.

Dr. Williams is a comparatively recent addition to our campus, having been appointed to his present position in 1929. He is a graduate of Middleburg College in 13. Received his M. A. from Pennsylvania State College in 1923, his Ph. D. from Cornell University in 1929. His teaching career is extensive in experience. He held various Preparatory School positions until 1929. He was instructor of Mathematics at Penn State from 1929-27; instructor of Mathematics at Cornell from 1927-29.

His abilities are pronounced as a member of many professional organizations. Member of Mathematics Association of America; American Mathematics Society; Kappa Delta Rho; Phi Mu Alpha; Phi Kappa Phi; and Sigma Xi.

Education Secretary Visits Our Campus

Miss Mary Markley, Litt.D., Addresses Chapel and Assists in Solving Problems. Entertained by Y.W.C.A.

Miss Mary Markley, Litt.D., Secretary for the Board of Education of the United Lutheran Church, visited our campus February 2 and 3.

Miss Markley is not a stranger to our campus. She visits us usually once every two years. She comes to help us solve our problems and to study the situation here. Her wide experience enables her to be most helpful. She visits practically all of the colleges in the United States and recently she was granted a furlough to travel abroad for six months studying school and school conditions in other countries. She was able to give us interesting first hand knowledge of situations in India, Japan and other countries.

Dr. Markley arrived on our campus Tuesday afternoon and Tuesday evening Mrs. Kretschmann entertained the Y. W. C. A. Cabinet at her home so that they could talk with this distinguished visitor. She was most helpful in her suggestions to the World Fellowship Committee and it is expected that the work of this committee will be greatly broadened. She was quite interested in the plans for the church service conducted by the girls, and very much amused when a committee reported on the "raid" they made to recover dishes that had been lost from their cupboard. Mrs. Kretschmann served refreshments.

Wednesday afternoon the Y. W. C. A. entertained all of the girls and the Campus Club so that they might all have opportunity to speak informally with Dr. Markley. The tea was a delightful affair with Janet Letzels and Betty Wardrop pouring. Many of the women were glad of the opportunity to renew friendships that Miss Markley had made on previous visits. New professors' wives were able to meet her for the first time.

After dinner Wednesday Dr. Markley was invited to visit with the sororities in their meetings. Although she is not a sorority woman she was able to give many helpful suggestions. In these meetings she was given an opportunity to meet more of the girls in an intimate way. (Continued on Page 3)

E-Town is Swamped By S. U. Courtmen

Terrific Onslaught in Second Half Gains 24 Points for Crusaders as Opponents Get Four

WASILEWSKI LEADS SCORING

After a closely contested first half, the Susquehanna basketball team passed its way into a safe lead and easily gained a 40-22 victory over the Elizabethtown quintet last Saturday night at Elizabethtown.

The orange and maroon five was a little slow in getting started but soon after the whistle for the second half blew the team began to function. For the rest of the game Elizabethtown was outclassed, outgained and outsmarted.

Although Susquehanna scored first the game was nip and tuck during the first period of play. Elizabethtown tied the count at 11-11 and then took the lead at 13-11. The Crusaders soon placed the lead in their favor and held the slim advantage of 16-15 when the half ended. Lauder was mainly responsible for Elizabethtown scoring. He scored four field goals during this half, several of which were running shots from different angles.

The team of Rummell, Van Nuy, Palmer, McGehean and Wasilewski entered the game in the second half and with a fast well organized attack flashed its way down the floor for goal after goal. During this second half of play Elizabethtown tallied only two field goals and three fouls. Wasilewski and Palmer lead the scoring attack while McGehean and Captain Rummell did great work in the passing attack.

The play was rather rough from start to finish and as a result numerous fouls were called. So many of the Elizabethtown players were forced to leave the floor on account of the personal foul rule that had the rule been enforced the home team would have been forced to finish the game with only three men. Couch Ullery, however, granted Elizabethtown permission to finish the game with a full team.

Play By Play

On the first tip off Susquehanna worked the ancient one two play and Kapic scored under the basket. Elizabethtown tallied a point on a charity throw by Slipper. Wasilewski tossed a beautiful shot from the end of the court. Van Nuy went under the basket. (Continued on Page 4)

Two Opera Stars in Recital Tomorrow

Grace Divine, Metropolitan Star, and Charles Stratton, Popular Soloist, Will Sing at Seibert Chapel

WITH NEW YORK SYMPHONY

Two stars of opera fame in the persons of Grace Divine, mezzo-soprano, and Charles Stratton, tenor, will present a joint recital tomorrow evening at 8:15 in Seibert Chapel. These two personalities come to us with a record of success achieved at former public appearances.

These two artists are of greatest experience. Grace Divine is a Metropolitan Opera star. She has sung in oratorios in the Bach Festival at Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, and in the Worcester (Massachusetts) Festival at Reading, Pennsylvania. She has made several orchestral appearances with the New York Symphony under the direction of Walter Damrosch, the Springfield and Cincinnati Orchestras. Charles Stratton has toured the country in recitals and appeared as soloist with the Boston, Detroit, New York Symphony, New York Philharmonic, and Philadelphia Orchestras. Mr. Stratton is one of the most popular soloists who has appeared with the Stadium Concerts having been engaged three successive seasons.

According to the reports of many of our leading newspapers, Grace Divine has a low sweet voice of rich timbre. It has the vibrant thro of life, never a hollow vibrato. She sings with beauty of tone and with authority. Charles Stratton's voice is of a true tenor quality, warmly colored, and a responsive instrument for emotional and noble singing. Mr. Stratton is endowed with the "singing impulse" which makes song his spontaneous and irresistible expression.

CO-OPERATION

Congratulations are due to the members of the faculty in their co-operation to help the administration to overcome the difficulties arising through the period of depression which has affected the whole world. "Economies at all ends" are the by-words of all organizations in an attempt to continue perfect functioning of their departments during these times of difficulties. Therefore when the faculty were consulted at the last meeting as to their opinions of the matter of economy, Dr. J. I. Woodruff presented this motion:

"In view of the facts presented by President Smith relating to the finances of the University, we desire to go on record as being in the spirit of co-operation and that we voluntarily assume our part in helping to keep the financial status of the University in as strong a position as possible. We wish, however, to remind the board that we too have budget problems and we importune them not to forget that a faculty membership in cramped financial straits is in some proportion reduced in its power to serve."

It is such a spirit of co-operation that shall keep for Susquehanna University the accredited rating which she has obtained in the eyes of the institutions of the country.

SOME THING BESIDE A DIPLOMA

"If I were a college Freshman again, I would spend more money on books and less on frivolous entertainment". These were the words of Thomas Arkle Clark, dean of the men at the University of Illinois. His comment may have influenced several colleges of the country which grant a yearly prize to the student who collects the best personal library. Cleveland College offers a prize to the student whose books the judges consider the best collection and who can give the best reasons why he has collected them.

Surely one could think of no more worthwhile thing to take away from college than a select library of books, built up "on the side" one by one, through four years of campus life. Here would be an old favorite "picked up" in a quaint second-hand bookstore, another from some famous bookshop, and still another which a particular friend of yours in a distant large city had purchased for you from a large publishing house. There is such a wealth of good literature available to-day in the dollar editions and other popular bindings at very reasonable prices. The thoughtful college student should leave a place in his budget for occasional purchases of this kind, so that when he leaves his school at the end of four years of study he shall have something beside his diploma to look at in later years.

IN SYMPATHY

THE SUSQUEHANNA extends to his friends and loved ones greatest sympathy in the bereavement of Mr. Albert Gawinske 108 who passed to the great beyond. His help and interest in Susquehanna was always uppermost in his mind and he shall be long remembered by those who knew him.

PLEDGE RULES OF THE INTERFRATERNITY COUNCIL

By-Laws of the Interfraternity Council which should be kept in mind by all fraternity members and those men desiring to pledge:

Section 3 No student shall be eligible for pledging until he has received credit for one semester's resident work or its equivalent at Susquehanna University.

Section 6 There shall be one week, starting the first Monday after registration for the second semester, set aside as an active rush week, during which all fraternities shall hold one smoker if they so desire.

Section 7 Immediately following the active rush week and extending for three days there shall be a quiet period during which time no fraternity matters shall be discussed between a fraternity and a non fraternity man.

Section 8 Each fraternity shall submit a list of prospective pledges to the faculty committee on credits for approval on the second Monday after registration.

Section 11 Each non fraternity man desiring to pledge to a fraternity shall submit a list to the custodian on the second Wednesday after the first Monday, enumerating his choice of fraternities in the order of his preference.

CAMPUS TABLOID

I. M. NERTZ, R.U.

In answer to another column in this paper, we shall extend our heartiest greetings and competition. My degree, R. U., means Relative Unimportance; please, fair reader, do not read it as an interrogation.

It is said that competition is the soul of wit—made it was briefly, but at any rate why read "Ballyhoo"? Pardon us, this is a column not a magazine.

A Sophomore recuperating from a severe illness received another setback on Saturday night. The Soph. admitted that he was getting some gray hair because of his many troubles. The illustrious "ghost writer", R. V. Nertz could not withstand the temptation to have his little pun and he pipes up in his Yonkers drawl—"You, my lad, are wrong, all of your hair is GRAY (Nelson) hair." Rather droll for an established Junior! Yes, but the art of "punning" is an outstanding characteristic of our sensational column, "S. U. Pepys."

It is the pleasure of this column to present for your appreciation (or condemnation) the "Susquehanna" selection of the "All-Campus" Tiddewink Team. After due deliberation it was decided that Joe "Rudy" Maimon captain the "all-star" group. In consideration of his valuable service in "starring" at the last Sorority Dance he was awarded the position of Right Tiddle.

Right Tiddle—Joe "Rudy" Maimon—Joe's experience on the debating team won him recognition on the Tiddewink Team.

Left Tiddle—Jim "Hobbs" Suter. His fine blocking of "Puns" in the last game of the season put him in this position, for he caught the runner at third and shot the eight ball in the corner pocket.

Center Tiddle—John "Knee" Meyers has been placed here because in last semester's contest with Wislawa Univ. he rang up a total of twelve points, zipping the nets five times and counting two free throws. His defensive game in taking out interference is of campus renown.

Right Wing—Will "Barker" Ahl, during the past semester has put up such a strong defense against the "Winkers" from Selbert Hall that this position is capably filled.

Left Wing—Ted "Ziegfeld" Hutchins trained so well in his daily saxophone practice runs that his showing against "Ted" Weems' Band was indeed a "blast-away" for the S. U. lad. He led with a "loot" and countered with his "sour one" until he had closed out of Weems' ears and had muttered coughs flowing from the mouth of his opponent. The ref. stopped the massacre in the second hot chorus on a technical foulout. This lad "Hutch" stands supreme on the "All-Campus" outfit as a consistent noisemaker and a fine defensive blaster.

Substitutes: Kenneth "Cleopatra" James, a flashy Tiddle; Jerry "Mary" Schlegel, a center Tiddle; Roommates Samuel "Pasquallini" Pascoe, and Jay "Scrum" Worthington are outstanding contenders for the defensive Wink positions.

Honored coaches this season are: Malasky, Danks, and Schaffer, who have done much for the livelihood of this sport. All of your objections and corrections will be taken care of. Please address all communications to All-Campus Selection Committee, 901 Hassinger Hall, anytime after you have graduated.

Good-night, my children, I see all good things will be with you next week at this same hour to tell you another bed-time story all about the campus. —When the gong strikes the sour note it will be exactly one quart of milk. "Bong."

Dont' look for any clues to the identity of the writer, for if you do the "ghost writer" will disappear.

"THE GHOST WRITER."

SENIOR BASKETEER GETS FACE INJURY IN GAME

"Herby" Spigelmyer, member of the senior basketball team received a gash under the right eye for the gash between the juniors and the seniors last Thursday evening. The cut bled rather profusely for a while and "Herby" had to leave the game for a short period but finally finished the game. At first it seemed that a stitch would be necessary to promote the proper growth of tissue but the cut is healing in fine shape with out a stitch.

Fraternity Row

Epsilon Sigma

The following members were elected officers of the fraternity for the ensuing semester: Maurice Sheaffer, president; Harold Kramer, vice president; Laird Gemberling, treasurer; Nelson King, secretary; Herbert Hohman, chaplain, and John Hassay, monitor.

Harry Johnson, a popular member of the Sophomore Class, was pledged to the local chapter last Thursday afternoon.

Herbert Hohman attended the Mid-winter formal dance at West Chester State Teachers College during the semester vacation.

Nelson King spent Saturday evening in the up-river town of Northumberland, where he got his first "break."

Bond and Key

Ira Sassaman, '31, was a visitor at the club for the last few days of the week. He is enjoying a vacation before he begins the second semester of work at Cornell University, where he is taking graduate work in mathematics. In various activities he has made himself well liked at Ithaca. Recently Mr. Sassaman was elected the president of the Church Council of the Lutheran Church of Ithaca, New York, where he has been conducting the church choir since he entered graduate school.

Dr. George Seidel was initiated into honorary membership of Bond and Key on Wednesday evening, February 3.

William Herman, '31, has returned to Susquehanna to enter the School of Education.

"Skippy" Harold Glenn spent his semester vacation from academic work at State College at the club.

The numerous visits of Donald Leshore, '31, are history, for one of the reasons has moved from Selinsgrove.

Phi Lambda Theta

Phi Lambda Theta of Susquehanna University initiated the following members at their regular meeting on Wednesday evening: Professor Irvin Reitz of the Commercial Education Department; Professor Russell W. Gilbert, of the German Department; Professor Eldon K. Rumberger, of the Psychology Department; Mr. Charles Arbogast, cashier of the Farmers National Bank of Selinsgrove; Mr. D. A. Kline and Mr. Albert E. Whiteley, local merchants.

Each of the new members was cordially invited to attend the smoker to be held Monday, February 8, 1932, at the fraternity house.

Sigma Alpha Iota Entertained

Saturday, Feb. 6, the Sigma Alpha Iota girls were entertained at a dinner and bridge by their patronesses. The dinner was served in the Trinity Lutheran Church social room, which was very attractively decorated, carrying out the scheme of the Valentine season. After each one had found her place the girls sang one of their sorority songs.

For the remainder of the evening the girls were entertained at the home of Prof. and Mrs. E. E. Sheldon, where bridge and other games were played. To the six high scorers lovely prizes were given. Sigma Alpha Iota wishes to thank their patronesses and assure them of the most enjoyable evening they had.

Sigma Sigma Delta

The local chapter of Sigma Sigma Delta is editing the 1932 "Evergreen," the Sigma Sigma Delta national year book. Material is already arriving from other chapters for the book. Nan McHugh has been chosen business manager and Grace Minnig editor. Miss Corbin, Sigma Sigma Delta faculty advisor, is supervising the work of the publication.

Omega Delta Sigma

Omega Delta Sigma initiated Mrs. G. Morris Smith into honorary membership in their sorority January 20. This group is very happy to have such a distinguished addition to their honorary membership.

Phi Mu Delta

Mr. Donald Meyers, of Bellwood, Pa., was the guest of Glenroy Bishop over the week-end.

Members of the Altoona Commercial School Basketball team visited the Fraternity House on Saturday.

Paul Hoover, alumnus of Susquehanna University, and Eastern Extension Secretary of Phi Mu Delta Fraternity, visited the local chapter on Sunday.

Mr. Griswold, of Pennsylvania State College, visited the Fraternity on Wednesday as the guest of Lee Fairchild.

S. U. PEPYS

There are so many things we'd like to talk about this week, but a mutual agreement can be accepted only when it is observed by each party concerned. . . . After all, what's the use in trying over spilt milk . . . when the milk has turned sour. . . .

Riding home in a Cadillac is great stuff, thought the Varsity boys as they rolled back from Elizabethtown. . . . that is, until the bearings happened to burn out thirty miles from nowhere. . . . well, not exactly nowhere, since the stranded basketreers found some novel entertainment at Liverpool.

With the Varsity away, the Jayvees and the Battling Parsons supplied basketball thrills for the local patrons. . . . the downtown coaches came up to give the J. V.'s some practical pointers in trimming the Altoona Commercial. . . . we mean Fisher and Keller. . . . and to give credit where credit is due, we must admit they did a pretty nice job. . . . at a crucial moment, Hughey Brimmering was dazed by a blow in the eye. . . . in the same breath he dropped a sensational basket. . . . "Hit him again!" pleaded Coach Snell. . . .

Did you know that one of the members of the fair sex on our campus was once campused for eating the night watchman's lunch? . . . Who? . . . For several reasons we can't tell you, but believe us, you would be surprised!

Midnight . . . two silent figures . . . muffled faces . . . sinking about a darkened building . . . sound of a cellar window opening . . . silence. . . . a tiny flame sputtering . . . growing larger. . . . faces smiling in anticipation. . . . Don't get excited. It's just a couple of ambitious young chemistry students dropping in to check up on their latest experiment. . . .

Speaking of the Chem Lab . . . Frankenstein and Dr. Jekyll would hide their faces in shame could they see the imposing apparatus now functioning in the cellar chambers of Steele Science. . . . we refer to Doc Seidel's brain-child. . . . whatever he is seeking to prove or disprove, R. V. Nertz doesn't see how anybody could argue with him. . . . Honest, it's worth charging admission just for so much a look. . . .

R. V. Nertz has been informed that some enterprising scandalmonger is going to enter into competition with him, this issue, under the non-deplumage of "Campus Tabloid. . . . Well, that gives promise of a campaign of violent cross-fire, badinage, mudslinging, and such. . . . We'll take the first cracks, working on the title, since we haven't seen the column yet. . . . Good old Webster comes through again. . . . "tabloid—a compressed portion of news or omege drugs or chemicals or of food, etc." . . . and N. B. Mavly, author of "The Modern Newspaper," explains "tabloid" as "sensational, tending to be statements, and in lurid, pictorial form." . . . We wonder if the Ghost Writer will live up to this self-styled reputation. . . .

The frequently recurring debate between the jazz addict and the classical defender came to a temporary stop recently in a rather amusing manner. "The Blue Danube," by Strauss, was announced over the radio.

"There's the real waltz king," claimed the classicist, following up a reference to a popular modern orchestra leader who excelled in waltz numbers. "Who is?" demanded the jazz addict.

"Strauss," repeated the other. "But that's not his band!" protested the j. a., a bit puzzled while all good students from the Conservatory rolled on the floor in convulsions of mirth.

And now we come to the sad case of one of our professors who weakened in a moment of great trial and indulged in a pun! To appreciate this pun reader, you must realize that to an English professor, the pun is a thing to be stepped on, reviled, sneered at, the lowest of the low, etc.

Our particular professor—one of our own profs, mark you—was discussing a poem, "The River." He did not have a very high opinion of "The River." In fact he thought it was putrid.

"The River," he said, "is—a well—a . . . He colored. The temptation was great. He tried again. Again he colored. He was fighting a losing battle. He wavered for a moment, and then was lost.

"The River I am afraid," he uttered in a shamefaced manner, "—is rather shallow!"

He then broke down and wept.

I can't go on either.

R. V. NERTZ.

Dribblers Will Leave For "Philly" Friday

The Susquehanna basketball quintet will take its last two-day trip of the present basketball season when it leaves for Philadelphia Friday morning. The Crusaders will play Haverford on Friday night and will then travel to Newark, Delaware on Saturday night to engage the Delaware College fives.

These two teams will undoubtedly be as strong as any Susquehanna will meet during the last five games on its schedule. Thus far this season the Crusaders have won one more game than they lost and have scored just about as many points as their opponents.

On account of the strenuous weekend ahead Coach Ullery will hold light workouts this week. He will probably concentrate on the offense which was weak during the early games of the season. This department of the game showed considerable improvement last Saturday at Elizabethtown but still needs smoothing out.

Kramer in his first varsity work last week showed promise and will probably be used again this week. Schlegle whose leg was injured will probably be in condition again.

High Marks Scored by Students in 'One' Exam

According to the Harrisburg Evening News a story was circulated to the effect that a professor at Susquehanna University had occasion to examine two sections of the same class during quiz week. One section was examined in the forenoon and the other in the afternoon period.

The professor used sheets with printed examination questions, which the students retained. Of course, the students of both sections are well acquainted with each other, and the interim of three hours between exams was used to excellent advantage by the second perioders. Although the same questions were used for the afternoon exam the professor is wondering how it came about that the students of the afternoon section made such high grades.

J-Town District Forms Alumni Organization

Susquehanna Alumni of the Johnstown District have formed a new unit for activity. Sixty-five members were present on Friday evening, January 29, at the Hendler Hotel, Johnstown, for the Fifth Annual Meeting.

The principal speaker of the meeting was Doctor George F. Dunkelberger. In his speech he defended the small colleges against inroads made by the larger institutions of learning, financed and governed by State appropriation. Dr. H. C. Michael, president-elect, acted as toastmaster, and introduced Dr. Dunkelberger and Professor L. D. Grossman, General Alumni Secretary, who spoke to the group about the activities on the campus.

Library Statistics

The following statistics, compiled by an interested observer, show how much the college library was used during the week preceding the semester examinations.

The average number of students using the library during the 9:10 period was eleven; during the 10:10 period, 13 students; during the 11:10 period, 8 students; during the 1:10 period, 11 students; 2:10 period, 16 students; 3:10 period, 11 students; 4:10 period, 5 students. The averages are, as a whole, slightly higher for the evening periods. During the period from 7 o'clock to 8 o'clock, the average number of students in the library was eighteen. From 8 o'clock to 9 o'clock, an average of 17 students were in the library, and during the period from 9 o'clock to 10 o'clock, an average of 10 students were in the library.

SEASON'S FIRST DEBATE

The negative team of Susquehanna's debating group will meet the affirmative team of Bowdoin College, Maine, in Seibert Chapel Hall, next Monday evening, February fifteenth, at eight o'clock. The students composing the home team are William Morrow, Samuel Brosius, and Joseph Maimon, who will support the negative side of the question: Resolved that capitalism as a system of economic organization is in principle unsound. The three-judge system will be maintained in the debate which, itself will consist of three speeches by each opposing team, the first speech of twelve minutes in length, and the second two of ten minutes each, with the usual rebuttals to follow.

Susquehanna University ranks high in debating and deserves your support through enthusiastic attendance.

ALUMNI NOTES

Publishes Article

W. Lee Vorlage, Susquehanna graduate of '28, assisted in writing of an article published in the January "Balance Sheet." Mr. Vorlage collaborated with Miss Ethel M. Slaughter in the writing of "Practical Banking and the School." Lee has been a teacher in the high school at New Kensington, Pa., since his graduation. He teaches commercial law and bookkeeping, and is continuing work on his master's degree at the U. of P. He is assistant coach of basketball and officiates in games. Mr. Vorlage is especially interested in Hi-Y work and Commercial Clubs on the campus.

Doing Graduate Work

John S. Bangson, '15, a member of the faculty of Berea College, Kentucky, has been granted a year's leave of absence to enable him to continue study leading to his Doctor of Philosophy degree. He is at Penn State College and is majoring in Genetics.

Before joining the faculty at Berea, Mr. Bangson taught at Benedict College, Columbia, S. C., and Talladega College, Alabama. He is a member of the Kentucky Academy of Science, the American Genetic Association and the American Eugenics Society.

Graduate Presents Musical Composition to Conservatory

Miss Lulu McFall, '08, Conservatory of Music, has presented the Conservatory with a setting of Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar," a composition of Miss McFall's recently published by the Hall Mack Company in Philadelphia. The composition is for mixed voices.

TRAVEL PICTURES IN PICTURE AT STANLEY

Almost every known means of travel is experienced by Norma Shearer and Robert Montgomery in "Private Lives," which is at the Stanley tonight. In the picturization of the Noel Coward stage hit, the story opens showing them in an airplane flying over the English Channel. Later they are on a French railroad train, a Swiss alpine cable-car, in automobiles, on a river ferry, in hotel elevators and finally on skis and snowshoes, when they climb the Matterhorn.

While on the campus she also spoke to the student body in a chapel service and attended several classes where she very readily answered the questions of the students.

Dr. Markley left the campus Thursday afternoon and many are already looking forward to her next visit with us.

Frank Malasky Turns Court Interpreter

Frank Malasky, captain-elect of Susquehanna's baseball team and former fullback on the gridiron eleven, starred at a new role, as court interpreter at the district federal court at Lewisburg on January 21st.

The case on the federal docket, involving the validity of a passport, had a witness who failed to speak English, but instead started to recite his tale in Lithuanian, with no one in the court room being able to understand his verbal epithets. Presiding Judge Albert Watson sent to Bucknell University for a student who could speak the language, but none could be found. The federal judge then sent court attaches to Susquehanna, where they drafted Malasky, who filled the bill.

Seibert Hall Echoes

Have you noticed how unhappy the women at Seibert Hall seem since Christmas? No wonder when two of God's greatest gifts to women went and got themselves engaged. Life has lost its savour somehow!

Why does Ira Sassaman like to visit the campus? Do you think that Muriel Camerer's plans for next week-end have anything to do with it?

Some of the girls have been wondering about the following points of Campus etiquette:

Is it proper to have a romance in the dining room? In other words, may one look across tables and smile in that certain way that says so much?

Should a girl take the same man to two dances in succession if there has been no Fraternity dance between?

If your room mate talks in her sleep should you listen, stuff cotton in your ears, or ask her questions to get the whole story?

When you meet a man going from Seling Grove Hall to the gym, or vice versa, in a bathrobe, do you speak, or isn't it ladylike?

What are the qualifications to be considered when choosing a man to invite to a dance?

How can you find out if a man has been invited to a dance so you don't waste a bid?

Who were the two sweet little girls in blue rompers who roller skated on the campus Saturday afternoon?

Jay Vees Will Have Busiest Month With Thirteen Conflicts

The Junior basketball team will enter the busiest part of its schedule this month when it engages in thirteen contests. Three of these games will take place this week.

On Wednesday night the team will again engage the Yoch's Pretzel Five; on Friday night the Sigma Alpha Mu Fraternity of Bucknell and on Saturday night the U. B. church. All of these games will be played in the Alumni gymnasium. So far this season the Jayvees have lost but one contest and that was to Danville Y. M. C. A.

S. S. D. RUSH PARTY

GOES TO ESKIMOLAND

Last Friday evening, ten new girls were the guests of Sigma Sigma Delta at an informal rush party. The girls were escorted to the sorority room which had been transformed for the occasion into the North Pole regions. There, amid bold Eskimos and charming Eskimaids, with icicles hanging over them, they danced on the snow-covered ground, played games and were entertained by a skit and dance. Then, moving farther on in the ice land, they were seated at candle-lighted tables and served with refreshments which, however, were quite unlike the Eskimo daily bill of fare. The clanging of a bell somewhere in the distance made an end to the "eski-pade" and reminded the girls that it was time to make their return trips from the land of ice and snow.

STRAW VOTE TAKEN ON DISARMAMENT IDEALS

ed in a theological seminary where no student opposed disarmament, and forty-five per cent favored total disarmament by example; and a New England college where eighty per cent opposed the United States taking the initiative in disarmament. There is little sectional difference. Those favoring our taking the initiative in some disarmament are:

New England, 60%; Central States, 52%; Middle Atlantic, 63%; South 71%; Rocky Mountain States, 72%; and Pacific Coast, 78%.

Mount Holyoke College where Miss Mary E. Woolley, recently appointed woman member of the U. S. delegation to the disarmament Conference, has been president for 31 years, voted 3% against any disarmament, 19% against any reduction by example, 37% for total disarmament if all nations agree, 21% for total disarmament by example. Students in institutions with compulsory military training voted 62% against compulsion, those in colleges with elective drill voted 83% against compulsion, and schools with no drill were 84% against compulsion.

The question in the poll and the results were as follows:

(1) If all nations join in military and naval establishments intended for use against each other, how much disarmament would you favor? 8065 voted for 100% reduction; 13914 for reduction from 25% to 75%, and 1878 voted for no reduction.

(2) Do you favor American delegation to the General Disarmament Conference taking the initiative in calling upon all nations to join in reducing armaments? Yes: 17,785 No: 3,288

(3) Do you favor our setting an example for other nations by reducing our expenditures on armaments? Yes: 15,284 No: 8,501 100% 3,407; 25% to 75% 9,138; none 8,501 (not all voted by percentages)

(4) Do you favor American adherence to the World Court upon the basis of the Root Protocols? Yes: 12,848 No: 4,548

(5) Do you favor compulsory military training in colleges? Yes: 3,720

No: 16,030

(6) Do you favor dropping military training in colleges? Yes: 7,292 No: 11,704

(7) Have you had military training? Yes: 3,766 (The total number is probably larger, as not all colleges included this question.)

STUDENT PLEA FOR DISARMAMENT IS PLEA FOR LIFE
OF THIS GENERATION

Disarmament is the thing uppermost in the minds of college men and women in every institution of the United States, especially since this last outbreak of war in Japan. Many of the accusations against the college student to the effect that they are uninterested in the affairs of the world have proved false. The report of last week's Susquehanna showed statistics that everywhere students are realizing the meaning of weapons and the preparation for war, and are supporting ideals tending toward disarmament. May we state a few of the remarks which James F. Green, a Yale student, made in speaking before the Disarmament Conference, where he represented the Intercollegiate Disarmament Conference and the Student Christian Movement of the United States and Great Britain.

"After contemplating the events preceding the catastrophe of 1914, we remain unconvicted as to the wisdom of predecessors.

"Fourteen years after the armistice the glamor and heroism of that period fails to impress us, even when inscribed in gilt on stone memorials. The sword has lost its brilliance; the helmet and shining buttons are tarnished. In fact, the whole glamorous temple of Mars has crumbled into ashes. We respect the war dead, but we question the judgment of those responsible for their death.

Slaughter No Use
"Organized slaughter, we realize, does not settle a dispute; it merely silences an argument. We insist that for violence be substituted judicial control by the World Court and executive action through the League of Nations. If we are to evolve an international order out of anarchy we must renounce nationalism and drastically curtail the absolute sovereignty of states.

"Other speakers have much at stake; we have even more, for we literally are fighting for our lives. It is my generation which will be requested to destroy the best of human culture, perils civilization itself, for causes which future historians will discover to be erroneous, if not utterly stupid or actually vicious. We have thus lost interest in, being prepared for cannon fodder.

"In a sense I am presenting an ultimatum rather than a petition. The students whom I represent are watching critically every action of this conference. For behind your deliberations stands staring down at us the specter of death.

"We desire to live and to live at peace. We desire to construct a world society providing freedom, equal opportunity and a sense of security. We are therefore petitioning you for a substantial reduction of armaments in order that we may have a civilization in which to forward this creative purpose."

STUDENTS AND FACULTY

MEET RECITAL ARTISTS

The faculty of the Conservatory of Music entertained the artists, Grace Divine and Charles Stratton, the Bucknell Music faculty, and the students of the Conservatory of Music in the social parlors of Seibert Hall after the recital Wednesday evening. At this time the members of the Bucknell faculty, the Susquehanna faculty, and the students of the Conservatory had the opportunity of meeting the two visiting Artists.

TRAGIC YEAR

FOR INJURIES

It's been a tragic year at old Susquehanna. Aside from the depression, we have had legs broken, ribs cracked, knees abused, sprains, cuts, bruises, until we thought the limit had been reached.

But alas no one escapes, we discovered, as the information was brought forth that Stephen, better known as "Pap" Muffley, fell in the basement of the Alumni Gymnasium last week and suffered a dislocated shoulder, with a crack in the bone to boot.

However, like the "rest of the boys" Pap has sustained his injury without complaint, and soon hopes to resume his duties as night-watchman.

Rotarians Celebrate
Ladies' Night at S. U.

Professor E. Edwin Sheldon Serves as Toastmaster With Dr. G. Morris Smith as Principal Speaker

Combining their clubs in a joint banquet in Horton Dining Hall, the Sunbury-Seleinsgrove Rotary Clubs celebrated their Annual Ladies' Night on Friday, February 12.

President E. Edwin Sheldon, of the Seleinsgrove group, acted as toastmaster to 160 guests. The guests of honor were District Governor and Mrs. Payne P. Sturdevant. Mr. Sturdevant addressed the group in a short speech of greeting. President G. Morris Smith, of the University, addressed the assembly on "Three Important Birthdays." His speech took into consideration the birthday of Washington, Lincoln and the Rotary Club. He qualified the two presidents as far as education, ability, and character were concerned, and he gave a complete analysis of the substance, the duty, and the ideals of the International Rotary. His address was completed with an unassuming statement of the facts that made great Rotarians.

The music for the banquet was furnished by the McCar-Sho String Trio of the University; it was composed of Mr. McNally, piano; Mr. Conuth, violin; and Mr. Schubert, cello. The favors for the ladies were fine beaded handbags.

The banquet was in charge of Mrs. Ann Humphrey, the University dietitian, and student waiters were used. The decorations befit the memorial of Lincoln's birthday and stood in solemn remembrance of this great man.

Rotary Clubs Enjoy
Musical Program

The Conservatory of Music contributed much toward making the program of the Seleinsgrove and Sunbury Rotary Clubs a success. The McCar-Sho Trio furnished the dinner music. An organ solo was played by Professor P. M. Linebaugh and Professor W. D. Hemphill favored with a violin solo. Folk dances, under the direction of Miss Dorothy W. Reeder, were performed by young women of the Conservatory. They consisted of a Polish Folk Dance, Highland Scottish, Arkansas Travelers, Russian Folk Dance, and School Days. A scene from the Comic Opera, "Pirates of Penzance" by Gilbert and Sullivan, directed by Professor E. Edwin Sheldon, was given by twenty-five young women of the Conservatory. Professor Frederick Stevens, tenor, Mrs. Margaret Moring Hemphill, soprano, H. Beryl Wynn, soprano, and Mary G. Hummel, contralto, were the soloists. The audience was well pleased with the performance as was evidenced by the applause.

Rushing Ends With Fraternity Smokers

Varied Programs of Music and Mirth Presented by Greek Societies, Quiet Period to Cease on Wednesday

"CURLEY" MILLER GUEST ARTIST

The annual smokers which were held by the fraternal organizations on the campus during the past week have ended the active rushing of Freshmen prospects by the various fraternities. On Monday evening, the Phi Lambda Theta fraternity entertained forty-five smokers at their house. Russell Sheets and Elmer Hawk, students at the conservatory, played several piano selections. Professor W. Donald Hemphill also favored the group with a rendition of difficult violin numbers. The remainder of the evening was spent at the card tables with Ely Culbertson and "Hoyle" with the exception of a welcome interruption for an appetizing repast.

The next evening, we find the smokers assembled at the Bond and Key Club ready for an evening of revelry. "Curley" Miller, the one-man-band of Lewisburg, was the guest artist entertaining the boys with his banjo, songs and jokes. After an hour of magic tricks by a Mr. Landrus, of Williamsport, a tasty luncheon was served by the club members to the guests. Then the boys indulged in the delightful pastime of cards between "puffs" until the wee hours of the morning.

Phi Mu Delta Fraternity served as host on Wednesday evening to the new students and faculty members at a night club performance which was held at the local chapter house with Mr. Foster, of Shamokin, acting as master of ceremonies. Dr. Arthur H. Wilson gave an interesting talk on "Words in Friendship." Dr. Leon Messner, Professor Elrose Allison, and "Curley" Miller presented an unusual program of dance hits on the "ivories." The Phi Mu sextet under the direction of Professor Allison, followed with several vocal numbers. After refreshments were served the members of the faculty proffered stories while the smokers enjoyed "Lady Nicotine."

On Thursday evening, the Epsilon Sigma Fraternity entertained the yearlings and non-fraternity men at the finale of the 1932 smokers. Maurice Sheaffer, president of the fraternity, welcomed the guests and the honorary members of the faculty. Dr. William A. Sadtler gave a discussion on topics of the day and happenings during his life. Then the Tilo Tornadoes of Sunbury rendered an hour's program, which was filled with string numbers, songs, and jokes. Afterwards Art Barnes, professional musician, played a number of the latest theme songs and dance hits on the piano. A delicious repast was indulged in by the smokers, while they played bridge, pinocle, and "500."

Thus another rushing season has passed into the distance with the non-fraternity men trying to catch up on lost sleep during quiet period, which started Sunday and will end tomorrow at high noon.

All non-fraternity men who desire to become pledges to the various fraternities must signify their preference in writing and submit their choice at the Registrar's office between the hours of eight and twelve on Wednesday morning.

Pledged Wednesday

Present Method of Bidding Is Great Improvement to the Old System. Twenty Seven Girls Pledge

The annual pledging day was held by the four sororities at Seibert Hall last Wednesday morning, when twenty-seven new girls pledged to the sorority of their preference.

Sigma Alpha Iota led the list with ten pledges with the Omega Delta Sigma group in the runners up position with seven new girls. The Kappa Delta Phi Sorority corralled six neophytes with the Sigma Delta Delta getting four prospective members.

The present method of bidding is a great improvement over the previous system, which was in vogue several years ago when one girl would receive four bids and was given a week in

Miss Hade President of Ladies' Auxiliary

Dean of Women Succeeds Mrs. Margaret F. Wingard. Organization Has Contributed to S. U.'s Growth

Miss Naomi K. Hade was elected president of the Ladies' Auxiliary of Susquehanna University at their annual election on Saturday afternoon in Seibert Hall.

Miss Hade succeeds Mrs. Edgar R. Wingard, who has served as president for the past two years.

The organization has, since its beginning in 1922, raised thousands of which have been contributed to Susquehanna University.

The other officers elected were: First Vice President, Mrs. Foster Bener; Second Vice President, Mrs. James Magee; Recording Secretary, Mrs. W. G. Phillips; Assistant Recording secretary, Mrs. Assistant Recording secretary, Mrs. Jay Custer; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Stewart Flickinger; Treasurer, Mrs. Charles T. Aikens.

S. U. Alumni Held
Session at Millheim

Susquehanna University Alumni Association continued their field work during the staging of the third annual Centre County District Club dinner and meeting on February 8th at the Millheim Inn.

Thirty alumni and former students attended the occasion which marked the most successful meeting ever held in one of the smaller districts.

Professors E. M. Brungart and L. D. Grossman, General Secretary of the Association, were the representatives from the campus, who conveyed the greetings and spoke on the strengthening of the bonds of Susquehanna fellowship and loyalty.

Rev. J. F. Harkins, pastor of the Grace Lutheran Church of State College, is the retiring president of the club and Rev. Louis V. Leshner, of Millheim, was elected to serve for the ensuing year.

Active Weeks For Basket Ball Squads

The Susquehanna courtmen will engage in two of the remaining three basketball games on its schedule this week end when they meet the Elizabethtown five here, Friday night, and the Juniata quintet Saturday night at Huntingdon.

The most important contest will of course be the one at Huntingdon, Juniata has not forgotten the one point margin by which it was beaten on January 22 in the Alumni Gymnasium and will be out for revenge. Juniata started its season rather poorly this year but since then has improved considerably. A new player at the center position and the shifting of Burlew to guard has strengthened the team. However, a stronger Orange and Maroon quintet will also appear on the floor. Although the personnel of the team has not changed much a much smoother working outfit has been developed since the last meeting with Juniata.

Susquehanna should be able to capture the contest here Friday night with Elizabethtown although it will probably encounter more difficulty than it did at Elizabethtown two weeks ago. At that time several of the Elizabethtown players were on the injured list and the team consequently weakened. In the preliminary to the contest with Elizabethtown the Junior Varsity will meet the Danville V. M. C. A. It is this team that has given the Javes its only setback of the season so far.

Scholarship Fund
Completed for Girls

Mrs. W. A. Sadtler Did Commendable Work in Fostering Project Which Was Started Seven Years Ago

Contributions from fifty-nine individuals and organizations to the Golden Book of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the University have resulted in the completion of a $1,000 Scholarship Fund for Girls. For a number of years the University has offered scholarships to exceptional men students, but the girls have gotten little help financially from the school.

Mrs. W. A. Sadtler, chairman of the Scholarship Fund Committee, did a fine piece of work in gathering these contributions and is to be complimented upon the successful completion of this work, and the culmination of this splendid project.

The work was started in 1925 and progress has been slow and hard, but the cause was worthy and the people who have so nobly commemorated ones dear to them are to be congratulated on their choice for their contributions.

During 1931 the height of progress was reached when the subscription list was far over $350. In the following list we have the names of those people memorialized in the Golden Book and the names of the donors:

1925

Miss Helen Rohbach, by her parents, Dr. and Mrs. William R. Rohbach, $10.00. Mrs. Rebecca Davis by her sister, Miss Etha Carson, Merion, Pa., $10.00. Mrs. Ida L. Nagle by her husband, Mr. W. E. Nagle, $10.00. Mrs. J. W. Specht by her daughter, Mrs. Charles T. Aikens, $10.00. Mrs. Ida Grace Jacoby by her daughters, Miss Fanny Jacobs and Mrs. Mary Grace Jacobs Russell, $10.00. Mr. Charles Covert by his wife, Mrs. Chas. Covert, Harrisburg, Pa., $10.00. Mr. Calvin Vale Fisher by his mother, Mrs. George E. Fisher, $10.00. John Penny by her husband, Mr. John Penny, $10.00. Mrs. T. H. Speigelmire by her husband, Mr. T. H. Speigelmire, $10.00. Dr. and Mrs. Peter Born by daughter, Mrs. F. P. Manhart, and granddaughter, Miss Sara Manhart, $20.00. Mr. Henry Y. Chapman by his wife, Mrs. Annie Chapman, $10.00. Mrs. Margaret Kemble by the students of Susquehanna University, $10.00.

1926

Mrs. Rucy Orris McCreary by her daughter, Mrs. W. A. Sadtler, $10.00. Dr. Benjamin Sadtler (second president of Muhlenberg College) by his daughter, Miss Kate Sadtler, $10.00. Miss Roberta Van Leer Jarden by her aunt, Mrs. T. W. Kretschmann, $10.00. Mr. Simon Hummel by his daughter, Mrs. Vera A. Fisher, Deland, Fla., $10.00. Miss Catherine Elrethart by Mrs. F. P. Manhart and Miss Sara Manhart, $10.00. Mr. Frederic I. Groce by his mother, Mrs. W. F. Groce, $10.00. Dr. Chas. T. Aikens by the Ladies' Auxiliary of Susquehanna University, $10.00. Mr. Wm. T. Horton by the Ladies' Auxiliary of Susquehanna University, Mrs. Maude Polimer by her husband, Dr. H. N. Folmer, $10.00.

1928

Miss Martha Dimm by her brother, Dr. Charles Dimm, $10.00. Mr. Samuel Bullick by his son, Mr. W. N. Bullick, $10.00. Mr. H. Harvey Schoch by his wife, Mrs. Emma Schoch, $10.00. Mrs. Catherine Sheetz by her daughter, Mrs. Phillip Erick, La Mureville, Pa., $25.00. Mrs. James G. Finley by her daughter Mrs. T. W. Kretschmann, $10.00.

1930

Mrs. Virginia Elizabeth Smith by her son, Dr. G. Morris Smith, $10.00. Mr. Ray B. Walter by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kemer C. Walter, $10.00. Dr. George F. Dunkelberger, $10.00. Prof. Luther D. Grossman, $5.00. Miss Beatrice Herman, $5.00. A friend of Dr. Sadtler family from Frederick, Md., $25.00. From subscriptions to the Christian Herald by Mrs. W. A. Sadtler, $4.00. Miss Naomi Hade, $5.00. Mrs. Rowe by her daughter, Mrs. James Magee, $10.00. Miss Susan Marriott by her daughter, Miss Lillian Marriott, $10.00. Mr. Thomas Nipple by his parents, Dr. and Mrs. N. Nipple, $10.00. Mrs. Elizabeth Phelps Davis by Mr. Hubert W. Davis, $10.00. Mr. Edward Davis by his wife, Mrs. E. Davis, $10.00. Miss Evelyn H. Davis by Mrs. Maude E. Eyer, $10.00. Mrs. Minerva E. Eyer by Frank A. Eyer, $10.00.

1931

Dr. William H. Ulah by his mother, Mrs. L. A. Ulah, $35.00. Mr. John D.

Fraternity Row

Phi Lambda Theta

Phi Lambda held their annual smoker in their home on West Pine street on Monday night, with forty-five guests present. Among the honorary members were Dr. George P. Dunkelberger, Dr. Irwin Reitz, Professor Russell W. Gilbert, Professor Eldon Rumberger, all of the University faculty, and Daniel A. Kline and Charles A. Arbogast, business men of Selingsgrove. At a recent meeting of the fraternity, the following members were elected officers of the fraternity for the second semester: Samuel Broskous, president; Walter Metzger, vice president and treasurer; Marlin Bottiger, secretary and chaplain, and James Bonnell, corresponding secretary.

S. Walter Foulkrod, Jr., '31, visited with his fraternity brothers last week. Brother Foulkrod is attending Temple Law School.

Richard F. Krear spent the week-end in Lock Haven.

B. Ray Minnich transacted business in Newport over the week-end. Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Metzger, of Hallifax, visited the house on Sunday.

Bond and Key

The following alumni members of the club attended the rush smoker on Tuesday evening: Jay Riden, 20, John Auten, 28, Al Garman, '31.

Reed Speer spent Saturday and Sunday at the Capital City, evidently taking over the depression with Governor Vinchok.

"Willy" Adams made a speedy trip to the smoky city of Pittsburgh to attend to some business.

Kappa Delta Phi

Inter-semester vacation brought Sarah Shaulis from Pittsburgh on Saturday to spend a few days with her sorority sisters. "Sally" spent her Freshman and Sophomore years here and then left for Carnegie Tech., where she is now pursuing a course in librarianship.

Phi Mu Delta

G. Franklin Stover, and Raymond Scott visited the Fraternity House during the week-end.

Phi Mu Delta is happy to announce the pledging of Walter Van Nuy to the local chapter.

Jack Auchmuty, Fred Wilks, and Harold Witkop spent Saturday in Tamauca.

Alden Danks and Leonard Olson visited their homes in Elmira over the week-end.

Seibert Hall Echoes

Muriel Camerer started her weekend on Thursday, when she went to Cornell for graduate work in the social life of that school.

The board of censors at Seibert Hall felt that a poster made for advertising purposes should be displayed at the top of the stairs instead of on the bulletin board as usual.

The senior girls have been keeping the mail man exceedingly busy with the number of letters of application they are sending out each day. All we can say, Art, is that we hope you get a job too!

Speaking of male one of the women instructors was questioned by a Selingsgrove merchant concerning all of the marriages among members of the faculty. When Stauffer was mentioned this instructor was asked "Which one of you got him?"

Barbara Jones, the heroine of "The Truth About Blaydes" took ill last week. There is little cause for alarm though. Barb. is a good trouper and the play must go on.

Last week was a busy one for the girls. Most of them spent a great deal of time selecting suitable Valentines for the "Boy friends". Its Leap year you know!

Its Leap Year but some of the girls are too bashful to make advances so will all men desiring proposals please notify any member of the Susquehanna Staff and they will be referred to the proper young women.

Graykowski announced one day that his social secretary would interview all applicants for social engagements with him between the hours of four and five. The rush was so great some of the girls will never be the same again.

BUSINESS SOCIETY TO HOLD MEETING AT PHI MU HOUSE

The regular monthly meeting of the Business Administration Society will be held at the Phi Mu Delta Fraternity house on Thursday evening at 7 o'clock.

CAMPUS TABLOID

I. M. NERTZ, R.U.

There is a great amount of interest aroused over the comic valentine craze. Some of the most popular campus heroes are the recipients of these printed caricatures; and sad, dear reader, this trite, but somewhat humorous manner of slander is laid to the hands of the Ghost Writer. Wishing to keep myself free from the wagging tongues of campus gossips, I will denounce this bit of gossip by stating that all my vicious (?) intent is portrayed through the medium of the press.

The column itself is not free from slander and criticism; from a popular, sophisticated, Frosh waiter, who hails from DuBois made the age old statement that "a pun is the lowest form of wit." (The judge arose amid the applause of the audience and faced the convicted one with a leer on his unshaven face.) We are thankful for this advice from one who has gone so far in criticism and we only add another "low" pun. It is better to be late once in a while, than to always be "Erle."

History teaches us that Nero fiddled around while Rome was burning; but this, in contrast with a recent episode makes this royal musician a piker. We admit that a Junior is always a student, one who concentrates upon his work with a fervor to gain an education. Extremes may be reached for it has been proved that a Junior can sit in a smoke-filled room engaged in the study of Greek while outside flames have begun to destroy the very structure in which he studies and not cease to find the reason for the smoke. We are sure that this student deserves A's. Maybe he supposed himself to be in the heat of a Greek aristocrat passive and thought it was merely smoke from his overheated mental capacities. Edwards never did like to have his study interrupted.

It seems that Doctor Williams of our Mathematics Department, is a living "Buck Rogers." A Sanbury daily journal recently released an article that stated that he had been a member of the University faculty since 9129. (Methusalem had nothing of importance to brag about.

Before this issue goes to press George Washington's 200th. anniversary will have passed. The formal date of his nativity is February 22, but this is not the date on which the "father of our country" was born. He was born on February 11, 1732. A mistake of eleven days was found in the calendar and in order to make everything balance correctly it was necessary to change his birth date to Feb. 22. Figure this out for yourself. (?)

A recent discovery shocked the men (?) of Hassinger Hall. Logue has lost his dictionary (yes, that large Webster). He misses it a great deal for the other day he pronounced parenchymatous with a long y sound. A definition of the term would fill the rest of the column, but we'll tell you it is a botanical term.

With much flaying of arms and banging of fists William Morrow, embryo Sophomore debater, finally organized his speech for the coming contest with Bowdoin College at the forensics platform on Monday night. His speech bout on Sunday afternoon was of importance because it kept the boys of Hassinger Hall awake most of the afternoon and gave him callouses on the knuckles.

The other competing columnist for the championship in "muddling" made a brilliant remark following a smoker. "I won't feel natural for a week unless I sleep in a chimney." Such a statement is most unusual for one who flirts constantly with Lady Nicotine.

R. V. Nertz has supplied many devious sources for criticism. True or untrue, an outstanding one is the calling of the student column to his vague opening paragraph in last week's edition. We would like some clarification on what connection our milk has with agreements, especially when it is spilled—maybe he wants to turn it into a "butter contract".

Since a tabloid is to be a "lurid pictorial" sheet this column will endeavor to give you (in the near future) an exclusive view of R. V. Nertz, as he sits in his private alcove surrounded with dime novels, "Ballyhoo" Sunday supplements, exchanges, and cigarette stubs, working out his erudite column for the week's publication.

You have just heard General Nulance in his weekly message to the "radio" world and this is station B-L-A-H operating over 12000 motor-cycles under the regulations of the National Poli Committee.

The Ghost Writer

S. U. PEPYS

We've heard that there is honor even among columnists, but the height of something or another is the one who devotes a paragraph attempting to reveal the identity of his rival without actually mentioning any names, and then blithely ends his own column with the request, "Don't look for any clue to the identity of the writer, for if you do the 'ghost writer' will disappear".

The last phrase makes a revelation very tempting, but fortunately for the Tabloid-Monger, R. V. Nertz has more will-power. Furthermore, the number who do not know his identity (or who care to know!) must be rather small by this time, due to that individual's strenuous efforts to conceal such knowledge.

A prominent geologist offers evidence to the effect that women today are no different from what they were 10,000 years ago. Of 600 ancient skeletons unearthed, all those of the women were found to have their mouths open, while all those of the men were shut. Of course the number of the latter would have been different by one if the Ghost Writer had been living then.

We really must congratulate the Ghost Writer for his originality in conceiving a "tidle-wink" team. After searching in dictionaries, encyclopedias, and whatnot for several days, we are forced to admit that nowhere we were able to find that such an expression had been previously used. Of course we were referred to a child's game, "Tiddle-de-winks" or "tiddle-de-winks" or something like that, but the Ghost Writer certainly could not have meant that, since he definitely asserted "tidle-wink". Just what the team was, however, he indifferently left to the reader's imagination.

The Campus Tabloid states that "the art of punning is an outstanding characteristic of our sensational column, 'S. U. Pepys'." In turn, we state that the statements of the Campus Tabloid are extremely rash and unfair, since they fail to have any grounds for such an assertion. Aside from quotations or references to the titles used in this column, we deny ever having been guilty of one teeny weeny pun, and will cheerfully pay the sum of one dollar for the discovery of each by our estimable rival (assuming, of course, that he knows just what constitutes a pun). We await an answer.

The matter of Co-eds being campused for smoking is not one of great moment, but we must confess our amazement at the quantity of cigar butts observed to be lying around the grounds of Seibert Hall. Surely, ladies.....???? (Or did that arch-villain I. M. Nertz, R. U., plant them there?)

Are you troubled with sleeplessness at night? Do you toss around in bed, counting a few million sheep? Does morning find you worn out and weary? Do you want a sure cure for insomnia? Read the Campus Tabloid.

I suppose you're thinking that I haven't said much this week. Well, you're right. I'll have to stop traveling around with the Ghost Writer so much.

A final warning. Keep your children inside, the door locked, and the shades pulled down after eight o'clock at night. You never can tell, with the Ghost Writer around.

So long, Ghost Writer. I guess I'd get my saddle ready for next week, eh what?

Oh well, it's all in fun, as the Japs and Chinese say.

THIS CHOICE OF FRATERNITY

Tomorrow will be an important day in the lives of most men of the Freshman Class, when they make a choice of the fraternity with which they shall affiliate themselves for the rest of their days on Susquehanna's campus and for years after their graduation from college.

Pledging to a fraternity and becoming a member of that group means the selection of a man's constant companions for the rest of one's college days. Swearing loyalty and fidelity to a small group of men is a sacred and solemn obligation. It means putting one's trust in a group of men who shall in return bestow the same fidelity. Indeed the necessity of a proper choice is evident if one's life is to be full of pleasure, happiness, and success.

Why dare we say that pleasure, happiness, and success shall be the result of fraternity life? Because any real fraternity is not only an influence for the fostering of intellectual interest and achievement, but, because it contributes to the strengthening of character and to that type of recreation and sociability which are conducive to the enhancement of human power.

The college fraternity is one of the greatest forces for good in undergraduate life. Potentially it is far greater than many of those who have attempted to make it realize. For the second year in succession the scholastic average of fraternity men has exceeded the all-men's average on more than forty per cent of the campuses. In fact the fraternity men are leading in 60% of the institutions.

If such be the fraternity, those men who desire to pledge themselves should consider several important points in choosing a fraternal organization.

1. Reputation, ideals, and character of the organization.
2. The character—not the outstanding veneer or sophistication—of the men in the fraternity; their congeniality and their bearing and poise.
3. The additional financial burden that will be theirs.
4. The type of men who may also be prospective pledges.

Fraternities differ in policy, ideals, antiquity and organization, all points which warrant consideration on the part of a prospective pledge. Yet it is foolish and perhaps disastrous to break up four years of college life, without a doubt the best four years of life, by putting size or organization before friendship, or acquaintance of the moment for brotherhood.

Obvious is the fact that the character of men in a fraternity create for that club the esteem which it has in the eyes of the world. If the members are noted for their congeniality and bearing such will be the reputation of the fraternity.

The matter of finances must be considered. No man desirous of joining a fraternity should work any further hardship to ones who are financing his education. Yet why shouldn't it be a good investment since it provides a home-like atmosphere premeated with a spirit of brotherhood that many times will be a comfort in distress and trouble.

The significance of the last point is important. Who the other pledges shall be is a question that every prospective man should consider. After all his classmates are the men who will be his companions for seven more semesters.

As had been said before, making the proper choice is much more important than merely becoming a fraternityman. Enjoyment and happy, successful, college days will exist for that man who chooses according to his good judgment and his own convictions.

CAMPUS CLUB WILL MEET FEBRUARY 25TH

The Campus Club will hold their February meeting Thursday the 25th instead of Thursday the 18th as had been announced before. This meeting will be held at Seibert Hall with Mrs. Edwin Brungart, the hostess.

BASKETEERS SMOTHER HAVERFORD IN LOSE TO DELAWARE

Crusaders Divide Honors on Ball Trip

Baffle Haverford Hard Floor Actors; Allow Them Only Five Field Goals. Lose to Delaware 40 to 28

"WASIE" AGAIN LEADS SCORING

Susquehanna emerged from its last basketball trip of the season to Philadelphia with a victory and a defeat. On Friday night the Crusaders crushed the Haverford five by a 39-22 score, but on Saturday were trounced 40-28 by Delaware.

In the game with Haverford the Orange and Maroon arose to the occasion and displayed the best brand of basketball it has shown this season. The passing attack was fast and accurate and baffled the Haverford quintet so that it was never able to cut down the lead which the Crusaders continued to increase as the game progressed. The margin by which Susquehanna won was larger than was expected.

The Susquehanna defense work was especially effective in this contest. Haverford could only throw up two field goals in the first half and three in the latter part of the game. So carefully did each Orange and Maroon guard his man that no single Haverford player took more than a single field goal. Missing but one foul try the home team scored a goodly number of its points from the 15 foot mark. Wasiewski, McGeehan, Rummell and VanNuy led in the scoring.

The game started with a rush when Wasiewski dashed down the side of the court and tossed up a pretty goal. Flacius threw one in for the home team, but Wasiewski again came through with a neat shot. Susquehanna then got a fast attack started and Van Nuy and Rummell each scored a pair of baskets. Near the end of the half Wasiewski and Tomlin tallied. The half ended with the count 21-10.

McGeehan opened the scoring in the second half with a goal and was followed by Wasiewski and Rummell. Haverford spurted for a second and rang up five points. After that the home team was held in check while Susquehanna continued to increase its total. The score:

On Saturday night Susquehanna was outclassed by a strong Delaware outfit. At the start of the game the winners ran up a six point lead which proved to be the closest Susquehanna was ever able to come to the Delaware machine.

Roman and Kaufman were the mainstays of the home team. Each of these players tossed in 16 points. Roman was especially effective in the first half, tallying 13 of his points then. In the matter of scoring Wasiewski, Palmer and VanNuy did the most for the Susquehanna cause.

Delaware held an advantage of 23-9 when the first half ended. Susquehanna outscored the home team in the second part of the game, but could not overcome that large lead.

Seniors Win First Round of Class Ball

Coaches Kozak, Fisher, Rhoads, McGeehan, and Tomlin Will Enter 2nd Round of Competition

The Senior basketball team, with four victories to their list, turned out an undefeated team to win the first round of the inter-class basketball. Much credit is due Coach Kozak for his untiring efforts in making a successful team. Mr. Kozak was a member of the Varsity squad for three years and it is through his coaching ability that they were able to turn out an unbeatable team.

The Junior Class basketball team just could not get started and with the result that they were only able to take fourth place in the race. The Junior team was coached by Robert McGeehan, that flashy guard from Hazleton. Mr. McGeehan has held down the Varsity guard position for three years, and the Juniors were fortunate in securing a so well trained man for their coach.

The Sophomores made a great showing in the league by finishing in the first round in second place. The Sophomore team was coached by Richard Fisher, member of the Varsity basketball squad and varsity center on the football team. Dick has proven to be a great asset to Susquehanna as he was to Selinsgrove High School.

Because of the lack of cooperation and material, the Freshmen were unable to win a game in the first half of the interclass league. The Frosh were coached by George Tomlin, member of the Varsity basketball squad and backfield man for the Frosh football team. To George is due much credit for his efforts which he displayed in order to make a successful team.

The Theologs defeated the Juniors in the last game of the first round to take third place. The Theologs have been displaying a great brand of basketball in the inter-class games and also with the various independent teams which they have played. The Theologs are coached by Luke Rhoads, who is also leading his team mates in scoring. Luke was a consistent player on the University team before entering the Seminary.

Sigma Alpha Mu Fraternity and United Brethren Church Teams Defeated by Overwhelming Scores

B. WORTHINGTON HIGH SCORER

The Susquehanna Junior Varsity basketball team added two more games to their long list of victories during the week-end.

On Friday night they defeated the Sigma Alpha Mu Fraternity of Bucknell by the score of 40-19. The S. A. M. was first to score on a free throw by E. Glazier, but the J. V.'s immediately forged ahead with three free throws. From that time until the end of the game, S. A. M. had no chance against the powerful drive of the J. V.'s. Due to the close guarding, S. A. M. was held without a field goal during the first half, which ended with the score of 23-4. At the beginning of the second half, S. A. M. started a terrific drive which resulted in twelve points while the J. V.'s were getting four. This, however, was soon checked before any damage was done.

Worthington of the J. V.'s held the scoring honors of the game with a total of eleven points by one field goal and nine out of nine fouls. Schlegel was a close second with five field goals. Hulpert led his team mates with six points.

On Saturday night, Shamokin U. B. Church team came here with the thought of breaking the winning streak of the J. V.'s, but they soon saw that it could not be done. A field goal by each team tied the game at the start, but the J. V.'s soon jumped into the lead. The first half ended 12-7 in favor of the J. V.'s and it looked like the

BOND AND KEY BOYS GET FIRE SCARE

Bond and Key House boys received a fire scare on Thursday evening, February 11, about 10:30.

The boys had been using a celluloid trinket for an ash tray on the second floor. Some person left a burning cigarette on the celluloid and naturally the celluloid soon became ignited. Later in the evening some members of the club were listening to the radio and they detected the odor of burning wood. They found the second floor filled with a dense, blue smoke and finally discovered the burning piece of celluloid on top of the reading table and extinguished it. No damage resulted except the table top is ruined and the rooms on the second floor contained smoke on Friday morning.

"SEVEN WOMEN" MAKES SECOND APPEARANCE

A group of the University students presented Barrie's play "Seven Women", as a part of the joint Rotary Club meeting of the Selinsgrove and Sunbury Clubs. The play had previously been presented so well by the cast as a part of the Dramatic Club meeting, that they were requested to present it as a special attraction at this time by the coach, Dr. Arthur H. Wilson. The cast was as follows:

Leonora, Mary Weaverling.
Mrs. Tovey, Millie Hines.
Maid, Marie Miller.
Cap't Rattray, Luke Rhoads.
Mr. Tovey, William Morrow.

PHI KAPPA HONOR FRATERNITY INITIATES SIX NEOPHYTES

The Philhellenic Greek honor fraternity received into the sacred rights of Phi Kappa the following new members at their regular meeting February 12, 1932: Robert Clark, Elmer Drumm, Paul Edwards, Ernest Huston, Henry Phillips, and James Shirley.

After the initiation ceremony Quinto Gionto ably delivered a report on the development of lyric poetry and William Royer constructively criticized the ancient Greek poets and their works. Dr. Ahl and several other members addressed a few remarks of welcome to the newly initiated, followed by an hour of sociability and fellowship.

Much interest is being manifested in this organization and many are the benefits derived of it by the members.

AMUSEMENTS

The Stanley Theatre has an extra fine showing of talkies this week.

Tonight will be the last opportunity one will have of seeing Dorothy Sebastian in "The Deceiver."

Kay Francis will play the lead in "False Madonna" on Wednesday evening.

The popular Lionel Barrymore and Elissa Landi will be co-stars in "The Yellow Ticket," booked for Thursday night.

On Friday night "The Ladies of the Big House" will include in the list of thespians Sylvia Sydney and Gene Raymond.

Clive Brooks will make his appearance in "Twenty Four Hours," on Saturday.

College Debaters In 2 Fraternity Meets

Negative Loses to Bowdoin Men and Has Non-Decision Radio Debate With Bucknell

Following a loss to Bowdoin College, the Susquehanna Negative Team broadcasted an aerial debate with Bucknell University over station WJBU last Friday afternoon. Two men represented each team in the latter contest, because of time limitations.

Mr. Joseph Maimon and Mr. Samuel Brosius represented Susquehanna in the radio debate, a non-decision meeting on the intercollegiate subject, "Resolved, that capitalism is unsound." Bucknell's affirmative team was composed of Mr. Franklin Cook and Mr. Chester Owens, with Cook being allowed a short rebuttal following the speeches.

To radio listeners the arguments seemed to be about equal, although the delivery was weak in many places, the speakers giving their invisible audience the impression that the broadcasting must have affected their powers of oratory considerably. In this respect, Mr. Brosius proved himself far superior to the others, stating his points in a clear and unhesitating manner.

On Monday night last, the full negative team, composed of Mr. Maimon, Mr. Brosius, and Mr. William Morrow, lost to Bowdoin College by a judges' decision of three to nothing. It was the first debate of the season for Susquehanna, and this fact was evidently responsible for the weak showing of the local team, together for the first time.

Bowdoin carried the rebuttal impressively, while Susquehanna failed to keep pace in this respect. The main speeches were fairly good, but the weakness of the rebuttal resulted in the overwhelming decision of the judges.

Miss Clara Corbin, coach of the teams, is handicapped by the loss of material from last year's successful group, but when this year's teams have rounded into shape it is certain that more impressive showings may be expected.

Faculty and Students Attend Convention

The Thirteenth Annual Conference in the North Atlantic Region of the Lutheran Student Association of America was held in the Egner-Hartzell Memorial Chapel at Muhlenberg College on February 19-20-21, 1932.

Those representing Susquehanna were Dr. and Mrs. Smith, Dr. Williams, Isabella Horn, Mary Ann Cressman, Louise Mehrling, Ruth Bergstresser, John Kindsavater, Lewis Fox, and Robert Clark.

After a general survey of the campus and its buildings, a Vesper Service was held in that wonderful place of architecture—the Egner-Hartzell Memorial Chapel. Vespers was a service of quiet meditation, song and prayer. A social hour followed on the third floor of the library building. The entertainment features were solos—piano, vocal, guitar and mouth-organ, and trombone. A quartet sang the Muhlenberg College song. Several games were played and refreshments—ice cream, pretzels and punch—were served. Night lodging being taken care of, the conference adjourned.

Saturday morning began with breakfast at 8 o'clock followed by Matins in the chapel. Dr. Samuel Trexler, President of the United Synod of New York, spoke at the next assemblage of the Conference in the old chapel. He had also spoken at Vespers the evening before. Since the goal of the conference was "Achieving the Best," he based his talks on "Right Choices" and "Sources of Power." Then the group was divided according to the initial of the last name into small groups. In that way everyone shared in the new methods of Bible Study. Each group had a leader, who read a passage of scripture and those in the group wrote their impressions as it was being read. Then they were read and discussed. Dinner was served, and the delegates from Susquehanna returned to their own campus.

Delegates from Penn State, University of Pennsylvania, Temple, Drexel, West Chester, Hunter, Gettysburg, Cornell, Mount Airy, Shippensburg, Princeton, Cedar Crest, Bucknell and many others were there.

Bond and Key Wins Scholarship Award

Bond and Key Holds Fraternity Cup for Third Time. Kozak and Royer Lead the Winning Club

Bond and Key Fraternity is the winner of the Interfraternity Scholarship Cup for this year, ending with the first semester of this school year. The winning club averaged 168 quality points per semester hour carried. Phi Mu Delta fraternity is second in scholarship with an average of 164. Epsilon Sigma rates third, and Phi Lambda Theta is fourth in the recent averages submitted by the Dean's office.

Andrew Kozak, '32, and William Royer, '33, led the Bond and Key scholarship during the past two semesters with a mark far above two quality points per hour. Roscoe Fisher and Lee Fairchild, '32, were the outstanding members of the Phi Mu Delta boys in scholarship. Robert McNally, '33, and Selon Dockey, '33, kept up the average of the Epsilon Sigma club during the past two semesters. Marlin Botteiger, '34, and Arthur Wilmarth, '32, led the Phi Lambda Theta men during the last two semesters.

This is the third time in four consecutive years that the Bond and Key Club has received the scholarship cup. The first two years of this competition the Bond and Key Club received the award; last year the Phi Mu Delta men were successful in getting the cup. Following are the fraternity ratings for both semesters:

Second Semester, 1930-1931—Phi Mu Delta, 1.69; Bond and Key, 1.60; Epsilon Sigma, 1.44; Phi Lambda Theta, 1.39.

First Semester, 1931-1932—Bond and Key, 1.76; Phi Mu Delta, 1.59; Epsilon Sigma, 1.48; Phi Lambda Theta, 1.42.

It is gratifying to note that the fraternity scholarship is gradually improving. With the exception of one group the first semester's average of the year was higher than their second semester's average of last year. The final average for all fraternities men during the second period of last year was 1.53 points per hour; but during the first semester of this year the mark has risen to 1.56½ points per semester hour.

The Ladies Campus Club will meet Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

RATS HOLD COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES AT SUSQUEHANNA

The rats and mice on Susquehanna's campus held their mid-semester graduation exercises recently, making us of the regular administration diplomas for the occasion.

Having finished their courses in domestic science, etc., in Hassinger Hall, Gustavus Adolphus, and other buildings, the rodents were prepared to matriculate, but found that they had no diplomas for the ceremony.

"Why not use the Susquehanna diplomas," squeaked Oscar, cousin of the famous Mickey Mouse. "Good idea!" boomed Rollo the Rat, and the others signified their approval.

Consequently, when members of the administration looked into the closet the other day, it was discovered that the University diplomas had already been put to use, or rather disuse, for 1932.

Student Attendance at Class is Good

Only 51.9% of Student Body Took Less Than Ten Cuts First Semester. No Cuts for Twenty-Two

Twenty-two students have the enviable record of not missing one class during the first term. From the college: Anna Benfer, Luther Boyer, Edwin Clapper, Flora Ellmore, Mary Ellingham, Manley Gregory, Helen Keller, Nelson King, Charles Lauer, Walter Metzger, Emma Orando, Ruth Plummer, Marian Walborn, and Edna Williamson. From the Conservatory of Music: Kenneth Blyler, Dorothy Eastep, Erdene Ellmore, Arline Kanyuk, Winnie Korte, Elva Winkleblech, Alma Myers, and Beryl Wyman.

The percentage shows that a little more than a half of the students took less than the ten allowed cuts, which is a fairly good record of attendance.

The Freshman class came out first with fifty-two who took less than ten absences; the Seniors came second with forty-two; the Juniors came third with thirty-two, and the Sophomores next, following the Juniors closely, with thirty-one.

Education Department Initiates Practice Teaching Method

Susquehanna, which has never followed a set form of practice teaching, has decided to initiate something new. This new form has its advantages and its disadvantages as do all new things. The chief objection is that it was not instituted until the second semester when many of the Seniors had completed their work at the high school.

Under the old system the Seniors who were qualifying themselves for teaching positions were assigned to classes at the high school when they were not occupied with work on the campus. According to the new plan such Seniors are required to spend one entire week at the local high school, teaching, observing, or doing anything that the principal assigns them to do. Along with this work they are expected to keep pace with their classes on the campus although they are excused from attending them for one week.

Many schools send their Seniors out to do their practice teaching for a certain period of time, anywhere up to nine weeks, but while they are doing it they are not expected to have any connection with campus classes. They do not have to keep their college work on the same level with the other students and at the same time carry the additional burden of teaching any number of classes that they might be called upon to teach.

The great advantage lies in the fact that the experience is wider and the student secures a better knowledge of what will be expected of him in full time teaching.

Club Program Given to Honor Washington

The Women's Club of Selinsgrove sponsored a George Washington Bicentennial Program last evening in Selbert Hall Chapel. The program included various addresses, choruses, songs, readings, minuet dances, and other novelty numbers, all of which were designed to honor the memory of George Washington. Some of the students took part in the program and all of the numbers were received very favorably by those who attended the celebration.

Combined Sororities Hold Pledge Dances

Annual Affair Well Attended; Ivan Faux and Pennsylvania Ramblers Well Received; Roberts Directs

With a full moon shining outside and soft lights glowing inside the Alumni Gymnasium, at least fifty couples swayed to the music of Ivan Faux and his Pennsylvania Ramblers at the Inter-Sorority Dance last Saturday evening.

The Ramblers, with Bill Roberts, Susquehanna alumnus, directing, were enthusiastically received, and in spite of the crowded floor, the dance proved to be an all around success.

The dance was given by the sororities in honor of the pledges recently taken in by each.

Patrons and patronesses were Professor and Mrs. E. E. Sheldon, Professor and Mrs. P. M. Linebaugh, Dr. and Mrs. G. N. Wood, Professor and Mrs. E. D. Grossman, Professor and Mrs. E. M. Brungart, Dr. and Mrs. A. W. Ahl, Miss Naomi K. Hade, Professor and Mrs. E. K. Rumberger, and Dr. and Mrs. P. J. Ovrebo.

Reverend Hollenbach, Brilliant Orator, Will Address Pi Gamma Mu

Pi Gamma Mu, National Honor Science group, will present Reverend John S. Hollenbach, S.T.D., of Manchester, Maryland, in a lecture entitled "Builders and Bulwarks of Our Democracy," in Suele Science Hall, on Friday evening, February 26, at 8:15.

Reverend Hollenbach is a graduate of the Susquehanna Preparatory School in the class of 1911 and was graduated from Franklin and Marshall College in 1915 where he was indeed a brilliant orator, carrying off all the oratorical prizes that the University offered during his four years at school.

The speaker comes to our campus recommended by some of the foremost men in the State, including N. A. Danowsky, of the Pennsylvania Department of Education, and George W. Walborn, a former Superintendent of Public Instruction in Snyder county.

Greek Clubs Pledge Thirty-Two Frosh

Sixty-five Per Cent of Freshmen Pledge to Fraternities, Grades of Fourteen Men Make Them Ineligible

Approximately sixty-five per cent of the men of the Freshman Class pledged to one or another of the four fraternities on Susquehanna's campus. Fourteen men of the Freshman class were ineligible for pledging because their grades for the first semester put them on the probation list. The percentage of men who pledged at Susquehanna is higher than on many of the other college campuses, but this has always been true. This year the number of men which any and each fraternity pledged was almost equal. No one club led by more than two men over the others. The list of pledges a each group is as follows:

Bond and Key: Henry Phillips, John Hanna, Charles Jones, Earl Shober, William Caruth, Peter Blackwood, and Timothy Barnes.

Epsilon Sigma: Savior Abbott, Kenneth Anderson, Elmer Devereaux, William Whiteley, Elmer Drumm, Harry Johnston, Russell Eisenhower, Peter Kowalchick, Donald Henry, Walter Wiselatsky.

Phi Lambda Theta: Samuel Schlegel, Ernest Fritz, Kenneth Blyler, Luther Boyer, Robert Smith.

Phi Mu Delta: Regis Kiffer, Mervin Logue, Robert Clark, William Reyer, George Tomlin, Morgan Schreiner, Vasco Fantl, Stephen Martinec, Constanty Waslewski, Richard Shade.

ANNOUNCEMENT!

Election of four (4) sub-assistant Baseball and Track managers will be held in the near future. Members of the Sophomore class interested in being candidates are requested to present their names in writing at the Gymnasium Office on or before February 25th.

Sigma Sigma Delta Will Stage Milne Play; Surprise in Store. Miss Reeder Directs Good Cast

When Sigma Sigma Delta presents "The Truth About Blayds," by A. A. Milne, Thursday, February 25 at 8:15, Susquehanna University will receive one of the greatest treats in dramatics that has been offered in some time. Sigma Sigma Delta has presented some excellent plays before this and a great deal will be anticipated in "The Truth About Blayds."

THE STORY

The story is laid in England at the present time. The scene of all action is the home of Oliver Blayds, England's greatest poet. The first act takes place at the birthday celebration of Oliver Blayds. The family is assembled and A. L. Royce, a well known critic, is present to read a testimonial to his greatness signed by many writers. The company drinks his health and Blayds speaks, saying that he wants to talk to Isabel that night.

The second act takes place after the funeral of the poet who died on the night of his birthday. The family is assembled once more and Isabel is to tell her reason for not permitting the burial of her father in the abbey. To say more would spoil the story. A surprise is in store for those who attend. What is the truth about Blayds?

THE CAST

As to the characters Oliver Blayds is a man of ninety. Very domineering. This part will be played by Merle Hubbard, who does those commanding father parts so well. Leonard Olsen is his son-in-law, and secretary. Lee Fairchilds is his grandson and Jack Petry had been Isabel's lover eighteen years ago.

Freda Stephens portrays the role of Marian, the daughter, a sweet, foolish woman, who thinks it is wonderful to be the daughter of Oliver Blayds and the wife of William Blayds Conway. Isabel is the one member of the family that no one knows very much about. She has devoted her life to her father and is seldom seen without him. Septima is the granddaughter who allows her life to be governed by her grandfather as does everyone else. This part is taken by Nan McHugh, who has not appeared on our stage since 1930.

The complete cast is as follows:
Oliver Blayds Merle Hubbard
Marian Blayds-Conway, Freda Stephens
Isabel Blayds-Conway, Barbara Jones
William Blayds-Conway, Leonard Olsen
Septima Blayds-Conway, Nan McHugh
Oliver Blayds-Conway, Lee Fairchilds
A. L. Royce Jack Petry
Parsons Amelia Krapft

Frosh Will Elect Staff For Weekly

The Freshman Class will hold a class meeting Wednesday noon for the purpose of electing the editorial staff which will publish the Freshman issue of the weekly Susquehanna. Each year the Freshman Class has the opportunity to publish one issue of the weekly. For the last few years it has been the custom to let the incoming class publish the issue of the paper which comes out the week of the first semester exams. The job is too hard for the inexperienced ones to do justice to it, especially when they should be preparing for the mid-years. In consideration of this the Editor-in-Chief and the Faculty Advisor have selected the second week in March as the week of the Freshman publication.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 23, 1932

And now that the administration gave the student body a day of vacation, we wonder how many students really celebrated the birthday of George Washington in a fitting manner.

ARE YOU A MEMBER?

Some time ago the administration announced to the student body that an Appointment Bureau free from charge had finally been organized which would serve to the student. The only bit of work that the applicant was compelled to do included filling out an application blank and presenting three small photographs to the Registrar. Yet the membership of this Bureau for the Senior class is far from one hundred percent. Already requests for teachers are coming to the Registrar's Office. Certainly with out the prompt co-operation of the Senior for whom the service has been established, the efficiency of the Appointment Bureau will be lessened. It speaks well for the Bureau that last year it placed every one of the graduates form the Business Department.

IN HONOR OF WASHINGTON

Yesterday, February 22, we celebrated the two-hundredth anniversary of the birth of the man who in our minds is associated as having been, "First in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen."

George Washington was not only an example to the men of his time but he stands forth, a shining example to posterity. It was his personal character as a citizen, as well as his official life which made him the outstanding international as well as national figure of his time. As a soldier, he achieved victory for the cause of independence against great odds and in spite of innumerable and most discouraging difficulties.

His example has been an inspiration to patriots and to friends of liberty and equality of political opportunity throughout the world. This celebration of Washington's birth gives to every American citizen the opportunity to show whether he has cherished the tradition of Washington's achievements sufficiently to still respect his high type of citizenship, the kind of citizenship without which we cannot expect our democracy to carry on and flourish as Washington had expected it would.

To appreciate this famous character and realize how great a man he really was yet at the same time to draw hope and inspiration for ourselves, we need only to glance at the daily obstacles he had to overcome, the venomous and treacherous personal attacks made on him, the chaotic political conditions amid which he had to find and formulate a sound basis for orderly government, and the careful thought and attention which he gave to private interests.

We can not but agree with Colonel U. S. Grant, 3rd, when he says, "No better way can be found of dispelling discontent of meeting the various ingenious but unsound political panaceas that are daily offered as cures for our troubles, or of counter-acting paid propaganda for the subversion of our Government, than to fill our hearts and minds with the inspiration that may be derived from the political principles and practice of George Washington and the few other great men who collaborated with him in his great work." It is therefore with the firm conviction that this bicentennial year offers a special and rarely occurring occasion for the education of our Nation in the sound political and civic principles which will lift it to a higher moral plane and set it on the road to safety for another two centuries, that the United States Commission for the Celebration of the Two Hundredth Anniversary of the Birth of George Washington has asked every real American citizen to co-operate heartily and make this celebration mean the most possible to the American people.

For the young man and woman there should be a particular interest and hope in the ability of a man to rise to the leadership of his country by sheer strength of character, civic virtue, consideration for the needs and view of others, and by good common sense. What other way is there of persuading you and me, the and of the possibilities before them, than to place before our eyes the full life and great personality of George Washington in all its phrases?

This wonderful man was very much a human being. A man of strong passions yet under what perfect control of still stronger mental powers, full of interest in all types of outdoor activities and with a keen sense of humor and generous affections, he was always in the sympathy of the problems of his neighbors and community. To be just to all and always open minded to every suggestion was the aim of his daily life.

If we can but carry the excellent example and companionship of this stellar personality in our hearts we can rest assured that the destiny of our nation is secure in the hands of the next generation which we as college men and women are destined to govern.

The Editor's Mail

THE SUSQUEHANNA AS AN ALUMNUS SEES IT

Dear Mr. Editor:

I believe that your paper has now graduated into the realms of the New York Times or what have you. Personally, I feel as though I speak for the majority of my fellows "out on parole" I enjoy hearing what you are doing in college and not what some of our worthies are doing after college. I feel that is being "chewed twice," first in the Susquehanna, then in the alumnus. I never enjoy those sorts of "gags" the second time.

Now is the time for a reformation. Lay aside the five W's and begin anew. I suggest this idea: the five C's: Chuckles, Cattiness, Cracks, Causes, and Consequences. Seibert Hall Echoes have always taken care of the second. More columns as R. V. Nertz will produce the other two. Causes are usually always the same: either fraternity politics (in elections or teams), Professors' errors, gym tests, heavy dates, or Consequences either from not having paid athletes, unpaid excess laundry bills, or unpaid alumni pledges.

Debunking is a popular sport for editors, for that makes the paper sell. Everyone likes the inside story. Start with the professors by looking up their college life.

Pictures are needed to come up to a better standard. I suggest the identification photos. This would give it the New York Graphic effect or Police Gazetteish (coined).

Who's what, check. I mean Who's Who is usually one to fall back on. They are better done when written by fraternity brothers.

These are but a few suggestions which mean to send more spice, fewer Susquehanna ads (for we have heard of the place) and less talk about the unoccupied alumni. I do not expect these to be carried out but my school board is furnishing the time and material for this "billet" and I am using it very copiously (a word from Dr. Dunkelberger's spitting story).

Yours editorially,
Iona Cann,
31 or under.

Seibert Hall Echoes

All of the song birds aren't in the conservatory, for several persist in practicing in class rooms. Miss Grove is usually puzzled when she arrives for a class in French, for invariably she hears the sweet strains of "Old Black Joe," and Miss Grove isn't at all sure that she has arrived at the proper room.

The Bachelor Club at Jersey Shore gave Seibert Hall a break at the dance Saturday night. Roses and everything.

Seibert Hall was in a turmoil to find out who "Dot" Clegg was taking to the dance. Everybody happy now?

The men on the campus would be flattered if they knew the real reason for some of the girls not going to the dance.

It is gratifying to note that at least one man on the campus accepts advice.

We hear that "Is" Wagner almost poured glycer in her tea instead of sugar on Sunday. What about it "Is"?

Junior Varsity Takes Revenge on Danville Y

The Junior Varsity basketball team defeated the Danville Y. M. C. A. team in the Alumni Gymnasium on Friday night to gain revenge for the defeat handed them at Danville earlier in the season.

The first quarter was played on even terms, but the opening of the second quarter saw the J. V.'s push ahead to hold a eight point lead at half time with the score of 13-10. This first half lead proved to be an important factor in the game, because Danville came back in the second half to score four more points than the J. V.'s were able to register. The end of the game saw Danville struggling to tie the score by scoring two more goals, but the game ended too soon with the score of 30-26.

Bruce Worthington, a flashy J. V. forward, captured scoring honors of the game with a total of eleven points. Hugh Brunninger was second with nine points. McWilliams, Danville center, led his team mates with eight points.

WILL BANQUET AT GREEN CABLES HOTEL

Susquehannians in the Lewistown district will hold their annual meeting and banquet at the Green Cables Hotel Lewistown, at 6:30, February 26. Members of the faculty are invited to attend. Notify the Alumni Office on or before February 23, if you plan to attend.

S. U. PEPYS

Having heard that the public is wearying of the squabble between would-be-columnists, we shall lay off this week and attempt to discuss matters more in the public eye.

Even ye editor has requested conservation of hot air. Said person also told his assistants to get busy this week, he had to go to Pittsburgh. Applestrudel, Andrew. When did she change her residence from Antes Fort?

A few matters on which R. V. Nertz does not have the dope:

Why is the gym floor so sacred that anyone who dares walk across it in street shoes, six days a week, is threatened with solitary confinement on bread and water, but that on the seventh day the floor is covered with slippery wax and a dance is held, while some fifty or so couples slide, gallop, and cavort about in their respective interpretations?

Why are the co-eds allowed to pant about after a little white ball, swinging at each other viciously with wooden clubs, under the windows of the men's dormitory, but when they play the much more dignified game of basketball, the males are ordered outside? (We know the basketball season is over, but that doesn't alter the above circumstances.)

Why do the pledges of each fraternity think they should not speak to the members of those to which they are not pledged? And why do some of the members think the same about those freshmen who have not pledged their particular fraternity?

Why has the interest in interclass basketball fallen off?

Why does nobody ever seem to drink the punch at the dances?

Heh! heh! I know the truth about Blayds! But I won't tell anyone, so you'll have to see for yourself. Take my tip, however, it's worth seeing.

Another sure sign of spring is the volley ball season, giving the boys a breathing spell between basketball and the outdoor sports. For a few weeks the big huskies will line up on opposite sides of the net and try to look athletic while punishing the oversize tennis ball. We hear the special gym students are already in strict training. They would enter a team, but are afraid of losing their exclusive status quo.

Otherwise the diversion for the thaw period (some thaw!) will probably consist of pinocle and ping-pong tournaments in Haxinger and the first houses. laugh. They're already under way. After the dance the other night, the boys (admiring each other's appearance in a tux) even suggested a formal ping-pong tournament. They probably figured they could bounce the ball off their shirts as well as with the rackets.

Although the first semester exams are dead and buried by now, it won't hurt to remind you of the "Burns" aspirant who contributed the answer that "Burns was an excess man".

Aw heck! Don't you wish there were more men like George Washington? Cheer up. The Easter bunny will soon be here.

Fraternity Row

Bond and Key

Several of the old members couldn't stay away from the sorority pledge dance last Saturday, Daniel Graham, Clifford Johnson, and William Roberts helped the club members spend a merry week end. Mr. Metcalf and Mr. Polke were guests of Mr. Roberts.

Dr. James Davis a well known Craftsman and particular friend of "Bill" Adams spent Saturday and Sunday at the club house.

The following men were elected as officers of the pledge group: Earl Shober, President, John Hanna, vice-president, and Peter Blackwood, secretary.

Phi Mu Delta

Dr. Irvin of Sunbury, and Mr. Bland Clark of the University of Maryland visited the Fraternity House during the last week.

Harold Witkop and Fred Wilks spent the week end in Buffalo, N. Y. Alumni members who visited the Fraternity House during the week were Raymond Scott, Lawrence Fisher, Basil Martin, Wilber Berger, Randolph Harvey, and Frank Weaver.

John Kindsvaeter, Lewis Fox and Robert Clarke attended a convention of Lutheran Students at Muhlenberg College the latter part of the week.

Phi Lambda Theta

Paul Haines, Class of '31, visited the fraternity house over the week-end. Morrie Knepp, '31, visited his fraternity brothers and friends on Friday night.

Walter Metzger, Richard Krear and Ray Minnick visited their homes over the week-end.

Kappa Delta Phi

Kappa Delta Phi was glad to welcome back the following alumnae on Saturday night: Lois Brungard, Leona Edla, Apple, Hannah Pittner, Mary Royer, and Wilma Walker. They all attended the Pledge Dance.

Mrs. Ovrebo Entertains

Friday February 19 the Seniors of Omega Delta Sigma were the guests of Mrs. Paul J. Ovrebo at a bridge tea Mrs. Ovrebo is a charming hostess and every minute was delightful from the time every one was assembled and the dainty silhouettes talls were distributed until the last morsel of food was consumed and Dr. Ovrebo chaffered for the girls on the return to the Dorm.

"Sonny" Ovrebo contributed not a little to the entertainment. He is one of the marvelous professors' sons to be found only at Susquehanna.

Mrs. Ovrebo is a marvelous cook and displayed her ability in the refreshments. We learned that Dr. Ovrebo had been a very thin man at one time and look at him now!

The first prize for bridge was won by Muriel Camerer and to Edna Williamson was given the prize for low score.

Indians Scalp S. U. In Return Struggle

First Half Overlaid Too Much For Uterbryne; Sensational Rally in Closing Minutes Fails

Susquehanna again won and lost a game over the week-end, when it lost to Juniata Saturday night at Huntington by the score of 45-38 and conquered Elizabethtown College Friday night in the Alumni Gymnasium with a 39-24 count.

The Juniata Indians were out for the Susquehanna scalps and set a dazzling pace from the opening whistle. They completely outplayed and outscored the Orange and Maroon in the first half. At the end of the period the count stood 20-9. Of the nine points scored Rummell made the only field goal. Van Nuy, Palmer and McGeehan scored the rest on free throws.

At the outset of the second half Susquehanna came to life and for several moments endangered the lead of the home team. However, Juniata took a tremendous spurt and at one time during the middle of the period held a 22-point lead. In the last eight minutes of play Susquehanna flashed the most sensational basketball of the season. A shower of goals brought the score within seven points of Juniata. Rummell, McGeehan, and Van Nuy led this attack with a number of beautiful shots.

Wasilewski had three personal fouls called upon him in the first two minutes of play and consequently was not able to take part in much of the encounter. Kramer played nearly half the contest and, although he didn't score so much, did valuable work for the Crusader cause. Blough, Given, and Burlew were outstanding for Juniata. The score:

The contest on Friday evening proved to be an easy one for Susquehanna. Coach Uterbryne started his second team and the reserves held Elizabethtown so well that he allowed them to finish the first half. Just before the first period of play ended the visitors took the lead for the first time and held a 13-9 advantage when the whistle blew. In the second half Coach Uterbryne sent in his regulars and they proceeded to run up the score with ease. Wasilewski, Van Nuy, and McGeehan tossed in goals at will while Elizabethtown found the goal but three times, so closely was it guarded.

Basketball Season Will End With LaSalle Fray

The Susquehanna University basketball team will close its 1931-32 season on Saturday night, when it meets LaSalle in the Alumni gymnasium.

This will be the first time this school has played on our campus. Last season Susquehanna played LaSalle for the first time in Philadelphia, and was victorious. However this season the Crusaders again played there, but lost by a 17-11 count. LaSalle has a strong team this season. Last week it lost to Princeton by a single point.

Susquehanna is especially anxious to win this game, as it will make its winning column for the season overbalance its losing column. A loss will give the Orange and Maroon exactly as many wins as losses.

This game will mark the last appearance of Captain Rummell and Palmer under the Orange and Maroon colors in the basketball floor. So far this season both have played bang up basketball and another good game Saturday will finish up a great season for the two.

In the preliminary Saturday night the Javes will meet the Buffalo Valley quintet. The reserves also play on Wednesday and Friday night of week.

Coach Uterbryne Gives Call to Batterymen

Battery candidates for the Susquehanna baseball team were ordered to report for indoor practice last Monday (Feb. 15) by Coach Uterbryne. By slow and easy workouts the pitchers will be able to work themselves into condition so that there should be no sore arms when outdoor practice starts in April. Coach Uterbryne should have a strong pitching staff this season. The return to school of Danks will fill the vacancy caused by the graduation of Donnell who carried the major portion of the hurling duties last season.

Brinninger will also be counted upon to do much work this season. He first came to the fore last year when he pitched a no hit no run game against Moravian College. Two other members of last year's staff who will be counted upon are Maimon and Meyers. Schaffer, who did very well last year in the catching department, will again probably take most of the burden.

FIRST WINTER TRACK MEET

The first of the winter inter-class track events will take place next Saturday afternoon when the Inter-class Medley relay will take place on the board track at three o'clock. This has been an annual event for a number of years. The Relay will be made up of a mile, a 220 yard dash, a 440 yard dash, and a half mile run.

INTERCLASS BASKETBALL

The second half of the inter-class basketball started off with a bang when the Sophomores defeated the Seniors, champions of the first half, by the score of 22-18. Elnitsky was high scorer with ten points.

The next game found the Juniors defeating the Frosh in a close game with the final score 16-15. Eisenhower was high scorer of the game with six points. The Frosh showed much improvement in this game.

On Wednesday night, the Frosh lost all that improvement and lost to the Theologs by the score of 61-14. Rhoads was high scorer of the game with twenty-nine points, over twice as many as the whole Frosh team. Schmidt was second with seventeen points. Luke Rhoads provided the thrill of the game by throwing a field goal while sitting on the floor near the foul line.

The Seniors, after losing to the Sophs, came back strong on Thursday night to defeat the strong Theolog team by the score of 45-39. Holman captured high score honors with thirteen points. Speer and Schmidt were tied for second with eleven points.

What Is "The Truth About the Blayds?"

For a great number of years Oliver Blayds has been honored and respected by the whole nation for the excellent poetry he has written. All England knows his name and in his own dignified household, he is practically worshipped. In their eyes he could do nothing wrong and every action of theirs must be considered in relation to the great poet.

Suddenly comes the very startling climax! On his death bed, at the age of ninety years, Oliver Blayds confesses the truth of his life. What a shock it would be to the world and what whispering and buzzing would be heard on the lips of everyone! What humiliation and embarrassment for his family! Everything must be changed, this great national poet must be taken from his pedestal. The poet's grandchildren now realize what an honor it had been to bear his name—a fact which they never could appreciate to the satisfaction of their parents.

What is this secret which would have so completely revolutionized everything? How will the devoted family act in the face of such a situation? Must the famous name of Blayds fall or will it be able to remain so high in the general esteem?

All these questions will be answered for you in a delightfully entertaining way if you attend the Sigma Sigma Delta production at 8:15 on Thursday evening in Seibert Hall.

Remember—you can't afford to be absent when such a man, known worldwide, discloses the secret of his success in life.

DEPTH SOUNDERS FOR AIRCRAFT

WITH the application of electricity to aircraft instruments, another chapter was written in the annals of air transportation. To-day's ship is not only swifter but safer and more dependable. Modern depth-sounding devices indicate instantly the height of the ship above the ground surface. A unique feature of General Electric's recently purchased monoplane is the almost completely electrified instrument panel.

The most recently developed instrument is the sonic altimeter, which provides a quick means of indicating changes in height above ground. Sound from an intermittently operated air whistle is directed downward. The echo is picked up in a receiving megaphone, and the sound is heard through a stethoscope. The elapsed time between the sound and the echo determines the height. Tests show that water, buildings, woods, etc., produce echoes that are different and characteristic.

Besides developing a complete system of aircraft instruments, college-trained General Electric engineers have pioneered in every electrical field—on land, on sea, and in the air.

Varsity Succumbs to La Salle in Finale

Meehan Brothers and Moscant, Visiting Stars, Wreak Havoc With Crusaders' Defense

In its final game of the season the Susquehanna basketball team lost a hard fought battle to LaSalle College last Saturday night in the Alumni gymnasium by the score of 33-27.

As the score indicates the contest was a close one from start to finish and filled with many thrills. Although the Orange and Maroon quintet lost, its exhibition in the final court game of the season was nothing of which to be ashamed. All the members of the team fought hard, but were up against a quintet with the smoothest working attack that has appeared in the alumni gymnasium in some time. The visitors with a number of varied and well executed plays worked the ball in for numerous easy shots.

Susquehanna played its best basketball during the first half of the contest. The Crusaders started with the lead, but lost it and then regained it again. LaSalle jumped into a four-point lead as the half ended, the large advantage it held during that period of play. During the second half the visitors drew away to a seven point lead and one that the Orange and Maroon simply couldn't close up.

Moscant, the LaSalle center, and C. Meehan, forward, appeared to be the outstanding players for the visiting team and gave the Orange and Maroon wearers a lot to worry about. Both of these boys, besides scoring numerous points excelled in their floor games. There were no outstanding stars among the Susquehanna combination.

Susquehanna started the first scoring of the game when VanNuy's netted a follow up shot. Meehan brothers tallied two baskets and a foul. Rum-mell followed with two free throws and Wasilewski tossed in a goal. McGehean caged one from under the basket and Wasilewski made two charity throws good. At this point LaSalle rallied and after trailing 13-10 gained a 17-13 advantage when the half ended.

VanNuy again started the scoring. Moscant, Rummell and Kramer each scored from the fifteen foot line. Palmer scored, but Baker and C. Meehan came back with goals. Moscant, McGehean, Rummell and Kapic each made good his foul try. At this point LaSalle with a one point lead again spurred ahead. The visiting second team was sent in for the last few minutes and the game ended 33-27.

The score:

	Susquehanna	Goals	Fouls	Pts.
Rummell, f	0	4	6
Van Nuy, f	3	1	7
Kapic, f	0	1	4
Palmer, c	1	1	1

Freshmen Elect Logue As Editor of Weekly

At a meeting of the Freshmen Class on Wednesday, February 24, Mervin Logue was elected Editor-in-Chief of the Freshmen issue of the Susquehanna to appear March 15. The following staff has been selected: Associate Editor, Robert Clark; News Editor, Louise Mehring; Sports Editor, Donald K. Henry. Many other Freshmen have professed their willingness to aid in the various departments. This issue, in addition to containing the regular college news, will have an account of various activities in which the Freshmen were particularly interested. Editor Logue feels that he will have the cooperation of the entire class in making this Freshman issue of the Susquehanna a great success.

WASHINGTON TEA ENJOYED BY CAMPUS CLUB MEMBERS

The Campus Club of Selinsgrove held its meeting on Thursday afternoon from three o'clock until five o'clock in the social room of Seibert Hall. Mrs. E. M. Brungart acted as hostess. The meeting was very informal being in the guise of a George Washington tea. The ladies who were in the George Washington program last Monday evening came dressed in the costumes which they wore that night. The effect was very pretty. There was quite a large number in attendance and the tea was according to all accounts.

Star Course Lecturer

COUNT FELIX VON LUCKNER

German Nobleman to Deliver Lecture

Von Luckner, Famous "Sea Devil," Will Be the Feature on the Final Star Course Number

Count Von Luckner, the famous "Sea Devil," and the last attraction of the Star Course, will deliver a lecture in Seibert Chapel, Wednesday, March 9, at 8:15 p. m.

A more interesting personality than Von Luckner can scarcely be imagined. Although he was the son of a German nobleman, he ran away from home when he was thirteen years old and became a sailor. Since that time his life has been one ceaseless adventure. He sailed before the mast for eight years, he worked as a bar-boy in Hoboken, hunted kangaroos in Australia, and became middle-weight boxing champion of Queensland. The peak of his amazing career of adventure was reached during the war. As an officer in the German navy, he was responsible for the sinking of 500,000 tons of Allied shipping, yet he never took a life. Before sinking a ship he would take her entire crew on board his own boat, the "Sea Eagle." He always treated his prisoners as if they were his guests on a pleasure cruise, and deposited them all safely on shore.

The Count is an excellent speaker, and his lecture is a real attraction. Don't miss it.

"Outline of Persian History," by Doctor Ahl, Widely Known

Receives Request for Volume From Russian University, Book Used in History Seminar, Cambridge

Dr. William Ahl, of the Greek Department here, recently received a very interesting correspondence from Ufa University, Russia; inquiring about his volume, "An Outline of Persian History Based on the Cuneiform Inscription." This volume is of high technical character and for that reason it is not used extensively except in higher institutions of historical research. A new edition of the volume, with changes by the author was made in 1931.

Some time ago Dr. Ahl received a letter from Luzack and Company, Publishers; 46 Great Russell St., London. The letter stated that they had just furnished the History Seminar in Cambridge London, with his volume on Persian History," which is of special copies of this volume sent to Madras University in India, to be used as texts.

Following is the letter the author received from Prof. A. Schepetoff, Ufa University, Russia:

Most Honored Sir: I am writing to you for the following reason. We have heard here of your work "Outline of Persian History" which is of special interest to us in our work. Unfortunately it cannot be obtained in Eastern Russia. I am taking the liberty to write to you directly in hope that you will not refuse to offer a copy of your book to us. Dr. Franklin G. Williams, Director of the Summer Session, announces that the Bulletin for the Summer Session of 1932 is already in the hands of the printer and should be ready for distribution in a short time.

The session will include a variety of courses for which there has been a demand as in previous years, and taught by members of the regular faculty. A special feature will be the "Boston Colonial Sextet," is a choral group of renown which will present a concert to the assembly.

Co-Eds Affected by Climatic Changes

Is Seibert Hall on the verge of an epidemic? I hardly think so, but a great many of the girls have been ill this past week. In the cases where a doctor was required the illness was pronounced to be a gripe or simply a heavy cold. At any rate half of the women have been pretty miserable.

Miss Strother has been a very busy woman carrying trays and trays and trays up one or two flights of stairs to those who could not come down for meals. Then she had to secure the attention of one of the town doctors for those who were most ill and prescribe herself for those who did not exhibit such alarming symptoms.

Miss Hade was one of the sufferers was obliged to remain in bed several days while her classes were taken care of by other members of the faculty.

All this illness has probably been due to the weather changes and it is hoped that everyone will be perfectly well soon and it is comforting to note that our situation is not so bad as some schools that were obliged to discontinue their classes because so many students were ill.

Debaters Score Dual Victory Over Lebanon

On Tuesday night, February 23, 1932 at 8:30 the negative debating team of Susquehanna debated with Lebanon Valley at the John Kinzinger school. The question was, "Resolved that Capitalism as an economic policy is unsound in principle." The debate ended in a 2-1 decision for the Susquehanna debaters.

In Steele Science Hall on Wednesday night, February 24, 1932, at 8 o'clock the affirmative team of S. U. debated the negative team of Lebanon Valley. The speeches were worth hearing and showed that much research work had been done. On the affirmative team of S. U. were John Kinzinger, Regis Kifer, and Edwin Clapper. The Lebanon Valley team was composed of Messrs. Zech, Buzzell and Edder. Once more Susquehanna experienced success, with a 2-1 decision. The same question was debated as on the night before.

Our negative team will debate with Mansfield State Teachers College's affirmative team at Mansfield on Tuesday, March 1. On the same date our affirmative team will debate their negative here.

NORMAN BROUGHT TAKES LEWISTOWN GIRL FOR BRIDE

Norman Brought, graduate of Susquehanna in the class of 1931, was married to a Miss Mann, of Lewistown, on Washington's birthday. While on the campus, Norman was a member of the Phi Lambda Theta Fraternity.

Mr. Brought is a native of Lewistown and upon graduation secured employment with the commonwealth at Harrisburg. His duties cover a major part of Pennsylvania in travel.

Mr. and Mrs. Brought will make their residence in Harrisburg. At the present time they are living at their respective parental homes in Lewistown.

Edits "Evergreen"

GRACE MINNIG, '32

Staff Member Edits National Year Book

Miss Grace Minnig, Alumni Editor of Weekly, is Editor of "The Evergreen," S. S. D. Publication

"The Evergreen," national publication of Sigma Sigma Delta, is nearing completion and in a few days copy will be sent to the printer, so that the book may be distributed in the beginning of April.

Each year one chapter is appointed by the national to edit the book. This year Beta chapter was chosen as the staff with Nan McHugh as Business Manager and Grace Minnig as editor.

"The Evergreen" will contain a number of editorials and poems, reports of activities of each chapter, a complete directory of each, a message from the national president, pictures and individual write-ups of each one of the national officers and a number of snapshots from each chapter. The editor plans to change the make-up of the book somewhat this year and is dividing all material under three headings in an endeavor to show by this material what each chapter is doing to uphold the ideals of Sigma Sigma Delta.

Province President Is Campus Visitor

Mrs. Hazel Card, of New York, Visits Local Chapter of Sigma Alpha Iota Sorority

Sigma Omega Chapter of Sigma Alpha Iota was very happy to entertain Mrs. Hazel Card of Ithaca, New York, Eta Province president; over Friday and Saturday. During the two days of her visit she interviewed each member of the chapter personally as well as in a group.

Friday evening a special meeting was held after which Mrs. Card talked and gave many suggestions to the Executive Board. She explained to the girls the honor of being associated with the Professional Pan-Hellenic Association and also that the representative of Sigma Alpha Iota holds the office of Vice President of this organization.

The purpose of her visit was to inspect the chapter and learn to know the girls in her charge.

Mrs. Card has succeeded Miss Gertrude Evans who, upon the death of Miss Hazel Ritchey, became National President.

On Saturday afternoon an intimate recital was given in Seibert Hall Chapel. After the recital she talked to the pledges telling them of their duties in the chapter.

Truth About Blayds Has Novel Situation

S. S. D. Production Shows Characters, Makeup and Types Well Cast. Miss Reeder Directs

Capable casting of characters, enhanced by excellent makeup and skillful handling of roles, enabled the rather slow-moving "Truth About Blayds" by A. A. Milne, to evolve into a vehicle of novel interest and entertainment, directed by Miss Dorothy Welsh Reeder and staged by Sigma Sigma Delta last Thursday evening at Seibert Chapel Hall.

This three-act comedy deals with the relatives of a world-renowned poet, whose dying gesture is to inform them that his poems were really those of a friend, long dead. The situations in which the relatives find themselves are in turn humorous, pathetic and dramatic.

The part of Oliver Blayds, the ninety year old poet, was taken by an almost unrecognizable Merle Hubbard. In one of his performance rivalled in artistry that of any other during the play, especially when considering the realism necessary to render the part of such an old man effective. His pathetic inquiries regarding the "1863 edition" (the only real Blayds volume) were quite convincing.

Miss Freda Stephens and Leonard Olsen presented equally interesting types as the poet's daughter and son-in-law whose very existence depended upon Oliver Blayds. Both portrayals were skillfully made humorous without interfering with the thread or tone of the situation.

The life of the party, as it were, proved to be Miss Nan McHugh, the strictly modern and wise-cracking granddaughter. This completely unaffected and disarming young lady saved many a scene, which seemed in danger of becoming dull and tiresome, by her flippancy and cynical lines.

The grandson, Lee Fairchild, and A. L. Royce, Jack Petry, served in similar capacities, and carried off their parts naturally and without hesitation. It was Lee Fairchild's best performance to date, while Jack Petry contributed his customary skillful interpretation.

The lead was taken by Miss Barbara Jones, in the role of Isobel, the middle-aged daughter, who had devoted her whole life to the false poet. This differed (Concluded on Page 4)

Doctor of Education Degree to be Given

University of Pitt and Thirteen Other Colleges to Award Degree for Graduate Work in Field of Education

The following dispatch was taken from the publication of the University of Pittsburgh. This school has joined the group of thirteen other schools in the country ranking first in facilities for graduate work in the field of Education.

The degree, proposed by a committee of the faculty of the school of Education, was unanimously approved by the entire faculty of the school and by the graduate council. It was finally passed by the board of trustees of the University.

The requirements for this degree of Doctor of Education parallel those for doctor of philosophy in education. Seventy-two graduate credits are required. Each of these two degrees should represent scholarship of very high order. The two degrees are similar in their requirements for scholarship; they may be differentiated in the nature of the contributions through research which candidates are required to make.

An applicant for the Degree of Education may meet certain requirements by any two of the following subjects: French Grammar, statistics and mental measurements; together with either a thesis prepared for a master's degree, or a formal paper describing some problem of school practice for which he has been chiefly responsible for a period of three years preceding the examination. The paper must be approved by the major professor.

The degree of doctor of education is available to those now working for a doctorate of philosophy in education. The University of Pittsburgh now offers in education the degrees of master of arts, master of science, and

THAT WAR ATTITUDE

A statistical survey is on foot over the campus to determine the opinion of the men concerning the present conditions of war across the Pacific. Such questions as—Would you enlist in the army if the United States declared war on either Japan or China?—from a reporter will demand an answer. Results already obtained point to the fact that there has been a decided reversal of opinion since the hysterical flag-waving days of the World War. Not only here but over the entire college world it seems that Patriotism has been given a new meaning, and actual war is looked upon as a pitiful blunder.

Even more startling are the facts revealed when men of the University of Pittsburgh were asked their opinion and reaction should the United States declare war during the present crisis. They were violently opposed to war. When asked if they favored the armed intervention by the United States if Japan disregarded the property and lives of American citizens in the orient, 18 said "Yes," while 232 emphatically replied "No." Only 27 readily expressed willingness to volunteer while 119 would go if drafted. But 114 said they would not go to war under any consideration. Fight only in defense is their motto and unanimous was the agreement for war should some foreign power invade the United States. As for crossing the Pacific to uphold our traditions and the investments of several millionaires in China—they are against it. To go to war for the investor who demands protection of his money in China and thereby lose ones life or freedom while the investor remains here and makes several more million is folly.

Frenzied patriotism is gone from the mind of the college man who remembers something of the last war and has witnessed its results. "War is Hell," General Sherman is quoted as having remarked and the attitude of the thoughtful college man of today seems to be closely parallel.

WHY WORRY ABOUT IT?

Either you are successful or you are not successful. If you are successful there is nothing to worry about. If you are not successful, there are two things to worry about. Your health is either good or you are sick. If your health is good there is nothing to worry about. If you are sick, there are two things to worry about. You are going to get well or you are going to die. If you are going to get well there is nothing to worry about. If you are going to die there are only two things to worry about. You are either going to heaven or you are not going to heaven. If you are going to heaven there is nothing to worry about. If you are going to the other place, you will be so busy shaking hands with friends and acquaintances that you won't have anything to worry about.

So why worry?

STUDENTS ARE UNCHANGED

Commenting on the account of an interview with President Richards of Lehigh University on the fortieth anniversary of his university work, the magazine "Life" states the words of the President of Lehigh, "Students have changed very little in the past thirty years. That is why parents who have sons and daughters in college worry."

ALVIN CARPENTER OF SUNBURY ADDRESSES CHAPEL

A fitting celebration of the 200th anniversary of George Washington's birth was observed at the Chapel Exercises on Tuesday morning. Prof. Linebaugh played "Patriotic Airs" as an organ prelude. The service was opened with a hymn, which was followed by the Lord's Prayer. The devotional part of the program consisted of the Opening and Closing Versicles. The uniform which General Anthony Wayne wore address on the life of George Washington was ably delivered by Alvin Carpenter, A.B., LL.B. Dr. Smith closed the service with a prayer and the Benediction.

Campus Tabloid

By I. M. NERTZ

Zounds and Thunder! Perhaps this Ghost Writer didn't know how to write his column. But fear no more, gentle readers, for I am a new ghost. Look for the evidences of the renaissance of Campus Tabloid which will appear in this column beginning next week.

Last week, R. V. Nertz "took me for a ride." Well, I was quite humiliated, not directly because of the scathing R. V., but more because of my careless assumption that I could ever hope to compete with The Original Nertz. Despondently, I considered the future. Should I try to go on, or should I put a merciful bullet through my useless brain? But, suddenly, like R. V. Nertz repartee, I received an inspiration. Although it would severely tax my audacity, I would interview Nertz the First and see if I could not gain some knowledge of column writing from the contact.

A week passes—Accordingly I went to his room. I opened the door and received a shock of the first nature. R. V. Nertz was sitting at his table reading a late issue of the Harper's magazine. The whole table top was littered with such magazines as this.

"What do you want," inquired The Nertz in a voice impersonal but crisp. "I came to see if you would be willing to give me a few instructions upon the problem of writing the Campus Tabloid," I managed to stammer.

The Nertz emitted an impatient grunt. "I'm sorry, but can't you see that I am deeply engrossed in reading?" Confusedly I offered my apologies and prepared to leave, but Nertz, seeing my confusion and sadness said, "Stay, and I'll try to help you, but you must make your visit as brief as possible, for I wish to read my fan mail before retiring."

Not knowing how to begin I said, "Perhaps, you will allow me to observe you as you read and wander about the rooms for a few minutes. Perhaps I will be able to absorb some of that precious atmosphere that seems to exist here." Nertz merely acquiesced, without even looking in my direction. The Mighty Nertz continued his reading and I went to his well-filled bookcase and began to look through his reading material. I had reached the lower shelf, when the diary writer of a fashionable—Lily Deylita. The first thought—"Ah, women are necessary for a successful columnist." But to protect my interests I literally tore my eyes from the picture to have them attracted by a card on the wall above his head. In the dainty hand these words were inscribed—"Get the Ghost Writer!"—Squelch, Squash, Slam, or Slash—"But Get Him."

My mind ceased to function and all went black. (Time passed). I found myself in my own room gathering up my scattered thoughts from the floor. Ah, I remember. Why hadn't I thought of it before. The secret of R. V. Nertz is no longer a secret. During my stay in the room of the writer I had jotted down his characteristics: nervous, emphatic, rude, tactless, and zealous. I wondered how he got those qualifications so necessary to a writer of slander. They say there is nothing in a name, but it all is found in the name of Nertz. All I had to do was take the initial letter from the words listed in his qualifications—here 'tis. The 'n' from nervous, the 'e' from emphatic, the 'r' from rude, the 'l' from tactless, and the 's' from zealous. That, my friends, is the secret of the initial success of R. V. Nertz.

Now you can understand my enthusiasm in the first paragraph of this column. I religiously visit The Nertz every day, and I'm getting Nertzier and Nertzier. But the camera hounds have succeeded—here is the first official photograph of the First Nertz. Notice his blank expression. Look!

R. V. Nertz as he appears only to the eyes of an interested spectator. Well I must run along—THE GHOST WRITER

S. U. PEPYS

Ah me! How these premature touches of spring turn the young man's fancy, and make him do strange things. Especially these earliest touches. We cite the instance of John, one of our own Johns (in fact, he hails from Massachusetts), who is so sadly afflicted that he cannot sleep at nights; eats hot peppers without so much as flinching, and to every question put to him in Ethics, he answers, "Love, Love is everything. Without love, we have nothing. And without nothing, we have love, etc." And so on for hours.

Zounds! A blot has been placed upon the escutcheon of Susquehanna's noble tradition and whatnot. One of our worthy seniors has been denied admission to Howard College for graduate work. . . . What? . . . Oh! Pardon us . . . we didn't know Howard was a college for negroes.

"The Tomahawk," at Juniata, tells how the Indian gals fell for our basketweavers, remarking that numbers 4 and 7 were awfully cute, but that number 7 needed a haircut! We are afraid "Tommyhawk" was a little inaccurate in his data, for number 7 was none other than Elvey Brunninger, and "Huge" is not only never in need of a haircut, but has seldom been known to even let a hair slip out of place. . . . Number 4? Well, we've had two of them. Maybe "Little Farina" Bishop can help you out, as a final gesture to his managerial duties.

Susquehanna builds men! Let any who doubt that fact drop in Horton Dining Hall on a Friday or Saturday evening, and watch our students sit manfully down to a meal of oysters (with or without anything that might happen to be in the kitchen), or perhaps cast iron beams. Let him watch them devour such fearlessly, albeit, perhaps, with a grimace or two. . . . But we unto the stranger who chances into our midst at meal time and attempts to emulate our physical accomplishments! We point out to him the daring young DeMolay from Altoona who did just such a thing, and an hour later found himself with acute indigestion and under a doctor's care. Such stuff are Susquehanna men made of!

Some things we would like to see: A Rachunis-Chlavo debate. A Pascoe-Ed Snyder wrestling match.

A volley ball game between the coeds and the special gym students. A Sunday morning without some jackass pounding on every door in the building at about eight o'clock.

A Friday without oysters or hibernated fish.

Joe Malmon singing "I Pagliacci."

Susquehanna win a final game of the season in some sport. A new gymnasium. (LaSalle thought ours was the practice gym. Can we blame them?)

The "Ghost Writer" has chided me for reading "Ballyhoo," but he was the first one to borrow my latest copy. . . . Nor did he return it until I asked him for it.

Great moments in the life of a bridge player—After bidding, doubling, and redoubling for about six rounds the other night, Reed Spear flapped thirteen spades on the table, and then did an Indian war dance around the room. . . . To ruin such an occasion of glad tidings is utter cruelty, but dooty is dooty. . . . Reflect now, Reed. Weren't there two pack of cards? Was there anyone else in the room? And finally, did you ever hear of stacked cards? Well, such disappointments do come in the lives of bridge players.

Well, to see the Campus Tabloid is beginning to live up to its name. . . . Not bad, Ghost Writer, not bad. . . . But remember, he who laughs last isn't always an Englishman.

R. V. NERTZ.

Repeated x-ray pictures of the bones show that John Oberdorf is progressing splendidly at the Middleburg hospital. He will no doubt remain at the hospital for another month.

Seibert Hall Echoes

Half of the dormitory has been supplied with goldfish through the sale at Rea and Dericks. I didn't know that there were so many forty-nine cents in the dormitory. It's just that mother instinct cropping out. How many are in Hassinger?

For the benefit of all who were curious about the young lady visiting Eleanor Sheriff last week we will say that she is Elaine Cousins and her home is at Jamaica, Long Island.

Just a friendly warning. It is best to be afraid of Jeanie Kechner's because if you are her enemy, she will put cracker crumbs in your bed. She has also been teaching some of the new girls the habit.

Do you think that Camerer and Sheriff will take to wearing hair ribbons soon or have they discarded that practice?

Some of the girls at Seibert Hall have formed a gripping club. Qualifications for membership are that you must be able to gripe about everything, anytime. Etta Mumaw has been elected president. Anyone wishing to become affiliated with this group will please apply in writing and give references. It is a great game, for the more you gripe the worse you feel and only then can you be perfectly happy.

It must be spring that has encouraged all of the new affairs. Better be careful, men, for so many of the girls have been ill that it might be contagious. Have you learned the truth about Blay?

Everybody at Bucknell didn't go to the Prom Friday night—Some of the girls here had visitors.

POET'S CORNER

Now why Should I
Repine and sigh
For but a snooty maiden?
It's clear
I fear
This world so drear
Too much with grief o'erladen.

Now tears
And fears
In tender years
Have never been becoming;
For youth
In truth
Is soft forsooth
When soft lutes should be strumming.
I'll play
Be gay
Now while I may
And joy in song and laughter,
For moans,
And groans,
And grisly bones
Too soon will follow after.
William Evans.

Coach Seidel Will Meet Tennis Squad

Early Activity is Planned to Perfect Team. Matches Include Bucknell, Penn State, and Villanova

Preparation for the spring tennis season will get under way this week when Dr. George Seidel will meet all prospective tennis candidates on Thursday evening at eight o'clock, in the Alumni Gymnasium. Dr. Seidel, who is a tennis enthusiast and an excellent player, has willingly consented to act as coach for the team this spring.

Through the excellent weather which has been prevalent for the last month, all indications point to an early start of spring sports. Coach Seidel would like to see a large squad of men out for the "racquet" game and believes that he can produce a much finer team by beginning action soon. Already a schedule is being arranged whereby men may use the gym for practice. Form and strokes will thus be obtained before the men make their debut on the outdoor courts.

Manager Kozak states that eight matches have been arranged to date including Bucknell, Penn State, and Villanova. Candidates will include several prospective freshmen beside three varsity letter-men.

ALUMNI NOTES

Lewistown Alumni Meet

The Lewistown Club of the Susquehanna Alumni Association held their annual banquet and meeting at the Green Gables Hotel in Lewistown last Friday evening. Dr. G. Morris Smith was their honored guest and brought greetings to the grads from their old campus. A large representation of alumni and former students were present.

Prof. Elrose Allison of the Conservatory of Music arranged for the musical entertainment and the McCar-Sho trio played a number of interesting selections for the old grads. Prof. Allison was the retiring secretary of the club and his home is in Lewistown.

On Saturday morning, February 20, Miss Louise Hauser became the bride of Harry Lyman Kinsel of Philadelphia. Miss Hauser was graduated from the Susquehanna Conservatory of Music in 1928 and Mr. Kinsel is a graduate of Penn State. Previous to that, both attended the Altoona High School.

The maid of honor at the wedding was Miss Vesta Steingard of Lewistown, a classmate of the bride's at the university.

Susquehannians Doing Graduate Work at Duke

A number of our alumni have been doing graduate work at Duke University. Mr. Carl O. Bird, '29, at present supervising principal of the Armaugh Township Schools, Milroy, has spent twelve weeks at Duke and has only his thesis to complete before he will receive his Master's degree.

Other Susquehannians now working for their Master's at Duke are: Arthur Leconte, '30, and his brother, Ellis, '21. Both Leconte brothers are teaching in the high school at Wilmington, Delaware. Ellis is a Mathematics instructor and athletic coach while Arthur assists him in coaching and teaches in the science department.

Donald Pace, '28, received his Doctor's degree in June. He had been an assistant in biology for two years after receiving his Master's.

Susquehanna Men on Coaldale High School Faculty

Four Susquehanna graduates are holding positions on Coaldale High School's faculty: T. P. Raymer, '22, is athletic coach and teacher of social sciences; Wilbur Berger, '31, is assisting in coaching and is teaching Ancient History and social sciences; Oscar S. Kessler, '24, is serving as head of the English department. Previous to resuming his duties at Coaldale in 1926 he served in the same capacity at Hartwick Seminary. Randolph B. Harvey, '31, is teaching Physics and Science in the same high school.

Graduate Working for Ph. D.

William Blough, '24, is attending Ohio State University where he is working for his Ph.D. degree. Mr. Blough received a B.D. from Wittenberg College. While there he served as director of extension work for a number of years and also acted in the capacity of a field secretary for that institution.

Mrs. Blough, formerly Margaret Widlund, was graduated from Susquehanna in 1924.

Retiring Captain

HERBERT RUMMELL

Last Saturday Captain "Herb" Rummell played his last basketball game under the Orange and Maroon colors. "Herb" has been playing varsity basketball since his freshman year. As captain he just completed an exceptionally fine season and became known as the ball hawk of the team. Besides basketball Rummell plays football and tennis. He started his athletic career at the Port Carbon High School.

Jay Vees Lost Two Games During Week

Bucknell's Baby Bisons and Buffalo Valley Stars Conquer Snell's Proteges; DeMolays Set Back

On Tuesday night, the J. V.'s dropped their second game to the Bucknell Frosh by the score of 26-25. The game was one struggle after another, with each team trying to force their way to the front. The Bucknell Frosh forged ahead at half time by dropping a field goal as the half whistle blew, which broke the tie of 13-13. Schlegel was high scorer for the J. V.'s with eleven points.

On Friday night, the J. V.'s came back to form and won from the Altoona DeMolays by the score of 42-16. The DeMolays started rather fast with close guarding, but they soon weakened and the half ended 18-5 in favor of the J. V.'s. The second half saw the J. V.'s running wild and scoring at will. Brimmer captured scoring honors of the game with eighteen points.

On Saturday night, the Buffalo Valley Stars came here with a long string of victories to their credit, to which they added one more at the expense of the J. V.'s. They were not only stars in name but showed it in their playing. Their team was built around Driebelbis, well known to local basketball fans because of this showing on the Susquehanna Varsity during the first semester. The game was very close from the beginning to the end, with the Stars leading at half by the score of 19-16. The end of the game saw the J. V.'s struggling to overcome a three point lead, but they failed and the game ended with the score of 33-30. Thomas, Star's guard, was high scorer with thirteen points. Worthington and Brimmer were tied for high score of the J. V.'s with eight points each.

Wasilewski Tallies Highest for Season

Individual Scores Compiled for Entire Court Season. Van Nuy Leads in Average Per Game

With the closing of the basketball season individual scoring records show that Wasilewski was the high scorer of the team for this season. He finished the year last Saturday night with a total of 76 points, 13 more than his nearest team mate, Van Nuy who finished the season with 63 points. McGeehan followed closely behind Van Nuy with 60.

Although Wasilewski tallied the highest total of points he did not have the most per game. It was Van Nuy who carried off honors here. Taking part in nine games he made an average of 7 points per game. Wasilewski came next with 63 points per game and McGeehan followed him with 5.5 points per game.

In the matter of foul shooting Van Nuy again had the highest average. He caged 71% of his foul tries while Palmer was right behind him with an average of 70%. Rummell's average was 57%, McGeehan's 56% and Wasilewski's was 48%. Captain Rummell, with a total of 20, caged the most fouls.

The records of players who scored in varsity games are as follows:

Games	Goals	Fouls	Pts.
Wasilewski	12	32	12x25 76
Van Nuy	9	24	15x21 63
McGeehan	11	23	14x25 60
Rummell	12	14	20x35 48
Palmer	12	12	16x23 40

Plays Final Game

"SWEDE" PALMER

Charles Palmer, who hails from Somerville, New Jersey, played his last game against LaSalle. Palmer is another man who has been playing varsity basketball since his Freshman year and who has just completed a banner year. His position has always been at the pivot post. He started as a guard this season, but was soon shifted back to center. Palmer takes care of the initial sack on the baseball team.

JUNIORS LEAD SECOND ROUND OF FLOOR LEAGUE

On Monday night, the Juniors succeeded in holding first place in the inter-class league by defeating the Sophomores by the score of 28-16. The Sophomores were very much weakened by the lack of players. Cardan was high scorer of the game with twelve points.

On Thursday night, the Seniors defeated the Frosh in a loosely played game by the score of 28-12. This puts the Seniors into second place. Adams

Dr. Ahl taught Ancient History on the campus before entering upon his work in the Greek Department, and is planning to return to the history classes next summer and fall.

TRUTH ABOUT BLAYDS HAS NOVEL SITUATION

ficult part called for many varying moods which Miss Jones capably enacted. She was particularly effective in her scenes with A. L. Royce, her sweetheart of many years previous, parts which are usually troublesome to amateur performers. She also displayed flashes of personality and brilliance which dominated situations on several other occasions.

The makeups of Merle Hubbard and Leonard Olsen were little short of masterpieces, and the fact that no character in the entire cast weakened any scene, combined to make the production one of smoothly moving interest and entertainment. Miss Reeder and Miss Pauline Crow fulfilled their duties well as director and stage manager.

The cast, in order of appearance, was as follows:

Oliver Blayds Conway, Lee Fairchild	A. L. Royce	Jack Petry
Septima Blayds Conway, Nan McHugh	Marion Blayds Conway, Freda Stephens
William Blayds Conway, Leonard Olsen	Isobel	Barbara Jones
Parsons	Amelia Krapf
Oliver Blayds	Merle Hubbard

Athletes Will Fete At Annual Banquet

Dr. E. LeRoy Mercer, of U. of P., Will Be Chief Speaker, Athletes of Fifty Years Ago to be Guests of Honor

Athletes who represented Susquehanna thirty, forty and fifty years ago will be the guests of honor at the Fourth Annual Sports Dinner to be held in the Horton Memorial Dining Hall on the eighteenth of March.

Dr. E. LeRoy Mercer, Dean of the Department of Physical Education at the University of Pennsylvania and a co-worker of President Gates of the same institution will deliver the principle address of the evening.

By recent action of the Susquehanna Athletic Board, all members of the first teams to represent Missionary Institute or Susquehanna University in every sport are entitled to certificates of award, similar to those awarded her present day athletes. The committee in charge has sent out special invitations to these athletes of the earlier years and preparations are being made for one of the most interesting gatherings of athletes in the history of the institution.

Baseball was the pioneer sport on Susquehanna's campus. In 1881, at the time of Missionary Institute (now Susquehanna University, the first nine played and won their game with Sunbury.

In 1892, under the coaching of Dr. Woodruff, now professor of Philosophy at Susquehanna, the Sunbury Athletic Club was met and defeated on the gridiron.

Track was introduced in the spring of 1901 with M. Hadwin Fischer coaching and E. M. Gearhart, captain. Both these men are now ministers. Rev. Fischer, a member of the faculty of the Gettysburg Theological Seminary and Rev. Gearhart is located at Erie, Pa. During the winter of 1901-02 Susquehanna's first basketball team was organized, with J. E. Auchmuty, now a prominent physician located at Tamaqua as captain and H. Batenby, coach.

Tennis apparently flourished as an intra-mural sport as early as 1897 with three clubs on the campus: The Bong Tongs; P. D. S., and the Astoria Tennis Clubs. Earliest athletic records indicate that in the 1897 tournament, William R. Rohrbach of the Bong Tongs and F. E. Woodley of the P. D. S. Club were the winners of the Singles. Mr. Rohrbach is a prominent business man residing in Sunbury, Pa., and F. E. Woodley is a successful dentist at Niagara Falls, N. Y.

Ads Despite Depression

All editorial work on the 1933 Lantern, Susquehanna yearbook, will be finished this week, and the book will soon begin to take form. The art theme, under the direction of William Reyer has been changed completely from its original design, but is now completed and ready for the engravers. All photographs are also now being made into plates for the printer.

The business staff, under the direction of Selon Dockey, business manager, has been functioning well, and is able to estimate roughly the expenses from receipts to date. Student subscriptions amounting to nearly eighteen hundred dollars will cover the cost of printing, while advertising amounting to nearly five hundred dollars will go for engraving and incidentals.

Laird Gembling, advertising manager, has done splendid work in securing this sum from advertising, in view of the financial conditions under which all merchants and manufacturers have been cutting down such expenses among the first.

The Lantern should be ready for distribution during the month of May.

Varsity Five Wins Six and Loses Six In Cage Season

Mid-Season Form Shows Best Results
Winning Four Out of Five Games
From Juniata, Elizabethtown and Haverford

When the Susquehanna varsity basketball team lost its final basketball game of the season, February 27, to LaSalle it closed its 1931-32 season with a record of six games won and six games lost. This is a fairly good record for the rather short schedule just completed but just falls short of the record made by the team of 1930-31 which won eight and lost seven games.

This year Susquehanna played its best basketball during mid-season. Starting with the game on Jan. 22 against Juniata it won four out of five games played in which was included a two day trip to Philadelphia. During this period the Crusaders captured successive games from Juniata, Elizabethtown and Haverford.

The Orange and Maroon was slow in getting started this season due to the fact that Coach Ullery was forced to reorganize his team to fill in the gaps left from the previous season. It was not until at least five games had been played that the smoothest working combination was finally brought together.

Coach Ullery's biggest worry was to get a guard to replace Glenn. Both Captain Rummell and Palmer were tried at the position but it was soon clearly demonstrated that their real places were at forward and center respectively. The shift of Wasilowski from forward to guard produced the best results. Van Nuyts fitted in at his place at forward very nicely.

Although the games won equalled the games lost the Crusaders managed to outscore their opponents in the matter of points. For the entire season Susquehanna made a grand total of 357 points while it had 354 points scored upon by its opponents. The teams which the Orange and Maroon scored highest against were Elizabethtown and Haverford while Lebanon Valley and Delaware had the highest tallying against Susquehanna.

The record of the season is as follows:
Alumni	42 25
Lebanon Valley	16 33
Temple Pharmacy	32 27
La Salle	11 17
Lebanon Valley	23 45
Juniata	22 21
Elizabethtown	40 22
Haverford	39 22
Delaware	28 40
Elizabethtown	39 24
Juniata	38 45
La Salle	27 33
Total	357 354

Dean is Chairman of Certification Body

Dr. George F. Dunkelberger has been asked to act as General Chairman of a committee to recommend standards for certification in the various content fields in which instruction is given in the Liberal Arts Colleges. It was decided at the meeting of the Association of Liberal Arts Colleges of Pennsylvania for the Advancement of Teaching, held at Harrisburg, on February twentieth, that this committee should be appointed. At this meeting various suggestions were made as to changes in the requirements for obtaining permanent certificates for teaching.

The committee will be headed by Dr. Dunkelberger as General Chairman, who will be assisted by three Vice Chairmen. These Vice Chairmen will be Professor Alvin W. Teach, St. Vincent College, Latrobe, Pennsylvania; Professor C. J. Carver, Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pennsylvania; and Professor Guy E. Buckingham, Allegheny College, Meadville, Pennsylvania. In each content field of certification, a specialist in the field will act as a sub-Chairman of a committee of two or three who will make recommendations relative to the standard of certification in that particular field.

It will be the duty of the General Chairman to act as a liaison officer between the different groups, supervising the work of the committee in general, and seeing to it that it is done effectively and expeditiously.

Columbia to Develop Efficient Teachers

New Type of Training Will be Operated on an Undergraduate Basis
With Cost Approximately $1,000

The Teacher's College, Columbia University, announce a plan for a new type of teacher training to open September 1932. This new College will operate as an undergraduate unit at the college level, and will attempt to demonstrate radically different methods in the selection and training of prospective teachers for the American schools.

The selection of students will be on the basis of good health, sound scholarship, desirable personal qualities, and promise of unusual growth. High school and College executives will be asked to cooperate in securing the right kind of student. Students will be chosen from a wide geographical area and limited for the first year to one hundred young men and one hundred young women. It is felt that mediocrity in today the course of the teaching profession, and hence the students must be of unusual high quality. Half of the students will be men, because it is believed that teaching should not be monopolized by women.

The period of study will vary from three to five years according to the ability of the student, and will include one year spent in study and travel abroad. One year of satisfactory teaching service in co-operative private and public school systems will be required before a degree is granted.

The cost will be about $1,000 per year. Concluded on Page 4

Report of Survey of Deans Reveals Facts on Lutheran Schools

Eleven Lutheran Senior Colleges Have Deans; One Has a Dean of Men, and One Has No Dean

In a recent survey of the thirteen senior colleges in the United Lutheran Church, it has been found that eleven have college deans, one has a dean of men only, and one has no dean. In the latter case, the duties of the dean are performed by the president and other faculty members.

The salaries of these deans range from $2,600 to $5,000. If the allowance or maintenance is considered, the range is from $2,600 to $5,600. The college now paying $5,000 with an allowance for rent of $600, will only pay $3,500 next with no allowance. The median salary is $3,425. The average salary is $3,538. If allowances for maintenance are included, the average salary is $3,688. If consideration is given to the fact that one college will reduce the salary of dean from $5,000 to $3,500 for next year, then the range of salaries is from $2,600 to $4,512, the latter being for twelve months. In this case, the average salary is $3,413.

In all cases, some secretarial assistance is provided when necessary. The cost of such secretarial assistance was not given in all cases and, hence, it is of no real value to report the cases mentioned.

Sophomores Capture Medley Relay in Walk

The Sophomore track team came through in fine style in the first track event of the year, when they walked away with first place in the medley relay, which took place on the board track on Thursday afternoon.

Nine minutes, eighteen and six-tenths seconds was the winning time in the four events which included the 880, 220, 440 and mile run. The Sophomores ran the following men in the respective events: Muir, Ovrebo, Huston and Bouteiger.

The Seniors and Juniors, combined in one team, placed second with Malsky, Coldren, Neiswenter and J. Worthington running the various races. The Freshmen finished third with J. Sullivan, Hartman, Stauffer, and Shober running in the various events.

LIGHTS GO OUT, BUT NEWS WORK GOES ON

Although the snowstorm destroyed the supply of electricity Sunday night, the editorial staff of The Susquehanna worked by the light of five candles, stolen from a Xmas storage box, to complete the issue and have it ready for the printer on Monday morning.

The experience was nothing new for Dr. Wilson, who can remember the day of the kerosene lamp, nor for Laird Gembling and Penn Dively, who are natives of towns which have just recently installed electricity, but Andrew Kozak found it quite difficult to adjust himself to the new environment.

Revision Committee Discusses Changes

Electoral Committee to be Governing Both Staffs, Point System Will Grade Work of Candidates

A committee for the revision of the constitution of the Susquehanna Association, consisting of Luke Rhoads, president, Andrew Kozak, Editor-in-Chief, Dr. Arthur H. Wilson and Dr. Charles Giese, faculty advisors, and Laird Gembling, News Editor of the weekly, held a meeting on Friday afternoon to settle several final points of difficulty in the new constitution.

Extreme efforts have been made by those in charge to investigate the organization of various college weeklies and to draw up for the Susquehanna a constitution which will meet a growing stride in Journalism. In the newly revised constitution there is complete rearrangement of the articles so that each one contains coherence and unity. A complete change has been made in the system of election of staff members. An Electoral Committee shall elect the major staff members, both on the editorial and business staffs. The Electoral Committee shall be guided by a definite point system which will give the editor and business manager a method of evaluating the work of every candidate for office. To date there has been no definite point system organized but correspondence with various college weeklies with efficient constitutions will produce a wealth of material from which an excellent system may be organized.

The salary of the Business Manager is still in question and Dr. Leese has sent a questionnaire to schools of Susquehanna's size requesting information concerning salaries. He thus hopes to establish some definite and fair means of remuneration.

Seniors will be eligible for candidacy to the offices of the Susquehanna Publishing Association whereas in the old constitution only members of the Theological Department were eligible.

It has been the attitude of the committee that the election of staff members resulted in difficulties each year and the only means of removing this recurrence is to have efficient laws carrying on the work of the weekly.

Debaters Win Two; Lose One Contest

Mansfield Negative Wins and Albright Affirmative Loses to Our Forensic Artists

On Tuesday night at eight o'clock our affirmative debating team met the negative team of Mansfield State Teacher's College on our own platform. The negative team was composed of Miss Davies, Mr. Snyder and Mr. Van Kirk. The affirmative had on it Mr. Kindsvatter, Mr. Kifer and Clapper. The question was on capitalism. The time for the constructive speeches was 10-12, and for the rebuttal 5-7. There was a ten minute intermission between the constructive speeches and rebuttal. The judges were Mr. W. E. Nagle, Mr. Charles Arbogast, and Rev. Howard Fitzgerald. Professor Wood was the chairman. The debate ended in a 3-0 decision in favor of Susquehanna.

At the same time the negative team of Susquehanna debated Mansfield's affirmative girl's team. The decision was 2-1 in favor of Mansfield.

Friday evening at 8:00 o'clock Albright and Susquehanna met on the forensic platform in Seibert Hall. The Albright men were Mr. Brininger, Mr. Fay, and Mr. Day. The constructive speeches were 10-10-10 and rebuttal was 5-5-7. The judges were Mr. Harry A. Coryell, Rev. H. G. Snable, and Clayton Leach. The decision was 3-0 in favor of Susquehanna. Dr. John I. Woodruff acted as chairman.

William Ahl Will Manage Cage Squad

Last Wednesday afternoon William Ahl was selected as the manager of the 1932-33 basketball team and will succeed Glen Bishop, who led the Orange and Maroon quintet through its campaign this season.

Bill Ahl is a member of the class of '33 and ever since his Freshman year has taken an interest in athletic activities.

SCHOLARSHIP RATING

In this issue the office made known some statistics on grades during the past semester that are deserving of mention, because they are so indicative of prevailing conditions.

The statistics were compiled through consideration of the number of quality points received per hour. Fraternity students staying at the houses on the campus far surpass the students who live in the college dormitories.

The one reason for this wide margin of scholastic attainment, might be the fact that many more students are in the dormitories than are at the fraternity houses. The day students had much higher grades than the resident students; this is indicative that perhaps campus activities are too strenuous. A peculiar margin lies in the fact that fraternity men had higher grades than non-fraternity men. We offer the fact that only those who receive certain grades can join a fraternity.

Lastly the girls have an advantage over the boys in marks. The rules that the girls have may be of some import in this matter, although the difference this year is only .27 of a quality point.

The Seniors lead the rating with 1.73; the Juniors with an average of 1.64; the Sophomores had an average of 1.43 and the Freshman held fourth place with 1.32. The underclasses have rather low grades but this can be accounted for by the fact that upperclassmen have the advantage of the experience they have gained during their stay at the University.

SUSQUEHANNA QUESTIONNAIRE

(For Compilation of Statistics of Student Attitudes)

The student has an opportunity to express his attitude in the following questions. To give a comprehensive statistical report every student should make it a point to fill in the answers. Another questionnaire will appear in two weeks.

Fill in the Blank, cut it out, and deposit it in The Susquehanna News Box, or give it to one of the following people: Betty Wardrop, Seibert Hall; Lee Fairchild, Selingrove Hall; Jay Worthington, Hassinger Hall; Lewis Fox, Phi Mu Delta; James Bonsal, Phi Lambda Theta; Laird Gemberling, Epsilon Sigma; Andrew Kozak, Bond and Key.

Questionnaire

1. Are you in favor of freshman rules?
2. Do you read a daily newspaper? If so, what is your favorite metropolitan newspaper?
3. Who is the best waiter in Horton Dining Hall?
4. Do Susquehanna women compare favorably with women from other colleges? If not, what other college would you place first?
5. Do Susquehanna men compare favorably with men from other colleges? If not, men from what other college would you place first?
6. Who on the campus in your estimation is the best actress? Actor?
7. Do you think that more squirrels should be purchased for the campus?
8. Do you believe that you have benefitted intellectually from college? Socially?
9. What do you like most at Susquehanna?
10. What do you dislike most at Susquehanna?
11. What three professors in the order of your choice impress you favorably in regard to (1) Classroom personality (2) Knowledge of subject? (1) (2)
12. What is your favorite soap?
13. Is a winning football team necessary to a college?
14. Do you object to compulsory attendance at chapel?
15. What do you do with your leisure time?

S. U. PEPYS

Messrs. Schlavo and Rachums have announced their initial steps towards fulfilling the hope of the people by holding a public debate. Mr. Rachums has offered for the contest "Why do young people fall in love, and what is the result," while Mr. Schlavo is in favor of holding the contest during a chapel period at Seibert Hall.

The latest diversion of Hassinger's prize nitwits and logical candidates for Danville consists in bowling in the halls with bottles. The object is not, of course, to exhibit skill in any way, but merely to see who can make the most noise and shatter the most glass. Another whose time hangs too heavy on his hands is diligently practicing the art of knife throwing. The latter may not have any connection with the bottle bowlers, but we hope that it may if the practice continues.

R. V. Nertz took an oral lashing from one of our Sunday school devotees for the remark made last week about pounding on the doors on Sunday mornings. This humble scribe endeavored to explain that reference was not made to those who wake students up to attend Sunday school, but to those pernicious characters who pound on doors for the same reasons as the aforementioned bottle bowlers delight in shattering bottles.

The snowstorm on Sunday had some of the Seibert Romeos quite agitated. After watching the radio aerial collapse under its snow burden, they watched the telephone wires anxiously for any sign of weakening. You know the type . . . they spend an hour proclaiming their willingness to go through any amount of fire and water for their speechcards, and then prepare to hang up by remarking, "Well, I'll be up tonight if it doesn't rain."

Massachusetts John (whose spring romance we mentioned last week) is still going strong. His latest proof of devotion was going to Sunbury to hear his heart's desire sing in the church choir . . . He didn't know which church, but did that deter our John? . . . Of course not . . . He visited every service until he found the right one, the last one, quite naturally . . . The service was just ending . . . How fortunate for our John that hope springs eternal in the breast of youth! . . . We hope the snowstorm won't interfere with the progress of this idyllic romance.

Fortunately the goldfish craze did not invade Hassinger . . . Rumor from Seibert Hall has it that one ill-fated member of the finny tribe recently went down the drain pipe of a wash bowl . . . Similar tragedies would probably be very frequent in the Hassinger madhouse, where one may find a dead wessel on one's pillow upon awakening from nocturnal slumbers . . . Such occurrences are part of the routine of the inmates.

Count Von Luckner tomorrow night, I believe . . . That means that many of our rabid patrons of Star Courses will look at their ticket book for the first time since securing it . . . That is, if they have gone to the trouble of getting their tickets at all.

R. V. Nertz, whether deserving or not, has been given a vacation . . . Perhaps a permanent one would be a good idea . . . Anyway, since next week's issue is to be handled entirely by Freshmen, it behooves your lowly scribe to withdraw from the picture, lest he detract from the ability of the yearlings in any manner . . . Therefore, next week's S. U. PEPYS will be entirely responsible to a Thirty-Fiver . . . Please send all complaints to such, and not to yours truly . . . "Requiescat in pace." R. V. NERTZ.

PHI KAPPA HELD THEIR REGULAR MONTHLY MEETING

Phi Kappa, the honorary Phil-hellenic Society of the campus, held its regular meeting on Friday evening, March 4, in Room 205, Gustavus Adolphus Hall. The meeting was in charge of President Herbert Hohman. Lee Fairchild delivered a report on "Grecian Sculpture." He discussed at length the sources of sculpture making special appliances to materials, colors, classification of sculpture, and great Greek sculptors. The second report of the evening was made by Marlin Böttelger on "Greek Literature." His chief object was the development of the Grecian classics. Special time was given to the Homeric period and its connection with the Greek classics that we read today.

A nominating committee was appointed to prepare the list of nominees to be voted upon at the next regular meeting.

Campus Tabloid

By I. M. NERTZ

A prominent Freshman would appreciate an acceptance to the pledge dance on March 19. The girl must not be over 45 years of age, weighing not more than the petite avoirdupois of 350 pounds. She must be able to laugh and sing at the will of her partner, and be sympathetic with him on any subject concerning the heart. This young man is of medium stature, and is a delightful but somewhat obstreperous conversationalist. He has acquired the art of ballroom dancing under the guidance of "Ye Olde Editor's Dancing Academy." All acceptances to this general bid should be addressed to Box 4137, Hospital Ward, Any Precinct, Middleburg, Pennsylvania. Do not send any pictures or money for the lad is suffering from a weak heart.

(The above notice appears through the courtesy of the Amalgamated Naughtless Thread Company, Naughtville, Penna., in a vain endeavor to aid Freshmen to orientate themselves to campus social life. This ad found its way into this column through the benevolence of the publishers.)

Questions by popular "campusites"—Is it morally wrong—to eat spinach when you have the choice of hash or stew?—Suter; to go to the movies the night before a quiz?—The American Lit. class; to read elevating literature when you have a quizz to the Sunday comic supplement?—Edwards; to have fair weather on Saturday and a blizzard on Sunday?—Everybody; for a man to kiss a girl he has been going with for a year and a half?—a prominent lawyer.

An early Saturday evening release of the press revealed that abduction has reached a most startling stage; even attempting to disrupt the evening activities of the college man. The following disconnected report was given by astounded observers of a bold daylight abduction on our own campus early Saturday evening.

Every escape from the building was blocked by three large men with the kidnapers, while three more attackers dragged a well dressed boy, rather slight of stature, from the front entrance. They placed him in the tonneau of a large car parked before the house, gagged the victim, and sped down street in the powerful machine before any of the surprised bystanders could make an outcry.

The victim was the popular manager of our 1932 Basketball team, Glenroy Bishop. His struggles for freedom were made more vicious because of the plans he made for an evening of popular social amusement. His captors were so easily persuaded, however, until his friends and fraternity brothers acquiesced to the terms of the abductors.

Later in the evening while interviewing the victim in a campus restaurant he disclosed very forcibly the identity of his captors and explained their tactics with much excitement; in fact he was so forceful that one of his crashing fists completely demolished a set of the restaurant's serving dishes, for which he gladly paid.

We are pleased to state that even though his nonchalance was somewhat ruffled he concluded his evening's plans after he had been safely returned. (In order to save some embarrassment to his friends we omit bringing a personal note into this column. He offered me an outstanding pecuniary reward to withhold the identity of a certain young lady; but seeing his chagrin and wishing to show some honor in the matter the name of the lady has been omitted.)

Now taking leave for the week—

STANLEY FEATURES

FOR COMING WEEK

The feature picture at the Stanley Theatre this week is the showing of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde, tonight. Fredric March has the title role and is supported by Rose Hobart and Miriam Hopkins, who are artists of note and carry the lesser roles.

Seven distinct characterizations are enacted by Fredric March during his portrayal of the dual personality in Paramount's Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde. Fredric March plays a stellar role of a man cursed with a dual soul.

Other pictures to be shown during the week are: Wednesday, "Her Majesty Love"; Thursday, "The Spider"; Friday, "Reckless; Living"; and Saturday, "Manhattan Parade."

ALUMNI NOTES

Philadelphia Alumni Meet

The Philadelphia District Alumni met at Green's Hotel last Friday for their annual banquet and meeting. Dr. George F. Dunkelberger, Dean of Susquehanna, extended greetings from the campus to the grads. Dr. Harry C. Michael, prominent pastor of Johnstown, was also one of the speakers.

A special musical program was featured by a "Radio Trio" and the grads and former students were led in pep singing by Rev. Paul M. Kinports, of Germantown.

Susquehanna has 160 alumni and former students in the Philadelphia vicinity. C. Hayden A. Streamer, of Collingswood, N. J., is president of the club.

Graduate Dies Suddenly

Heart failure following an operation to relieve an abscess of the throat resulted fatally last Thursday for Clarence Ihura Fisher at the Bellevue Hospital, New York City.

Mr. Fisher was born at Susquehanna, Pa., but spent most of his life in Sunbury. He was graduated from the Sunbury High School in 1918. That year he enlisted in the U. S. army, but did not get overseas. After his discharge he entered Susquehanna University and was graduated in 1922. He then became chief X-ray technician of the City Hospital of New York and later was engaged in electrical X-ray work at the Bellevue Hospital, where he died.

The news of his death came as a great shock to the family, because no news of his illness had been received by any of them.

FACULTY ROW

Dr. Thomas C. Houtz, Professor Emeritus of Mathematics and Astronomy at Susquehanna University, was confined to his home with a severe cold during the past week.

Dr. G. Morris Smith, president of Susquehanna University, was the guest of honor at a dinner conference of the State Young Men's Christian Association of Pennsylvania at the Hotel Maingate in Bloomsburg, last Tuesday evening.

The dinner conference is an annual affair where the accomplishments and the extension work among students is discussed.

Dr. John I. Woodruff, professor of philosophy at Susquehanna, was the main speaker at the Hummel's Wharf Parent-Teacher Association meeting which was held on March 2nd.

He dwelt upon the relationship of the parents and their children and the parents' duty to "live" with their children.

Dean Dunkelberger Has Busy Week-end

Dr. George F. Dunkelberger, Dean of the College, had a very busy week-end which included speeches at three different towns. On Friday evening he attended the Alumni meeting at Philadelphia, where he addressed the graduates. Saturday night he spoke at the St. Matthew's Church of Hummel's Wharf, the pastor of which is Reverend Russell Chouse, '31. Sunday afternoon Dr. Dunkelberger was the speaker of the Men's Club of the Reformed Church of Shamokin.

Seniors and Sophs To Battle For Lead

The Juniors were forced from first place this week into tie for second in the inter-class basketball league. Defeats at the hands of the Theologs and Seniors were responsible for their decline. By defeating the Juniors this week, the Seniors were able to raise the number of their victories to three and thus tie with the Sophomores for first place. The Sophomores defeated the Frosh and Theologs this week and are now entitled to play the Seniors for the class championship. The winner of the first half is to play the winner of the second in a three game series. The Seniors were undefeated in the first half and are tied for first place with the Sophomores in the second half, each losing one game. The Seniors lost to the Sophomores and the Sophomores lost to the Juniors.

Final Standings for Second Half

	W	L	Pct.
Seniors	3	1	.750
Sophomores	3	1	.750
Juniors	2	2	.500
Theologs	2	2	.500
Frosh	0	4	.000

Jay Vee Five Enjoys Successful Season

Snell's Charges Win Nine Contests, Compiling 419 Points to Opponents' 326 Counters

The Susquehanna Junior Varsity basketball team has just completed one of the most successful seasons a Jayvee team has ever had here. Manager Bishop composed a complete and interesting schedule, of which the reserves won nine games and lost four contests.

Of the four games lost the Jayvees were downed only twice by decisive scores, the other two games being lost by narrow margins. The Junior Varsity piled up a total of 419 points against its opponents total of 326. In July's four games did the Orange and Maroon score under 30 points while its opponents were able to reach the total of 20 points in only six contests. Coach Snell, who took charge of the reserves this season, deserves much credit for the fine record which the team made.

Its scores for the season are as follows:

	J. V.	Opp.
Bellwood Y. M. C. A.	41	13
Danville Y. M. C. A.	41	67
Grace Lutheran Church	32	12
Altoona School of Commerce	24	17
Yoch's Pretzel Co.	26	25
Sigma Alpha Mu	40	19
U. B. Church	33	14
Shamokin Scholastics	32	27
Bucknell Frosh	20	34
Danville Y. M. C. A.	30	26
Bucknell Frosh	25	26
Altoona Demolay	42	16
Buffalo Valley	33	30

Indoor Track Event to Be Staged March 15

March 15th Susquehanna students will compete in the 12th Annual Indoor Track Meet to be staged in the Alumni Gymnasium.

The 1931 meet was captured by the class of '32 after warding off some of the keenest competition in years. Four new records were established during last year's meet. Bill Weliky, Newark Prep athlete and captain of the 1930 Orange and Maroon cinder trotters, clipped one-tenth of a second from his former record when he negotiated the 70 yard dash in 7.6 seconds.

Bill Swarm, former Millheim High School athlete, and a mainstay on Coach Grossman's track team for the past two years, ran true to form and set a new record in the 880, being timed in at 2:14.3, thereby breaking a record set in 1927. Harold Kramer, of Shamokin, set a new mark of 6' 10" in the Fence Vault, while the outstanding team performance was turned in by the class of '33 with their mile relay team, running the distance in 4 minutes and .1 of a second, lowering the previous established record by four seconds.

Every meet in replete with thrills and the keenest kind of competition in both men's and women's events. Although a number of Susquehanna's stellar trackmen will be missing from the meet, a large number of new athletes are expected to compete and new records are sure to be forthcoming.

Auxiliary Program Held Saturday

On Saturday afternoon, March 5, the Ladies' Auxiliary of the University held their regular meeting in Seibert Hall at 2:30. Mrs. William F. Groce acted in the capacity of chairman of the social committee and presented a program consisting of piano solos by Mrs. Margaret Benner Burns, readings by Miss Dorothy Hutter, and vocal solos by Mrs. W. D. Hemphill, and an organ solo by Professor Percy M. Linebaugh. Mrs. Linebaugh helped in the presentation of the program.

SENIORS LEAD GIRLS IN VOLLEY BALL LEAGUE

The Seniors defeated the Freshmen in the first set of the volley ball games held Tuesday evening. Camerer and Sheriff were high scorers for the Seniors while Leese played a good game at the net. Mehrling scored the largest number of points for the Freshmen. The scores:

15-0, 15-10.

In the second game the competition between the Juniors and Sophomores was keen and it was necessary to play three games to win the set. Brown and Jones were the high scorers for their respective teams.

The scores:

15-4, 11-15, 15-2.

The games scheduled for Friday will be played tonight at 6:30 and 7:00.

B.&K. Loses Thriller to Port Carbon; Wins From Catawissa Five

Kozak Leads Scoring Attacks in Both Struggles With Rummel in the Runner-up Position

In one of the most exciting and hard fought basketball games ever played by a Susquehanna team, the Bond and Key Club lost to Port Carbon by one point in an extra period contest Saturday night at the latter's court.

With Bond and Key leading 18-8 at the beginning of the second half, the home team rapidly tied the score at 22 all, and from this moment the play became fast and frenzied until the end of the extra period.

With two minutes to go and Bond and Key leading 30-29, Beddell, Port Carbon guard, attempted a running shot and landed on his head on concrete step. After recovering consciousness, he shot his two fouls, but was so badly dazed that he missed both. A moment later Mader tapped in the winning basket on a sensational shot from a jump ball.

All of the Bond and Key men put up a wonderful game, with Kozak and Rummel leading the scoring attack. The box score:

Port Carbon		Goals	Fouls	Pts.
Shellhammer, f.	1	1x 2	3
Schrodding, f.	3	2x 2	8

Totals	8	14x 23	30

On Tuesday night the Bond and Key basketball team defeated the Catawissa Wild Cats by the score of 36-26. The Wild Cats set a terrific pace in the first half, which was hard to overcome. The half ended with the Wild Cats out in front by a score of 24-22. In the final period the club boys opened up and held their opponents to two points while they scored fourteen for themselves.

Kozak was high scorer for the club boys with twelve points. The work of Shepp and Kerr featured for the visitors to Susquehanna's campus.

Summary:

"Home! Have you a home?"

"Brand new one, Bill. You see, back in school I took out some Lutheran Brotherhood life insurance. The rate was low and I loaded up. Now, all the contracts have matured, paid up, and my family is amply protected. So I am moving into a new home, and advising young folks to join—"

All-Opponent Team Selected by Critic

Lebanon Valley and Delaware Place Two Men on Mythical Five With Connolly, of LaSalle

Now that the basketball season has been completed the opportunity affords itself to pick an all opponent team. In our estimation a combination of Roman, Stewart, Heller, Kauffman and Connolly would be the most formidable quintet.

There is no doubt as to the position at center going to Heller. Stewart who also hails from Lebanon Valley and who has been playing against Susquehanna for three years was again in a large measure responsible for the one sided score which the team from Collegeville ran up against us. Roman and Kauffman were outstanding in Delaware's victory over us. Each ran up 16 points besides doing most of the floor play. Connolly, although he did not score so high, was a tower of strength for LaSalle and aided tremendously in two victories over us.

Our all opponent team would line-up as follows:

Roman (Delaware)	Forward
Stewart (La. Valley)	Forward
Heller (La. Valley)	Center
Kauffman (Delaware)	Guard
Connolly (LaSalle)	Guard

As a second team we could select the following:

C. Meehan (LaSalle)	Forward
Jedoff (Temple Pharmacy)	Forward
Mosicant (LaSalle)	Center
Williams (La. Valley)	Guard
Burlew (Juniata)	Guard

Possibly you do not agree that these are the strongest fives. If you have a team that you think is stronger we will be glad to print the combination that you have selected.

Large Delegation Of Our Faculty at "Y" Convention

Faculty members of the University attended a Faculty Convention of the Y. M. C. A. at the Pen-Harris Hotel in Harrisburg, over the last week-end. Dr. G. Morris Smith is a member of the committee of invitations and acted in that capacity during the convention. He was accompanied by Dr. A. William Ahl, Dr. Sadler, Dr. Williams, Dr. Orebro, Professor Brunhart, Dr. George Fisher, Dr. Kretschmann, Dr. Woodruff, Dr. Leese, and Dr. Manhart. This is the best delegation of faculty members from our college ever assembled in one meeting.

The subject was based on the need of a theological concept in the religion of the college man. The question consuming the time during the conference was whether or not the college man looked at life from the social welfare of man or from the religious concept of a Higher Power.

Philo Dix, a man of unusual power and secretary of the general cause in Y. M. C. A., spoke to the assembled faculty members. Dr. Hanson, President of Gettysburg College, acted as presiding officer of the convention.

PHILOSOPHY NOT FOR ALL,
SAYS N. Y. U. PROFESSOR

"That sweet delight," philosophy is not for the masses, Professor Morris Cohen, of the New York University department of philosophy told the annual meeting of the American Philosophical Society recently.

"God forbid that it should ever become utilitarian," he said. "That would degrade it as utilitarianism degrades love or music, or a beautiful sunset. It is the chief a'oeuvre, the piece de resistance of the mental board, a delight to be tasted by the few elect only."

A WELL-BALANCED MAN
Dr. William W. Comfort sums up his idea of the attributes of a well-balanced man:

1. An unselfish interest in social welfare.
2. A sense of values; the ability to distinguish between the important and the unimportant.
3. The ability to recognize the distinction between right and wrong.
4. The ability to co-operate.
5. The possession of a hobby.

Scibert Hall Echoes

There have been a great many applicants for membership in the Griper's Club, but all have not been approved as yet. To become a full fledged member you must be an expert griper not an ordinary moaner.

Flo Ellmore was telling what she would do when she had millions of dollars. We never knew that ministers became millionaires. Perhaps she is counting on wealthy relatives!

If Mary Weavering should decide that she doesn't care to teach, she should have little difficulty in securing a position in a Turkish Bath for gold fish, or rather she would have been able to secure a position before she allowed Mildred Arbogast's prize goldfish, to slip down the drain while in the process of bathing it.

Martha Gessner has joined the list of invalids. Martha has suffered quite a bit, and we hope that her recovery will be rapid. Her parents came on Saturday to spend the week-end with her.

BAND TO APPEAR AT BANQUET

The Susquehanna University Band will appear in full action and in its finest array at the Annual Sports Banquet, which is to be held in Horton Dining Hall March 18. The band is doing its best to make this occasion the peepiest of the entire school year. The boys, under the direction of Professor Elrose L. Allison, have been practicing very diligently every Tuesday evening for their annual spring concert in order to make it a great success.

COLUMBIA TO DEVELOP EFFICIENT TEACHERS

The sum may be reduced by scholarships which will be available for those who cannot pay the tuition costs.

The core of the curriculum will deal with child nature and development. Students will be brought into close contact with children in what will be designated as laboratory schools.

Graduation will be based upon passing examinations of practical as well as academic character. However, the college will reject the traditional point system.

"All sound educational reconstruction depends upon the development of a new race of teachers—teachers who, through their own creative efforts, are able to call forth in their students constructive creative leadership. The teacher's college of the future has for its chief problem the selection and development of a generation of teachers very different from the typical teacher of today. This imperative need of a new type of teacher calls radical modification of our present institutions for the training of teachers."

Count Von Luckner Impressed Audience

Count's Magnetic Personality Held Audience as He Recounted
Story of His Life

The Star Course program was brought to a fitting close on Wednesday, March 9, 1932, when Count Felix Von Luckner delightfully entertained a large audience by delivering what was perhaps the most interesting lecture of the series.

The life story of the Count as told by himself was humorous, but filled the listeners many times with admiration of his daring exploits. Globe-trotter, German nobleman, and adventurer, his thrilling career began at the early age of thirteen when he ran away from home in order to see his hero, Buffalo Bill. After traveling over much of the world, and almost fulfilling the prediction of his former teacher that he would become a bum, he finally reached Denver, the home of Buffalo Bill, only to find that the Great Cowboy was on a tour through Germany with his Wild West Show. Eventually he returned to Germany, where he secured employment as a sailor, and finally received the much coveted title of Lieutenant in the Imperial Navy.

When the World War broke out and Germany was blockaded by the British Fleet, he conceived the hazardous idea of "running" the blockade in a sailing vessel disguised as a Norwegian trader. His plan succeeded and he was able to destroy 500,000 tons of Allied shipping, yet without sacrificing the life of any of his prisoners.

By no means was the Count a great orator, yet he spoke in a simple style which impressed as that of no other speaker could impress. He spoke with a decidedly German accent, but in only a few instances was his talk unintelligible.

Although he talked more than two hours, his dramatic gestures and magnetic personality held the audience in rapt attention every second. As he told of the near-fatal examination of his vessel by the British officials, and his manifold dangers in the hurricane which preceded this examination, the Chapel was so silent that the dropping of the proverbial pin would have sounded similar to a thunderclap. His respect for the British was shown many times as he spoke, while not a word either for or against any nation's participation in the Great War passed his lips.

It was indeed an honor to have a man of his calibre on our campus. He most assuredly made a place for himself in the minds of all who heard him, while those who failed to attend the lecture missed the opportunity of hearing one of the most distinguished men lecture in Seibert Chapel, and perhaps may not have a similar opportunity for months, or even years, to come.

Dr. Leese Receives Information From College Newspapers

By the middle of the week Dr. Charles Leese expects to receive answers to most of the questionnaires which he sent to the various college weeklies concerning the organization and remuneration of the business departments of the weekly newspapers. Not only the editorial but also the business organization of the Susquehanna has needed a complete revision for the changed conditions of the weekly and there is being carried out an extensive program to establish a worthwhile and effective constitution.

From year to year the Susquehanna Publishing Association has found itself facing a deficit and very soon there must be formed a way of removing this difficulty.

Dean Presents Cup to Bond and Key

On Tuesday morning at the chapel exercises, Dr. George F. Dunkleber presented to Herbert Rummel the Scholarship Cup which was won this year by the Bond and Key Club. The annual award is presented at the end of the first semester of each year, and becomes the permanent property of any fraternity which wins it for three consecutive years. Last year Phi Mu Delta led the fraternity scholastic ratings, and were the proud possessors of the cup.

PIONEERS IN SPORT AT SUSQUEHANNA UNIVERSITY

Athletes to Receive Awards at Banquet

Action of Board Permits Old Athletes to Receive Awards at the Sports Banquet

The presentation of awards to members of first teams to represent Susquehanna in sport and an address by Dr. E. Leroy Mercer, Dean of the Department of Physical Education of the University of Pennsylvania will be unusual features of Susquehanna University's Fourth Annual Sports Banquet on March 18th.

More than ordinary significance is attached to the 1932 Sports Banquet in so far as it commemorates the introduction of baseball at Missionary Institute (now Susquehanna University) fifty years ago; football, forty years ago; track and basketball thirty years ago and the launching of Susquehanna's present day enlarged program of sports ten years ago.

Sport Pioneers
Fifty-three students; Susquehanna's pioneers in sport, constituted the personnel of Susquehanna's early teams thirty, forty and fifty years ago. Most of these men are living. Sixteen entered the ministry, of these three are now members of faculties of institutions of higher learning. Eight entered business and six engaged in educational work in the public schools at principals, county superintendents and members of the Pennsylvania State Department of Education. Five engaged in the practice of medicine; five entered the legal profession; one a dentist and one a chemist. Available records fail to provide information about the activities of the remaining eleven men.

104 Undergraduates to Receive Awards
Susquehanna will present a hundred and four certificates of award of their present day athletes. Sixty-nine of these awards will go to the men and thirty-five to Susquehanna's co-eds. The scope of Susquehanna's sports program is further broadened when all participants of her intra-mural sports are included, as over half the student body actively engage in either intra-mural or varsity sports.

Twenty-three men will receive varsity letters and numerals in football, twelve will receive awards for their performance on basketball court, fourteen men will receive athletic awards for track, fifteen will be awarded letters and numerals in baseball and six letters for tennis. Twenty-two women will be awarded letters and thirteen numerals for their participation in intra-mural activities for women.

Jack Auchmuty, President of the Student Intra-Mural Board will announce.

Recent Survey Shows Interesting Results

The survey which was conducted by the staff members of "The Susquehanna" on the attitude of the men students on the campus concerning the present conditions of war across the Pacific has been completed and the amazing results have been compiled. The facts revealed by the survey are in accordance with the results recorded by many other collegiate newspapers throughout the United States.

The poll shows a strong feeling against armed intervention by the United States, if Japan or China disagreed the property and lives of American citizens in the Orient. The present opinions held by the college men pertaining to war is a decided change of those held by students prior to the entry of the United States in the World War, when frenzied patriotism was inflamed by pseudo-atrocities upon the lives of American citizens and by propaganda spread by foreign powers. The word Patriotism has been given a new meaning and war is looked upon by many in the light the General Sherman is quoted as having remarked about war.

The chief reason given by the students for refusing to volunteer, if war were declared by the United States in the Orient was that they would be going to war for the benefit of several American millionaires, who have in-

Freshman Class is a Talented Group

No one can gainsay the musical ability of the Class of '35. In Orchestra, Band, Choral Club, Choir and Glee Club, the Freshman class contains probably a larger percentage of members than any other class on the campus.

Of twenty members in the Glee Club, at least eight are Freshmen; the twenty-piece Band contains six Fresh, while the thirty-piece Orchestra contains at least ten of this versatile class; the Choral Club has a goodly representation of "first-year" students, and of twenty University students in the Trinity Choir, ten or more are Freshmen.

They are active in new organizations also, and the recently formed McCarty Trio is built around two prominent Fresh. The University String Quartet contains three yearlies.

In the Evangelical Lutheran Church of Sunbury, Mrs. Rodgers, Director, has many Freshmen from the University taking important solo positions, as well as aiding in the regular choir work.

We challenge any other class on the campus to produce as many persons with real musical ability.

Indoor Track Meet to be Staged Tonight

S. U. Athletes to Show Ability in Indoor Track and Field Events
This Evening

Tonight, March 15, the students of Susquehanna University will hold an inter-class track meet in the Alumni Gymnasium at 7:30 P. M.

Last year the meet was captured by the class of 1932, but not without the hardest competition in many years.

Four new records established in last year's meet. Bill Weliky, Newark Prep athlete and captain of the 1930 track team, lowered his former record by one-tenth of a second when he burst the tape for the 70 yd. dash in 7.6 seconds.

Bill Swann, of Millheim high fame, and one of the outstanding athletes of Prof. Grossman's track team for the past two years, set a new record, being timed at 2:14.3 thereby breaking a record set in 1927. Harold Kramer, of Shamokin, set a new mark of 6:10" in the fence vault, while the class of '33 made the outstanding team performance with their mile relay team, running the distance in 4:1" lowering the previous record by four seconds.

Every meet is replete with thrills and the keen competition is always enjoyed by the spectators. Although several stellar track men will be missing this year, a large number of new athletes are forthcoming and many of the old records are expected to be broken.

STUDENT TEACHERS TO DO PRACTICE TEACHING IN SUNBURY

Student teachers from Susquehanna and Bucknell Universities will do practice teaching in the Sunbury Public Schools upon permission granted by the board of education, of Sunbury. This is a beneficial arrangement for S. U. practice teachers, for they will now have an opportunity to observe various teaching methods, and will be able to gain experience in maintaining discipline in different types of classes.

NOTICE TO BASEBALL CANDIDATES

Manager Merle Hubbard announces that there will be a meeting of all baseball candidates on Thursday evening, March 17, at 7:30 p. m. in the Alumni Gymnasium. The sudden and unexpected winter weather has thrown a bomb into the manager's plans for an early start on the diamond, but nevertheless indoor practice is already in sway and Coach Ullery expects to have an excellent outfit to meet the Spring schedule.

Affirmative Debate Team Wins Laurels

Debaters Get Unanimous Decision of Judges at Geneva, Thiel and Waynesburg Colleges

Susquehanna's affirmative debating team returned to the campus Friday afternoon, victorious in three arguments with Thiel, Geneva and Waynesburg. At all three colleges the Orange and Maroon debaters were awarded unanimous decision, and quite naturally the student body has become very enthusiastic over the marked success of its arguers.

From Susquehanna the debaters first went to Geneva college, where they met and defeated the Geneva negative team Wednesday morning. The Susquehanna men were cordially received at this college, and the president of the institution commented on the evident calibre of the debaters. Our men seem to think that interest in debates at Geneva is more keen than at our own school.

Wednesday evening the S. U. men debated the Thiel college negative and again won by their customary unanimous decision.

The coup de maître of the three day trip was administered Thursday evening when our verbal battlemen again convinced the judges at Waynesburg that they presented the best arguments. Once more the decision was 3-0 in favor of S. U.

None of these debates were with teams of decided inferiority, but rather the striking success of the Susquehanna team is a result of the time and effort that it has taken in preparing its arguments. All due honor should go to John Kindsvater, Edwin Clapper and Regis Kifer, who composed the brilliant team.

The question which the S. U. affirmative team is upholding, in case any of the students want to know, is: Resolved, that capitalism as a system of economic organization is unsound in principle. The team has two more debates left on its schedule, Shippensburg, March 17, and Elizabethtown, April 4, and—well, we're hoping.

Fraternity Neophytes Interested in Dance

Much interest is being shown among the pledges of the various Fraternities on the campus about the Pledge Dances to be held on Saturday night at the respective houses. It has been noticed that the attitude of the girls in Seibert Hall has been exceedingly friendly to those Freshman men who were pledged in the recent rushing season.

Excellent orchestras have been secured and the members of each house are determined to entertain their pledges with all the means in their power. The Neophytes are just as determined to have an enjoyable time and the Pony Express has noticed that many formal-looking letters have left the Dormitories recently enroute to various schools and cities in all corners of the state.

Well, girls, perhaps "Sooky" will appeal to your mother instinct.

Baseball Candidates Begin Practice

Though it may snow and blow, the fact remains that the baseball season is but a few weeks in the future. Big Bill Ullery has already started to tutor S. U. battlemen in the Alumni Gymnasium.

Captain Frank Malasky has reported as a receiver so he may get his arm in shape before the outdoor practice sessions begin. Malasky, one of the Orange and Maroon's leading hitters for the past two years, is also scintillant in the outfield.

Al Myer, of Wilkes-Barre, a promising Sophomore hurler, has been taking strenuous daily workouts during the week. Great things are expected of this youngster. Veteran Alden Danks, Hugh Brinninger, and Joe Malmon have been tossing the pill daily in order to acquire their usual form as soon as possible.

"Slick" Palmer and Charles Stroup have reported as battymen so that they may get additional practice before the outdoor work begins.

Maurice Schaeffer, veteran catcher, will compete for his position with Freddy Carl, Stephen Martinec and Kenneth Anderson. These last two are Freshmen with extensive experience in high school and elsewhere, and despite their college inexperience, show very good form.

APOLOGY

This issue has many defects. The Freshmen have defects. Defects produce defects. What can you expect?

IMPRESSIONS

The green, green Freshmen, upon entering college, immediately form impressions of anything closely or remotely related to their chosen Alma Mater. They form opinions concerning upperclassmen, faculty, fraternities, and campus that will determine for them whether or not they will quickly find their place in the routine of the college life. Upperclassmen sometimes forget their importance in helping to make college entirely satisfactory to Freshmen. Fraternities sometimes reserve their amicability for the pledging season. Freshmen, being new and curious, observe everything, and from their observations gain experience and an ability to guard their own interests—for although the Freshmen may be green, they are not usually dull green.

FRESHMEN IN SPORTS

Although the Freshmen demonstrated no marked superiority in inter-class sports, they manifested a fine class spirit and sportsmanship in all contests. Their inability to win in these contests was due in no small part to the fact that they were entirely without experience in the various sports in which they participated. The Freshmen show a latent ability which promises to give them a more successful season next year.

They had, however, more than their share of players on the varsity football and basketball squads. This probably had much to do with the poor showing of the inter-class teams, also. As the prospects for track and baseball are very promising, it is evident that the Class of '35 will in no way deteriorate the athletic standing of Susquehanna.

PESSIMISM

Why is it that so many of the students are pessimistic? Why are there so many students continually coming within the category generally expressed by the slang term—"griper"? For instance, we have the case of an average, or above average, student continually complaining that his marks are ridiculously low, or that he is going to flunk this or that examination because he has not studied, when the fact of the matter is, the student has spent hours in preparation for his examination and usually makes a good grade in it.

It has been said that he who is pessimistic is never disagreeably surprised, but a person who is continually looking on the "dark" side of life is most certainly not an agreeable person with whom to associate.

Then, there is the class of pessimists who are always predicting evil futures for other members of their class or of the student-body. They fail to see their pessimism is doing more harm for themselves, their classmates and the college in general, than anything the object of their forebodings can do.

Why can't we see the good in the other fellow and not always the bad? Why can't we see that a teacher, if for no other reason than to save the name of the school, would not arbitrarily mark a student low when he deserved a high grade? After all, it is not one purpose of the college to help develop our good traits so we can better serve our fellow-man in our lives?

Let's try to be cheerful, even though we don't always feel in the mood, and do away with the evils of pessimism which destroy the character of both the pessimist and those who come in contact with him.

S. U. PEPYS

By Jove! Von Luckner was good! But you should hear General Stirling re-tell the adventures of his life!

Before I go any further, allow me to inform Susquehanna students and Rev. R. V. Nertz that the policy of this column will be slightly altered this issue. There will be no foolish attempt at wit or humorous accounting of scandal in this column. Instead, I will try to be momentarily intelligent and write a column of real literary merit.

One of our popular practice teachers (a man) recently had a blushing good time in one of his classes down to the high school. Imagine! Some moon-struck maiden crooned to him. Her cute little song, at least the part that produced the blush, was: "In your arms hold me tight dear—".

This her's sort of poetical.

Blow ye winds blow, but blow straight into the sky the sweet, fragrant, poppy which arises from the Friday fish fry. Say those last three words fast, kid, or you'll get hungry. But seriously, did you ever notice that those nonentities who gripe most at the Friday meals are rather piscatory themselves. Like things repel, you know.

Horors! Mercy me! Calamity! Who would believe that the pre-theologs in Room 15, Hassinger, have more dates than Herbie, Petey, Charley, Foxy, and Petry combined. Yessir, believe it or not, they have thirty on the walls of their rooms.

Say, folks, I haven't written anything as yet, but get a load of this. One of the faithful members of the Bachelor's Club is contemplating a drastic step. He decided to date a co-ed. However, it is only fair to give the whole story. It seems there is a bet between this incurable misogynist and another member of the merciless club. Perhaps the bet, and not the woman, attracts.

R. V. Nertz is not the shy, retiring fellow you might expect him to be. Indeed not. When he, having nothing else to do, went to church Sunday night, he fearlessly and quite proudly informed every one who was interested, of his religious renaissance.

This pony express guy is always doing the wrong thing all the time. I feel absolutely certain that he delivered a package to one of the residues of Selingrove Hall, recently, for the usual peace and quite of Hassinger has been nightly disturbed by the morbid strains of Auld Lang Syne. Quinto, my boy, how about withholding your ukulele practice periods until Sunday nights. No one will say anything then, because they will realize that they should have been in church.

I'm all disgusted like,

TO THE BROTHERS

I
 She was a blonde, five feet two,
 Her hair was golden, her eyes so blue,
 He was handsome, tall and fair,
 A very brute—and so debonaire.

II
 They met one night at a fraternity dance,
 And here is the tale of their romance.
 She was clever—far from dense
 And alas! his suavity was no defense.

III
 The music ceased, the dance was over,
 And arm in arm they left the floor.
 IV
 Later:
 He said: This pin I want you to wear
 As long as for me you seem to care.
 She took it. It was no disgrace,
 But she inwardly laughed, though she was so demure of face.

For she knew it would go home and in-to a drawer
 Where it would keep company with many more.
 V and VI
 He took her home at half-past four
 And said good-nite at the dormitory door.
 His heart was happy, and full of romance
 But to her—well, it was just another dance.

The moral of this story, if there is any:
 Hang on to your pin by pretty
 Because sooner or later you're bound to be led!
 To give it up to some Co-ed!
 Jack Auchmuty '31
 (Poor Fellow)

According to the Dean of the University of Nebraska, love, intellect and faculty intelligence are the reasons for Freshmen's flunking out of college.

Campus Tabloid

By I. M. NERTZ

Dear Ghost Writer:

It is now five o'clock. Since eleven-thirty P. M. we have been wracking our over-taxed brains in a fruitless attempt to come up with a story. We have discovered that it can't be done. Your tempt to produce a column even now is in vain. It is also like hamburger cheese—rotten, but O. K. for those who have a taste for the stuff. May we offer a few suggestions and criticisms?

The name of your column suggests, as R. V. Nertz once subtly suggested, bold, blaring stories accompanied by striking photographs. Can't you find any such stories about our milling campus? If you can't discover any stories of that nature, why don't you invent a few? A mildly interesting example of what you could do follows:

S. U. March—, Tuesday morning, 1,897 Freshmen girls, charmed by faith, hope, and charity started a thirty day life in the wilds of northern Alaska. They intend to pay the expenses of this excursion by selling army puttees to all soldiers of fortune that they meet on the road. While in Djonsdiklekenkenasokalo, they will study Alaskan mining methods, so that they will be able to dig themselves out of the slough of despond which will envelop Seibert Hall after the pledge dances.

(G.H. Nertz, I didn't intend mentioning that. Everyone knows we love our little co-eds). The S. U. hikerettes are carrying two balloon roof barns, fourteen extra manicule sets and an abundance of throat discusses so that they can protect themselves from the ravages of weather and ferocious animals. Some of the girls are planning returning with a few ice-bergs and several polar bears in order to have something to lavish their affections upon. Good luck, girls!

Now, Ghosly, hasn't this little illustration given you an idea? Just a little one? And about the pictures. All you need to do is to insert your own picture, or that of the redoubtable R. V. into your column, and casual observers of your writing will have to laugh so heartily at these photographs that they will be too weak to read your column. Simple, isn't it?

Sincerely,
 THE TIRELESS TRIO.

AMUSEMENTS

Two evenings of "double features," have been booked for the theater attendant this week. Tonight the features include the two well known actors Douglas Fairbanks and Chester Morris. Douglas Fairbanks will star in "Around the World in 80 Minutes," and Chester Morris will have the lead in "Corsair." On Wednesday evening Jack Hol will entertain the audience in "Maker of Men," a tense drama of modern youth. The second "double feature" of the week is booked for Thursday night when Victor McLaglen will be starred in "Wicked" and Laurel and Hardy will play leading roles in "Beau Hunk." "The Road to Reno" is scheduled for Friday evening, and the famous "Jackie Cooper" will be seen on Saturday night in "Sooky".

BANQUET COMMITTEE

The Committee for the Sports Banquet to be held Friday night, March 18, 1932, in Horton Dining Hall, is as follows:
 Jack Auchmuty, chairman.
 Lucille Lehman.
 Harriet Leese.
 Russell Shilling.
 Herbert Spigelmeyer.
 Dorothy Ryder.
 L. D. Grossman

Freshman Qpery Column

Well, well, well. What have we here? A lot of fresh questions, I believe. The dear little Frosh co-eds seem to have originated the most imposing array of asinine interrogations, so I suppose they get first place in the column.

From the Girls:

Freshmen have always been noted for asking questions. We've been true to tradition; but we haven't found out all we wanted to know. Some ponderous questions still hang over our heads.

Will good times such as we've had, continue during our four years? Do Senior fellows always high-hat Freshman girls? Shall the girls send the fellows boutonnières for the next fraternity dance? How can we answer Miss Hade's nonchalantly when she asks whether we've enjoyed our dates? Why are Sophomores more snippy than Juniors? How can we vamp the profs? Why is Love so cheap in Seibert Hall parlors? Why aren't we allowed to go car-riding? Where have the Seniors acquired their dignity? Why isn't student government based on the Honor System instead of being vested in a Student Council—we're sure there wouldn't be so many "campuses" and last, but not least is a question we hear only behind closed doors—how can I make that handsome brunette with curly hair?

We are very broadminded. If any one wishes to relieve us of these weighty matters, we'll appreciate the advice!

From the Boys:

Why are so many of the fellows bringing outside girls to the pledge dances? Is it because they disapprove of the Seibert Hall mother instinct? What became of the poor fish in the pool near Steele Science Hall? Is that the reason we have fish every Friday? Who shoveled the snow back of G. A. and made a path, while they did not take it off the sidewalks? Which movie star's picture is predominant in the rooms in Hassinger? Who is the best crooner in Hassinger Hall, and who cares? Why does the management of our local theatre always show a Western picture on Saturday night? At what time do they begin eight o'clock classes in other schools?

FACULTY ROW

Wednesday evening, March 8, Dr. G. Morris Smith assisted the Rev. George W. Nicely, pastor of the First Lutheran Church of Johnstown, in a special Lenten service held in the church auditorium.

President Smith is quite well known in Johnstown and its vicinity, having made a number of previous appearances as a speaker. His popularity in this city has been an important factor in securing a number of students from this city.

Dr. George F. Dunkelberger addressed the Senior class of Sunbury High School following the close of their chapel period, Tuesday, March 8. The subject of his talk was, "The Value of a College Education."

After the address, Dean Dunkelberger met some of the Seniors who wished to talk to him about a college education and explained many of their questions. His visit was much appreciated by the students, for like all high Seniors, The Sunbury graduating classmen are wondering, "What next?" Prof. F. C. Stevens took charge of the choir of the Zoin Lutheran Church Sunbury, Sunday night, March 6. He has been elected director of this organization, and much is expected of his leadership. A tenor solo which he sang as a feature number of the service was enjoyed by all.

Prof. (in middle of a joke)—"Have I ever told the class this one before. Clits (in a chorus)—"Yes!" Prof.—"Good, you will probably understand it this time.—Troubadour.

ATHLETES TO RECEIVE AWARDS AT BANQUET

nounce winners of the various intramural sports for men and Miss Lucille M. Lehman, President of the Women's Athletic Club will make a similar announcement concerning the women's sports.

Program Changed Ten Years Ago
In 1916 Susquehanna set out to study her needs in the realm of Physical Education and Intercollegiate Sports. For several years, due to the war, little progress was made. In 1920 the study was resumed and in the fall of 1921 Susquehanna inaugurated her new program of Physical Education. Plans for new athletic fields were prepared and before the year closed work had been started on the construction of new out-door facilities for the conduct of sports.

A careful study of the place of sports in the educational program, especially the relation of the so-called Athletic Scholarships to the newer type of sports program, resulted in the announcement, by Susquehanna, in the fall of 1922, of the discontinuance of the awarding of scholarships solely on the basis of the athletic ability of the recipient. Bona fide commitments previously made were continued, but in time the entire plan of Athletic Scholarships was abandoned.

Today all Susquehanna students enjoy splendid and adequate outdoor and indoor sport facilities together with a program of intercollegiate and intramural sports whereby every student—man or woman—has an opportunity to engage in some form of sport activity.

Senior Girls Are Volley Ball Champs

Winning its fourth consecutive championship for the year the Senior girls' volleyball team forced the Juniors into second place. The game was closely contested throughout with the Juniors leading most of the time. Hutter scored most of the Junior points, while for the Seniors Camerer and Sheriff shared scoring honors.

Seniors	Juniors
Vorlage	Geisel
Camerer	Hutter
Crebs	Lizdas
Fink	Jones
Leese	Ellmore
Lehman	Pearl

The scores: 11-15, 16-14, 15-7.
The standing of the classes in the series is as follows:

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Seniors	5	1	.833
Juniors	4	2	.667
Sophomores	2	3	.400
Freshmen	0	5	.000

Nine Members of Cage Squad Receive Letters

By recent action of the Athletic Board, nine members of Susquehanna's 1931-32 basketball squad were awarded the varsity insignia for their excellence, and three received numerals.

The following men received letters: Captain Herbert Rummel, Port Carbon; Glenroy Bishop, Harrisburg; Robert McGeehan, Hazleton; Charles Palmer, Somerville, N. J.; Walter Van Nuys, Newcastle, Ind.; Joseph Kapke, Glen Lyon; Harold Kramer, Shamokin; Jerald Schlegel, Thompsonstown; and Konstanty Wasilewski, Passaic, N. J.

Bruce Worthington, Yonkers, N. Y.; George Tomlin, Collinsdale, and Frank Malasky, Dubois, received numerals.

Wasilewski, who is a Freshman, played in every varsity game and led Susquehanna's scoring. George Tomlin, also a Freshman, played in all the junior varsity contests and in several varsity contests. He plays a close and consistent game at the defense position, and is undoubted varsity material.

INTERCOLLEGIATE BULLETIN

Freshman co-eds at Northwestern University refused to prepare their lessons in protest against the rule that lights had to be turned out at ten-thirty. They maintained that this gave them insufficient time to study.

The Interfraternity Council at Minnesota University recently passed a resolution requiring two-dollar fees to be paid by Freshmen accepting dates during the regular winter-quarter rushing week. The measure was designed to help fraternities defray the cost of rushers' meals and to eliminate the entertainment of freshmen who might accept dates with no intention of becoming a member of any fraternity.

Seventy-five worthless checks are passed every day at the University of Missouri.

Seniors Win Close Contest, 31 to 25

In the final and deciding inter-class basketball game, the Seniors won a hard-fought contest from the Sophomores last Thursday night in the gymnasium by a score of 31-25.

The game was closely contested from start to finish and accompanied with many thrills. There was an unusual amount of spirit manifested throughout the game with the Sophs receiving slightly more encouragement from the spectators than the Seniors. Every goal was received with much enthusiasm from the respective classes.

The first half of the game was comparatively quiet, with the guards of both teams doing excellent work in keeping down the scoring. The first half ended with the score 13-13 and both teams were confident of showing their ability to win in the second half.

In the first few minutes of the latter half, Bozinski scored a goal from mid-field, giving the edge to the Sophomores. The Sophs were not ahead very long, for Speer soon scored a two-pointer and again tied the score.

In the last quarter of the second half, with the score very close, Bozinski, the mainstay of the Sophomore team, had to have time called, because of an acute cramp in his foot. The lowering hopes of the Sophs were again raised, for when the whistle blew, Bozinski showed that he was still "in there" by dropping a neat goal from the field, thus equalizing the count, which remained 21-21 until the end of the period.

The score was successively broken and tied by Speer and Bozinski respectively in the opening of the extra period, but the Seniors forged ahead when Hohman made a spectacular basket over his shoulder.

Speer ruined the morale of the Sophomores by sinking another goal and the Seniors had a comparatively easy time the rest of the game, the only interesting incident in the remaining minutes being an unexpected goal by Zimlicki.

Seniors Lead Vespers

The Class of '33 had charge of the Vesper Service on Sunday evening. Talks and poems, interspersed by musical numbers and hymns, made the service very impressive. The complete program follows: Organ solo, Beatrice Shiveley; Hymn; scripture, Kenneth James; Prayer; assembly; Vocal Duet, Mary LaHaza and Irene Mengle; Poem, Estelle Pearl; Organ Solo, Beatrice Shiveley; quartette, Pearl, LaHaza, Petry and Edwards; Story, "Melting Pot," Mrs. Dodson, and hymn, "My Country 'Tis of Thee," assembly.

vestments in China and thereby were taking a chance of losing one's life for an investor who would remain in our country and reap a golden harvest. Another prevalent reason advanced was that war is a primitive means of settling disputes and is morally wrong as a means to an end.

The thirty-four men who would volunteer have given their side of the question. Several of them are already on the reserve list as non-commissioned officers, then others would enlist in the air force and navy for adventure, for personal glory, and for patriotism.

The questions asked in the poll and the results recorded were as follows:
(1) Are you in favor of armed intervention by the United States, if Japan or China disregard the property and lives of American citizens in the Orient? Yes: 24 No: 70.

(2) If war were declared in the Orient by the United States would you volunteer or be drafted? Volunteer: 34 Drafted: 54. Six stated they would not go to war under any consideration.
(3) Is your motto "Fight in defense only"? Yes: 70 No: 24

Physical Comparisons of the Lower Classmen

The following statistics were compiled by an industrious Fresh with a superiority to the complex. These statistics show that the rather mediocre performances of Freshmen teams in intramural sports were the results of indifference to trivialities, and not the results of physical or athletic inferiority. Last year's Freshmen class of boys barely eked out an average of C plus in the physical education course, while the frenzied Freshmen this year rang the bell for a straight and stringent B average.

The statistics:
Tallest member of Class of 1934, Jerold Schlegel, 6' 2".
Tallest member of Class of 1935, Richard Tice, 6' 3/4".
Shortest member of Class of 1935, Saviour Abbot, 5' 11 1/2".
Heaviest member of Class of 1934, Harry Carl, 180 pounds.
Heaviest member of Class of 1935, Steven Martine, 190 pounds.
Thinnest member of Class of 1934, William Morrow, 121 pounds.
Thinnest member of Class of 1935, Elmer Drumm, 119 pounds.

LEISURE

By William H. Davies
What is this life if, full of care,
We have no time to stand and stare.

No time to stand beneath the boughs
And stare as long as sheep or cows.

No time to see, when woods we pass,
Where squirrels hide their nuts in grass.

No time to see, in broad daylight,
Streams full of stars, like skies at night.

No time to turn at Beauty's glance,
And watch her feet, how they can dance.

No time to wait till her mouth can
Enrich that smile her eyes began.

A poor life this if, full of care,
We have no time to stand and stare.

Choir Renders
Beautiful Gounod
Cantata, "Gallia"

The Trinity Lutheran Choir, of Selinsgrove, under the able direction of Dr. Williams, head of the University Mathematics Department, rendered the beautiful cantata, "Gallia," before an appreciative audience in a very creditable manner on Sunday night.

Gounod's "Gallia," the words of which are taken from the book of Lamentations, requires the services of a Soprano Soloist of no mean ability. Miss Mary Graham, of Northumberland, who possesses a voice of rare charm and beauty, sang this difficult part in a manner most pleasing to all present. Dr. Linebaugh, also of the University Faculty, accompanied the Choir and soloist on the Church Organ and aided their presentation a great deal.

It is interesting to note that, of the forty members comprising the Choir, fully twenty members are from the University and at least ten of this number are Freshmen. This certainly speaks well for the musical abilities of the Class of '35.

Football Convicts?

Washington.—How a football squad was mistaken for a kindly old lady for a bunch of convicts last summer was revealed here the other day by the National Park Service.

Members of the University of Oregon football squad worked last summer at Crater Lake National Park, tossing passes with boulders which were being used to build a stone wall around the rim of the crater.

The men wore heavy athletic shorts marked "U. O." and numbered as football sweaters are numbered. The lady noted these and protested to the park authorities against using convict labor in national parks.

INTERCOLLEGIATE BULLETIN

A $3,000 budget for the approaching junior prom at Wesleyan University has aroused the ire of the president! Can't you picture a budget like that for Susquehanna?

A questionnaire at the University of Minnesota reveals that two-thirds of the co-eds there do not like to pet, drink or smoke.

Yale has a sophomore who is paying much of his way through college by washing dogs.

Students at the University of Kansas have the right to petition the student council for the removal of any disliked text book. About how many books would that leave on this campus?

It was discovered at Hamilton College twenty-three students have athlete's foot as compared to fifty-one who do not suffer from this ailment.

Co-eds at the Texas College of Mines disagree with Dr. William Mauldon, who said that present day girls have "hot baby" reputations, have lost their Victorian timidity, and that "no college boy is safe from their attacks."—"If the girls are hot babies, the boys have made them that way. The world is full of girls who are perfectly timid. They do not appear Victorian because this is 1932."

Having bored a Lehigh student to death with their dry courses several members of the Lehigh faculty will be tried for murder at the annual gridiron banquet. Could we do that?

Seibert Hall Echoes

It has just been found out what's been wrong with Seibert Hall. Sammy Pascoe doesn't visit us.

Edith Frankfield and Isabel Horn were busy writing letters to steamship companies. Maybe they yearn to be just some sailor's sweetheart?

We wonder why Helen Monahan gets all dressed up for French class??

Betty Wardrop and Anne Dunkleberger are all excited about a Miss Popularity Contest. The prize is a trip to Bermuda. The girls have already made their reservations.

Amelia Krapf just lives between mails or is it males?

Rooms 9 and 10, wake up.

Can't.

Why not?

Ain't sleeping.

We are glad to see that Jean Kelchner can be with us again in the dining hall after being confined to her room.

The inhabitants of Seibert Hall have pawned their spring bonnets to buy skates for their gold-fish.

Have you heard Estelle Pearl's latest wise-crack? It really is good. Did you like it Bishop?

Arline says that it isn't true. But why did she blush when the debating came into the dining hall.

Don't All and Hall

Why the Single Curriculum at Susquehanna?

Since the issue of the current catalog during the month of March, this question has been frequently raised on Susquehanna University's campus. The change at first thought seems to be rather abrupt and perhaps even radical. Any departure from the beaten paths of custom necessarily causes one to ask the reason why. What evidently must have been in the minds of those in charge of the catalog and curriculum revisions to effect this departure from long-established academic practices?

Susquehanna, like most other institutions of higher learning years ago considered her duty well done in education by offering her students required courses in the classical languages and cultural subjects with perhaps a smattering of elementary science. For the completion of such a program of studies the student received at graduation the traditional A.B. degree. A little later science put in her claim for a recognized place side by side of the general humanities. As a result, college students became classified into two clearly defined groups, and secured, at graduation, respectively the A.B. and B.S. degrees. In course of time a third group of students emerged on the college campus not committed definitely to either science or the humanities. Since they pursued studies intermediate to the above two groups, they were awarded at graduation the Ph.B. degree.

As colleges began to assume a more serious study of curriculum problems, and came to a more adequate understanding of what was really involved, the three groups were abandoned and the undergraduates were gathered again into a single body, pursuing within a general curriculum, more or less distinctive lines of study in which, however, there was allowed a considerable amount of election. The studies were so arranged that all of one's work would not be taken within the distinctive field of study the student had chosen. In this way all undergraduates became recognized as candidates for the degree generally understood as more broadly covering the studies of a cultural education—the A.B. degree.

Some forty colleges, large and small, have adopted the single curriculum. Among these may be mentioned Princeton, Colgate, Albion, Hood, Marshall, Carleton, and Washburn. The reader will recognize that all of these

Two Crusader Athletes Recover from Injuries

John Meyers, varsity halfback on the football team and star sprinter on the track squad, discovered during the past week that his right knee-cap was fractured in the Hamilton or Juniata College gridiron struggles last fall. He used the injured member during the winter months, but knew nothing of the fracture until an X-ray was taken, which showed that the injury had completely healed.

John C. Oberdorf, Jr., was recently discharged from the Joseph L. Potter Hospital at Middleburg, where he had been a patient for several months, suffering from a spine injury incurred while participating in a track meet at Susquehanna University. He is a member of the Sophomore Class and the Bond and Key Club.

University Orchestra To Present Concert

Addition of Tympany and Kettle Drums of Great Value. Prof. Hemphill Has Set Date for April 11

An unusual opportunity will be afforded members of the faculty and students to hear the annual concert of the Susquehanna University Orchestra. The concert is to be given Monday, April 11, at 8:15 p. m. in Seibert Chapel. This is one of the most important events of the school year, and according to reports it will be the best performance that has been given by this organization in years.

Professor Hemphill, the director of the orchestra, has been working very diligently to make this concert a success. He has made up a program that will be of interest, as well as of an educational value to everyone. The members of the orchestra have given much toward cooperation with Professor Hemphill by attending rehearsals regularly, by putting their hearts and souls in their work, and by closely following his conducting. They, too, are very much interested in making this event the biggest of the school year.

Much new material has been acquired as to music, musical instruments, and performers. Our students have been showing an increased interest in the work of the orchestra, and we not only have upperclassmen but also many Freshmen who have given their services. It may interest us to know that in the line of musical instruments, the Orchestra has been able to acquire tympani or kettle-drums. These will be used in the concert. We sincerely hope that the faculty and students will take advantage of this opportunity given them.

Graduation Speakers For June Selected

Commencement speakers for our annual graduation exercises have been announced. President Smith has obtained these men for the exercises: Dr. Boyd Edwards, headmaster of the Mercersburg Academy and Professor Herman H. Horne, of New York University.

The baccalaureate address will be preached on June 5, by Dr. Edwards in Trinity Church. The graduation address will be delivered on Monday morning, June 6, in Seibert Hall Chapel by Professor Horne.

The sermon to the graduates of the Theological Department will be given on Sunday evening by Reverend Clarence E. Krumboltz, of the Pittsburgh Inner Mission Society.

"SUSQUEHANNA NIGHT" HEILD AT NORTHERBERLAND "Susquehanna Night" was observed at the St. John's Lutheran Church at Northernberland, last Sunday evening. Dr. George F. Dunkelberger, dean of the university, spoke on "Christian Education."

The program of music was under the direction of Professor E. E. Sheldon, head of the Conservatory of Music, with Professor P. M. Linbaugh presiding at the organ. Mrs. Bertha Langford Rodgers, instructor in voice, sang a contralto solo and Professor W. Donald Hemphill played a violin solo.

Majority of Answers to Questionnaires Reveals Students Read in Spare Time

DUNKELBERGER, FOLLMER MOST POPULAR PROFS.

It is the pleasure of the staff to present the results of the Questionnaire placed in the paper recently for your consideration. Approximately seventy-five questionnaires were returned to the staff fully answered. This idea was successful from the standpoint that it was comprehensive of student wishes and desires.

News-papers

Many varied answers were received in which daily papers from all over the State of Pennsylvania were mentioned as favorites. Sixty-six students claimed they read daily newspapers while only seven never read the journals. The New York Times won over the Philadelphia Public Ledger by a matter of two votes, the New York paper having twenty-three votes while the Ledger had twenty-one student preferences. Results of this kind are

ROBERT L. MCGEEHAN

McGeehan is Elected Varsity Cage Leader

West Hazleton Star Received Unanimous Vote. Has Played Guard on Quintet for Three Seasons

With a unanimous vote on the part of the lettermen Robert McGeehan was elected as captain of the basketball team for the season of 1932-33.

This season completed McGeehan's third year as a regular on the Susquehanna varsity quintet. He entered the opening game of his Freshman as a guard and has held this post ever since. He has been especially effective in holding down the high scorers of opposing teams and on account of this was used mainly for this purpose his first two years. However, this season he took on the additional burden of being one of the highest scorers on the team.

McGeehan played his first basketball as member of the West Hazleton High School. Here he jumped center for four years and also acted in the role of a captain. He has the unique record of having never played in a junior varsity game in high school or at college. He is a member of the Phi Mu Delta fraternity.

O. D. S. Pledges Give Dance For Actives

On Saturday evening the pledges of Omega Delta Sigma entertained their active members in the Social Room of Seibert Hall.

The active members of the sorority were taken to the social room, where they danced for awhile, then their escorts were brought in and presented to their respected partners. There were some novelty dances, such as spang dance, a shoe dance, "Paul Jones," and a Tag dance.

The room was very beautifully decorated in pink and white. The girls had little dance programs in the shape of pink blossoms. About 10:00 some very delicious refreshments were served in the girls' gymnasium. The gym was also decorated quite effectively in pink and white.

The party ended at 10:30 with many sighs of regret that the evening seemed so short. The affair was immensely successful and everyone thought it a pleasant and beautiful surprise.

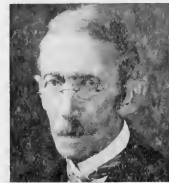

Committee Completes Work on Revisions For Constitution of the College Weekly

Articles Six, Seven, Eight, and Nine Undergo Complete Revision. Salaries of Editor-in-Chief and Business Manager Changed. Staff Members to Get Credit for Work

ELECTORAL COMMITTEE IS THE RULING BODY

The work of the committee on revisions for the Susquehanna Publishing Association has been completed and is being presented to the student body for consideration. The committee has been composed of the following members who have tried to form a constitution which will meet a growing stride in the field of journalism: Luke Rhoads, president of the Publishing Association; Andrew Kosak, Editor-in-Chief of the weekly; Dr. A. H. Wilson, faculty advisor of the editorial staff; Dr. Charles Leese, advisor to the business staff; Lee Fairchild, business manager, and Laird Gemberling, News Editor of the weekly.

Myrtle Messner Weds Pittsburgh Dentist

Bride a Local Student and Member of O. D. S. Sorority. Groom Dr. J. A. Davis Related to Senator Davis

Miss Myrtle Messner, Susquehanna University student, became the bride of Dr. James A. Davis, of Pittsburgh, in the Presbyterian Church in Lewistown, Saturday, March 12, according to announcements by the bride's parents last week.

The wedding took place while Dr. Davis and his bride were week-end guests at the Presbyterian manse, the pastor's family being close friends of Dr. Davis. The young couple had been engaged for a year, but had not set a date for the wedding.

Mrs. Davis is the attractive and accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac M. Messner, of Sunbury. She is a graduate of the Sunbury High School and was a member of the Sophomore Class and the Omega Delta Sigma Sorority at Susquehanna.

The bridegroom was a classmate of Dr. Leon M. Messner, brother of the bride, while attending the School of Dentistry at the University of Pittsburgh. During his university career he played on the varsity basketball team. His family is closely related to United States Senator James J. Davis. Dr. and Mrs. Davis are on their honeymoon to New York and Canada and upon their return will reside in Pittsburgh, where Dr. Davis is engaged in his profession.

diversification of human interests. Twenty-four students agreed that the thing they liked the best and fraternities rated second with eleven votes. Foods and the like served in Horton Dining Hall, such as "apples and bacon" and "fish on Friday," also received recognition. One lone vote arrived for "The Susquehanna," but as a damper to our joy we discovered that the Editor looked at us guiltily as if he were admitting the crime.

Dislikes were just as varied as the likes, ranging anywhere from pancakes to the "stew" served in the dining hall at various times. Dishonesty and "steady dating" also received the condemnation of some students. Rules for the student body and for the regulation of girls' activities were stren-

Articles six, seven, eight, and nine have undergone complete revision and reorganization and should be examined by the readers. The constitution must lie on the table for a period of one week before it can be voted on. The election will take place either next Wednesday or Thursday, April 13 or 14.

School Adopts Single Degree Curriculum

Eliminate B. S. Degree from Science Courses. Many Valuable Changes to be Found in New Catalogue

Susquehanna University has adopted the single curriculum leading to the A.B. degree for the department of liberal arts and science. The candidate for graduation is required to complete sixty-two semester hours of regularly prescribed work together with one major of 24 semester hours and two minors in allied fields of 18 hours each. The remaining semester hours to make a total of 132 semester hours will be in the nature of free electives. In addition to the two years of work in the same foreign language required for admission to this curriculum, the student is required a minimum of at least two more years of one Foreign Language in college for graduation. The B.S. degree is restricted to the technical curricula of Business Administration and Commercial Education, while the Bachelor of Music degree is granted to those successfully completing four years of work in Music.

The candidate for the A.B. degree is privileged to major in a classical language, English, Economics & Sociology, History & Political Science, Philosophy, Education, Biology, Chemistry, Mathematics, and Physics. The required courses in Bible have been transferred to the Freshman year. Since Freshman Orientation Week is observed at Susquehanna at the beginning of the school year the usual course in Freshman orientation for the first semester has been replaced by Personal Hygiene and continued for one period per week throughout the year. All Freshmen are required to take the newly incorporated course in the History of Civilization of six semester hours for the entire year. General Psychology is made a four semester hour course running throughout the year and is required of all candidates for the A.B. degree. The normal schedule for a student for the four years will be 16, 17, 17, and 16 hours per week.

The honors system has been placed on the quality point basis covering the student's work for 3 1/2 years or up to the end of the first semester of the senior year. These seniors averaging from 2.75 to 3.00 quality points per semester hour will be awarded Summa Cum Laude; those averaging 2.50 to 2.74 quality points per semester hour will be awarded Magna Cum Laude; and those averaging 2.25 to 2.49 quality points per semester hour will be awarded Cum Laude.

In the Commercial Education curriculum certain changes were found necessary to be made in line with the recommendations and suggestions of the State Department. All commercial students are now required to complete two years of college English in addition to a course of at least one semester in Business English. Slight changes were also made in the requirements in Bookkeeping, Typing, and Shorthand.

THE NEW CONSTITUTION

Revisions, amendments, referendums, all are necessary procedures in the workings of various organizations. When methods of procedure become a hindrance to effective production, they must be destroyed and replaced by ones or changed in some manner to meet new conditions.

The constitution of the Susquehanna Publishing Association has been for a good many years an anchor, keeping progress at a standstill and in many ways making the ultimate aim of the weekly publication—to produce a piece of journalism of high degree—one entirely impossible of accomplishment. Attempts have been made at revision and even carried out partly but they have never been of such a character as to eliminate the difficulties which most generally creep into an organization whose working fundamentals have not stimulated progress.

Last year brought on attempt to amend the constitution. Some of the amendments passed but many were defeated and perhaps rightly so. Their purpose was good but they contained loop-holes which in time would present new problems and difficulties. The entire piece of work showed a hurried attempt to create something which needed time and thorough investigation.

The work of revision and reorganization of the constitution has been in progress since the present staff entered into office last May. It has involved the writing of many letters to editors for opinions and suggestions and the holding of meetings with staff advisors and members associated with the newspaper work. They have finally organized a constitution which they feel will meet all requirements and eliminate the difficulties which have appeared from year to year.

The most important change—the one that will work for the greatest good—is the organization of an Electoral Committee. This Committee which will be the governing body, will have a definite task to accomplish. It will be composed of members who are interested in the work, both editorial and business, and who are in constant touch with the weekly output of the various staff members. Its work shall be made more effective by the reports which it shall receive from the Editor-in-Chief and Business Manager, and which will be presented according to some definite standard.

Salaries have been revised. The Editor-in-Chief will no longer receive ten percent of the profits. The Business Manager will receive a salary of ten dollars ($10.00) and ten per cent of the profits as compared to no salary and twenty percent according to the old stipulations. The revision committee felt that a small salary would be better than a system of remuneration which from year to year gave the Business Manager no remuneration since there were never profits but deficits.

The administration has agreed to give to the members of the editorial staff after one year of service one credit per semester for their work as outlined by the Editor-in-Chief and the Faculty Advisor.

The officers of the Susquehanna Association should have definite duties to do. Heretofore they were only figure-heads. According to the revisions the president is the chairman of the Electoral Committee. The secretary will be required to keep the minutes of all the minutes of the Electoral Committee as well as the Association.

We are hoping that this attempt to form a constitution which will meet a growing stride in journalistic accomplishment will be seriously considered by the student body, who are the largest part of the Publishing Association. We are therefore asking that every student spare a few minutes of his time to read these revisions and give his support to a successful referendum.

WHITE SHOE SEASON IS BEGUN ON ALL FOOLS DAY

The White Shoe season opened officially April first when Miss Betty Wardrop wore the first pair for 1932. Miss Wardrop has inaugurated the season for the past four years and many residents of Seibert Hall have been awaiting the signal to hunt up last year's summer shoes.

Within a few days many girls will be wearing their snow white foot gear and the vendors of white shoe polish will be happy for these shoes must be cleaned.

Sniffle . . . Sniffle . . . Sprig lid here aged . . . This is the glorious time of the year when we don't care what else happens as long as the weather doesn't change . . . (There ought to be a nice snowstorm in full blast about the time this reaches the press) . . .

"Breathes there the man with soul to dead Who spends such blissful hours in bed?"

Nay . . . Instead, forsooth, we hear the joyful sound of the bat meeting ball, and the equally thrilling detonation of ball penetrating window . . . First horrors in this field of reception have already gone to Willie Swamp. This industrious young man was deeply absorbed in the psychogenic observations of Uncle Remus and his buddies when a sudden intrusion of the horsehide sphere and shattered No. 6, Cas. 65(C), (glass, to you) forced him to seek shelter under the table and indulge in muttered imprecations.

Of course, you have noticed the big merger of the gab columns . . . We have decided that the two columns have served their purpose. Critics (?) used to say they didn't know how one column could be as bad as SU PEPYS . . . We hope that they are now convinced just how infinitely worse two can be . . . Of course the combined efforts may produce a still more agonizing result . . . However, this method leaves more space for Seibert Echoes to come across with more of the scoots which she so often must keep from her public.

With an Introduction by the Hon. Josef Malmoskvitch, D.Z.Z., I.Q.

This native account of a colorful career strikes a new chord on the sportsman's ukelele. With simplicity as guileless as a newborn guinea pig, yet as poignant and touching as a broken flask of "Golden Wedding", Mr. Bennards unfolds his thrilling narrative, concealing nothing (except the number of times he has thrust his schnozzle in his opponent's glove). Actual typewrites, taken during Mr. Bennards' various encounters, render this thriller more authentic.

The intrinsic value of this little volume is further enhanced by Mr. Malmoskvitch's introduction. "Oowah! (enthusms Mr. Bennards' admirer) The best thing I've read since "Decameron Tales" and "Custor's Last Stand". Mr. Malmoskvitch has had several contracts with Francis in the past. FACULTY ROW

Dr. A. William Ahl preached and administered communion on Easter Sunday at the Trinity Lutheran Church, Milton, Pennsylvania. Reverend Reimonsnyder, the regular minister of the congregation had been ill several weeks and was unable to be present on Sunday for this official work.

Dr. Ahl also made a short business trip to Philadelphia over the Easter vacation.

Dr. G. Morris Smith, president of Susquehanna University, delivered the sermons at the morning and evening services, last Sunday, in connection with the dedication of a new church school building at Trinity Evangelical Lutheran church in Hazleton. Rev. Dr. John D. Wagner pastor emeritus of the church and president of the Susquehanna Synod of Central Pennsylvania, delivered the dedicational sermon.

Dr. George F. Dunkelberger, dean of Susquehanna University, appeared with Doctor David Snedden, world-famed sociologist and educator, at the Round Table conducted by New York University in New York City on March 18th.

"Sociology's Contribution to Method" was Dean Dunkelberger's subject while Dr. David Snedden, professor of education at Teachers' College Columbia University, spoke on "Plans for Balancing and Integrating Our Rich."

Seibert Hall Echoes

We noticed that a great many girls went to church Sunday. Perhaps it was because of their new Easter outfits.

It is an ill wind that doesn't blow a fraternity pin to Seibert Hall. This last one means something.

Evidently the Freshmen don't care for the co-eds. They are young and can scarcely be qualified to pass judgment yet. Wonder if they ever thought that the feeling might be mutual.

Do you think Ahl? Has heard the call? With the coming of spring business is picking up.

POET'S CORNER

Alone I seem to walk along
The lonely path we all have trod
None know the thoughts which surge
In me

Of fellow men, of life, of God.
Only myself. And I would keep
My little secrets hidden deep.

Always alone. Friends may about Days may be filled with countless things

Ever I choose to hoard my store
Of loves, of joys, of fairy wings.
Only myself. And I would keep
My little secrets hidden deep.

Once when the spring was beautiful
I told a lovely thought, and then
Torn and denuded of its charm
I never found my thought again.

Only myself. And I would keep
My little secrets hidden deep.

I wish that I could always be
As calm as is monotony.
I wish that I could ne'er express
Emotion, anywhere than death.

I wish that every falling deep
Would stay well hidden as though asleep.

Then I could love and hate, and still Control my being at my will.

Prof. and Mrs. Gilbert Are Proud Parents of Beautiful Baby Girl

The very newest addition to the personnel of the campus is a baby girl, that arrived at the home of Professor and Mrs. Russell Gilbert March 18.

This petite maiden, who has been named Joyce, has captured the hearts of all who have visited her. Being an exceptionally good child she never bores her visitors with tears or fits of temper. She has a cheerful smile for everyone. Some have hinted that she might possibly become a professor of German, but it is more likely that she will star on the stage.

Mrs. Gilbert is doing nicely and is able to receive visitors. Needless to say both parents are very proud and happy.

O. D. S. GIRLS ENTERTAINED BY MRS. R. W. TUCKER

Mrs. Robert Whitney Tucker entertained the active and pledged members of Omega Delta Sigma Sorority with bridge and supper at her home the afternoon of March seventeenth and nineteenth.

Thursday, March seventeenth twelve girls were entertained with a St. Patrick's bridge. Miss Olive Forney was high scorer and after cards and the food was most dainty and tasty.

Mrs. Tucker is one of the charming hostesses who make the social affairs of the sorority so delightful.

With Use

"I don't like these shoes," said a woman customer. "The soles are too thick."

"Is that the only objection?" asked the shopkeeper.

"Yes."

"Then madam, if you take the shoes, I can assure you that that objection will gradually wear away."

Diamond Activities Begin This Week

Strengthened Hurling Staff to Be Great Aid to "Little Crusaders." April 16 Season Opens with E-town

Practice in baseball will start in earnest this week in preparation for the first game of the season, which is only a week and a half off. If weather conditions permit it practices will be started on the regular playing diamond immediately.

Up to the present time Coach Ullery has had his pitchers working out regularly in the gymnasium. The pitching staff this season is one of the brightest features of the team. With Danks and Brinninger Coach Ullery will have an experienced left hand and right hand pitcher, both of whom have shown plenty of ability before. Myers, Malmon and Edwards, all of whom were members of the staff last season, should show strength this spring.

As far as the rest of the team is concerned two positions in the infield are not certain, while there is still an opening in one of the outfield posts.

The nine will start its season April 16, here, with Elizabethtown. The complete schedule of the season is as follows:

April 16—Elizabethtown, home.

April 20—Penn State, away.

April 23—Delaware, home.

April 29—P. M. C., away.

April 30—Delaware, away.

May 3—Juniata, home.

May 7—Bucknell, away.

May 14—Elizabethtown, away.

May 17—Lebanon Valley, away.

May 21—Bucknell, home.

May 28—Lebanon Valley, home.

May 30—Juniata, away.

APPOINTMENTS TO SPORTS STAFFS ARE COMPLETED

With the opening of the spring sports program close at hand, the appointments to the track and baseball managerial staffs have been completed.

James Brubaker, of Millersburg, will serve as student manager for the 1932 track team with Penn Dively, of Berlin; Albin Zimlick, and Martin Grayko, both of Shamokin, his sub-assistants.

Merle Hubbard, of Amherst, Mass., is student manager of baseball. James Bonnell, of Grapahan; James Suter, of Williamsburg, and Lewis Swartz, of Millersburg, will serve as sub-assistant managers for the diamond sport.

Annual Sports Fete Very Successful

The fourth annual sports banquet, which took place in the Horton Dining Hall on Friday evening, March 18, was featured by the issuing of awards to men, women and classes for various sports activities engaged in during the past year. Awards were also made to members of the first athletic teams who ever represented Susquehanna.

Dr. E. LeRoy Mercer, of the University of Pennsylvania, was the main speaker of the evening. Others on the program who spoke were Charles Herman, Dr. Frank Woodley, Rev. M. Hadwin Fischer, Dr. J. A. Auchmuty, and William Rohrbach representing the first baseball, football, track, basketball and tennis teams. Awards were made by Dr. G. Morris Smith, Miss Dorothy Reeder, Coach William Ulery, Prof. L. D. Grossman, Lucille Lehman, Jack Auchmuty, Dr. John I. Woodruff acted as toastmaster.

PROFESSORS' DAUGHTERS FORM "SUB-DEB" CLUB

A new club has been formed on the campus. The daughters of professors have formed a society to be known as the "Sub-deb Club". This new organization will probably function much like the Campus Club, of which their mothers are members. It is interesting to know that the spirit of Susquehanna Cooperation is spreading.

The meeting for organization was held Wednesday March thirtieth at which time Miss Betty Smith daughter of Dr. and Mrs. G. Morris Smith was chosen to be the first president. The meeting will be held every Wednesday at the home of one of the members.

We don't know just what the aim and purposes of the "Sub-deb Club" are but it seems likely that we will be very proud of these young ladies.

Sports Writer Picks All-Campus Squad

In the past the sports department of The Susquehanna has always printed on all-campus basketball team at the end of the inter class league. We are again presenting the same feature this season and also adding a second team for those who were strongest contenders for our first team. If you do not like these line-ups the sports department will welcome and print any combination which you think are the strongest.

Our first team is:

SORORITY NOTES

Kappa Delta Phi Entertains on St. Patrick's Day

Kappa Delta Phi sorority was hostess to representatives from Sigma Alpha Iota, Omega Delta Sigma, and Sigma Sigma Delta sororities on St. Patrick's Day afternoon at three o'clock.

Bridge was played after which tea was served. Decorations and refreshments were representative of the day.

First prize was won by Margaret Markle, second by Anne Dunkleberger, and the prize for low score went to Virginia Andrews.

The guests consisted of the following: Miss Isabelle Strother, Miss Alice Bickerstaff, Miss Thelma Armogost, Margaret Markle, Anne Dunkleberger, Virginia Andrews, Mary Esther Potter, Margaret Fink, and Grace Minnig.

"The Homestead" Scene of Kappa Delta Luncheon

Kappa Delta Phi pledges were the proud hostesses to the active members at a luncheon at the Homestead Tea Room in Sunbury, on last Saturday afternoon at two o'clock.

The table was attractively decorated with daffodiles in accordance with the Spring season. Those present were Marie Miller, Mary Weaverling, Harriet Leese, Lucille Lehman, Diana Lidas, Mabel Pultz, Annagrace Moody, Dorothy Hunter, Esther Geisel, Ruth Nelson, Ludlow Nichols, Margaret Hausman, Mildred Armstrong, and pledges Francis Hubler, Eleanor Brown, E. Millie Hines, Dorothy Clegg, Kathryn Stettler, and Alfara Starnets.

Misses Beatrice De Wire and Ida Sweitzer returned for the Pledge Dance at Phi Mu Delta.

PHI KAPPA ELECTS GROUP OFFICERS FOR COMING YEAR

Phi Kappa, the honorary Phil-hellenic club on our campus, held their regular monthly meeting in Room 205 in G. A. Hall on Friday evening at 6:45. At this time the following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Marlin Botteiger; vice president, James Suter; secretary, Robert Clark; treasurer, William Swarm; Messenger, Elmer Drumm.

Following the business meeting James Shirley held a discussion on "Greek Sophists," and William Royer delivered a report on "The Age of the Cynics." Both of these topics have a great deal to do with the present relation of philosophy and for that reason they were timely discussion problems.

ARTIST PICKS BEAUTIES

Asked to select the six prettiest girls of the Junior class at Syracuse University, artist James Montgomery Flag wrote: "Sure I'll pick out the prettiest girls—any—ar—er if six. All sorts of colleges every year do this to me, salt water, fresh water, and bilge-water colleges and I have had to gaze on some of the most awful female mugs in this broad tho' narrow land! I know now why there are so many pretty girls in New York—all the ugly ones are in colleges."

AMUSEMENTS

"Broken Lullaby" featuring Lionel Barrymore and Nance Carroll will be the new attraction at the Stanley Theater this week on Thursday night.

Tonight Sally Eilers will take the leading part in "Disorderly Conduct". "Two Kinds of Women" will be the picture for Wednesday evening, while "Charlie's Chan's Chance" will entertain the theater attendant on Friday night.

DEAN'S CORNER

are high-grade institutions and would not have adopted the single degree curriculum without some very special reasons for doing so. It must likewise be admitted both historically and popularly that the A.B. degree is regarded by many people as carrying more prestige. It must also be admitted that two degrees are unnecessary for the distinction between the pure arts and the sciences, originating with the introduction of the sciences into the curriculum, is no longer recognized in liberal and progressive colleges.

The single curriculum will likewise allow a greater degree of freedom in putting a program of studies that will fit the individual needs of the students. The student can now major and minor in given fields without any special handicaps as to the degree requirements of separate curricula. With the elimination of these restrictions, he can more readily concentrate on his major and allied fields and at the same time be allowed greater freedom of choice in the matter of free electives. While greater freedom of specialization afforded the student, still he will be guarded against being entirely innocent of academic contacts with the other fields of a well-rounded education. The single curriculum is also more easily administered both from the student and the administration point of view. With several curricula a transfer by a student from one to the other could often not easily be made without a gross loss of time and credit. With the single curriculum, whatever shifting need be done will apply only between courses, majors, minors, and electives and not between two more or less separate and distinct curricula.

The modern college graduate is being looked upon as having completed his requirements for the baccalaureate degree. The employer of the college graduate is satisfied with the knowledge of this fact. Just what baccalaureate degree is being held is of little or no consequence to him. What is of essential importance is the fact that the applicant for the position is a graduate, the holder of a baccalaureate degree, and that he did most of his work in a designated major field and in two allied minor fields. Why then continue practices that very evidently have outlived their usefulness?

Rhoads Gains Inter- Class Scoring Title

Although the Theologs did not win the inter-class basketball tournament, they came through with flying colors in the second half. Rhoads was high scorer of the second half with 63 points in four games. Schmidt was second with 40 points in four games. Bodinsky, of the Sophomore class, was third with 31 points in three games.

The Theologs also led in team scoring with 151 points against 115 gathered by the Juniors. The Sophomores were third with 86 points and the Juniors were fourth with 75 points.

Listed below are the ten leading scorers for the second half:

Rhoads (Th)	63
Schmidt (Th)	40
Bodinsky (S)	31
Adams (Sr)	29
Carolan (Jr)	28
Speer (Sr)	27
Spigelmyer (Sr)	25
Worthington (Jr)	24
Schilling (Th)	23
Hohman (Sr)	19

MAJORITY OF ANSWERS TO QUESTIONNAIRES REVEALS STUDENTS' PREFERENCES

ously opposed by other answers. One answer showed the lethargy of some students because it expressed a hatred for "getting up in the A. M."

Personality and Knowledge

Students were willing to express their opinions on the personality of their professors. The results are: Classroom personality—1, Dr. Folmer; 2, Dr. Williams.

Knowledge of subject—1, Dr. Dunkleberger; 2, Dr. Folmer; 3, Dr. Williams and Dr. Ahl (tie).

These results may be said to be slightly unfair, because all students do not have the privilege of studying under all the faculty members, thus they cannot give a true opinion on this matter.

Leisure Time

We are pleased to announce that thirty-five answers for the spending of leisure time went to reading. Either we have some real students or some real "white" (?) lars. Sleeping and sitting ran a close second and third, the former receiving ten votes and the latter nine. Loading was also a favorite answer to this query.

Miscellaneous

Sixty-eight people favored the continuation of Freshman rules, while only seven negative answers were received. It looks very much as if next year's Freshmen will be required to follow some more stringent regulations.

We hope that "Hughie" Brininger will live up to his newly acquired honor of being the "best waiter in Horton Dining Hall." Rowe and Shade gave the leader a fine race for this signal culinary honor.

Mary Weaverling and Luke Rhoads have become prominent thespians because of this poll. Each one easily led the rest of their contenders by a good margin. Williamson and Ballentine were runners-up in this contest. Look out, friends! The vote has decided that more squirrels should be purchased for the campus. Fifty-two people desire these little animals as true aids to concentrated study, while eighteen timid souls seemed to be frightened by these ferocious beasts.

We have one modest man in the institution who claims he has not benefited intellectually from the university, but this one statement is overshadowed by the seventy-four others who have received educational enlightenment while on the campus.

All but nine of those polled have benefited socially from contacts in college. Perhaps we did not make a mistake in coming to college—think it over.

Soap polls are peculiar things, for one voter exposed himself by claiming that his favorite soap was "Skat," a flea exterminator, but the real contest was won by Lux, with a total of sixteen votes. Woodbury and Lifebuoy came close to the leader. A total of fifteen different brands of soaps was mentioned and the remaining votes were well scattered.

The majority of votes expressed the opinion that a winning football team is necessary to college. We wonder if an improved cheering section would not help in this matter at Susquehanna?

Compulsory chapel is banned by the vote of forty-five of the voters, but the other thirty-six are in favor of it. "The campus yet lacks sufficient civilization to get along without compulsory attendance to affairs of this type."

Dr. Charles Wagner to Speak to Science Society April 19th

"Statistical Curves" Will be Subject of One Time Acting Head of Penn State Math Department

Dr. Charles C. Wagner, for three years acting head of the Department of Mathematics at Pennsylvania State College, will be the speaker at the monthly meeting of the Honor Science Society to be held next Tuesday evening, April 19th.

Dr. Wagner will talk on "Statistical Curves," showing the mathematical representation of various statistical data. He is a graduate of Lebanon Valley College, received his M. A. at Pennsylvania State College, and did his Doctor's work at the University of Michigan. Michigan University has an excellent graduate school which specializes in statistics and Dr. Wagner's address will be instructive and interesting to those attending.

General Election to be Held Wednesday

Members of Publishing Association to Vote on Revisions to Constitution,
Officers and Staff Members

For the second consecutive year the members of the Susquehanna Publishing Association are given an opportunity to adopt or reject proposed revisions to the constitution of that body at the general election which will take place during the chapel period, tomorrow morning.

The officers of the association, the staff members of the reportorial and business departments, with the exception of the editor-in-chief and the business manager, who are to serve for the coming year, will also be elected.

For the positions of managing editor and news editor the candidates are Ruth Bergtresser, Penn. Dively, and Daisy Reese. The advertising manager and the circulation manager will be selected from Edwin Clapper, Nelson King, Daniel McKelvey, and James Suter.

The four or more assistants on the reportorial staff will be elected from a field of nine aspirants, who include Donald Henry, Mervin Iegue, Robert Clark, and Donald Menging, who have served in the capacity of Freshmen reporters and have attended the class of Journalism, during the past semester. The assistants on the business staff will also be chosen from a large group of contestants.

According to the constitution which is in vogue at the present time, the officers of the association must be chosen from the Theological Department. The nominating committee has designated the following theologists as candidates: Paul Ashby and Luke Rhoads for president; Samuel Brosius, Ralph Lohr, and Park Wagenback for vice-president; Irvin Heckman and Herbert Schmidt for secretary. At the election, the members of the association will have the privilege of nominating additional candidates for each office. If the proposed revisions are adopted, in the future all the members of the Senior Class and the members of the Theological Department will be eligible for office.

It is proper that every student consider the proposed revisions and gives his support to the measures in order that "The Susquehanna" might be placed upon a stronger working basis.

Nominations Made For Y. W. C. A.

The election for the officers of the Y. W. C. A. Cabinet will be held Tuesday, April 12, at 12:45, in the Chapel. All those who are or have been members of the organization for at least one semester of this year, are eligible to vote.

The list of officers nominated are as follows:
President—Flora Ellmore,
Vice President—Edith Frankenhof,
Ruth Nelson,
Secretary—Pauline Crow, Isabel Horn, Louise Mehring,
Treasurer—Amelia Krapf, Ruth Bergtresser, Helen Keller.

Coaches Debaters

MISS CLARA CORBIN

Miss Corbin Coaches Successful Debaters

Negative Team Lost Three and Won
Two Contests; Affirmative Lost Only
One Debate in Eight Starts

The debating season is over with the exception of the debate with Saint Thomas, probably on the 25th of April. The affirmative will be away.

Whatever success has been achieved by the debating teams reflects upon Miss Corbin, who as coach has, through her efficient management, built two strong teams to represent the university. This marks Miss Corbin's second year as coach of debating at Susquehanna and the splendid record made in these two years speaks well for her efficiency and capabilities and merits the congratulations of the university.

The negative team had five debates and lost three and won two. The three fellows, Joseph Maimon, William Morrow, and Samuel Brosius make quite a team. They are all around fellows and enjoy a good debate, such as the one with the University of Vermont.

The affirmative team had eight debates and lost one. They traveled through the western part of Pennsylvania, meeting such teams as Thiel, Geneva, and Waynesburg. The team is John Kindsvatter, Edwin Clapper, and Regis Kifer.

I. N. A. Delegation to Meet April 15

Laird Gemberling, editor-in-chief-elect, and Harold Kramer, business manager-elect, have been selected as delegates to represent "The Susquehanna" staff at the I. N. A. Spring Convention, which will be held at Haverford College, on Friday and Saturday, April 15-16. They will leave on Friday for the convention in order to obtain valuable material which will be presented by experienced newspaper men and journalists on that day.

The I. N. A. of the Middle Atlantic States comprises twenty-four colleges and universities which edit collegiate papers. The delegates of the various papers will be entertained by the Haverford students on Friday evening and on Saturday afternoon will attend a track meet between Lehigh and Haverford. The editorial and business boards will meet on Saturday morning at which time the problems of the various staffs will be discussed.

Committee Sets June 4th As Alumni Day

The Alumni Day Committee met on March 7 to formulate plans for Alumni Day, which will be observed on Saturday, the fourth of June.

Class Reunions, the Annual Business meeting and luncheon of the Alumni Association, the President's Reception, the Alumni Banquet and the Alumni Play will constitute the day's program.

Dr. George E. Fisher, chairman of the Alumni Day Committee, announced the appointment of the following Special Committees:

Reunion—
Prof. E. M. Brungart, '09, chairman.
Dr. John I. Woodruff, '08
Franklin G. Stover, '27

Gemberling, Kramer Will Guide Destiny of College Weekly

Campus Correspondent Receives Honor on Local Staff, Business Staff Will be Under Direction of Kramer

On Wednesday evening April 6, the Selective Committee of the Susquehanna Publishing Association elected Laird Gemberling as Editor-in-Chief and Harold Kramer as Business Manager of the weekly for the coming publishing year.

Editor-elect Gemberling succeeds Andrew Kozak in this supervisory position. Laird has been a member of "The Susquehanna" staff for three years and has certainly deserved this position. His journalistic endeavors are not confined to campus publications, however, for he has been a regular correspondent for various metropolitan daily papers. The past year he served in the capacity of News Editor, and being a local boy, his services were valuable, especially in the fields of local and alumni news. Mr. Gemberling is affiliated with the local Epilon Sigma Fraternity.

Harold Kramer will succeed Lee Fairchild as head of the Business Management of our editions. Harold has also served in various positions on the Business Staff during his three years with us, and his systematic work and willingness to aid all parts of the publishing field have earned for him this honor distinction. The last position Harold occupied was the official head of the Circulation Department. Mr. Kramer is a resident of Shamokin, Pennsylvania, and he is also a member of Epilon Sigma.

The remaining members of the staff will be elected at the annual meeting of the Susquehanna Publishing Association Wednesday morning, April 13, during the chapel hour.

S. U. Student Dies From Rescue Effort

Orwig '31 Played Part of Hero When
In Midst of Burning Mass He Tried to Rescue His Buddy

Leroy Orwig, aged about thirty years, a former student at Susquehanna University and a member of Phi Lambda Theta Fraternity, was cut off in the flower of life, passing away Monday afternoon in the Easton Hospital, Easton, after being horribly burned in a truck accident near Wind Gap on February 29.

The terrifying accident, in which Orwig played a most important part as an undaunted hero, as officially reported by members of the State Highway Patrol, who witnessed the accident, happened as Orwig and a buddy, a Mr. Beaver, of Scranton, were returning from Philadelphia, and their truck upset near Wind Gap and then caught fire.

Several members of the State Patrol were following the truck at the time. When it upset and caught fire, police reported they could not get within fifty feet of the burning mass because of the intense heat. Orwig was in the midst of the wreckage trying to extricate his helpless buddy, who was pinned fast.

Mr. Beaver died that night. Orwig was brought to the Easton Hospital, where he lingered until Monday of last week. Orwig's both ears, part of his nose, and the flesh of his hands, were burned away, and his body was horribly burned from his feet to his waist. Had he not tried to save his buddy, Orwig could have escaped safely from the burning truck, according to the patroitmen.

Mr. Beaver, who was driving at the time, either fell asleep or suffered a heart attack. Orwig was sleeping in the cab, since it was Beaver's turn to drive. Both were employed by a Scranton wholesale house and made regular trips to Philadelphia.

Orwig is survived by his young widow, Mrs. Catherine Orwig, nee Scheeburg, who is also known here. The couple had been residing at Old Forge, near Scranton.

Orwig was well known in Selinsgrove and had many friends here. He will be remembered as a very congenial young man. He graduated from Susquehanna University in 1931, receiving a bachelor of arts degree in education.

Orchestra Gives Best Concert in Years

Miss Kathryn, Mrs. Hemphill, William Caruth are Soloists at Annual Concert Last Evening

PROFESSOR HEMPHILL CONDUCTS

A large and appreciative audience heard the annual concert of the Susquehanna University Symphony Orchestra last evening, at Seibert Hall Chapel. Professor Donald Hemphill has built up an organization which this year reached a new height, both in the quality and size. The recent purchase of additional instruments for the percussion section has made possible the presentation of much more effective compositions. Every section of a complete symphony orchestra has been included in this year's personnel.

The soloists were well received by the audience and each one performed with professional ability. Mrs. Margaret Morning Hemphill sang the Aria "Suicidio," by Ponchielli and Miss Kliney and Mr. Caruth played two violin duets, "Berceuse" and "Serenade," by Godard. The overture "Call of Baghdad," by Boieldieu, and the "War March," by Mendelssohn, were outstanding presentations of the entire orchestra.

UNIVERSITY ADDS SIXTY-TWO ACRES TO CAMPUS

By the purchase of eighteen acres of land, the size of the university campus has grown to sixty-two acres. The newly-purchased land is that west of the faculty houses, known in Selinsgrove as the Schoch farm. It includes a young orchard of 120 apple trees of several varieties. It is expected that this land will be of much future use, athletically, agriculturally or for building.

—Turn out and vote at the News election tomorrow.

Late Friday afternoon, April 8, a report from the Dean's Office released the scholastic honor positions of the Class of 1932. Andrew Kozak has been selected as Valedictorian and Lewis Fox received second honors and will be Salutarian. The activity of both of these men on the campus is notable.

Andy, as he is more commonly known, has majored in the field of mathematics and will be honored with a Bachelor of Science degree upon graduation. He is capable of campus life. His position as a letter man in basketball and his experience in varsity football are an index of his ability in sports. In social functions he has not been "without honor in his own country," for Andy has served faithfully and well on many extracurricular committees. With all these varied capabilities his prominent quality lies in a literary field, for during his sophomore year he was Editor-in-Chief of the Student Handbook. Following this he was a member of the "Lantern" staff during his junior term. At the present time Andy is completing his work as Editor-in-Chief of "The Susquehanna" in conclusion of his four years of endeavor in the staff. The next issue of the paper will be the last edition under the Kozak regime, for the work will then be taken over by Editor-elect Gemberling. The staff takes this opportunity of publicly announcing their appreciation of the editor's work. Andy is a Capotolis lead and a member of the Bond and Key Club. He intends to enter the teaching line or perhaps attend some graduate school in mathematics. Both of these occupations would find a willing and hard working man in Andy.

Our Salutarian is from the Liberal Arts department and has stood out as a member of this scholastic group during his entire four years of study. Lewis has majored in cultural subjects and is well known in the literary circles around the campus. He has served in various offices in Phi Kappa, the honorary Greek society, and has also become a member of Pi Gamma Mu, the honorary social science fraternity. During his college career he has looked forward to the seminary as his possible choice of schools after graduation. We are sure that his selection has been wise for his activities in the religious field have been varied. Lewis started his religious work as member of the Freshman Y. M. C. A. Cabinet, and continued so successfully and so persistently that now he is President of the State Student Y. M. C. A. Council. During his junior year he was an Associate Editor of the "Lantern" and in that manner gave the class the benefit of his literary knowledge. Swiswille is at present the home of this boy, and we are sure that this town is honored by having one of their boys make good. Fox is a member of the Mu Alpha Chapter of Phi Mu Delta and considers entering the Theological Department here.

It is our privilege to honor two men as the scholastic leaders of their class and it is noteworthy that each of these men has done the greater part of their work in opposite fields.

Bond and Key Holds Party Saturday Night

Twenty-five couples attended the informal party which was held at the Bond and Key Club Saturday evening. Bridge, hearts, and dancing were participated in throughout the evening. The guests were Dr. George F. Dunkerberger and Dr. and Mrs. Charles Leeger.

STAFF ELECTIONS

Tomorrow morning will witness the Annual Meeting of the Susquehanna Publishing Association at which time votes shall be cast on three phases of the newspaper work—the revised constitution, the candidates for the editorial and business staffs of the Weekly except the Editor and Business Manager who have been elected, and the officers of the Publishing Association.

In a box at the bottom of this column appear the names of the candidates as they will be placed on the ballot sheet. As every subscriber to the Weekly is a member of the Association, which includes alumni and faculty members as well as students, we feel that every one should have time to consider his vote before the ballots are distributed at the meeting. We therefore urge every one to examine the candidate list appearing in this issue and to be on hand for the election tomorrow morning.

THE QUESTION OF FREE SPEECH

For the first time in the history of American education, football players were observed fighting to get into classes. "The strike at Columbia," writes a certain prominent newswriter on one of New York's leading newspapers, "ought to be treasured in the university far above any victory on the river or gridiron. It marked one of the very few occasions in American college life where a group of undergraduates had gumption to behave like reasonable human beings."

Perhaps they behaved like human beings, but whether they behaved like educated human beings is open to argument to the two schools of thought—one which utterly detests the accomplishment of a purpose by mob psychology which is in reality the driving force of striking factions, and the second which believes that a true and worthwhile aim should, if it must, be arrived at by the flinging of banners and the uttering of numerous speeches to audiences which have removed themselves from the routine of their normal daily life.

For a good many years it has been a standing reproach in the face of the average undergraduate that his interests lie in touchdowns and week-end parties. What one "wise-cracking" speaker has said that "juniors and seniors have displayed just about as much concern over economic and political problems as any beauty glorified by Ziegfeld" is a wise-crack pure and simple and one for which the college men will not stand. Examine the column INTERCOLLEGIATE BULLETIN appearing in this issue and convince yourself if you are in doubt.

The Editor of every college newspaper, much more than the student, feels that the college paper ought to be more than a bulletin in which to print the time and place of the next meeting of the Honor Science Society. The daily newspaper of Columbia, THE SPECTATOR, under Reed Harris was lived by its challenge to tradition in campus life and beyond. Some feel that the issue of free speech has been distinctly raised by the editor's expulsion. Whether all of the conditions as portrayed in THE SPECTATOR editorial columns were true, we can not say except for one—the football situation. Perhaps many feel as one of the undergraduates of the anti-Harris group, "If Reed Harris really wanted to rid Columbia of this cancer, why did he not work up an honest disgust against the situation among the student body instead of rushing into print with the ugly facts like a small boy who loves to repeat dirty words he has heard in the street?"

Many an editor of a small college paper is so often criticised because he does not print some of the facts existing about the institution of which his publication is supposed to be the vocal organ of the student body. "Not living up to the duty of his position," and other remarks reward an editor who thinks before he writes. No sane minded editor believes "My University right or wrong, but My University". Certainly every student owes a certain amount of allegiance to his school, even if it is to condone certain practices, for no institution will ever progress whose undergraduates continually harp about its shortcomings.

It is therefore because many times the editor feels that more harm than good will result for his school that he refrains from publishing certain things.

The question of Harris' expulsion from Columbia may be an issue of 'free speech'. If reports are correct he was not given a fair trial. At no time was he asked to resign from his position. His critical mind continued to produce more editorials because they caused a sensation, even though they were true, until the authorities felt that free speech—the publishing of annoying, provocative, and discourteous material was reason for expulsion from the university.

Actually it can not be a case of 'free speech' because 'free speech' literally exists no more than 'free living'. If Harris' statements were correct it is the administration's fault for permitting him to continue at his position. Perhaps Harris will return to school despite his sensational career as editor of THE SPECTATOR which caused his eviction by the dean as well as the demand for his reinstatement by the students.

The Nertz brothers passed most of the time in the campus court last week taking notes on the notorious "Case of The Missing Shoe", which they herewith present.

Principles in the case were:
 Judge Kowalchik
 John Schiavo, plaintiff
 Joseph Maimon, defendant, representing the inmates of Hassinger Hall.
 Laird Gemberling, attorney for the prosecution.
 Mervin Logue, attorney for the defense.
 Mike Rachunis, witness.
 Night watchman, witness.
 Albert Meyer, court crier.
 D. T. McKelvey, policeman.

Scene: The courtroom.
 (The Nertz brothers slip into their seats, equipped with notebooks and hip flasks, just as the crier rises.)
 Court crier: Hear ye! Hear ye! (Spectators recoil from the blast; all court attendants have ear muffs. Crier finishes oration.)

Judge Kowalchik: We have here the case of John A. Schiavo versus the inmates of Hassinger Hall. Mr. Schiavo, the plaintiff, wishes to sue for damages incurred by the loss of one shoe (the left one), loss of reputation, damages for one sock (also the left one), and foot balm. Mr. Gemberling, state the plaintiff's case.

Attorney Gemberling: May I please your Honor . . .
 Judge Kowalchik: It doesn't. That's irrelevant.

Mr. Gemberling: Harrumph! Well, anyway, my client was in the radio room of Hassinger Hall on the night of April 7, and somebody swiped his shoe. Aside from the loss of this valuable piece of foot-gear, think of the humiliation resulting from such circumstances . . .

Mr. Schiavo: Yes, think of the ignominiousness to which . . .
 Judge Kowalchik: Now, John. According to parliamentary procedure, according to parliamentary procedure.

Attorney Logue: Burp! I object to such familiarity before your Honor and Mr. Skeenav. Furthermore we are not in parliament.

Judge Kowalchik: Have a care, Mr. Logue. I shall have you held in contempt of court . . . Please to continue.—Mr. Gemberling.

Attorney Gemberling: May I call Mr. Michael Rachunis as witness for the prosecution?

Attorney Logue: I object, your Honor! He's my witness!

Attorney Gemberling: He's not either! He's mine! Both attorneys stand in a belligerent attitude with inkwells poised, while the judge pounds for order.)

Judge Kowalchik: Tsk, tsk! Gracious, gentlemen . . . Now then, Mr. Rachunis, just whose witness are you?

Mr. Rachunis: Well, yo' Honor, with all due respect 'foam Mr. Logue, I done got de highest offer from Mr. Gemberling.

Judge Kowalchik: Very well, then, Mr. Rachunis, you are Mr. Gemberling's witness, of course. (Attorney Gemberling leaps triumphantly as Rachunis takes the stand.)

Mr. Gemberling: Now then, Mr. Rachunis, please tell the jury just what you saw in the Hassinger Radio Room on the night of April 7.

Mr. Rachunis: Nothing, suh. The lights were out when everything happened.

Attorney Gemberling: What! (He swoons. Court is adjourned for one hour . . . The Nertz brothers fall asleep . . . When they awaken, Mr. Maimon is on the stand for the defense.)

Mr. Maimon: . . . ennyhoo, in conclusion, I stoutly maintain that the integrity of the men of Hassinger renders them incapable of perpetrating such an atrocity (He bows, as the other principals and spectators also awaken. Mr. Gemberling is waiving cross-examination as the Nertzes slip out for a lemon phosphate at the nearest speakasy . . . The Night Watchman is on the stand when they stagger in.)

Mr. Logue: How do you account for the lights going out in Hassinger Hall on the night of April 7?

Night watchman: I dunno. I suppose somebody must have . . . Ouch! (All lights in the courtroom are suddenly extinguished. A hollow, but distinct "thump" is heard . . . Cries, confusion, and pounding of the gavel . . . Finally Officer McKelvey locates the switch, and the lights reveal the night watchman ruefully rubbing his head.)

Mr. Schiavo: My Shoe! (He rushes to the stand and joyfully exhibits a long, black nubbin (He while attendants rush about, attempting to find the culprit who hurled the missile.)

Voice from spectators: I've lost my hat!

Judge Kowalchik: That's nothing! Hundreds of men have lost their suits in this room. Case dismissed!

INTERCOLLEGIATE BULLETIN

In an effort to prove that the American college student is not interested primarily in football and week-end parties, but is capable of serious thinking and acting, the following extracts from college papers representing the entire country, have been collected.

The topic most debated this year by all the colleges is "Resolved: That Capitalism as a System of Economic Organization is Unsound in Principle." Questions on Unemployment Insurance, Government Control of Industries and National Planning take the second place.

The American college student is keenly interested in the political and economic problems of the day. Over the country are spreading Social Problem Clubs, Liberal Clubs, Socialist Clubs, John Dewey Clubs, but all with one purpose: to study our economic situation.

Ralph Long, captain of Bates college football team, lectures in a public park on "What is Socialism?"

Syracuse University Liberal Club publishes a paper called "Challenge."

Smith College has a "Why Club," which collects money for striking miners . . . Vassar College collected toys and distributed them to striking West Virginia miners . . . Two hundred students from Columbia, Hunter, Princeton, Howard and Yale wanted to visit the Kentucky strike area to study conditions, but they were driven out by the State police.

The L. I. D. alone sponsors 150 chapters. And L. I. D. stands for "The League of Industrial Democracy."

"Problems of Depression" is a new course at Boston University that's popular with students.

The college student is fighting against war and militarism. A nationwide straw vote conducted by the Intercollegiate Disarmament Council reveals that 92% of 24,345 students favor disarmament, and 81% of this number are opposed to military drills.

At Ohio State U "The Lantern" is fighting against the American Legion, who found a new excuse for military training by declaring that it teaches self-protection. "The Lantern" declared that war training should be substituted by peace training.

The Spectator, fighting newspaper of Columbia, recently aggravated the War Department for its pacifistic teachings. In the editorial battles that followed, "The Spectator" had the enlightened opinion on its side. Even the Daily Mirror commented that in its own style: "To be able to tell our admirals and generals that they are slightly cuckoo demonstrates splendid independence. Our college men know that military men are interested in their jobs and their patriotism is a fifty-fifty per cent of economic interest and self hypnosis."

Do you remember the results of the poll taken at Susquehanna University with regard to the stand of students in the Chino-Japanese war?

The University of Michigan Socialist Club runs a cooperative book shop, prints a monthly magazine and has opened a cooperative restaurant where students eat three wholesome meals a day for $4.00.

If you want to hear a real discussion of the economic affairs of the nation visit one of Dr. Folmer's classes and see if the students think . . .

Williamsport Doctor Will Speak to 'Y. W.'

On Thursday evening of this week, April 14, at 9:30 o'clock, the Y. W. C. A. will have as their speaker, Miss Barbara Elizabeth DeRemer, M.D. Dr. DeRemer is a member of the class of '27. She entered Susquehanna in the Junior year, being a graduate of State Normal School at East Stroudsburg. She also attended the Biblical Seminary at New York and the Williamsport State Nurses' Training Hospital, from which she was called to be a nurse in the Kugler Hospital in Guntur, India. She returned from India after several years service to prepare for a medical training and after the completion of her college course here, entered the Woman's Medical College in Philadelphia, from which she was graduated last June. Since that time she has been serving her Internship in the Williamsport Hospital, the first time a woman has been given that position there. In the fall she hopes to return to her beloved India, having received a call to work in that field by the Women's Missionary Society of the United Lutheran Church. Dr. DeRemer has a winning personality and while at Susquehanna was a leader among the women students, serving as President of the Y. W. C. A. and also of the first Women's Cooperative Council for student government. In the organization of this movement she was the leading spirit. The occasion of her visit to the campus on Thursday night ought to bring a large attendance of the women students and others interested in the welfare of the college today.

Inter-Class Run to be Staged Thursday

The annual inter-class relay will take place this Thursday afternoon. This event always creates quite a bit of interest not only because of the class competitive spirit with it but also because it is one of the strongest tests to decide who will represent Susquehanna on the team that will be sent to the Penn Relays May 30.

Last year the class of '33 won the class relays in the time of three minutes and 34 seconds. Petry, Carolan, Swann and Meyers made up the team. At that time the class of '31 finished second, the class of '32 third and the class of '34 fourth.

"Our Five and Ten" (Maye Fifteen)

By WOULD B. HISTORIAN

April 5, 1927

"Co-eds Laid Dean of Women. Miss Naomi K. Hade has almost completed her first year as Dean of Women. The girls in Seibert Hall take this opportunity of expressing their appreciation of her kind and gracious treatment of their many problems."

(This statement indeed portrays the fine character of our Dean of Women and the value of considerate understanding of undergraduate students.)

"Dr. Manikan, a native of India lectures on the troubles of overpopulation in the far east."

(Dr. Manikan is a personal friend of Reverend Moody of Selinsgrove and has had the privilege of working beside him in the foreign field.)

"The University Orchestra presents a concert of Southern Chants produced by Professor Bailey of the Conservatory. The group this year is entirely a string group and is under the direction of Professor Bailey."

April 4, 1922

"Ladies Choral Club, aided by Mme. Idelle Patterson of New York, present concert. Miss Wentzell is responsible for this fine performance."

"Students celebrate the anniversary of 25 years of active service of Dr. Allison and Dr. Fisher by a banquet in Lewar Dining Hall."

(Please note that the Lewar Dining Hall is now named the Horton Dining Hall.)

April 10, 1917

"Anti-Saloon League makes a drive on the campus to get student backing to prohibit liquors to soldiers and sailors."

(Yes, that was before prohibition—mmmmmm!)

"University Diamond Squad begins practice—and will open season next Wednesday with Bloomsburg on the local field."

(Just to remind you that our first baseball game is not far in the future.)

Y. M. C. A. Nominates For the Coming Year

The Nominating Committee of the Y. M. C. A. held a meeting Friday afternoon and nominated the following members for officers for the year 1932-33:

President—William Morrow, Harold Rowe.

Secretary—Robert Clark, Erie Short.

Treasurer—James Suter.

Editor of Handbook—Penn Dively.

Business Manager of Handbook—Donald Henry.

Faculty Advisors—Dr. A. William Ahl, Dr. G. Morris Smith.

The committee suggests that the man receiving the second highest number of votes for president be elected as vice-president. The committee also suggests that the vice-president be elected as State Student Council representative.

Elections will be held at 9:30 o'clock Tuesday evening, April 12 in the Y. M. C. A. room. Ice cream will be served after the elections.

FACULTY ROW

Dr. G. Morris Smith attended the inauguration of Dr. Ralph Hutchinson to the presidency of Washington and Jefferson College. Ray Lyman Wilbur, Secretary of the Interior, spoke at the ceremonies, his subject being "One Step Ahead."

During the past several months a group of professors at Susquehanna University have been speaking at various churches in the vicinity on the subject of "Christian Education." The following have participated in this work: Drs. Ahl, Dunkelberger, Fisher, and Smith, and Professors Gilbert and Grossman.

Dr. G. Morris Smith, president of Susquehanna University, will deliver an address to the members of the ladies' and Junior Bible Classes of the St. John's Lutheran Church in Tamaqua this evening. Rev. Earl Mohney is pastor of the church.

POET'S CORNER

BEWARE

Now fair
Sweet maid beware
Your lover, tho he swear
His passion never will depart;
T'will slip;
For loves that slip
So lightly from the lip
Have never dwelt within the heart.

So come,
Do not succumb
To such. True love is dumb
To plead its cause as do lovebirds.
So ne'er
Can it declare
Its depth and doth despair
To frame its fullness in mere words.
—William Evans.

One lovely rose
Is far more fair
Than multitudes of lesser flowers;
Is soil that grows
A rose so rare,
Less rich than soil that grows full bowers?

One love so rare
Is far more pure
Than numerous affections trite;
Are souls that bear
Loves that endure,
Less deep than souls whose loves are light?
—William Evans.

Baseball Schedule Opens on Saturday

The annual cry of "play ball" will take place next Saturday afternoon when the Susquehanna baseball team opens its season against the Elizabethtown nine on our own diamond.

Being the first contest of the season, practically nothing is known of the strength of the team that will oppose the Orange and Maroon wearers. However, if the strength of the nine last season means anything Susquehanna will encounter a strong club as its opener. The Crusaders met the Elizabethtown aggregation twice last season, winning its first encounter here, but losing the second one at Elizabethtown by a 7-1 score.

Coach Ullery has had only two weeks in which to organize his team. His biggest worry during this time has been to fill in the gaps left open from last season. These are second base and shortstop and an outfield post. Rubis and Herman covered the infield positions last season while there never was a regular right fielder. It is not certain as yet who will start at these positions, but several freshmen look promising.

It is fairly certain that the rest of the team will line-up with Schaffer catching, Palmer at first base, Spigelmyer at third and Stroup and Captain Malasky in the outfield. There are several pitchers that Coach Ullery may select to start his opening game. Danks and Brinninger are the outstanding candidates, but there are also possibilities of Malmom or Myers taking the mound.

Women's Government Abolishes Dues

At the final meeting of the present Women's Student Council Monday, April 5, a new method of nomination of new members was adopted. A change in representation of the sororities on the Council was also made. Formerly the sorority whose one representative was president of the Council had only one representative with voting power. Under the new plan the sorority of which the president is a member will have two representatives with voting power.

The Council has temporarily abolished the payment of dues by all women students. Through an error dues have been collected both at the Bureau's office and in the dormitory. The amount collected will be sufficient for the needs of the organization for several years and the dormitory and the day students will be relieved of this assessment.

Tennis Schedule is Completed for '32

At a recent meeting of the Susquehanna University Athletic Board, Dr. George B. Seidel was appointed as coach for tennis.

Although the team was fairly successful last season, they have felt the need of a coach. Dr. Seidel is a tennis enthusiast, having played at Johns Hopkins and was winner of the faculty tennis tournament last fall.

This year's team will be captained by Jack Petry. Student Manager Andrew Kozak has announced the following schedule:

Friday, April 29. Mansfield Teachers' College, home.
Tuesday, May 3. Bucknell, away.
Friday, May 13. Villanova, home.
Saturday, May 14. Lebanon Valley, home.

Freshman Track Men Establish Records

Martinez, Hartman, Jones and Hanna Are Leaders in the Field Events

Despite the wet condition of the field and track, the Freshmen established five new records in the annual Freshman class meet on the University Field Tuesday afternoon. This was the first outdoor meet of the season.

Although only one track record was established, probably because of a slow track, the breaking of four field records shows great prospects for a successful track season this year. For the past two seasons Coach Grossman was forced to work with a shortage of field men, but with the first-year men hopes to gain many additional points from the field events.

Steve Martinez starred for the Frosh, as he established new records in both the discus and shot put. Steve had the discus sailing for 32 feet, 8 inches and heaved the shot 32 feet, 7 inches. Martinez tied Youngerman for high scoring honors, with a total of twelve points.

Hartman set a new record in the 880 in 2 minutes, 27.4 seconds on a very slow track. In the pole vault, Jones cleared the bar to set a new Freshman record. Hanna set a new mark in the javelin at 132 feet 5 inches and took second place in the shot.

Debating Trophy Presented by Donor

Dr. John I. Woodruff, head of the philosophy department at Susquehanna, and donor of the Woodruff Debating Trophy, which was recently won by the Selinsgrove High School debaters, made a formal presentation of the cup to the winners at the exercises conducted in the local high school yesterday afternoon.

Dr. Woodruff offered the trophy in the interest of developing debaters in the county back in 1926 and the cup should become the permanent possession of the school which would win the contests three successive years. It has taken seven years for Selinsgrove to win the coveted honor.

WOMEN ATHLETES SEE GYMNASIACS

At a meeting of the Women's Athletic Club last Monday evening the following managers of spring sports were named:

Baseball—Mary Sufal.
Tennis—Ruth Bergtresser.
Track—Harriet Leese.

The series of baseball games will be completed within the next two weeks. Following that practice will begin for the outdoor track meet to be held early in May.

Miss Reeder, Thelma Crebs, Lucille Lehman, Edith Frankentfield, and Mary Ann Cressman attended a gymnastic exhibition by the physical education students of Stroudsburg State Teachers College in Sunbury Thursday night.

Father: "What do you want now? Haven't I just set up your husband in business?"

Married Daughter: "Yes, but George wants to buy him out!"

Without Exertion
Mrs. Magnus had invited her neighbor to see the new decorations. The house had been restrained and, after examining the living rooms, they went into the bedroom.

"Well," said Mrs. Magnus, admiringly, "Isn't it pretty? But what are the lovely pictures painted on the ceiling for?"

"For my husband," explained Mrs. Magnus. "I likes to 'ave something to look at on Sundays."

COMMITTEE SETS JUNE 31 AS ALUMNI DAY

Theodore W. Reeder, '26

Classes with years ending in '2 and '7 are requested to hold their reunions. The members of these classes are asked to communicate with members of other classes. Class lists and addresses can be secured by writing the Alumni Office.

Persons desiring to have a reunion at the Banquet are asked to write the chairman of the Banquet Committee through the Alumni Office. Persons who can secure over right accommodations in the dormitories. Make your wishes known in advance by writing the Alumni Office. No charges will be made for rooms, but a reasonable charge will be made for meals in Horton Dining Hall.

Echoes Columnist Answers to Queries of Frosh Editors

We are always glad to lend the dear Freshmen a helping hand and answer their most difficult questions. We have always been perfectly willing to sit up until almost any hour explaining just how high is up or where your fist goes when you open your hand and so we will this week attempt to elucidate the first series of questions found in the Freshman issue of the Susquehanna.

1. Will good times such as we've had continue during our four years? Answer: What's it to you? Can't you wait and find out? You might consult a fortune teller and still be in the dark. 2. Do Senior fellows always high-tail Freshman girls? Answer: Why pick on the poor Seniors? Just because they don't care to adopt a child to rear you accuse them of high-tailing. 3. Shall the girls send the fellows boutonnières for the next fraternity dance? Answer: Why not? You do everything else to get a man and his leap year. 4. How can we answer Miss Hade nonchalantly when she asks whether we enjoyed our dates? Answer: You might tell the truth. One is seldom embarrassed when truthful. 5. Why are Sophomores more snippy than Juniors? Answer: You will be able to answer this question for yourselves when you reach the state of a Sophomore. 6. How can we vamp the pros? Answer: Don't you know that you should never work just for grades. 7. Why is love so cheap in Seibert Hall parlors? Answer: It depends on supply and demand. 8. Why aren't we allowed to go car riding? Answer: Some one discovered that very few young women had obtained back seat drivers' licenses. 9. How can I make that handsome brunette with curly hair? Answer: An answer to this question will be found on page 69 of the handbook.

ALUMNI NOTES

Rev. Park W. Huntington, '17, has been appointed State chairman of the Department of Delaware American Legion National Employment Commission, which has declared a war to end depression and strives to have 1,000,000 men employed permanently before the end of the present month.

At present Rev. Huntington has ten legionnaires making a canvass of the city of Wilmington interviewing all employers of labor. To date through the efforts of the legion in Delaware, several thousand men have been provided with permanent employment throughout the State.

Besides his state duties Rev. Huntington has also been appointed a special agent of the United States Bureau of Labor in charge of all Delaware Employment for ex-service men.

Hanover and Altoona District Alumni to Meet

Alumni and friends of Susquehanna, residing in the Hanover district, gathered at the McAllister Hotel on the evening of April 8th at 7 o'clock for their initial meeting and banquet. Approximately seventy Susquehannians reside in this district, which includes Hanover, Gettysburg, York, Littlestown, Dry Run, Mt. Wolf, Red Lion and other communities within a radius of twenty-five or thirty miles of Hanover.

On April 26th Susquehannians residing in the Altoona District will gather for their first meeting and banquet at the Penn Alto Hotel at 6:30 o'clock.

The Altoona District embraces not only Altoona, but Tyrone, Roaring Springs, Williamsburg, Hollidaysburg, Zelwood, Apollo, Duncansville, and other communities within a radius of twenty or twenty-five miles. In fact any Susquehannian desiring to attend these meetings regardless of where he lives, is welcome. Additional announcements about the Altoona meeting will appear in a later issue.

—Turn out and vote at the News election tomorrow.

Seibert Hall Echoes

There is a little girl who recites nursery rhymes in English class.

The florists are always rushed when Muriel Camerer has a birthday. They were all roses this year. Some people wish she wouldn't get any older since it costs money to buy more than 22 roses.

Don Dorset doesn't seem to car for Seibert Hall, as it's the day student who interests him.

A few Freshmen girls have started to exercise; evidently they have the position of the 1935 May Queen in mind.

A tall nurse visited the campus this past week and caused several girls much consternation. What did she do to the rest of the boys?

"Dinny" Lizards was ill this week, but she was able to, wave from the window of her room on the third floor.

A private telephone has been recommended for "Steiny." May we suggest that Daisy Reese and Mary Weaverling also have them installed? In looking over the list of nominees for Y. W. C. A. officers we find it is gratifying to note that the Theologs' sweethearts are preparing themselves for their future.

A valuable prize will be given to the person who can guess what happened to "Libby" Vorlage's face. She did not run into a door in the dark, she did not slip on a piece of soap in the bath tub, and she did not take up boxing.

With the coming of spring the boys will begin to wear their pretty pink and purple golf hose. It is one way of finding out which men are color blind, or have no taste.

Did you hear about the trip to Washington? Just ask Potter, Williamson, Mumaw and Wardrop, and they will tell you all about the cherry blossoms, the big buildings and monuments. Miss Reeder will tell you about the traffic.

AMUSEMENTS

The Stanley Theater has booked a week of one night showings, which include three comedy shows.

Tonight Marie Dressler will take the leading role in "Emma."

"Shanghai Express" starring Marlene Dietrich, is the feature for Wednesday evening.

Buster Keaton will again humour the audience in the "Passionate Plumber" on Thursday night.

Wheeler and Woolsey, the popular comedy team, will appear Friday evening in "Peach O' Reno."

Hoot Gibson in another western showing will star in "Gay Buckaroo" Saturday.

Fraternity Row

Fred Wilks, Harold Witkop, and Herman Fenstermacher spent the weekend in Tanamqua.

Jack Auchmuty has returned to school after a period of convalescence at his home.

Forrest Metzger spent the week-end at Confluence, Pa.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: Jack Petry, president; Nelson Gray, vice-president; Edgar Hutchinson, secretary; John Balentine, master of ceremonies; William Carolan, chapter editor; and Samuel Pascoe, librarian.

Arbor Day Program Held by Varsity "S"

Andrew Kozak and Lee Fairchild, as representatives of the Varsity "S" Club, conducted the chapel exercises which commemorated Arbor Day, last Friday morning.

Lee Fairchild announced the recent purchase of a large number of evergreens by the club, which are to be planted on the campus. He also gave a resume of the previous gifts donated by that organization, which included the erection of the Memorial Gate to University Field in 1924.

Colony Patient Is Held by Students

His peculiar expression and puzzled look made it appear like one of Ripley's drawings suddenly come to life. These characteristics are what caused both Merle Hubbard and James Brubaker to agree that this specimen of humanity had escaped from the State Epileptic Colony.

The boy was about fifteen years old and was walking past the Bond and Key House on Sunday afternoon about 4 o'clock when the two students noticed his peculiar actions. Upon speaking with him they discovered that he was on his way to Reading and wished them to assist him, as he was hitch-hiking.

The lad inquired of them which was the road to Reading, and Hubbard concluding that he was a patient told him that he was going the opposite way and should go back up the hill. The patient saw the sign at the railroad crossing some distance down the highway and he interpreted the "R. R." to mean Reading. The boys finally convinced him to sit down on the steps, and they went into the house to notify Dr. Marsh at the Colony.

By this time it had attracted the attention of Mr. Ralph Witmer, cashier of the Snyder County Trust Company, who lives across the street and he kept the boy interested until a car from the colony came for him.

It was later discovered that the boy had wandered from the colony during a baseball game during the forenoon when the inmates have more freedom than usual.

Lebanon Valley's President Dies

The Rev. George Daniel Gossard, president of Lebanon Valley College, Annville, Pa., for the last twenty years, and a former Baltimore pastor, died in a Baltimore hospital Sunday.

He was born in Franklin County, Pennsylvania, November 26, 1868, and attended Buchanan Academy in West Virginia and later was graduated from Otterbein College, Westerville, Ohio.

HAROLD KRAMER

Y.W.C.A. Addressed By Miss De Remer

Expectations were filled when Miss De Remer spoke to the girls of the Y. W. Thursday evening at 9:30 in Seibert Hall. Mrs. Kretschman introduced the speaker as she knew her. Miss De Remer was the president of the first Student Council and also president of the Y. W. She worked with the Y. until it became a successful organization on this campus. She told us how the student council was born—the boys on the campus could do no evil, the girls were at the root of all evil.

Miss De Remer spoke primarily of her friends in the Orient—in India. The people are the same as we, they appreciate kindness and have love and hate in their makeup. The children, who are at the hospital where Dr. De Remer worked, are those who aren't wanted anywhere. They are pick-ups or children of coolie women. She mentioned one little pick-up especially. Her name was Eliza. She was picked out of a cactus hedge and taken to the hospital, where she was spoiled by too much attention. She discovered that her eyes and her dimples would get her almost everything that she desired—so she used them. There the children are not allowed to leave the hospital without the permission from the head nurse. One evening Eliza decided to visit Miss De Remer, whose room was some distance from the hospital. When she came she shyly looked into the room but the Doctor didn't raise her eyes from the paper except to tell her that she couldn't come in. Eliza had to return to the hospital. Several days later she met Miss De Remer and said, "Are you still mad?" And thus she went on with many such interesting cases. These children receive real benefit from being in contact with the religious influences and the Christian environment there.

The native workers are of infinitely more value in bringing the people to Jesus than are the missionaries. They understand the language and the individuality of the people with whom they are a part. They do the real work through the personal touch.

The little girls always want to be teachers when they grow up, and the boys want to be chauffeurs. Nursing is very hard work and the girls feel that they are lowering their standards, so it is difficult to find enough nurses to work in the hospitals.

Dr. De Remer is planning to return to the foreign field soon, if she passes her physical examination.

Y. M. Elects Officers For Coming Term

At the meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association held in the Y. M. C. A. room Tuesday evening the following officers were elected for 1932-33:

President, Harold Rowe.
Vice-President, William Morrow.
Secretary, Robert Clark.
Treasurer, James Suter.
Editor of Handbook, Penn Dively.
Business Manager of Handbook, Donald Henry.

State Student Council Representative, William Morrow.
Faculty Advisors, Dr. C. Morris Smith and Dr. William A. H.

Plans for the Officers Spring Training Conference to be held at Shippensburg State Teachers College were also discussed. It is expected that most of the newly elected officers will attend this conference.

After the meeting the members helped themselves to as many Eskimeau pies as they could eat. Dr. Dunkelberger's friend, "Jerry," made sure that he was not forgotten when it came time to eat.

Constitution Passes Publishing Assoc.

Bergstresser and Dively Fill Editorial Positions; Clapper and McKelvey Gain Business Elections

On Wednesday morning, during the chapel hour the election of the officers for the Publishing Association and the Susquehanna Staff took place.

The meeting was in charge of President Luke Rhoads and the voters were Adam Bingham, Park Wagenbach, Andrew Kozak, and Russell Shilling. Luke Rhoads was again elected to the office of president over the policies of the Association. Samuel Brosious will serve as Vice-President and Herbert Schmidt will become Secretary. All these men are members of the Theological Department.

In the Editorial Department the following selections were made: News Editor, Ruth Bergstresser; Managing Editor, Penn Dively; Assistants on the Reportorial Staff, Kenneth Anderson, Robert Clark, Donald Henry, Mervin Logue, Louise Mehning, and Esther Thurston.

In the Business Department the following were elected: Advertising Manager, Edwin Clapper; Circulation Manager, Daniel McKelvey; Assistants on the Business Staff, Thomas Crollin, Regis Kifer, William Reger and William Whiteley.

This staff will begin active duty with the edition of April 26. At the present time all the other appointments have not been made; but any further staff appointments will be made known through the "Susquehanna."

The new constitution passed by the Association by a vote of 208 affirmative votes to eight negative votes. This new legislation will indeed defend staff and Association elections from fraternity and sorority politics, which are such a detriment to the best results of any publication.

Hop Inn Is Scene of Campus Club Luncheon

Mrs. Sara Stevens will be hostess at the regular meeting of the Campus Club next Saturday, April 23. A luncheon will be served at one-thirty o'clock at the "Hop Inn" at Millifinburg.

At this time a chairman will be elected for the ensuing year. Mrs. P. J. Ovebo has served in that capacity this last year.

Mrs. Donald Hemphill will sing several numbers and book reviews will be presented by Mrs. Dodson, Librarian of Susquehanna University, and Mrs. George Seidel.

Head of Department Studies at Sorbonne

Visits Many Places of Historical Interest; School is Composed of 225 Students From 30 Nations

Miss Evelyn R. Allison, our professor of French, who is on leave of absence during the current college year, reports from Paris that she is having an exceedingly profitable and enjoyable year. She is taking work in French at the Sorbonne which was founded by the chaplain of Saint Louis about the middle of the thirteenth century.

Miss Allison rooms in the Fondation des Etats Unis, a dormitory costing one half million dollars built under the direction of Dr. and Mrs. Homer Gage of Cambridge, Massachusetts by the gifts of Americans interested in American students at Paris. This dormitory has only been opened since the spring of 1930. It forms part of the Cite Universitaire an international student dormitory center. The Cite Universitaire, facing the Parc Montsouris and situated on a height overlooking Paris and its southern suburbs, possesses one of the healthiest and most attractive locations in the city. Miss Allison's room overlooks a beautiful garden whose flowers have been in bloom for several weeks.

The Sorbonne is situated near the center of Paris and is a fifteen minutes' ride by train from the Fondation des Etats Unis. In the courses Miss Allison is taking there are thirty Americans represented, comprising 225 students, 55 of whom are Americans.

The plan of the Cite Universitaire provides ample opportunity for association. (Concluded on Page 4)

American Council Publishes Volume

"American Universities and Colleges" Reviews 521 Accredited Institutions. S. U. Rates High

Recently the American Council of Education published a volume entitled "American Universities and Colleges," containing the most salient and sought-after facts concerning 521 accredited institutions of higher learning in the United States.

The book was edited by John H. MacCracken for the American Council and is filled with facts, figures, and data condensed and presented in systematic form. These statistics were scrutinized and verified by the administrative officers of each institution in order that all facts might be authentic. Details regarding organization, control, property, resources, faculty, and requirements for admission and graduation bring out the valuable assets that each school has to offer. Apart from this recital of concrete facts the volume also contains a general representation of the American system of education in our higher institutions.

According to this survey it is readily seen that Susquehanna compares favorably with other schools and universities of its size. Our faculty is of the highest type and the survey shows that we have a faculty member to each student, while Swarthmore and other comparable institutions have seven students or perhaps eight. In some instances, to every faculty member. Our requirements are of a higher type in the Liberal Arts Department. Most colleges of our class require only 120 hours with a corresponding number of quality points, but Susquehanna calls for 132 semester hours, with an equal number of honor points. In only one phase of this survey do we fall behind. The endowment of our university is so much less than most of our competitors that we feel that they have a slight advantage over us. The reason for this is that Susquehanna University is subsidized by the United Lutheran Church, a congregation which supports a number of Liberal Arts and Junior Colleges.

To those students who intend to enter professional schools this evaluation in book form would be interesting. The volume enumerates and presents the offerings of each large university for professional study. There are over 120 universities in the United States that have accredited courses in Agriculture. Approximately thirty schools offer professional courses in architecture, of which number the State of Pennsylvania offers the greatest number. Each of the professions have schools in our State and these schools are of the highest standing.

GIRLS INTER-CLASS BASEBALL

Due to weather conditions only three of the series of girls' inter-class baseball games were played during the last week. The Seniors defeated the Juniors in a five inning game Thursday by a score of 16-15. This gives the Juniors an average of 500, because of their victory over the Sophomores Tuesday afternoon 27-20. The Freshmen were easily beaten by the Sophomores, who scored 44 runs to their opponents' 4.

The annual Spring Convention of the Intercollegiate Newspaper Association held in the Hayford College on Friday and Saturday, April 15th and 16th. The Hayford News and the Swarthmore Phoenix were joint hosts to the fifty delegates, who represented twenty of the twenty-five member papers. The delegates from "The Susquehanna" were Laird Gemberling, editor-in-chief-elect, and Harold Kramer, business manager-elect.

The climax of the convention came on Saturday evening at the formal banquet held in the Hayford College old "Y" room, when Dr. George W. Douglas, chief editorial writer of "The Evening Ledger" presented the News Competition Cup and the Editorial Cup to the "Brown and White" of Lehigh University. The principal speaker was Dean Carl W. Ackerman, of the Columbia School of Journalism. Ackerman has written several books and has been a correspondent for the United Press. His advice to earnest young men, who have just entered the field of journalism was summed up as follows: Be careful of your facts, search for the motives remember your responsibilities to the organization which you represent, and be loyal to your paper. He also told of his experiences as correspondent in Europe and the Orient prior to the World War and during the conflict.

Another guest speaker was Will Irwin, famous war correspondent and magazine contributor, who told his listeners of being imprisoned by the Germans, at the beginning of the war, of his associations with Richard Harding Davis, Irvin Cobb, and other famous writers. Irwin was made a chevalier of the Legion of Honor and is now president of the American Center of the Poets, Playwrights, Editors, Essayists, Novelists Association. He is on the (Concluded on Page 4)

Ladies' Glee Club Concert is Tonight

Opera! Will be Feature on Choral Program; Misses Kinney and Brungart Are Assisting Soloists

Forty-seven young women of Susquehanna University will take part in the annual home concert of the Ladies' Glee Club of Susquehanna University this evening in Seibert Chapel. Those assisting on the program are Misses Elizabeth Kinney, violinist, and Lois Brungart, cellist.

The music of the program will include organ and piano solos, instrumental trios, choruses and operetta, the latter to be given by the Glee Club. Mrs. Bertha L. Rodgers, the director of the club, has given much of her time to make this concert a success. It is through her that a very interesting, inspiring, and attractive program has been arranged. Miss Dorothy Reeder, stage director, has worked out musical setting for the operetta, "The Lost Necklace."

The scene of the operetta is laid in Spain, during the grape-harvest. A band of maidens are at work amid the vines, and, true to their characteristics, are full of life and merriment. Margaret, a young lady, (English or American) wandering among the vines, is invited by the grape-gatherers to join in their amusements.

The mid-day rest is enveloped by the arrival of a troupe of Gipsies, who sing and dance. One of the Gipsies tells the fortunes of several of the grape-gatherers. Margaret suddenly discovers that her necklace is missing, and accuses the Gipsies of having stolen it. The Gipsies are greatly angered and a dramatic situation is created. Lola, however, takes Margaret's part and the Gipsies are somewhat pacified. The necklace is found suspended on one of the vines, where it had been caught while Margaret was gathering grapes. After its recovery, singing and dancing are resumed, ending in a chorus of farewell to the scene of the day's occupations and events.

CONGRATULATIONS AND AUREVOIR

Every editor of a college weekly must breathe a sigh of relief when the final editorial has been written and the last copy of news placed in the hands of the printer. He will be relieved for many reasons, but principally because he will no longer be expected to possess the wisdom of a Solomon and the diplomacy of an ambassador. No longer will his rest be disturbed by gathering news, making assignments, and laying out plans for the issues to show impartiality. He will not be expected to further the plans of the trustees and the administration without knowing always what those plans are.

In this our last issue we wish to make known our appreciation to all who have aided us so faithfully during the past year. They have worked hard, some with no remuneration of any kind.

We consider that we have had the utmost cooperation of every one connected with the staff as well as the members of the Publishing Association. Our greatest desire was to create a new constitution, one to further the interests of journalism—and the student body have made it possible for us to attain our aim. The questionnaires on "war attitude" and "campus statistics" were successful only because of the cooperation between students, faculty, and members of the editorial staff.

The physical appearance of the paper has been changed slightly. The depression was one reason for a change in the grade of paper. Perhaps the higher glazed paper is more attractive, but nevertheless the present grade is congruent with our attempt—a newspaper.

To mitigate the inevitable problem of stale news, we have introduced a number of columns. These have been written for the most part by persons interested in journalism and we give them our sincere thanks for faithful efforts.

Perhaps some of the things that we have attempted were not so outstanding but we have been fortunate enough to obtain several remarks of commendation in the National College Press Association Service Bulletin which is published weekly and sent to all members of the association in the form of "Tips to the editor and business manager."

There have been moments when we doubted the sanity of any one who would undertake to edit a college paper. One task has been made easier by the ever-ready cooperation and advice of our faculty advisor, Dr. Wilson. Still every editor must run the risk of being misunderstood at many points. He must try to forget that he came to college primarily to study and must spend much of his time, not doing things himself, but in reporting what others are doing.

But almost every editor, if questioned at the end of his term of office, would affirm his eagerness to again run the gauntlet of criticism that is his lot.

S. U. PEPYS

Baseball is in the air. . . . In fact, there were many baseballs in the air when Elizabethtown was out in the field Saturday. . . . When the Crusaders failed to hit safely, the E-town boys reciprocated with assorted fumbles and wild throws. . . . If we tried to steal one base they gave us two. . . . When Maimon lobbed up his balloon ball, they swung before it reached their bats. . . . And when Borno Meyer slammed in his cannonball, they didn't swing at all. . . . A very obliging ball team we should say.

We only hope that the boys at Penn State read the newspapers. . . . Their psychoanalytical reaction might prove to be a help. . . . Let's also hope that the boys didn't take all the hits out of their bats last week. . . .

Theolog-Junior basketball game.

Bill Morrow, sprained ankle.—Soph-Junior basketball game.

Herb Spigelmyer, face lacerations.—Senior-Junior basketball game.

Paul Edwards, jaw broken, dislocated, or something.—Junior gym period (basketball).

Other figures:

Eight members of the varsity Baseball squad are either favorable or steady visitors to Seibert Hall. . . . and the results appear to be favorable.

In scoring 20 runs Saturday, the Susquehanna players ran 7200 feet, or nearly a mile and a half. . . . This does not include the distances covered by runners left on the bases or put out on fielded balls.

The Nertz brothers have also calculated that if all the faculty members of the college were laid out end to end, they would look rather silly.

Seibert Echoes' suggestion at conversations appropriate for five or six pairs of ears.

Since "the old order changeth" we must say good-by to Editor Kozak and his scribbling classmates in this, their farewell issue. May the Susquehanna continue to be as improved and readable as they are leaving it.

Oh no! You're not losing the Nertz Bros. so easily. . . . We'll continue to be around until some expert marksman finally carries out his act of mercy.

Marie Miller spent the week-end in Williamsport, and "Mille" Arbagast visited her home in Harrisburg.

Officers for the coming year were elected as follows: President, Marian Waborn; Vice-President, Ladlow Nichols; Financial Secretary, Dorothy Hutter; Recording Secretary, Ruth Nelson; Treasurer, Mabel Fultz.

Phi Lambda Theta

Mr. C. C. Metzger visited the house on Friday evening. His son accompanied him home on Saturday to spend the week-end.

B. Ray Minnich spent the week-end at the home of his parents at Loysville.

Phi Mu Delta

Paul Bishop, '30, was a visitor at the club over the week-end.

Jack Auchmuty and Fred Wilks spent the week-end in the coal metropolis, Tamaqua. Ted Foltz and "Lolly" Stroup attended a birthday party at South Fork.

Sigma Sigma Delta

Sigma Sigma Delta Sorority had as its guests over the week-end the Misses Dorothy Goff and Katherine Blum. The former is the National President of the sorority, while Miss Blum is the National Historian.

On Saturday evening the guests were entertained at an informal party.

Miss Goff is well known on this campus, having received her A.B. degree from Susquehanna in '28. Miss Blum is an alumna of Wittenberg College, Springfield, Ohio, and is at present a teacher at Jeannette, Pennsylvania.

Miss Edith Erdly, graduate of Susquehanna in the class of 1930, paid the campus a brief visit on Friday evening.

ALUMNI NOTES

Irving C. Stover, who received the degrees of Bachelor and Master of Oratory in 1907 and 1908, is now professor of Public Speaking at the John B. Stetson University, DeLand, Florida. Mr. Stover is a graduate of King's School of Oratory and has enjoyed many years of platform work with the Brockway Lyceum Bureau and the Independent Chautauquas. He is a member of the Drama League of America, American Shakespeares Association, National Association of Teachers of Speech and National President of the Theta Alpha Honorary Dramatic Fraternity.

The alumni office recently received word that Michael R. Pittle, former Susquehanna student and now successful accountant in Scranton, will be married on June 19.

Reverend Maurice R. Gortner, '21, '24, has resigned the Davidsville Pastorate, near Johnstown, where he has served for the past eight years. He has accepted a call to the St. Paul's Lutheran Church of Lansdowne, Pa.

Albert (Patsy) Rubis, ex-'32, assisted in coaching the Franklin High School quintet in Johnstown to a county championship. While at Susquehanna Mr. Rubis was a varsity basketball and basketball star. This is his first year coaching.

Winston Emerick, '23, was recently elected treasurer of the baseball club which will represent Johnstown in the Middle Atlantic League this season. Mr. Emerick is still very active on the baseball diamond, playing around Johnstown during the summer months.

Harold Gelnett, '31, has again received a "Senatorial Scholarship" to Temple Medical School for the next school year. Mr. Gelnett resides at the Foulkrod home in Philadelphia. S. Walter Foulkrod, also of the class of '31, is attending the Law School at Temple.

Claude Mitchell, '12, has received his Ph.D. degree from the University of Pittsburgh. The subject for his thesis was "The Development and Control of Public School Support in Pennsylvania." At present Dr. Mitchell is serving as superintendent of schools at West Newton.

Alvin Barber, '31, was a recent visitor on the campus. Mr. Barber is employed by the Guaranty Title Company of New York as a credit investigator.

At a recent meeting of the Millington School Board, Raymond C. Scott, '31, was elected to fill a vacancy in the commercial department and to coach athletics. After a guest lecture last spring, Mr. Scott became the commercial instructor at McAllisterville and leaves a fine record there.

Edward T. Bollinger, '30, preached in the Church of the Reformation at Baltimore. This is the second largest Lutheran Church in that city. Mr. Bollinger is a Minister in the Lutheran Theological Seminary at Gettysburg, where he is chairman of the Missionary movement. While at Susquehanna he was president of the Pre-Theological Club and active in Y. M. C. A. work. For two years he was a member and officer of the Glee Club.

Joseph Zak, '30, is a credit investigator for the Fidelity Surety and Trust Company of New York City.

Mr. Frederic A. Godcharles, former State Senator and State Librarian, has announced that he is definitely out of politics this year and has turned author. Mr. Godcharles received an Litt.D. degree from Susquehanna in 1928. He is under contract with a New York publication house for a history of Pennsylvania. The work will occupy the historian's attention for a period of several months. Dr. Godcharles is looked upon as one of the State's best versed men on Pennsylvania's history. Besides being head of Northumberland county's historical society, he is the author of numerous editions on subjects of historical interest. His most recent book is "Daily Stories on Pennsylvania." It has wide circulation among the students of history throughout the State.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Crouse announced the birth of a daughter, Mrs. Crouse was formerly Miss Eleanor Coons and was graduated from Susquehanna in '29. Mr. Crouse was a member of the same graduating class and is at present serving as cashier in the Fort Loud National Bank, Fort Loudon, Pa.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. George A. Spaid, of Selingrove. Mrs. Spaid was formerly Gertrude May Arbogast, a graduate of '29. Mr. Spaid was graduated from Susquehanna in '29 and from an Army Aviation School last year.

 "Bees was."
 "For heaven's sake."
 "Gosh."
 "You don't mean it."
 "My word."
 "I'd slap him."
 Do you know Mary Jane Eltringham?
 The depression must be bad, for when a student offered a text book for sale, the author of which is a well known campus professor, the second hand book store would give only ten cents.

Names are always interesting so may we call your attention to the following from Seibert Hall and the Day Students:

The SHERIFF pulled a BOHNER while trying to close a DIEHL with a PLUMMER concerning a PEARL. The MATTER was just about settled when in came a MOODY MILLER with several NICHOLS to buy a HORN. A LEIMAY was also present and he offered a LEESE on a NEWELL. Just then the POTTER came into the HALL and told a SAVIDGE tale of a HUTTER who was shooting at MARKS when he saw a big BROWN BARR and a LYON pursuing a CROW and a SHITE. That is AHL!

Since this is the last issue of THE SUSQUEHANNA this column should be in the nature of a "Swan Song." It will be strange to lead a normal existence when people cease to say "I'll tell you something if you won't tell the 'Soc Sister'." But all these things are merely thorns in the path of art and must be borne. With sincere apologies to any who feel that they have been used badly through this medium and with best wishes to my successor, may she always please you.

Adieu.

AMUSEMENTS

Numerous stars are included in this week's showing at the Stanley Theater. Tonight will be the last time to witness the excellent acting of the famous Greta Garbo and Ramon Novarro in "Mati Hari."

Wednesday evening Constance Bennett, will take the leading role in "Lady With a Past," a Pathe picture.

Paramount presents Frederick March and Ray Francis in "Strangers in Love" on Thursday.

"She Wanted a Millionaire" is Joan Bennett's story for the picture on Friday evening.

Eddie Quillan in "Big Shot" is booked for Saturday.

POET'S CORNER

TRIOLLET

The old March lion came back today,
 And the little Spring lamb ran in terror to hide.
 For the meek little thing was frightened away
 When the old March lion came back today.
 But the roaring old lion is aged and grey:
 Soon the lamb, grown to ramhood,
 Will trample his pride,
 Even tho the March lion came back today,
 And the little Spring lamb ran in terror to hide.

Defender of Feminine Beauty Unfurls Flag

James Montgomery Flagg has recently commented upon his method of judging beauty contests. To which the following reply was made:

Sirs:
 If I ever looked upon a tough piece of earthenware; a cracked clay tankard, or the handle of which is a huge flyswatter intended, presumably, to be an ear, it is the cut of James Montgomery Flagg in the March 21 issue of Time.

Flagg's mug appears as though it had been clawed by a lion, chewed by a bear and laugh-bitten by a hyena, and, if ever kissed, which I doubt, such a favor would be attempted only by a horsefly or a tarantula.

This clay model visage looks like a map of No-Man's-Land minus the compass, which even that scene would evoke. An earthquake must have been under way at the time of Flagg's conception . . . and when he first saw daylight a hurricane, which happened to be in progress at the moment, swept Flagg through a couple of barn doors. He was, however, blown back into his crib with the mark of fair-weather defeat written all over his pan and not a tear could wash out a feature of it. Result—cut in Time.

To gaze at this concealed cookie-cutter countenance takes the courage and strength of a Daniel to bear up under the shock. Just what does this reputed connoisseur of female pulchritude know about the real beauty of woman? What he might consider beautiful no one else would, as witness what the majority of men marry! I challenge this brute to specifically define a beautiful woman. What are the ingredients of the formula . . .

Did it ever occur to his deep thinking student of feminine liveliness to wonder why ugly women are ugly? That his own vain sex should take the blame would never enter his head. The ugly woman might well chant:

Who made us what we are today?
 O-U-R F-A-T-H-E-R.
 He was not a handsome man
 And now we are to blame.
 O-U-R F-A-T-H-E-R.

SLUGGING AND PITCHING FEATURE INITIAL CRUSADER DIAMOND CONTEST

Maimon and Meyers Permit Only Four Scratch Hits During Contest Lasting Six and Half Innings. Stroup and Malasky Continue Good Work

A Susquehanna baseball team never opened its season so magnificently as the one did here last Saturday afternoon, when it slugged its way to an overwhelming score of 20-4 over the Elizabethtown nine.

A cold, biting western wind, which chased a goodly number of the spectators before the game was half over and which cut the game itself down to seven innings, did not seem to affect the playing of the Orange and Maroon a bit. Both the offensive and the defensive work was much better than was expected for the opening game.

The Crusaders started off with a bang in the first inning, when five runs were scored and, never let up till Umpire Beam called the game in the seventh inning, when nearly two and a half hours of baseball had been played. During the six times Susquehanna went to bat twenty runs were scored and at least one run was scored in every frame.

Of the features of the game was pitching on the part of Maimon. Coach Ullery can now boast of a staff of four reliable pitchers which to go through the season started the contest in the fourth inning had the visitors very weakly at the ball. Meyers and the affair and proved to be as effective, striking out five of the eleven facing him.

The other feature of the contest was the slugging of the Orange and Maroon. The team this year clearly demonstrated Saturday that it is going to be much stronger at the bat this season than last. Hanna, who played first base, proved to be a real find, when he garnered four hits. Martinec and Morrow also proved to be strong men on the attack, while Captain Malasky and Stroup continued their good work from last season. Lineup:

Fond Mother: "Do you detect any signs of genius in my son, Professor?"
Professor: "I'm only an instructor, ma'am; not a detective."

Bright Boy
The teacher, knowing that Johnnie was a bright boy, decided to puzzle him and asked this question: "How many calf tails would it take to reach from Chicago to New York?"
Johnnie, not to be stopped, jumped to his feet and responded: "One—if it was long enough."

Nine Will Meet Two Opponents This Week

Susquehanna will enter into the midst of its baseball activities this week, when it takes part in two contests. Tomorrow afternoon the nine will travel to State College to play Penn State and on Saturday afternoon Delaware will cross bats with us on our home diamond.

After the fine showing of Meyers and Maimon last Saturday Coach Ullery can select from four pitchers to start the game at State College tomorrow afternoon. However, it is probable that either Danks or Brinninger will start on the mound.

Coach Ullery will probably start the rest of the team the same way that he did last Saturday unless Spigelmyer's ankle is again in condition. In that case Spigelmyer will of course play third base and the Orange and Maroon batting attack will be that much more formidable. Hanna and Martinec, the two freshmen who broke into the lineup last week, will undoubtedly continue to hold their positions.

O. D. S. Entertained At Prof. Reitz Home

Mrs. Reitz entertained the active and pledged members of Omega Delta Sigma in honor of Miss Joyce Gilbert, Wednesday evening.

The members of the sorority gathered at the Reitz home early much to the surprise of Mrs. Russell Gilbert and her daughter Joyce, who were visiting Mrs. Reitz. The party was in the nature of a baby shower and the little girl received many gifts and very politely thanked each one.

Card tables were set up, but another surprise was in store for everyone, instead of the usual evening of bridge each person made her autobiography. It was an excellent opportunity to select a picture of a beautiful woman to represent oneself. The end of the stories were interesting. Some were very optimistic as to the future.

After this literary evening Mrs. Reitz served delicious refreshments.

Juniors Nab Inter-Class Relay Meet

With the wind blowing furiously across University Field on Thursday afternoon, the Juniors won the Inter-Class Relay Meet with the time of three minutes and fifty-two seconds. The Junior team was composed of Myers, Brown, Carolin and J. Worthington.

Second place in the meet went to the Sophomore team, which was made up of Borteliger, Huston, Grove and Mann.

WISCONSIN STUDENTS HONOR I. W. W. LEADER

Recently the United Press released a report stating that the University of Wisconsin was honoring "Big Bill" Haywood, mainly man of the I. W. W. The content of the article shows that the faith of this one-time giant of national fame is being kept alive in Madison in a cheaply furnished rooming house, where thirteen university students live as economically as possible. The name of the boarding house has been changed to "Haywood House," to fit their beliefs. This house is University property and Dean Scott Goodnight approved of its organization.

So successful has this plan been that two other groups are being formed for the next semester. Since the house is a typical bachelors' quarters no rugs are found on the floor and the furniture is very meager.

CODE OF ETHICS

The following points were taken from the Code of Ethics of the Pennsylvania State Education Association as amended at the Pittsburgh Convention. This Code is an application of the general principles of ethics to the special obligations, rights, and privileges of the teaching profession.

Profession Attitude—Educational Attitude.—The highest obligation of every member of the teaching profession is due to those who are under his professional care.

Compensation.—The teaching profession should demand for each of its members that compensation which will enable him to render the most efficient service. To attain maximum efficiency the compensation must be sufficient to enable him to live upon a scale befitting his place in society, to permit the necessary expenditures for professional improvement, and to make proper provision for those dependent upon him, and for himself, in his old age.

Criticism of Associates.—The motives for all criticism should be helpfulness and improvement. Adverse criticisms, known or heard, should not be made or repeated to the one criticized or to his superior with the full expectation that opportunity for explanation will be offered. On the other hand, when corrupt and dishonorable practices are known to exist they should be fearlessly reported to the proper authorities. Adverse comments and insinuations regard to the work of a predecessor or of the teacher of a previous grade are to be condemned.

clation with students of other nations and especially with the intellectual elite of Paris. There is also a constant exchange of invitations to lectures, concerts and social functions in the various Foundations. As a further means of promoting relations with French students, the Fondations des Etudes Unis has arranged an exchange of residents with the French Fondations of the Cite, so as to have a certain number of Americans living in the French buildings and a corresponding number of French students living in the American building. Another splendid feature is the Accueil aux Etudiants Americains, a committee of French people which provide entertainment and opportunity for association with cultured French people.

Miss Allison has been visiting many places of historical interest in and around Paris. She spent part of her Easter vacation with several friends bicycling in the chateau country around Blois, a city on the Loire river. This is Miss Allison's second trip to France, having spent the summer of '28 at the University of Grenoble. Miss Allison expects to return home some time during July or August.

to the convention by Dr. William Wistar Comfort, president of Haverford College. Mr. W. B. Littell, representative of Little, Murray, Barnhill, Inc., addressed the delegates on advertising in college journals. Committee reports and a general discussion of the problems facing college papers took up the remainder of the afternoon. The evening was spent by one group at the Ardmore Theater, seeing the picture "Ladies of the jury," while the other group journeyed to Philadelphia.

The Saturday morning sessions were held in two groups. The representatives of the Editorial Board were addressed by Harry G. Proctor, of the "Evening Bulletin," and then the members engaged in a round table discussion of mutual problems. The Business Board met with Clifton McDowell, resident manager of the Philadelphia branch of F. W. Lafrentz and Co., and with James E. Hanna, of N. W. Ayer & Son, Inc. Mr. Hanna represented the largest national advertising company in the United States. His topic was "The College Newspaper and National Advertising."

At the last business session on Saturday afternoon the officers of the I. N. A. were elected for the coming year. They are: President, DuRelle Gage, of Haverford College; Vice-President, Gordon Whitcraft, of Gettysburg College; Secretary-Treasurer, Raymond Walters, Jr., of Swarthmore College. The delegates voted to hold the fall convention of the association at Gettysburg College.

Many of the delegates attended the track meet between Lehigh and Haverford and the baseball game with Muhlenberg as guests of the Athletic Association of Haverford College on Saturday afternoon.
